Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a 6th large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralised, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

COLDS
COUGHS, CATARRH, AND CONSUMPTION

Simply can't exist if

Is inhaled 4 times daily

Catarrhozone is the most pleasant and powerful destroyer of disease germs known to science. It is inhaled at the mouth, and in traversing the air passages of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs passes over not less than 1,000 square feet of mucous surface.

The penetrating, healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air we breathe can go, and no matter how remote the disease may be it will quickly cure it.

The bacilli of Catarrh and Consumption are expelled from the system by one day's use of Catarrhozone. Ordinary coughs and cold in the head are cured in ten minutes. Most severe cases of Asthma, Bronchitis, and Lung Trouble are relieved in a few hours.

Catarrhal Deafness, Head Noises Ringing in the Ears, can be corrected in a short time and cured by the persistent use of Catarrhozone, which is guaranteed to prove satisfactory or your money refunded. Two months' treatment complete, with liquid for recharging and hard rubber inhaler, costs $1.00; trial size 25c. At druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

The King's Birthday

It is said that the Ottawa Government will shortly issue a proclamation calling for the observance of the King's birthday on Victoria Day. As the 24th of May this year falls on Sunday the celebration will have to be held on the 25th.

Busy Hands

After hearing from Mr. George Cochrane, agent of the Children's Aid Society that the little folk at the Shelter were in need of more clothing the ladies of the Murray Street Baptist church held a sewing bee yesterday afternoon in the building.

A sale of work, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Church, will be held in the School Room, Tuesday, April 21st, commencing at 3 p.m. High tea will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

A Safe Investment

Mr. J. M. M Might, the travelling representative of the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, is in town for a few days, and will offer for sale shares of the Company. It is not likely that the stock will remain long on the market, as it is being taken up rapidly. Mr. Might will remain in town, the guest of his brother, Mr. James Might, No. 289, London street, for a few days only.

When You May Fish

It is not anticipated by the officials of the Ontario Fisheries Department that there will be any changes in the closed seasons this year. The regulations as far as the seasons are concerned, are a matter which rests with the Dominion Government, and as there has been no intimation that a change will be made in any of the dates protecting fish, the following will hold good this year as in other years: Bass and maskinonge, 15th April to 15th June; maskinonge in Rice Lake, 15th April to 1st June; pickerel, 15th April to 15th May; speckled trout, 15th September to 30th April; salmon trout and white fish, 1st November to 30th November.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE

Delivered in St. Andrew's Church Last Night on Mars

Notwithstanding the rain there was a fair attendance last night to listen to the lecture by Dr. Marsh, of Hamilton, on "Other Worlds Than Ours." Eclipses of the sun, moon, etc., were explained and illustrated, the lunar surfaces being brought to within a few miles of the audience, allowing a view of the heavenly bodies.

At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of thanks to the brilliant lecturer was unanimously passed.

A SINGULAR ACCIDENT

By Which the Thoroughbred Race Horse Versatile Met His Death

Yesterday morning the celebrated race horse Versatile was killed in the yard of the Munro House by falling backwards and fracturing his skull. The horse reared just as he was entering the stable and lost his balance, and death was almost instantaneous after he struck the ground.

Versatile had been leased by a syndicate of four local gentlemen and belonged to the famous Hendrie farm He was a noted winner and prize-taker all over Canada, and was a thoroughbred horse of very high class.

POLICE COURT NOTES

A Disorderly Sent to Jail for 15 Days—Two Cases Discharged

Three cases came before the Police Magistrate yesterday morning. Joseph Caster was fined $5 or 15 days in jail for being drunk and causing a disturbance near Charlotte street. He went up the hill.

Four [illegible] charged with being disorderly on Alymer street, near Brock st. on Sunday last. They were discharged with a warning and a reprimand by the magistrate.

The physician who some time ago was charged with failure to report a scarlet fever case was discharged.

The Western Bank

The twenty-first annual meeting of the shareholders of the Western Bank of Canada, was held on Wednesday last at the head office of that institution in Oshawa. The financial statement presented was a very satisfactory one, and shows that the business of the Bank is active and satisfactory. The net profits amounted to $65,121.66 or about 15 1-4 per cent. upon the paid up capital of the institution. After paying dividends at the rate of 7 per cent. the sum of $14,411.61 was carried forward to Profit and Loss account and $25,000 added to Rest Account. The Rest Account now stands at $175,000.

We congratulate the officers of the Bank on the results of the year's operations.

QUIT AND EAT

Some Coffee Tales

Show a woman an easy, comfortable and healthful way to improve her complexion and she is naturally interested.

Coffee is the one greatest enemy of fair women, for in the most of cases it directly affects the stomach producing slight, and sometimes great congestion of the liver and therefore causing the bile to be absorbed into the system instead of going its natural way. The result is a sallow, muddy skin and a train of diseases of the different organs of the body, which, in all too many cases, develop into chronic diseases.

A lady speaking of how coffee affected her says; "I was very fond of coffee but while drinking it was under the care of the doctor most of the time for liver trouble, and was compelled to take blue mass a great deal of the time. My complexion was bad and I had a pain in my side steadily, probably in the liver.

"When I concluded to quit coffee and take Postum Food Coffee I had it made carefully and from the very first cup we liked the taste of it better than any of the old coffee.

"In a short time the pain left my side and my friends began to comment on the change in my complexion and general looks. I have never seen anything equal to the good I got from making this change.

"A young lawyer in Philadelphia named ———, whose life was almost a burden from indigestion and its train of evils, quit coffee some months ago and began on Postum Food Coffee. He quickly recovered and is now well, strong and cheerfully and naturally lead in his praises of Postum.

"Another friend, an old gentleman of seventy, named ———, who for years suffered all one could suffer and live, from dyspepsia, and who sometimes for weeks could eat no bread or solid food, only a little weak gruel or milk, quit coffee upon my recommendation and took up Postum. He began to get better at once. Now he can eat rich pastry or whatever he likes and is perfectly well."

Names given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

POGUE IN TROUBLE

A Peterborough Man in the Toils for Serious Assault

A despatch from Hamilton states that Charlie Pogue, a former resident of Peterborough, had been arrested for aggravated assault. It appears that Louis Kerr, a butcher from Beamsville, while under the influence of liquor, was enticed into the alley in Hamilton by an unknown man and a third man set upon him and beat him severely. He was unconscious when the police arrived, and was badly cut and bruised about the head and face. His injuries were dressed at the City Hospital. When he regained consciousness he alleged that Charles Pogue was his assailant and Pogue was afterwards arrested by Detectives Coulter and Miller on a charge of aggravated assault. This is not the first time Pogue has been in trouble. At the time of his arrest he was out on bail pending trial on another aggravated assault charge.

DEATH OF AN OLD SETTLER

Thomas Fitzgerald Died Yesterday Morning at the Age of 75 Years

We regret to record the death of Mr Thos. Fitzgerald, of Smith, which occurred in the Nicholls Hospital yesterday morning. Deceased was 75 years of age and died after a brief illness from bronchitis. The late Mr. Fitzgerald came to this country in 1825 with the Robinson emigration. For some years he carried on a business in Lakefield as a carriage trimmer and saddler, but for about a year he has resided with his son, Thos. J. Fitzgerald at Montrose Junction, near Niagara Falls. Deceased gentleman was making a short visit to his relatives in town when he was stricken with the illness which caused his death. He leaves one son who resides at Montrose, Messrs. T. E Fitzgerald and George, of town; Alexander, of Ashburnham; Gerald, of Lakefield; Thomas and Edward, of Smith, are nephews. Mrs. Harry Denne and Mrs. Col. Poole, of town, are neices.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his nephew, Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald, 366 Charlotte street to Little Lake cemetery.

The Agonizing Pain of Rheumatism

Swollen, aching joints, muscles are stiff and sore, every movement accompanied by pain. The most potent remedy is Polson's Nerviline, which has five times the pain-subduing power of any other preparation. Apply the Nerviline copiously, rub it on well and then bind in a hot flannel bandage. This will cure the worst cases in a short time. Try Nerviline for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica or Lumbago—it's all right and only costs a quarter.

JORDAN'S HOUSE CAT

Is Playing the Part of a Mother to Three Fox Whelps

Pierceville, April 15—A house cat belonging to William Jordan has adopted three fox whelps. Jordan killed the old fox and took the three young foxes to his home. He had also dispatched a new family of kittens, and he offered the old mother cat the little foxes to atone for her loss. To his surprise she adopted them, and is caring for them with all the motherly affection she showed to her own kittens.

Physicians are calling attention to the fact that influenza or grip has come to stay. In the larger cities there has been a marked increase in diseases affecting the organs of respiration, which increase is attributed to the prevalence of influenza. Persons who are recovering from grip or influenza are in a weak condition and peculiarly liable to pulmonary disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs, bronchitis, lung "trouble" and other diseases of the organs of respiration. It is the best tonic medicine for those whose strength and vitality have been exhausted by an attack of grip.

It purifies the blood, cleansing it of the poisonous accumulations which breed and feed disease. It gives increased activity to the blood-making glands, and so increases the supply of pure blood, rich with the red corpuscles of health.

"A word for your 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. E. A. Bender, of Keene, Coshocton Co., Ohio. "We have been using it as a family medicine for more than four years. As a cough remedy and blood-purifier there is nothing better, and after having the grip Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is just the right medicine for a complete bracing up."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood, and lungs.

The sluggish liver is made active by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

CROSS EXAMINATION OF MR. GAMEY BY MR. JOHNSTON CONCLUDED YESTERDAY MORNING.

Member for Manitoulin Describes What Took Place in the Piano Warehouse and Draws a Diagram of the Locale

GAMEY EXPECTED TO RECEIVE ANOTHER $1,000

After the Alleged Receipt of $1,000 from Mr. Stratton as a Second Payment,

The Counsel for the Government Questions the Witness Very Closely About the Interview in the Piano Factory

Toronto, April 15—The cross-examination of Mr. R. R. Gamey came to an end this morning with the witness quite unshaken on any material point. The latter part of the examination took the form chiefly of an inquest on the character of Mr. Frank Sullivan, who, according to Mr. Gamey's testimony, was willing last autumn to tell who burned the West Elgin ballots and gave away all the secrets of the Liberal machine for the sum of $5,000. Mr. Johnston expects to utterly destroy the effect of the evidence of the three stenographers on the ground that their report was a concerted affair.

A Scene in Court.

When Mr. Gamey took the stand this morning Mr. Riddell renewed his complaint that the member for Manitoulin did not speak loud enough. The Chancellor asked him whether he could do so, or whether he was talking in his natural tones. Mr. Gamey promised to try and talk a little louder. Mr. Johnston spent a long time with the witness in trying to induce him to declare whether he had publicly declared his intention of supporting the Government. Apparently he followed St. Paul's injunction of being "all things to all men," telling strong Conservatives that he was going to support Mr. Whitney and privately assuring Liberals that he would vote with the Government.

Mr. Johnston reiterated a question as to his case of action several times, and Mr. Gamey appealed to the Chancellor, with the words: "He has asked me that question half a dozen times, my Lord." The Chancellor then proceeded to put the question plainly, and Gamey interposed with a few remarks before his Lordship finished.

The Chancellor—"Will you wait until I am through?"

Mr. Gamey—"Well, go on, my Lord."

The Chancellor—"I don't want to go ahead now, you have gone ahead of me."

Mr. Gamey—"I beg your pardon, then."

A little while later an altercation took place between Mr. Johnston and the witness over a request that he tell just what he said at the Conservative convention on September 10. Gamey offered to bet Mr. Johnston that he could not remember what he himself had said on that date. The counsel became angry and said: "I don't pay my debts with other people's money."

The Chancellor interposed, and was interrupted by Mr. Gamey. Sir John also became angry and severely reprimanded Mr. Gamey for trying to control the proceedings. He reminded the witness that he must show respect for the authority of the court. Then, turning to Mr. Johnston, he austerely suggested that he abstain from such personalities. A moment or two later the Chancellor paid his respects to the newspapers.

"I think a great deal of the evidence is being given for the benefit of the newspapers. If they were not interfering, perhaps unreasonably, in this matter. I am satisfied that a great deal of evidence that has been heard would not have been given."

The proceedings then went forward more tamely.

In cross-examining Mr. Gamey as to his visit to the Parliament buildings, with J. R. McGregor on Jan 29, Mr. Johnston asked if they were "conspiring" to get evidence. The Chancellor mildly suggested that he use the term "seeking" rather than "conspiring" and counsel accepted the suggestion. Mr. Johnston took the witness over the matter of the Globe interview and other subjects, but failed to elicit much that was new. He said that prior to his giving the interview to the Globe reporter Mr. Stratton did not say how much money was to be forthcoming, but Frank Sullivan had given him to understand that $1,000 was the figure. He could not recall the matter exactly, but swore that on the night in question, Jan. 29, he asked about when he could collect the balance of $1,000 that was coming to him. This had not hitherto been revealed.

Mr. Johnston also took the witness over the interview with Frank Sullivan at the Crossin piano factory on the night of March 10. He described how he assembled the young stenographers early, and drew a plan, showing how he arranged the pianos for them to hide behind. The Government counsel announced his intention of having the room measured during the noon recess. Gamey testified that only one jet of gas was burning, and he thought that the shutters were closed. In the interview a synopsis of which has been published, Sullivan dwelt upon the "uneasiness" of Mr. Stratton and declared that the Government needed him as badly as ever.

Timber Deals

Gamey also testified that Frank Sullivan suggested that if they could make money out of timber deals with the Government it would be well to hand back the $1,000 to Mr. Stratton, as the Administration was very hard up and short of funds.

He also testified that last autumn Sullivan had said that for $5000 he would tell the Conservatives who burnt the West Elgin ballots and reveal all the wrong-doing of the Government. He (Gamey) had mentioned the latter to Mr. Bristol. Since he made his revelation in the House he had seen Frank Sullivan and urged him to tell the truth in the witness box, and that he would do anything he could to save him from prosecution. He absolutely denied having offered a money consideration to Sullivan for his evidence.

Mr. Johnston concluded his cross-examination at 12.45 and Mr. Blake re-examined Mr. Gamey on a few points. When Frank Sullivan came to him recently the young man pointed out that the matter was more serious for him than for anybody else. Gamey simply advised him to tell the truth as the best course open to him.

The question of the papers Frank Sullivan was ordered to produce came up and it was stated that they had either been mislaid or destroyed.

IDENTITY OF MESSENGER.

The most important episode at yesterday afternoon's session of the commission was Mr. Gamey's refusal to identify the man who brought the money packet into the smoking-room of the Legislature on September 11.

Previous thereto, however, Mr. Johnston took the member for Manitoulin over the interview with R. A. Grant at the Walker House on August 12. Gamey admitted having made an error in his original statement when he said that immediately on Grant's departure the agreement to share the profits of the timber on McGregor Island was struck, a deal which subsequently fell through.

Mr. Johnston was very severe with the witness over the fact that he had destroyed the agreement signed by Frank Sullivan in August. Gamey admitted that it was at the time the only evidence he possessed, but said he destroyed it because he was asked to do so by the Sullivans. It was necessary, he said, to retain their confidence if he was to get any evidence against the Government.

With regard to the identity of the man who brought the parcel into the smoking-room, Gamey explained that he was looking out of the window when the man came in, and simply glanced around as that person was leaving. He had all along been under the impression that it was Elgin Meyers, Mr. Stratton's secretary, and had so written in drafting his original speech for the House. On the night of March 10, just prior to the revelation, Frank Sullivan, however, told him it was Chase, the Premier's messenger. Mr. Gamey was very severe with the witness on this, but Gamey drew a plan, and showed to the satisfaction of the court, how it was not possible for him to get a good look at the messenger.

He was confronted with Chase and Meyers, and refused to identify either as the man.

Some amusing incidents lightened the proceedings during the afternoon.

"Did you feel that you were justified in that course of lying, deception and trickery," asked Mr. Johnston.

"I am leaving that to the country to justify or condemn; you have nothing to do with it," was Mr. Gamey's answer.

"I happen to be one of the country, that's all," said Mr. Johnston.

Mr. Blake, who had been listening to the colloquy, said, "A very small one, Mr. Johnston."

"Not as big, of course, as my learned friend," said Mr. Johnston.

"A few minutes later, Mr. Riddell objected that some of Mr. Gamey's replies were given in too low a tone. Judge Falconbridge suggested that perhaps the witness was tired, and it might be advisable to adjourn. Mr. Gamey replied that he preferred to go on and get the examination over, though he admitted he was tired from standing all day.

"I have been standing just the same, and am tired, too," said Mr. Johnston.

"You have my sympathy," answered Mr. Gamey.

"When I want your sympathy I'll ask for it," retorted Mr. Johnston.

"Don't be ungracious," said Mr. Blake.

"I would rather have my learned friend's satire than your sympathy,' said the defence counsel.

"You will have both," Mr. Gamey remarked.

Mr. Johnston had completed the cross-examination of Mr. Gamey with the noon adjournment, and at 2 o'clock Mr. Blake resumed his examination.

Q.—You answered a letter from Frank Sullivan on the 16th of February, 1903? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was in that letter? A.—I told him that an executive meeting was being held, and that the executive would pass a resolution condemning my interview, published in the Globe, and condemning the stand taken by me, but that they would not ask me to resign. I also asked him to see Mr. Stratton and tell him that I would send the names of the license board shortly.

Q.—Nothing else that you remember in that letter? A.—I don't remember anything else.

Q.—Then on the 24th of February you wrote Frank Sullivan a letter. Did you refer to anything else in this letter? A.—I think there was a reference to the license board, and I told him that I would give the names later on.

Q.—I believe you were never in a witness box before? A.—This is my first experience. I was never in any court in any capacity before.

Q.—Then there is another question. There was something said of a plugged mine, as though there was something wrong with it? A.—Two friends, G. B. Miller, and I went out to British Columbia in the summer of 1896, and purchased a property called the Pug mine, and organized a joint stock company. I was the secretary-treasurer and Miller was the mining expert, and sold stock. Mr. Miller operated the property, and the money received from the stock was turned over to him, although some of it might have come back to me for services rendered.

Q.—Was there anything wrong in connection with that? A.—Absolutely nothing wrong as far as I am concerned in the transaction. The mine merely turned out to be worthless. Mr. Miller spent all the money on it, and he is easy to get at now. He is up in the Soo.

Then Mr. Gamey explained his corrections of certain dates, given as to meeting Mr. Stratton, as due to light received from perusing a letter, subsequent to his writing his statement at Lorne. The money was received on the day following the signature of the letter in Mr. Aylesworth's office. As soon as he saw this letter's date again, he made the corrections.

Q.—Why was it that Mr. Platt was not appointed on your recommendation? A.—Because he was a Conservative and I did not want him appointed.

Q.—Did you press for the appointment? A—I did not.

Q—Why did you say that the letters regarding patronage would have been through the Liberal candidate but for the deal? A—Because it was patronage which ordinarily should have gone through the defeated Liberal candidate.

Q—After the application you made on December 16 for mining locations, did you make any other applications for yourself? A—No, sir.

Q.—Why did you not attend the Conservative caucus at the opening of the Legislature. A—I did not want to mix with the Conservatives after the publication of my statement.

Q—What passed between you and Dr. Struthers in the interview at the Walker House? A—He asked me about the protest. I told him there was a deal on by which I was to have the protest dropped, and have the patronage in return for supporting the Government. He said he did not like deals of that kind. I did not tell him everything about it, because he was a Liberal, though a personal business friend. I don't think money was mentioned.

At the conclusion of the examination by Mr. Blake the Globe reporter was called, and was still in the witness box when the court adjourned.

The King is Independent

London, April 16—The King's appointment of Sir George White, Governor of Gibraltar, to be a field marshal, surprised the public and military men of England. The King made the appointment without consulting the Cabinet of Commander-in-Chief Roberts. White, while personally a brave officer, has not been a successful military administrator. It is the first time the sovereign has appointed a field marshal without consulting the military members of the Cabinet. To offset the criticism of White's appointment, the King afterward ordered the promotion of General Sir Evelyn Wood to a field marshalship.

The King promoted White over several generals holding seniority for promotion to the field marshalship. There are eight field marshals, three of whom are Irish.

T. V. CANOE CLUB.

Held an Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night in the Y.M.C.A. Parlors

A large number attended the meeting of the Trent Valley Canoe Club held in the Y.M.C.A parlors last night. A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown by the members and the prospects for the club are exceedingly bright. Commodore Stock presided.

It was decided to hold an illuminated parade on the Little Lake on May 1st. Every member is requested to bring a lady.

A committee was appointed to look after and make arrangements for the parade.

Commodore Stock and Mr. M. H. Taylor were appointed to interview the T.V.C. Association as to making arrangements for the erection of a canoe portage at the locks.

RENTS GOING UP

Houses are Being Held at Almost Famine Prices

A general advance in house rents has been made this year on the plea that population is increasing in Peterborough, along with the prices of building materials and workmanship. Houses that a year or two ago rented for $7 and $8 per month, now bring double this sum. All the same this may give a boom to suburban lots that can be reached by street car, when we have this boom in Peterborough, likewise to the desire that is growing to live in flats. Apartment dwellings are wanted in Peterborough.

HYMENEAL

Nuptials of Miss Edith Hubbs and Mr. J. G. Cummings

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. C. E. Hubbs, Ashburnham, when his daughter, Miss Edith Hubbs, was united in marriage to Mr. John G. Cummings, formerly of town, but now surveying in the Kootenay District. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of George Street Methodist church in the presence of the intimate friends of the contracting parties. The happy young couple will leave for their future home, Fort Steele, B.C., next week. Their many friends in town will wish them a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE

Death of Mrs. J. H. Ames, Early Yesterday Morning

It is with deep regret we chronicle the death of Jane Ritchie, wife of J. H. Ames, 181 Edinburgh street, which occurred at her home yesterday morning. Deceased was 72 years of age, and was born in Donegal County, Ireland, and when very young came to Canada. She has resided in Peterborough ever since, except for a short time spent in Millbrook and Port Perry. Her death was caused by a severe cold which developed into pneumonia. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. A. V. Ames, and only one brother, Mr. Jas. B. Ritchie, of Kincardine.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from 181 Edinburgh street and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

THE CAPTURE OF BACOLOD

The Fight of the American Troops with the Moros

Manila, April 16—The investment of Bacolod, Island of Mindanao, which was captured by Captain Pershing's forces, after a fight in which a hundred Moros were killed, occupied three days. The final assault was made at noon on Wednesday. Desperate fighting took place inside the forts. Seven cannon were captured and eleven Americans were wounded, some of them seriously.

The column approached Bacolod early on Monday and found new forts which had been a year under construction flying battle flags. The Moros did not wait to be attacked, but fired a volley which wounded two Americans. Captain Pershing then decided to bombard the fortifications and McNair's and Gatley's batteries took up positions and shelled the forts and works until Wednesday morning.

One Common Cause of Headache

Perhaps the most general cause of headache and pain across the eyes is nasal catarrh. The simplest cure is to inhale the medicated vapor of Catarrhozone which traverses every air cell and air passage of the throat lungs and nose. It kills myriads of germs at every breath, clears away mucous discharges, preserves and heals the membrane. Catarrhozone is just a splendid remedy for headache and its action is certain and unfailing in diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Deafness, Bronchitis, Asthma and Catarrh. A trial will convince the most skeptical that Catarrhozone is all right. Large size, $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

TAXES REDUCED IN CHINA

Dowager Empress Issues an Edict Repealing Tax Laws

Pekin, April 16.—The Dowager Empress has issued an edict repealing the comprehensive stamp taxation scheme which Yuan-Shi-Kai, governor of the province of Chi-Li, was about to inaugurate throughout this province. The edict assigns the poverty of the people as the reason for the repeal of the scheme, but it is believed that Yuan-Shi-Kai's enemies procured it for the purpose of crippling his proposed reforms. One of the contemplated effects of the proposed plan would have been to secure honest returns of taxes collected and to deprive minor officials of large perquisites.

The degree of the Dowager Empress's solicitude for the poverty of the people is evidenced by the costly junket she is taking. The court will return from its visit to the western tombs Wednesday, and will sojourn at the hunting park. A short railroad is being built between the main line and the park, to convey to the park, for an audience with the Dowager Empress, the Princess of Bavaria, Maria Theresa who is visiting Pekin.

IT'S A GOOD SIGN

When you hear of noted food experts and able physicians recommending the use of Malt Breakfast Food instead of oatmeal, rolled oats and other preparations, it's a good sign; it means that Malt Breakfast Food stands first in nourishing and building-up virtues.

When you are assured that Malt Breakfast Food is taking the place of oatmeal preparations in thousands of our Canadian homes, it's a sure sign that our people have found Malt Breakfast Food all that it is represented to be—nutritious, healthful, appetizing and delicious.

When you, by experience, find that one package of Malt Breakfast Food will make a meal for twenty-five people, it's a good sign of economy. If you are a stranger to Malt Breakfast Food, get a package from your Grocer and test it.

MILLS GUARDED BY DETECTIVES

Labor Troubles at Hawkesbury May be Settled

Other Strikes in Various Parts of the Country—Builder's Strike in Montreal

Hawkesbury, Ont., April 16 — The strike of the mill men of the Hawkesbury Lumber Company, inaugurated Thursday night for an all round increase in pay, and the recognition of the union, took a serious aspect yesterday when the company landed fifty detectives from Montreal and Toronto, under Captain Williams, of the Thiel Detective Agency, to protect the Company's property. The detectives crossed the river in a boat from Grenville and were safe on the island before the strikers knew it. The detectives, while armed, are not uniformed, and the rumor spread that they were workmen to replace the strikers, and there was a mad rush for the island, Organizer Gareau, of Montreal, meanwhile telephoning the company that he could not guarantee that there would not be violence if the men were not sent away. Mr. H. K. Egan, the managing director from Ottawa, met the men, told them the arrivals were police, not scabs, and that no immediate attempt would be made to run the mills. This satisfied the strikers who dispersed.

All was quiet last night, the strikers doubtless being somewhat intimidated by the show of force made by the detectives, who are big husky chaps, most of them South African veterans.

Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King, deputy-minister of labor, has promised to be here today and the men seem willing to wait till it is seen what he can accomplish.

Mr. Egan states that the company will, under no conditions, recognize the union, but should the men return to work they can have their former positions. The company may resume operations today.

May Spread Over Great Lakes.

Chicago, Ill., April 16—The strike of 600 Chicago dredge men, which was declared yesterday, brought out the fact that all the great lakes dredging firms are banded together in the great Lakes Dredge and Dock Companies' Protective Association.

The strike was declared against Chicago contractors, because of an effort to cut wages of men on out-of-town contracts 25 per cent. below the Chicago scale. It now threatens to spread over the great lakes, involving all the big firms comprising the Protective Association.

Anticipating serious troubles, members of the executive committee of the contractors' association hastened to Chicago today from Duluth, Buffalo and other points to hold a conference, but late last night no overtures had been made to the strikers concerning settlement of the strike, which has already tied up nearly $4,000,000 worth of work in progress at many points on Lake Michigan, including Chicago.

Brockville, Ont., April 16—A barge of the George Hall and Co. Line, with a barge of hard coal, which is the first consignment of anthracite to reach here this season, is in port. The local shovellers, who are members of the 'Longshoremen's Union, have informed the captain that they would not work at the old rate of 25 cents an hour for day work, saying that members of the union in Ogdensburg and Prescott got thirty cents an hour for day work and that was the price that was wanted here. This the captain would not consent to, until he could get orders to pay the price, and the men are still holding out. Last year's prices were twenty-seven cents an hour for day work, thirty-five cents an hour for night work, and fifty cents for Sunday work.

A Montreal Strike.

Montreal, April 16—A big strike is looming up in this city when several thousand carpenters and masons will quit work.

LONDON AUTHORITY ON EARTHQUAKES

Said to be 30,000 Take Place Every Year in the World

This is the Contention of the Celebrated Scientist — Prof. Milne

London, April 16.—The earthquake which was felt over a wide area in the Severn Valley, including the large district in Staffordshire, Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire and East Lancashire, has resulted in a remarkable statement issued by Professor Milne, the great English authority, in which he says that on an average there are 30,000 earthquakes every year in the world. Severn valley he characterizes as a hotbed for earthquakes. The largest contributor to his staggering average he says is Japan, where 1,000 are felt every year.

Great Britain's proportion is very small in comparison to Japan, but Severn Valley, according to his statistics, has been affected several times, and notably in December, 1896, when buildings were tottered to the ground and the cathedral at Hereford was great damaged.

That shock was felt as far north as Manchester and as far eastward as the outskirts of London. The Severn valley is peculiarly marked for a future series of the disturbances the professor believes, and the residents of that district are much alarmed in consequence.

HON. JOSEPH CHAMBELAIN TO VISIT AMERICA

England's Colonial Secretary Will Come Over Next Fall

IS WEARY OF POLITICS

Would Resign Except for Fear of the Downfall of the Present Government

London, April 16.—Colonial Secretary Chamberlain intends visiting New York, Washington and Boston in the autumn. It will probably be Chamberlain's last visit to the United States as a member of the British cabinet. It is known he is tired of public life, and would resign, except that he feels obliged to remain in office and support the tottering Tory government. Chamberlain has abandoned his personal ambition to be Prime Minister. His only ambition now is to help the present government through the perils that are menacing its existence, in order to see his son, Austen Chamberlain, succeed him as Colonial Secretary, so that the Chamberlain policy may be continued. Chamberlain's health is not robust, and he feels the physical results of the work and worry of the strenuous four years just passed.

Since his return from South Africa, his friends have observed that his manner is completely changed. He no longer makes satirical taunts at political opponents. It is believed his trip to South Africa opened his eyes to the responsibilities of his position. He returned from South Africa full of admiration for the Boers and with little respect for the Cape Colonials and mining magnates. He will not lift a finger to aid them to flood the mines with cheap labor,

Grape-Nuts

Handy Husband

Knew How to Get Part of the Breakfast, Anyhow

"'I know one dish I can prepare for breakfast as well as any cook on earth,' said my husband one day when the cook was ill and he had volunteered to help get breakfast. He appeared with his dish, and I discovered it was Grape-Nuts, which, of course, was easy to prepare for it is perfectly cooked at the factory, but it was a good illustration of the convenience of having Grape-Nuts about.

"We just added a little cream and, of course, had a delicious bit of food. We took up Grape-Nuts immediately after returning from a five years' sojourn in a hot country, and our stomachs were in a bad condition and we were in bad health generally. When we first tried it I confess we thought there were other and better things to eat and were told we must acquire a taste for this new food. Sure enough, in a day or two we liked Grape-Nuts better than any other kind of food on the table. We both gained steadily in health and strength, and this was caused by Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee.

"A friend of ours had a similar experience. She was seriously ill with indigestion and could find nothing to eat that would not give her heartburn and palpitation, especially at night. She found that a small dish of Grape-Nuts with cream made her a satisfactory supper and gave her a comfortable night's rest. In a short time she has gained several pounds in weight."

CHURCH INFLUENCE

Chicago theology hasn't very high standing in the world at large. Much of it is apt to suggest the Windy City, or at least the first part of the title. It is with something of a shock that we read that:

> The church has to a considerable extent ceased to be the recognized moral leader of society. We have the strange spectacle of a great many religious peoples in the church who have no moral influence in society and of many men of moral influence who have nothing to do with the church.

This statement was made by Professor George A. Coe, of the department of moral philosophy in Northwestern university in a lecture on "The Outlook for Personal Religion" before the students of the Garret Biblical Institute, and the most shocking thing about the statement is that it is superficially, at least, true. Once permit such an idea to get firmly rooted and it will be true in essence. As a people think, they are, even more so than is it true that the individual who thinks is shaped and conditioned by his thought.

We have in Ontario in the recent Parliamentary elections abundant evidence to bear out this statement of Professor Coe's. Seldom in the stress of election campaign is the active support of the church people an unmixed good to the candidate measured by the standard of success. The real reason for the little weight that the church apparently plays in shaping the affairs of every day life is that it is divided, it wastes much of its energies in sectarian polemics. It is not always prudent, wise or right in its espousal of causes or in its ways of advocating them. It is composed of humanity very much of the common run. These human elements have hurt its prestige and influence, and have weakened its claims for respect and authority.

But the church militant is not an inspiring, aspiring affair. War and force produce ever the same results, no matter who use them or why. In its finer aspects the church and what it stands for are stronger than ever. The changes wrought out in twenty centuries and still working in the hearts of men are too deep to be measured. The very men who deride the church, who point to a waning of her power, and who would show that we can live, even die, well without her, are standing upon a safe and sure foundation of moral progress, which has been erected through the very agency they would disown and deny.

The church, or, rather what it stands for, has awakened a spiritual consciousness in humanity that we have hardly yet recognized. So tremendous has been the change and so rapidly are the evolutions unfolding that old things are outgrown and old standards superseded. Our perspective is altered and because we cannot see things as we fancy they once were we infer that they have suffered loss. The church leads not today, as most would have her lead, but she leads more in the way Christ would have her lead. No man had less outward influence on the thought and life of the people of his time than had Christ. And yet the leaven he hid in the hearts of man! The church is but the changing outward form of that leaven's work deep in men's hearts.

Religious cause is going on better, broader and wiser, higher all the time. These things, this progress, often hidden from the eyes of men because of the hardness of their hearts. Personal religion is suffering strange perturbations, for which precedent offers no explanation. In the words of the lecturer:

> The four leading disturbing elements are the increased significance of material things, the changed attitude toward scriptural authority, the study of religion by a historical and scientific method as contrasted with a dogmatic method and the development of an ethical sentiment without a conscious dependence upon religion.

The church must take the lead in the ethical movements of the time. She must show by her good works that she has been all that the ethical people have and more.

In the old days religious consciousness and moral consciousness were one. To-day a large proportion of the efforts to better the condition of humanity is undertaken with no distinct consciousness of a relation with religion. Moral enthusiasm has come to take the place of religious zeal.

This but emphasizes the statements we have made. The moral forces of the world should take stock of their places and position. They must look around themselves and above all, into themselves to get their bearings and to recognize their sources of supply and the objects of their activity. The church's influence is never to be counted on rightly as that of a mighty political, economic or social organization for the purpose of aggression. Her throne is in the hearts not the heads of men. We are all like Peter, who, in the garden of Gethsemane, could not understand why, with all the legions of heaven at His command, Christ should have permitted Himself to be taken by the emissaries of the high priest. We are ever looking for visible and material evidences of a Force which is invisible and spiritual and which ever works in secret.

Humanity of thought outside of the church and in it too, is more and more demanded. This was ordered by the Founder of the church. What currently passes for the church and church activity and church influence, is often but the thick, forbidding and confining husk of a very small and precious kernel. The active partisan effort of the churches on any lines whatever is of doubtful propriety. Man can't be driven out of evil into good of any sort. We can shut them out of evil, but we can't shove them into good. Love, not power, is the fulfilling of the law.

DO YOU FEEL SEEDY?

If You are Nervous, Depressed, Sleepless, and Suffer from Sick Stomach, Headache, Constipation and Indigestion, You need a Good Tonic like Ferrozone to Build Up the System.

Thousands are in this dreadful condition, only half alive, unable to stand the strain of work and worry. There is no sense or reason in trying to be comfortable with the idea that it will pass off, and that you are going to be better soon. Unless the system is cleansed of the impurities that poison the blood, you will never be better.

The best remedy is Ferrozone. It achieves marvellous results in chronic wasting diseases, nervous prostration, faulty nutrition, heart disease and stomach troubles.

Ferrozone promotes healthy digestion which results in all food being assimilated. Nutrition is vastly improved, the blood grows rich and red and gives stability to the entire system, the store of nerve energy and force increases daily by the use of Ferrozone. The process of waste is arrested, and in its place a rebuilding of the whole system takes place.

Diseased conditions cannot exist where Ferrozone is used. It attacks disease at its very foundation, and by keeping the body well nourished and supplied with strong blood and a powerful nervous organization prevents and keeps away all manner of sickness.

There is no blood builder, nerve tonic and strength producer that can equal Ferrozone, and few people are so well that could derive great benefit from its use. It is valuable in Nervous Dyspepsia, Anaemia, Weakness, Impure Blood, Bronchitis, Neuralgia and Rheumatism. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet and is both pleasant and convenient to use.

Ferrozone produces that high standard of health so much desired by everyone. It brings back the rosy tint to the pale cheeks of the Anaemic girls and women. It puts grace and elasticity into their movements, gives lustre and brightness to the eye, and symmetry and roundness to the form. It gives a man new strength and energy with which to pursue his daily toil, and can be relied upon at all times to benefit and give perfect satisfaction.

You can't invest half a dollar to better advantage than in a box of Ferrozone. Your druggist has it, or it will be mailed to your address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

CHAPTER XXII.

Norma controlled herself by a strong effort, and instead of appearing afraid of the doctor, presently looked up at him, and said:

"You frightened me at first, Dr. Wharles; but I'm very glad you've come. The boy's delirious, and his head is full of the wildest fancies."

The doctor, who still had his hand on her arm, looked at her for a moment suspiciously, and then said, in a sort of tentative way, as if uncertain whether to bully or to conciliate:

"What did he say then?"

Before Norma could answer, the voice of the lad broke out once more, crying, in a tone of abject fear:

"Doan't hurt me, doctor. I woan't say nowt, I woan't, trust me."

Norma turned her face again to the doctor, with an appearance of being deeply puzzled.

"There, he talks like that all the time," she said. "I suppose, through talking to you yesterday in the wood, where he was also on the night of the murder, he has mixed the two occasions together. Don't you think so?"

Dr. Wharles looked her full in the eyes, but Norma stood the test, returning his gaze without blinking.

"Ah, perhaps he has," said he.

But before he could say more the boy's voice cried out again, more loudly than before: "Doctor, doctor, doan't do nowt to me. I'll be as still as the dead, I woan't say as how I see yo murder him!"

In spite of all her care and caution, Norma could not repress a shudder as these wild words, earnestly uttered, came from the dry lips of the sick lad. Dr. Wharles made a sudden movement towards the bed, and she sprang up. As he turned on hearing her move, they came face to face so abruptly that there was no time for either to prepare a mask: the real thoughts, the real feelings of each were shown on the two faces: both knew the truth; that the man was a murderer, and that the woman knew it.

Norma, knowing the whole truth as certainly as if she had seen the doctor commit the crime, could not support the strain long. An irrepressible shudder ran through her, and she sank down again on the chair with her head turned away, so that she might not meet his eyes.

There was a horrible silence, broken only by the mutterings and deep-drawn breaths of the sick lad. Then, when Dr. Wharles had had time to collect his thoughts, he went up to the bed and looked at the boy.

Instantly Norma turned, watching him closely; and the doctor's fresh-colored face grew pale as he read in her eyes suspicion of his possible intention.

When he spoke, however, his voice was gentle and much softer than usual. Norma, who knew that his utterances were usually of the full-voiced sort to be expected from the full-blooded type of manhood to which he belonged, thought the unnaturally subdued tones uncanny.

"You are right, Lady Darwen, the boy is full of wild fancies. I always thought he must have seen something more than he owned to on the night of the tragedy, and now I'm certain of it."

Amazed at his audacity, Norma sat stupefied, unable to make any sort of answer. The doctor took the lad's hand in his, and went on:

"I am very strongly of opinion that he knows perfectly well who committed the murder."

Seized with a sudden disgust at her own attitude in temporizing with this scoundrel, she answered recklessly, with unmistakable dryness: "And I'm sure of it!"

With a rapid glance at him she noted that the momentary pallor of his face had been succeeded by a deeper flush than before, and she knew that he took her words as a sort of challenge. He did not turn his head, however, but sat still on the boy's bed, holding his hand, and watching him.

His touch seemed to have a strange effect upon Ned Raggett. Instead of crying out as before, the lad lay very still with the exception of a slight twitching of the muscles of his face, and very silent except for occasional and indistinct mutterings.

"He seems quieter now," said the doctor, after what seemed to Norma a long pause. She made no reply. She was watching every movement of his with an eagle eye. She knew well that the man who had not hesitated at murder on one occasion, would not shrink from a repetition of the crime in order to hide the evidence of his first misdeed.

Did he mean to kill the lad, the sole possessor of his guilty secret?

Dr. Wharles turned his head suddenly, and read her fear in her eyes. He met it with a horrible smile, that showed his white teeth but did not reach his cold blue eyes.

"Don't look so frightened, Lady Darwen," said he, "the lad's not so ill as you fear. After a quiet night, he'll be better in the morning, take my word for it."

Norma looked down, and said nothing. She held the firm opinion that the doctor was very anxious that Ned should not only have a quiet night, but that he should remain quiet for ever.

There was another awkward silence. Then the doctor said, in his old voice, ringing, sonorous, cheerful:

"Would you go and ask your landlady if she would go into the town and get a little ice? I think I could make him more comfortable with an ice-bag over his forehead."

"Mrs. Giles is out," said Norma. "She's doing her Saturday night's marketing; and so are all the other neighbors, I'm afraid."

As she said this, she saw a look in the doctor's eye which sent a chill down her spine. Did he contemplate seizing the opportunity of making away not only with the sick lad, but with herself?

As he rose abruptly from his seat on the bed, the fear was so strong upon Norma that he meant to do some mischief either to her or the lad that she sprang across the room and took her place by the head of the boy's bed, glancing down at the same time at the fireplace by her side to make sure that the poker was ready to her hand in case of need.

It struck her as strange that Ned, who had been quiet and silent, even in his delirious condition, while the doctor's touch was upon him, now began to chatter and to moan again, using always the same words, with dull reiteration. And each time that he called upon the doctor "not to hurt him, for he would say nowt," Norma felt that the murderer's eyes were upon them both, and dreaded an attack.

The moments dragged wearily along; she heard the tic-tac of the clock in the kitchen, the movements of the fowls in the yard outside, the slight sound of the

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholders standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress the Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,922 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Haslam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 800,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 200,000 acres of specially chosen lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 209 London Street.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

STOCK VALUES

Have been continually unmercifully hammered for the past 60 days; prices have been driven below normal average figures.

Natural demand under adverse local temporary conditions has sustained values generally around going prices for two weeks past. Clique support is plainly discernible; insiders have been steady buyers. The average of values is no lower than two weeks ago, yet we have been flooded with "bearish" predictions, and the market has been the conscious object of Bear attack. STOCK MARKETS

THE BASIS FOR A RISING MARKET ESTABLISHED

New York, April 15.—Prices for securities averaged their lowest figures for the year on Monday. The depression was due as much as to the timidity of a certain pool as to the campaign followed persistently throughout the day by a powerful bear clique. The liquidation of stocks, when considered dispassionately today, was unreasonable, unnecessary and effected without due cause, while there was absolutely no cloud on the financial sky and our national prosperity was never at a higher notch. The influences which have shattered values can only be transient, and we think that the break coming after a sagging market indicated that the period of decline has terminated, and that bottom prices have been recorded. The history of Wall street furnishes innumerable instances of sharp and sudden breaks in values brought about absolutely without reason, and certainly the scramble to sell stocks on Monday was of just such a character. In reviewing the course of prices it can be seen how general the declines were, regardless of the quality of the stocks attacked. Good and bad securities suffered alike. Pressure was brought by the bears against the Gould stocks, on the theory that the Northern Securities decision would cause an abandonment of the plans for a holding company for those securities. Even if correct we fail to see why this should have created such havoc in prices of Wabash, Wheeling, Kansas and Texas, and Missouri Pacific, as the earning powers of these properties remain unimpaired, while their future prospects were never brighter. At the same time Atchison has been forced down, not by adverse reports, but surely by the Western syndicate, which was obliged to sacrifice the stock in order to strengthen their hold on 'Frisco and Rock Island, the two stocks to which they are commited. We believe by the way that the R. I. issues contain great promise and that the shares will surely advance in value The company's equipment is tested to the utmost now, and the brilliant crop outlook will furnish a serious problem to them later. Money will now be easy after such immense liquidation, and when funds are at command on easy terms the basis for an advancing market is fully established. Present day comparisons with the quotations of last September will furnish the best reason in the world why stocks should be bought. An average reaction of about $30 per share has taken place, the market is shorn of its weak holdings. An extended short interest will soon desire to cover and public buying at bargain prices will combine to give impetus to a bull market. An appreciation in such intrinsically valuable stocks as Atchison, Baltimore, St. Paul, L. N. Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, N. Y. C., and Pennsylvania is as certain as the ebb and flow of the tides and competive buying of such stocks will begin almost immediately.

Summary—The market opened dull and irregular, but strength gradually developed, prices advancing on small transactions. The trading in leather securities was of the most vigorous kind, and copper and B. O. were also favorite features. A demonstration was made against the tractions in the afternoon, and their prices receded quickly, but the declines were only temporary and they recovered nearly all of their lost ground before the closing.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

MINISTERS PRAISE
CATARRHOZONE

Rev. D. K. Smith of White Head, N. S. Was cured of catarrh by Catarrhozone.

The following statement coming from one of Nova Scotia's prominent churchmen carries conviction of the fact that Catarrhozone is all right.

"For years I tried all the advertised remedies for Catarrh, but was unable to get relief until I used Catarrhozone. Before I had used the inhaler half an hour my nostrils became free and clear so that I could breathe easily through them. In one day Catarrhozone helped me immensely, stopped my coughing and hawking and cured a dull pain that was continually over my eyes. I have great pleasure in recommending Catarrhozone. I have proved it the best remedy for Catarrh and diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes."

There is certainly no remedy that is so well spoken of by the clergy as Catarrhozone and this can be accounted for by the fact that it gives perfect satisfaction.

It is the only remedy that reaches all diseased parts and gives quick relief without bad after effects. Catarrhozone contains no cocaine nor morphine. It is nature's own remedy, soothing and healing, and pleases everybody that uses it.

Catarrhozone is a local and constitutional treatment. The inhaler clears the air passages, stops the headache, and Ferrozone Tablets that are included in every complete Catarrhozone outfit, never fail to drive impurities from the blood. This builds up and strengthens the system so that Catarrhal conditions cannot exist.

The speediest cure for Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma is Catarrhozone. Two months' treatment, price $1.00; small size, 25 cents; at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE SUGAR COMPANY

Chief Engineer of the Peterborough Sugar Company in Town

The Chief Engineer of the National Construction Company, Detroit, arrived in town last night, and will, it is understood, select the site of the proposed factory in Peterborough.

Yesterday Mr. Geo. W. Bennet, the assistant superintendent, received contracts from Simcoe County for 100 acres of beets, and will ship the seed to Barrie to-day. On Friday he will forward seed for 50 acres to Havelock.

Commissioners to Meet

The West Peterborough License Commissioners will meet on April 17, and those for East Peterborough on April 18th to consider applications for licenses. It is said that the Commissioners will consider the enforcement of regulations prohibiting frost or blinds on the windows, holes in the wall and other like features of the modern bar.

The Case Dismissed

At the County Police Court on Tuesday, held at Havelock, before County Police Magistrate Edmison, Alva Lawrence was charged with bigamy. During the course of the evidence the two marriages were proved against the accused, but it transpired that Lawrence's first wife left him some thirteen years ago, and he—the accused—had no knowledge whether she was alive or dead. After all the evidence had been heard the County Police Magistrate dismissed the case.

Peterborough Old Boys

We do not hear much regarding the visit of the Peterborough Old Boys. It is desirable that the home-coming should be general, and with that end in view an early start should be made. There is some talk going on in the press regarding the fare on railroads, which is said to be higher than expected. As if any Peterborough old boy who cares to revisit the old town which is getting ready to treat him well is going to let that little thing stand in his way! Rate or no rate the boys are a-coming, and they will have a good time, too, if this g.f.j. has anything to say on the subject.

A sale of work, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St Paul's Church, will be held in the School Room, Tuesday, April 21st, commencing at 3 p.m. High tea will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

DEATH FROM POISON

Medical Records Show that Uric Acid in the Blood is a Swift Agent of Death

Paine's Celery Compound

THE WONDER-WORKING SPRING MEDICINE IS THE ONLY RELIABLE BLOOD PURIFIER

In the springtime deaths from poison—uric acid in the blood—are common. This malignant poison which should be expelled by the kidneys, is diffused through the blood, and when allowed to remain in the system, proves fatal. Thousands of men and women around us are now suffering from kidney-poisoned blood. Loss of nerve force, failure of appetite, nausea, constipation, pains in the back and side and depression of spirits, indicate that uric acid is doing its terrible work.

For such a condition in springtime there is but one sure, tried and unfailing remedy; it is Paine's Celery Compound, which promptly restores the kidneys to health and enables them to perform their functions. With the kidneys in proper condition, there cannot remain the slightest trace of uric acid in the blood. Mr. Frank Balmer, Winnipeg, Man., writes about his wonderful cure as follows:

"Last year I was so ill that my family almost gave up all hope of my recovery. Kidney complaint, constipation and general weakness had almost wrecked my life. My blood was full of uric acid, and medical men told me my condition was such that they could not give me any decided hope. My wife finally decided to have me use Paine's Celery Compound. The first bottle produced such encouraging results that I continued the use of the compound. After the fourth bottle was used I was almost myself again. Six bottles completely cured me and raised me up again to attend to my daily work. I am satisfied that Paine's Celery Compound saved my life. It is better medicine than the regular doctor can give us in times of sickness I always recommend it."

SAM WELSH COMMITS SUICIDE.

In High Park, Toronto, by Taking Carbolic Acid.

By his own hand a stranger died in High Park yesterday. He was dead when a policeman found the body, and carbolic acid was the means employed for his self-destruction.

About 4 o'clock Mounted Constable Guthrie noticed the man passing through the Indian-road gateway toward the park. An hour later the officer came upon the same man lying motionless beside a tree in the park, with a half-emptied vial of carbolic acid by his side.

The body was still warm, and Dr. Griffiths was summoned in the hope that prompt measures might avail to save his life, but to no purpose.

Who is "S.V.W.?"

When the unfortunate man's clothes were searched there was found only a Roman Catholic prayer book and two $5 bills. There was no clue to his identity beyond a silver plate in his hat with the initials "S. V. W."

An inquest will be held by Coroner McConnell at No. 6 police station to-day.

Description of the Body.

At a West Queen-street drug store, where he purchased the fluid, he signed himself as "James Mackenzie 40 Lippincott street." The name and address were fictitious, as on enquiry by the police, it was found he was unknown there.

The dead man is about 30 years of age, and has the appearance of a mechanic. The fact that he had an amount of money in his pockets, and from the general appearance of his clothes, it would seem that he was at least, in fairly good circumstances. He was of medium height, clean shaven, dark-complexioned and of medium proportions. An expired railroad ticket good from Hastings to Peterborough and a baggage check were also found in one of his pockets. The body is at the Morgue.—Toronto World.

THE BODY IDENTIFIED.

Late last night a despatch was received by The Times to the effect that the body had been identified, and was that of Samuel V. Welch, of Hastings, who was well known in Peterborough, having resided here a few years ago, and paid frequent visits to friends in town, his mother having been on a visit here a few days ago. Mr. Welch went to Toronto on Monday apparently in the best of health and in good spirits. He came up on the train from Hastings as far as Peterborough with a number from here who had been spending the Easter holidays at their homes in Hastings and seemed to be very jubilant and showed no signs as to why he should commit such a rash act.

It was expected that he would return to Peterborough on Tuesday evening, as a number of friends were at the depot that evening, expecting his return. Much sympathy is expressed for the parents, who reside in Hastings, and the remaining members of the family.

SUPPORT THE BARBERS

A Kick Coming Regarding the New Tariff of Rates

The Times has received a letter from a man who should know better, finding fault with the barbers for increasing their rates. The letter is held over for the present, as we do not care to publish a tissue of misstatements.

The Times believes that barbers should be properly paid for their work, which requires skill and good taste, and what is of more value still, as perfect cleanliness as can be. In the United States the tonsorial art has got to be high grade, and the sanitary rules in shops have become very strict. This country is falling into line. In ancient times the barber bled people for their minor ailments as well as in shaving their heads. Now a customer has no dread of injury at the hands of his barber, so deft has he become. The comfort makes people forget the added price of a haircut or shave.

—The stock, machinery and plant of the Stanley Piano Co., has been purchased by a Toronto gentleman for $6,500 and it is likely the factory will be operated on a much larger scale.

—Very many complaints are heard regarding the bad condition of Parnell street and the western portion of Perry street.

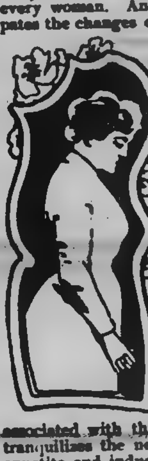
This and to-morrow evening a musical entertainment will be given by the pupils of Notre Dame in the T.A.S. rooms. A programme of high class music has been arranged.

—It was through no fault of the waterworks department that the watering carts did not get to work to allay the dust. As usual, the street department appear to have been at fault.

—The entertainment on Thursday night by the Murray street church Mission Band, was a decided success. After the programme the Band presented Mrs. G. K. Martin, president, with a beautiful framed certificate of life membership for Foreign Missions valued at $10. They also raised enough money to make Miss Ella Cochrane a life member for Home Missions.

IT MUST COME.

As inevitable as the changing seasons of the year is the change which comes to every woman. And just as one anticipates the changes of other seasons it is wise to anticipate this change of season and prepare for it. In this way the discomforts and disasters suffered by many women at the period of change can be avoided or overcome.



Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a medicine for every season of woman's life, will entirely meet the needs of women at this period of change. It cures the physical ills and relieves the mental anxiety and depression usually associated with this critical period. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

J. S. Carlisle, Esq., of Manchester, Coffee Co., Tenn., writes: "I have been using your medicines for the last sixteen or eighteen years in my Poor-house. I am superintendent of the Coffee County Poor-house and Asylum combined. Your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' are the best medicines for the diseases for which they are recommended, that I ever used. They saved my wife's life at the time of 'change of life.' I have been recommending your medicine to many afflicted women and have also guaranteed that if it did not cure I would pay back the money spent for it. I have told our druggist that if the people came back and said Doctor Pierce's medicines did not give satisfaction, to give them back their money and charge it to me. I have not once been called upon to refund. I have never found anything to equal the 'Favorite Prescription' for diseases of women."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

PRICE TELLS AN INTERESTING STORY OF FRANK SULLIVAN'S BOASTS IN THE PIANO FACTORY

Mr. Alyesworth Explains How the Manitoulin Election Protest was Dropped,

Percy Price Provokes Applause of Those In Court by Some of His Clever Answers

That the Gamey enquiry will be of the fullest description within reason was established beyond doubt this morning when Chancellor Sir John A. Boyd and his colleague, Chief Justice Falconbridge, admitted the evidence of the three hidden witnesses to the interview between Frank Sullivan and R. R. Gamey, M.P.P., on the night before the latter made his revelations in the House. Despite the objections of Messrs. Riddell and Johnston that the commission could only investigate charges against members of the Government, and must exclude evidence against the Sullivans, the Commissioners held that the evidence so far, went to show that Frank Sullivan was an emissary of the Government and that they must investigate the whole statement made by Mr. Gamey in the House.

Among the visitors to the court room was Mr. Justice Lount, who had recovered sufficiently from his recent trying illness to come down town. He took a seat on the bench, and was most cordially greeted by his fellow judges. The course of procedure in case of the death of Sir Oliver Mowat has been discussed. The Commission would probably adjourn for the day, immediately on receipt of news of such an event, and it is also probable that no session would be held on the day of the funeral.

The most important evidence this morning was that of Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., who established his innocence of any participation in the plan to bribe Gamey, if plan there was. He stated, however, that he suspected that Gamey expected money for signing the letter prepared by Mr. Stratton. first of the concealed witnesses Mr. W. H. Price gave evidence which tended to show that Frank Sullivan regarded the bribing of Gamey as the initial step toward a permanent "graft" on the Government.

Mr. Aylesworth's Evidence.

Mr. A. B. Aylesworth, K.C., one of the most eminent barristers in the Province was first called yesterday morning. He stated that after the general elections in May last he received a retainer from Alex. Smith, [illegible] sociation, under which he undertook not to act for any petitioner against a supporter of the present Government without leave. The opening of the present matter, so far as he was concerned, was a chance interview with Hon. Mr. Stratton in the corridors of the Parliament Buildings on Tuesday, Sept. 9. Stratton said: "Gamey is going to support us!" Aylesworth said: "How do you know?" Stratton said that was the point, and wanted to know how he could be held. The lawyer suggested a letter which could be held over his head, and Stratton asked him to draw one. Aylesworth said: "You know what you want, draw it yourself." Stratton then asked if he might send Gamey to him, and Mr. Aylesworth assented. Next morning when the latter was in the Court of Appeal at Osgoode Hall, Mr. Stratton came to him and handed him a typewritten letter, and told him Gamey was coming to see him. Shortly after his return to his office Gamey and Frank Sullivan, neither of whom he had ever seen before, came into his office. The conversation was opened with regard to the election petition, and Mr. Aylesworth explained that under his retainer he could not act for Mr. Gamey unless he were a Government supporter. Gamey said that was all right, and Mr Aylesworth gave him the letter to sign. Gamey read it over once or perhaps twice, and signed it. Some discussion arose as to who should hold the letter and Mr. Aylesworth offered to keep it in the vault of his firm, subject to his order.

The Loan Mentioned.

Gamey then said something about a loan of either $3,000 or $4,000. Mr. Aylesworth thought he might have used the word "stock" but understood it as a stock of goods and chattels and thought he referred to the mortgage branch of the firm's business. From Gamey's attitude he grew suspicious and thought the man expected to be bought. He therefore, brought the interview to an end. Frank Sullivan took part in the conversation, but Mr. Aylesworth paid very little attention to him, his interest being fixed on Gamey. That night, in making up his docket, he thought over the matter alone and decided to make no entry, as it seemed obvious that Mr. Gamey would not expect to pay for the interview. Mr. Aylesworth further testified that except for a word or two with his partner, Mr. Barwick he had kept the matter secret until March 14, when Mr. Stratton came to him and asked what had transpired at the interview.

Mr. Blake assured Mr. Aylesworth that he held him in too high esteem to suggest in any way to believe that he had a guilty knowledge of the offence charged.

Mr. H. S. Strathy, the venerable manager of the Traders' Bank was then called, and produced the books of the bank to prove the deposit of $1,500 by Gamey on Sept. 11 last. Mr. Strathy also admitted having recently obtained details of Mr. Gamey's private accounts for Mr. Johnston, Mr. Stratton's counsel.

Mr. W. R. Smyth, the big sturdy Scotsman who represents Algoma in the Legislature, then took the stand. He said that on March 8 on the Pullman car running between North Bay and Toronto, Gamey told him what he was going to do. On the night of March 10, unknown to the member for Manitoulin, he followed him when he left the Walker House, and, hiding behind a pile of bricks on Adelaide street, saw him meet Frank Sullivan, and go upstairs into the warerooms of the Crossin Piano Company.

A Hidden Witness.

Mr. Ritchie, K.C., then called Mr W. H. Price, one of the hidden witnesses in the Crossin piano warehouse on the night of March 10. Mr. Riddell raised objections on the ground that the scope of the enquiry was limited to charges against members of the Government. The Commission could not, he argued, investigate the conduct of Frank Sullivan.

The Chancellor, Chief Justice Falconbridge concurring, ruled against Mr. Riddell. He said that all the evidence so far tended to show that Sullivan was an emissary of the Government, although this might be disproved later. They were directed to investigate the charges made by Mr Gamey on the floor of the House, and they intended to make the enquiry a broad one. It would be very unsatisfactory if evidence apparently so important were excluded.

Mr. Price, who is a fair, young man, with a bright intelligent face, testified that he was a law student in [illegible] resided in Gore Bay. He proved a most excellent witness, refusing to say more than he absolutely remembered. He described the arrangements made by Mr. Gamey already published. He and his companions could hear all that was said, but took no notes, as they were afraid the pencils and paper would make a noise. His evidence was precisely on the lines of the synopsis filed with the court and already published. Some of his evidence was very amusing, especially when he would show how Sullivan contemptuously spoke of Myers. Mr. Stratton's secretary, as a good boy who was frightened, and boastingly told how strong he was with Stratton. Frank declared that he had access to the latter at all times, and that Mr. Stratton was uneasy, but he (Sullivan) would read him bit's of Gamey's letters to keep his courage up.

Price's impression of Sullivan was that he was willing to throw the Government over, and was anxious that Gamey should have the whole story correct to retain their hold on the Government. He declared that every member of the Cabinet knew about the deal. Another significant thing Price overheard Sullivan say was that the other members of the Cabinet had been trying to sit on Stratton, and he had done this to show what he could do. Sullivan added that Stratton would give $100,000 rather than that the deal should fall through.

Frank also discussed the political character of his father, the famous Captain, stating that the old man operated in the North Grey bye-election from his sister's house in Palmerston, as he did not want to go into the riding himself. Frank said he was out for the stuff, but that his father would stick to the party, no matter what happened.

Mr. Riddell, in cross-examining Price, complimented the witness on his memory, and thought with such a gift he should be at the head of his law class. The witness modestly admitted that he was at the head of his class last year. The cross-examination elicited little of a material nature. Gamey, it appeared, told Sullivan that the people in Manitoulin didn't think he had been bribed with money, but believed that he had been given timber and patronage. Something was said by Gamey to the effect that he might become Minister of mines in a Conservative administration, and suggested that Frank would give him information that would help him to unseat Liberals.

Gamey also told Sullivan that Stratton had played him false by negotiating with Mr. McMillan, the Socialist candidate, in the general election, to become the Government's candidate in case he (Gamey) was forced to resign.

This led up to the talk about becoming Minister of Mines. Price declared that on at least three distinct occasions during the conversation the receipt of money from Stratton was mentioned.

The Street Railway and Electric Lighting

When the dust of battle has cleared away the public will find that the town is in the exceedingly fortunate position of being able to choose from three possibilities with regard to electric lighting. One is the offer of the Cereal Company, another is the Meldrum offer, and the third is the ability of the town itself to reap the benefit of public ownership and the public management. On the streets opinions vary. In fact they vary to such an extent that we do not remember equal excitement respecting any local measure. Would it not be wise to put these three possibilities, and any other that might arise before the printing of the ballots, before the public at a special poll? In the list might be added any other question awaiting a solution, such as "Do the people wish to bonus a street railway?" We commend the action both of the Council and of the Board of Trade in their candid and straightforward expressions of opinion. We must be careful, however, to find out what the great mass of taxpayers wish, especially in view of the increase in our tax-rate.

JOHN MORLEY ON THE IRISH QUESTION

The Land Bill Marks New Chapter in Irish Situation

ATTITUDE OF THE NATIONALISTS

Are Very Much Annoyed at the Constant Liberal References to Home Rule

New York, April 16.—The correspondent of the New York Tribune in London cables: The anomalous condition of affairs as regards the relationship of the Nationalists with the two great English political parties receives a fresh illustration every day. Mr. Redmond's caution to the Liberals not to wreck the Land Bill by untimely remarks about Home Rule is being utterly disregarded.

John Morley, the sturdiest supporter of Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, addressing his constituents at Montrose last night, maintained that whatever consequences might follow from the transfer of the soil of Ireland, amongst these must be the strengthening of the principle of the policy of Irish self-government.

Morley, like other leading Liberals, is anxious to discredit the Government in the eyes of the British people, by demonstrating that the Land Bill is merely a prelude to a new Home Rule bill. The Irish Nationalists disapprove this Liberal view, as they fear that it may lead to Premier Balfour's overthrow [illegible] istry would dare to introduce a Land Bill so far-reaching as Secretary Wyndham's, as it certainly would be thrown out by the same Tory Lords who will more or less cheerfully accept the present measure.

I learn that Col. Lynch's friends are greatly concerned about his health. Imprisonment and hard labor is not agreeing so well with him as it did with the patrician convict, Lord William Neville. Lynch has lost weight as well as spirits, and his friends are saying that his health is failing rapidly, and that he may not live long enough to be pardoned by a special act of grace of the King after the Royal visit to [illegible]

BRITAIN AND COLONIES TO WORK TOGETHER

England Must Give Canada a Preferential Tariff

THE EMPIRE'S GREAT GRAINERY

What Canada Can Do for the Mother Land is Being Demonstrated

London, April 16.—Mr. W. P. Wood, president of the London Corn and Trade Exchange, who recently toured Canada as a delegate of the London Chamber of Commerce, writes a long letter to the Times to-day in favor of preferential treatment of Canadian products. He says:

"Canada's cry to-day is, what will the Mother Country do for us in return for our sacrifices? Is she prepared to make a difference between her fellow subjects of the Dominion and those foreigners whose policy is often one of suspicion, if not actual hostility? A generous, patriotic, national and truly Imperial policy would result in the additional production of millions of quarters of wheat in the Dominion, and, therefore, on British soil. The fleet of grain carriers which would bring this magnificent contribution to our shores would not come through the fortified Dardanelles, the narrow Danish Straits, or from the distant Argentine Republic, but by the shortest of all ocean routes."

Mr. Wood urges that Britain [illegible] rather than to foreign countries for the margin necessary to supplement her own production.

TITLES PASSING AWAY

Over One Hundred Have Lately Become Extinct

THE BRIEF EXISTENCE OF SOME

[illegible] Buchan to His Name and Estates

London, April 16.—The fact that another title became extinct with the death of Lord Pirbright recalls that during the present generation more than 100 titles have passed out of existence. Recalling them at haphazard—two dukedoms, a marquessate, five earldoms and two titles of viscounts have passed away within a few years.

The marquessate of Drogheda, familiar for a century, became extinct in 1892. Two years before a barony died out which had been in existence for 300 years. Of five earldoms which have passed away in the last twelve years one at least had lasted since Queen Anne's reign.

SHORT-LIVED TITLES.

Other titles have died almost before the ink which created them was dry. Lord Leighton lived only a few days after his peerage was created. The barony of Farnborough came into existence and expired in a few months in 1886. The barony of Kelhead, created in 1893, became extinct in 1894. Lord Armstrong was known among titled folk only three years. So was Baron Knightley. Three years, too, was the limit with the still more familiar name of Lord Pauncefote, which was first heard in 1899 and last in 1902. The barony of Sandford, which died in 1893, had existed only two years.

At least twenty-five baronies have become extinct in the last twelve years. At least 250 peerages of the nineteenth century are now unknown and forgotten.

HE CLAIMS EARLDOM.

Some time ago it was said there was likelihood of a claimant coming forward soon to challenge the rights of the present Earl of Buchan to his title and estates. The name of the claimant was revealed in a rather curious manner in a divorce court on Wednesday.

It was in the course of proceedings in the case of Mrs. Constance Cory against her divorced husband, Herbert Beayon Cory, in which the woman sought to recover her expenses in connection with the suit. The proceedings were dry and wearisome till near the close, when the audience woke up at a question by the judge, who addressed Mr. Cory:

"You sign your letters 'Milton Bradford, Earl of Buchan.' Do you claim to be the Earl?"

"I do," replied Mr. Cory.

The present holder of the title and estates is 62 years of age, and his heir, young Lord Cardross, is a lieutenant in the Scots Guard.

THE LATE THOMAS RITCHIE

An Old and Esteemed Resident of Dummer Passes Away

We very much regret to record the death of Mr. Thomas Ritchie, which occurred at his late home, in South Dummer on Wednesday last. Mr. Ritchie was in his 73rd year and leaves behind a wife and eight children to mourn the loss of a noble husband and kind father. His family is composed of Robert, of Ashburnham; Thomas, in the West; John of Lakefield; William of California; Mrs Clydesdale, town; Mrs. McCrarey, Belleville, and Mable at home. His brothers were John, Peter, William, James, Robert, Samuel Isaac and Michael. His sisters are Mrs. D. Anderson, Mrs F. Austin, Mrs. A R. Kidd, Mrs W. E Kidd and Mrs G Gander. The funeral takes place to the Norwood cemetery this afternoon.

CRESSMAN'S RE-OPENING

Large Crowds Attend and Inspect His Fine New Stock of Clothing

Mr. Cressman is to be congratulated on the success attending the re-opening of his clothing department last night. Mr. Butcher's orchestra, composed of Miss Bell, the brilliant violinist of Keene, Miss McCabe, pianist; Mr. A. Seward, cornet; Mr L. A Bally, clarionet, and Mr. J. Butcher, flute, played from eight until about ten o'clock and delighted the crowds with a variety of good music.

Mr. Cressman with a small army of obliging and courteous clerks, and willing helpers were busy showing all who wished magnificent suits fresh from the best factories on the continent.

This enterprising merchant believes that he can as perfectly fit any man or boy with as good a quality of texture and as correct a style as that made from the shelf goods of the best tailor in the land.

There were on view many samples of coats and vests with the lining removed to show the excellent quality of goods used and work done in the factory. The "20th Century" brand is warranted in every respect to the customer, and those who know Mr. Cressman will admit that his guarantee is worth a hundred cents on the dollar. Those who were not able to be present last evening will no doubt receive no less courteous treatment should they call at some future date.

One can hardly realize that only a few short weeks ago the whole premises were a seething mass of flames and smoke, and it is therefore a source of justifiable pride that he has been able to accomplish so much in so short a time. We therefore have pleasure in congratulating him on the magnificent display presented in every department and in every detail, from the gorgeous appearance of the millinery on the upper flat to the gents' furnishing department on the ground floor.

SURPLUS OF REVENUE OVER EXPENDITURE

Public Debt Will Come Down this Year by About Five Millions

Statement Made by Hon. Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, in His Budget Speech at Ottawa

Ottawa, April 17—Hon. W. S. Fielding delivered his financial statement yesterday and announced for the current fiscal year the largest surplus that Canada has had since Confederation.

It is very probable that the annual surplus on account of the consolidated fund will be about $13,000,000 and that there will be a real surplus over and above all expenditure, capital account included of about $5,000,000. In other words the public debt will be reduced by about three million dollars.

Only three times since Confederation has the public debt been reduced. This was in 1871, 1882 and 1900.

It would not surprise any one should Mr. Fielding make the argument that by his present, financial statement he has succeeded in wiping out all that the present Government is responsible for having added to the public debt, and that therefore the present administration has succeeded in carrying on the affairs of the country since the inauguration of the Fielding tariff without adding anything to the debt. Should the finance minister succeed in doing this it will be good material for the government at the next general election.

As for the growth of trade it has simply been marvellous. In 1873 Canada's aggregate trade was $217,304,000, and as late as 1895 it was only $218,891,000. The current year will show an aggregate of about double what the trade was in 1895.

MR. LEONARD'S APPOINTMENT

Assistant General Manager of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg

The appointment of Mr. J. W. Leonard, General Superintendent of the western division of the C.P.R. to the position of Assistant General Manager, with headquarters at Winnipeg, is officially announced. Mr. Leonard will have executive control of the western division, but the position is in reality that of assistant to the General Manager, Mr. McNicholl. The growing importance of the west has for some time given reason for the erection of an office vested with power to act quickly in case of emergency without reference to the head office in Montreal. It is probable that a similar appointment with reference to the Ontario division will be made in a few days, but it is stated by the management that the matter has not yet been decided. Mr. W. R. Baker, who has been relieving Mr. Leonard at Winnipeg during the last two weeks, is returning to Montreal, but his name is mentioned as successor to Mr. Leonard.

Mr. Leonard's hosts of friends throughout Eastern Ontario will be pleased to hear of his promotion.

The Sugar Factory

Mr. F. Bartlett has been engaged by the Peterborough Sugar Co. for taking measurements of the land for the proposed factory. The selection of a site will probably be made today, by Mr. A. Thomas, Chief Engineer of the National Construction Co., Detroit. This Company, it is said, are erecting three large factories this year, one of them is at Charlevoix, Mich., another at Mount Pleasant, Mich., and the one at Peterborough.

THE BICYCLE BY-LAW

Wheelmen Must Conform to the Regulations Imposed

Chief Rouzel has requested The Times to publish the bicycle bylaw, which came into force at the beginning of the present year. The following are its provisions:

Bylaw No. 1006. A bylaw for regulating and governing persons using bicycles, passed this third day of December, 1902.

The Corporation of the Town of Peterborough, by the Council thereof enacts as follows:

1. Every person travelling on any highway in the town of Peterborough on a bicycle shall carry a bell attached to said bicycle which must be sounded in all cases when it is necessary or proper to give notice to others of the approach of the bicycle and shall slacken speed and ring the bell when approaching each cross street.

2. No one shall travel upon the highways of the town of Peterborough on a bicycle at a greater rate of speed than eight miles an hour.

3. This bylaw shall come into force and take effect on January 1st, 1903.

4. Any person who shall be guilty of a breach of any of the provisions of this bylaw shall on conviction thereof be liable to a fine not exceeding $50 and costs, to be levied in case of non-payment thereof, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the offender, and in default of sufficient distress, to imprisonment in the common gaol in the county of Peterborough for a period not exceeding twenty-one days.

EVIDENCE GIVEN YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Further Testimony as to the Conversation, A Nervous Witness

The first witness called at the afternoon session of the Gamey investigation to-day was another of the witnesses who, while hidden behind pianos in the Crossin warehouse, heard a conversation between Frank Sullivan and Mr. Gamey.

Percy Price confirmed his brother's testimony. He told how the pianos were placed. The diagrams already drawn were not quite correct, he said. The pianos were so arranged that no one could get to the secreted young man without climbing over the instruments on the ledge to one side. In most particulars his evidence was similar to that of his brother, but he added a remark made by Frank Sullivan to Mr. Stratton when the latter was uneasy as to Gamey.

"You leave him to me," said Sullivan. "He will be all right if you don't treat him dirty."

He also said that discussing the Government's need of Gamey's vote, Sullivan said Charlton was very sick and might not last a week. After the interview Mr. Gamey did not lock the inner room, but the larger room, the door of which could be opened from the inside was locked. Mr. Gamey came back in about 25 minutes and did not go with them when they went down to find out the result of the Foster election. He received a little note from Mr. Gamey, sent by a messenger boy, to make out a statement in question and answer form of what had taken place at the interview. He could not do that, as he did not then see the necessity for it. He saw his brother first, and while his brother was away prepared a written statement and gave it to Mr. Smyth at the door of the House. His brother did not see it.

Percy Cross-examined.

Mr. Johnston undertook the cross-examination of Percy Price, and though the lad was excessively nervous, he came through the ordeal well. The counsel's first question was:

"Was money mentioned at the interview?"

"Yes, I think so."

"We don't want you to think, we want facts," said Mr. Johnston.

"Well give me time!" said the witness.

Mr. Johnston gave the witness two or three minutes to count up how often he had heard the word money mentioned, and then remarked:

"Of course you have your story pat?"

"I intend to have it pat," said the witness, "before I answer."

In a moment or two he swore that it was mentioned at least two or three times.

Mr. Johnston asked him why he remembered the conversation so well.

"In the first place, because I went there to hear it and fix it in my mind; in the second place, because it was a very interesting conversation that no one would be likely to forget; in the third place, it was a very interesting conversation for the people of Ontario when they came to mark their ballots next time."

The whole court room gave way to laughter, and Mr. Johnston tried to get the witness to admit on the basis of this answer that he was prejudiced.

The lad said he was twenty-one years old and a Conservative.

Did you take active part in the election campaign at the "Soo"?

No! It was my brother.

Why did you go to that room to hear evidence?

Because it was in the interest of justice.

You went there believing the Ross Government to be corrupt?

I lived long enough in New Ontario to know that they are pretty corrupt.

Mr. Johnston pressed his point that Price had gone to the room believing the Government to be corrupt. "I had a vague idea that it was corrupt when I went in, but I had a more definite idea after hearing that conversation," declared the witness.

The demonstration of the spectators were so marked that Chief Justice Falconbridge threatened to clear the court room if they were repeated.

G. T. R. Picture Exhibit

The Grand Trunk picture exhibit illustrating the many tourist districts throughout Ontario, and which has been doing exceptionally good work in advertising this Province in several of the larger cities in the Southern States, recently completed an eleven day's display at the First Annual Sportsmens' Show of Ohio, at Cleveland, and left for Knoxville, Tenn. During the time of the Sportsmens' Show, over 50,000 people attended, and the Grand Trunk exhibit was a source of much interest. Illustrated descriptive literature and all information as to the different regions in "The Highlands of Ontario," was given out by a representative of the Grand Trunk. After exhibiting in Knoxville, the collection of pictures will move on to Richmond, Va., and thence proceed to several cities in Pennsylvania and New York States, going out of commission about May 15th. This is probably the greatest advertisement that Ontario has ever had south of the International Boundary.

—The Fire Brigade was called out early this morning to extinguish a small blaze in the sheds at the rear of the Crown Hotel. Owing to the Brigade responding promptly the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

SIR OLIVER MOWAT.

SIR OLIVER MOWAT AT DEATH'S DOOR

DOCTORS HAVE LITTLE HOPE FOR HIS RECOVERY

Toronto, April 17—All is quiet about Ontario's vice-regal mansion. Liveried servants are walking on tip-toe and the sounds of telephone and door bells are deadened. Ontario's veteran Lieutenant-Governor is dying. Members of his family have been summoned to his bedside, and the family physicians, Drs. Primrose and Temple, are in constant attendance.

At a late hour last night there was no change in Sir Oliver's condition, neither was there any encouraging news.

It was on Sunday night last that the venerable statesman met with the accident in which he sustained a fracture of the right thigh, between the middle and upper third. It occurred about 9 o'clock while he was being lifted from a chair to his bed by two attendants. Doctors were immediately summoned, and the bone was quickly set.

It is not known exactly how the accident occurred. Some time ago Sir Oliver fell, breaking a small bone at the thigh joint. He had not regained the full use of the leg, and occasionally had to be moved by attendants. While lifting him on Sunday night the bone snapped.

The manner in which he rallied from the shock was a surprise to the physicians, taking into consideration the fact that Sir Oliver was in his 83rd year, and they became quite hopeful until the relapse.

DISTRICT NEWS

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

SMITH.

In the death of Mrs. Alexander Preston, who died in Toronto on Tuesday, March 31, at the ripe age of 91 years, the Township of Smith has lost its oldest resident and Lakefield a lady whose recollections went back to days long anterior to any who now live within its bounds. Mrs. Preston had been a resident of the township of Smith for over seventy years, having settled here in the early part of 1833 with her husband, the late Alexander Preston. Her maiden name was Jessie Walkingshaw. She was born in the County of Northumberland, England, in 1812, but moved with her parents at an early age to Swinton in Berwickshire. In 1833 she was married to Mr. Alexander Preston, the ceremony being performed the night before they sailed for Canada. Settling first in Lakefield, whither Mr. Preston had been sent to take charge of the interests of Mr. Harriott, who built the first mill in the village, the young couple resided in a house, on the foundations of which the stable owned by Mr. John Dinwoodie now stands. Lakefield was not at that time as accessible to the outside side world as it is at present. There was no bridge across the river, and in order to get to the opposite side persons had to travel up as far as Hague's Point, whence they were ferried over in a boat owned by a Mr. Bird. After living a year in Lakefield, Mr. and Mrs. Preston moved to the Township of Smith, where Mr. Preston cleared the farm which is now owned by their grandson, Mr. Wm. Adams, jr., Mrs. Preston had outlived all her family, her husband having died some thirty years ago, and her sons and daughters at various periods since that time. Four grandchildren survive her, Mrs. Doole, at present residing in Toronto, Mr. Williams Adams, jr., of the Township of Smith; Misses Mary Ann and Isabel Adams, of the same place, and Mr. William Elder, of Toronto. In closing this notice of an estimable and venerable character, it is worthy of remark that Mr. Alexander Preston, the husband of the deceased lady, was the means of opening the first Presbyterian church in Lakefield, in conjunction with the late Mr. Casement and the late Mr. John Wallace. Mr. and Mrs. Preston were lifelong adherents of that church, of which for many years Mr. Preston was an honored elder.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Morris O'Leary; vice-president, James Duff; secretary, Wm. Breckenridge; executive committee, David Devlin, Thomas Nelson, and John Fawcett. After the officers had been elected, the president, in his usual quiet manner, made a few brief remarks on "Bachelorism and the Benefit of It," especially in this locality. He remarked that there were fifty names on the list at present, and urged on the new members to enlist as soon as possible. Mr. F. Devlin declared that no man would be allowed to join unless his moustache had developed its full growth. There was a little uproar at this point, but Mr. Devlin's motion was carried. The next meeting will be held on the 1st of June.

You are Weak Instead of Strong

A Weak, Pale, Despondent Specimen of Humanity, Lacking in Vigor, Strength and Ambition.

Make Yourself a New Being;—Renew, Revitalize, Reinvigorate Your Lost Strength.

You're a discouraged, weak, miserable wreck—old before your time. Instead of a place of happiness the world is full of strife, worry and distress.

You are sick and not aware of it, just able to drag yourself around, but totally incapable of exertion or hard work.

Your stomach is crying out for assistance. Hadn't you better give it some Ferrozone?

Your nerves require a good bracing tonic, and the best thing for them is Ferrozone. Why don't you use this sovereign remedy? It is intended for cases just like yours.

Ferrozone is superior for the blood and nerves to any curative agent the world has ever known. Its recuperative powers are beyond description as a trial will demonstrate.

With the use of Ferrozone comes strength to overcome the difficulties and battles of life. Digestion and assimilation will improve, appetite will grow better. You will sleep soundly, and presto—before long you will be healthy, strong and well.

These blessings are all obtained by the regular use of Ferrozone, and can be purchased at any reliable drug store for 50c., or three boxes $1.25. Sent by mail to your address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

To Set Her Free

[COPYRIGHTED

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

wind in the branches of the trees on the opposite side of the lane: but never strain her ears as she might, the sound of a human being near. It was indeed as she had said: all the occupants of the three cottages, except poor Ned, had gone into the town: except for her own powers of persuasion, stratagem or muscle, she and Ned were at the doctor's mercy—at the mercy of a desperate criminal.

Ned was growing noisy again, was raising his voice to the old pitch of screaming terror: but the doctor, who knew that nothing could happen which would either strengthen or alter Norma's convictions concerning him, did not again try to pacify him. Instead, he walked thoughtfully to the door, opened it, and looked out.

Norma stared at him, watching every movement. The dimly burning, smoky lamp and the red fire, combined to give but a feeble and murky light. But it seemed that her senses were unnaturally acute, for not the smallest action of the doctor's, as he stood outside in the little porch in the darkness, escaped her. She saw him put his hand to his breast pocket, and, with a cry, she rushed across the cottage floor and caused him to start.

"Why, Dr. Wharles, you carry a revolver about with you, then?" almost shrieked she, as she leaned, panting, against the doorway, and the doctor, who had turned at her words, staggered a step or two backwards into the lane.

She had not seen any weapon: it was only her intuition that it was a revolver his fingers were touching, when he put up his hand. But the startled, guilty look which flashed across his face at her accusation told her that she had made a good guess.

For one moment she stared out at him, as he, taken aback, found himself for a moment without a reply. Then she shut the door in his face, and drew the bolt.

The boy's voice from the bed rang out again, hoarsely:

"Doctor, doctor, I'll swear I see now!!"

Norma put up her hands to her head, giddy with the horrible sensations which had followed each other so rapidly. What would happen? She had flung down the gauntlet now; she had let the doctor see that she knew him to be the murderer, that she feared new outrages on his part. Would he leave her there, and content himself with bold denial of there being any truth in Ned's ravings? Or would he, since he appeared to have for a moment contemplated some sort of attack, carry out his intentions still?

The suspense she felt was horrible, not to be borne. The cottage window—there was only one to this front room—was shutterless. She crept towards it and looked out. Whether the doctor was concealed in the porch she could not make out; and she could hear no sound from outside.

She ran across the room and into the kitchen behind, to see whether he had gone round to that entrance. But even as she went, Ned cried out, in a voice of terror that arrested her steps:

"Why do you run away? Is he after you?"

He was sitting up in bed, staring at her with eyes full of terror. Fearing that the torment which he had been suffering would turn the lad's brain, and recognizing that her first duty was to the patient of whom she was in charge, she contented herself with shutting the door of the room she was in and drawing a heavy chest in front of it.

Then she went quickly to Ned's side, and, sitting beside him, addressed to him soothing words which, to her great relief, presently appeared to have some effect upon him: for he allowed himself to be persuaded to lie down again, muttering still, but with less vehemence.

She was still sitting beside him, listening intently for the least sound outside, when there was a violent pull at the handle of the door.

Norma stood up abruptly, in attitude of battle. But the voice which called out sharply to her was not that of Dr. Wharles, but of Nance Raggett, who cried out:

"Open, open the door, I say!"

Norma ran to obey her, with a great feeling of thankfulness that her watch was over.

What, however, was her horror and dismay when she found, on unbolting the door, that she was confronted, not only by Nance, but by the doctor, who followed the indignant woman into the cottage.

It was he indeed who spoke first.

"Well, Mrs. Raggett, what did I tell you? We all know that your sex has privileges, and rank also. But for a lady to turn a medical man out, and lock the door upon him, when he wished to do his duty and try to alleviate the sufferings of his patient, is, I think, a stretch even of beauty's prerogative."

"It's a piece o' cheek as ever I see!" cried Mrs. Raggett indignantly. "And I'd ha' seen yo' at t' bottom of t' sea, my lady though yo' are, if I'd ha' thowt yo' meant to use Ned so!"

Norma, who felt how awkward her position was, and how hopeless it would be for her to try to get this woman to believe her, with the artful, persuasive, handsome doctor using his utmost influence against her, felt nevertheless that she had better take up at once the position she meant permanently to hold as regarded the whole matter.

So she turned boldly to Nance, and said:

"The lad has been delirious for some time. If you will hear what he says you will understand why I did what I did."

The doctor broke in: "Perhaps I can explain this lady's motives and actions better than she could herself. Lady Darwen, naturally enough, takes sides with her husband, who, as I dare say you have heard, attacked me in the open street the other day on account of some family affairs of his, in which he, quite wrongly, imagined that I was mixed up."

As he spoke the doctor laid an unpleasant emphasis upon the words "Lady Darwen" and "her husband," in order, so Norma felt sure, to rouse her anger against him, and to induce her to prejudice herself in Mrs. Raggett's eyes by some outburst of indignation. She, however, kept quite still, and endured the rest of his speech with as much equanimity as the opening:

"When she undertook to watch by Ned's side this evening, she no doubt conceived the idea of getting him to incriminate someone in the matter of the terrible crime that was committed in the wood across the road the other day, in order to divert the suspicion which, as we all know, rests upon Sir Astley Darwen, the man whom poor Rogerson came to the town to see."

Still Norma said nothing, though every moment the doctor's tone grew more bitter, more insulting. He went on:

"I understand, Mrs. Raggett, that Ned was quite quiet when you left him?"

"Ay, he was lying quiet, most o' t'

SOME STARTLING FACTS

Regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

To the Editor of The Times.

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 41 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
120 Albert St., London.

—John Williams, of the C.P.R. Works, Toronto, was cured of chronic rheumatism, after taking 10 boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

—I was troubled with rheumatism for 12 years, and could get absolutely no relief from the doctors. Six boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills entirely cured me. God bless Dr. Clarke. (REV.) S. HUMMITT, Winnipeg, Man.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years: the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for [illegible] $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

THE

TWO-TEN OIL CO.

of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 16 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

STOCK VALUES

Have been continually unmercifully hammered for the past 60 days; prices have been driven below normal average figures.

Natural demand under adverse local temporary conditions has sustained values generally around going prices for two weeks past. Clique support is plainly demonstrable; insiders have been steady buyers. The average of values is no lower than two weeks ago, yet we have been flooded with "bearish" predictions, and the market has been the conspicuous object of Bear attack. Stocks are now a good purchase; we will be pleased to tell you the stocks likely to show the best profit if purchased immediately and will send you gratis, upon request, both our 400-page 1903 one posts you in detail regarding Wall Street, its methods, securities, etc., the other informs you daily as to the probable immediate movement of the market.

"GUIDE TO INVESTORS." and our "DAILY MARKET LETTER."

STOCK MARKETS

TO-DAY'S CONDITIONS PRECEDE A RISING MARKET

New York, April 16.—The time is near at hand when one can enter this market with the confidence that no further disturbing facts will arise. Cool reflections has brought the speculative feeling back to a sensible zone, and those who lost their heads and sold out on the low level of the year, are anxious to recover their lines if the market will permit them to do so without bidding up prices too heavily. The resumption of a declining market seems impossible with the call men at such low rates, and after such extensive liquidation. Therefore investment buying should be in order, and the public which has withheld for so many months in order to buy satisfactory concessions will soon begin operations on a broad scale. General buying, while usually overdone in the long run, is irresistible while it lasts, and produces bull markets of gigantic dimensions. It would seem reasonable to assert that we are on the threshold of an active and advancing market, started first of all by that class of investment buying always in evidence after a severe reaction. A market of the character we expect should be prolonged for two or three months at least, as it would take that time before the public would be loaded with stocks to a dangerous degree. Therefore it would appear to be absolutely safe to go with the crowd on a rising market for some time to come. In addition to the public attention the great element in sustaining the market will be the large syndicate whose undigested securities must be marketed at satisfactory prices. This can only be accomplished by their giving support to the market at the present level. Those who purchase standard issues at this time will be the pioneers of a bull market in which they will not have to overstay. It is common sense and involves only a small iota of courage to buy stocks at going prices, rather than wait till the advance is well matured and the danger signals nearly set.

Summary—The market opened quiet with unchanged prices, and gradually gained strength. Copper was a leading feature, and was bid up on the rumor that the dividend was to [illegible]. The declaration of the regular dividend was received as a matter of course, and created but a trifling reaction in the stock. Atchison, Norfolk, Union Pacific, Baltimore and the high grade stocks like Pennsylvania and New York Central displayed strength throughout the session and the closing prices were generally high points of the day and forecast the future character of the market. The country's unexampled prosperity is so fully realized that timidity has vanished and the absorption of securities is again in progress. Money closed 4 per cent. Total sales 522,400.

Great Oil Strikes

The Green River oil district of Utah appears to be thoroughly saturated with oil, which exudes from the shales that crop out from the valley. John A. Shrader, who has spent much time in the Green River section, is satisfied that the country is one of the best oil regions in the West, and this he points out has been conclusively demonstrated by the recent strikes that have been made in the past month. The oil is heavier than that found in Pennsylvania, and is a natural lubricant. In fact the Utah oil experts say that it is equal to the best crude oil found in the United States, and should command $6 a barrel.—Pacific Oil Reporter, May 9, 1902.

KRUGER IS DYING

Report has it That Days of Oom Paul and Steyn are Not Many

Montreaux, April 16.—If President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, lives through the summer, which is very doubtful, he will ask Chamberlain to permit him to return to South Africa. He has reason to believe that permission will be freely granted, as it is hoped that Steyn's presence will help to bridge over existing difficulties.

The heads of the Steyn and Kruger households exchange daily bulletins on the condition of the ex-presidents. It is thought here that Kruger's days are numbered, and Steyn is not much better.

Our Language.

Yet another humorous story anent the idiosyncrasies of the English language is current. A Frenchman came to England with the object of making himself master of the tongue, and the following sentence was given him:

"The rough cough and hiccough plough me through." The teacher told him the first word was pronounced "ruff." He thereupon said this: "The ruff cuff and hiccuff pluff me thruff."

"No, no—the second word is pronounced 'koff'!"

"Then," said the Frenchman, "it must be the roff coff and hiccoff ploff me throff."

The third, fourth and fifth words were explained with the same result, which the reader may repeat for himself.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY,

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

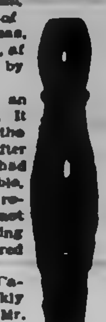
CATARRH

The Mother of Consumption

How this dread disease may be prevented and cured—the opinions of people who have been cured by

CATARRHOZONE



Catarrh is very often spoken of as the mother of consumption, because when unchecked it eats its way from its place of beginning to the bronchial tubes then deeper and deeper, till finally the disease become consumption of the lungs.

The safest and best remedy for any form of Catarrh is Catarrhozone. It is inhaled to all parts of the breathing organs, kills the disease, and drives it completely out of the system.

Mrs. Mary J. Whitney, of Clay Street, Topeka, Kansas, was cured of nasal catarrh, after twenty years' suffering by Catarrhozone. She says:—

"I owe to Catarrhozone an immense debt of gratitude. It cured me of Catarrh of the most disagreeable kind after doctors without number had pronounced my case incurable. My breath is pure and my respiration regular, and I do not cough any more since using Catarrhozone. It has cured me perfectly."

Another case of Chronic Catarrh that was cured quickly by Catarrhozone is that of Mr. G. L. Luce, of 1,700 Navasota Street, Austin, Texas. Mr. Luce says:

"I tried for four years to get rid of Nasal Catarrh, used salt douches, atomizers, tablets, stomach medicines, etc., but they didn't do me much good.

"Then I tried Catarrhozone, and received relief in a few hours. It cured in a week, so that I never had a recurrence of my former trouble."

Miss Winer, who resides on May Street, in Hartford, Conn., was cured of throat trouble by Catarrhozone, and speaks of her recovery in the following words.—

"Repeated colds finally resulted in a Catarrhal condition from which I suffered more or less every spring and fall. Catarrhozone was the only remedy that relieved and cured me. I recommend it."

No treatment is so good for Catarrhal affections and Bronchitis as Catarrhozone. Its success is quite unequalled in the history of medicine. It will cure you quickly and surely, and is well worth a trial. Two months' treatment guaranteed to cure, price $1.00; small size 25c Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy it to-day.

A POOR OUTLOOK

Peterborough Not Likely to Secure a Reduction in Fire Insurance

As remarked by Mr. W. H. Robertson at the Board of Trade meeting on Tuesday evening, there is little chance of Peterborough obtaining relief from the exorbitant rates of the Fire Underwriters' Association. The following paragraph from the Montreal Star bears out this:

"In spite of the endeavors of the Finance committee and others interested there is little likelihood that a reduction in fire insurance rates will take place in anything like the immediate future."

Montreal went wild over the tremendous increase in fire insurance rates in that city, and exhausted every means to secure a reduction without avail.

AN ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

A GAMEY WITNESS

A Man in Peterborough Summoned to Attend the Famous Trial

Mr. J. M. Might, who has been in Peterborough for some days in connection with the sale of stock of the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Company, yesterday received a telegram from Hon. S. H. Blake, who is conducting the prosecution in the Gamey charges, to return to Toronto, as he was wanted as a witness.

Mr Might was seen by The Times last night and stated that he was told by Mr. Gamey several months ago that he had offers of money, and asked Mr. Might's advice as to what to do, the latter being a staunch Conservative and well acquainted with Mr. Gamey. Mr. Might told the famous Manitoulin member to take the money and turn it over to some worthy charitable institution and expose the giver.

Mr. Might will leave this morning and expects to return in a few days to close up the balance of stock in his company which he has for sale.

—Two bicycle riders collided yesterday afternoon at the corner of George and Charlotte streets. Both riders were thrown, but fortunately without injury.

MAKE IT OVER

Change of Diet Will Build an Entire New Body

People can be entirely made over by a scientific course of food and drink. Even old, chronic diseases and hereditary ailments are eliminated by the wonderful processes of reconstruction under modern methods of feeding.

An illustration is worth attention. A lady writes:—"I feel this letter will exceed all reasonable bounds but how can I be brief when I have so much to tell. First about myself. I inherited nervous headaches and half invalid condition. I had to give up tea and coffee but some months ago a friend insisted that I start on Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts breakfast food.

"I prepared the coffee myself, carefully according to the directions on the package, and used good cream. The first cup seemed the most delicious and satisfying drink I had ever tasted. I drained it and filled it again. I was impressed with the idea that it was just what my starved nerves demanded. So I used Postum and Grape-Nuts with good rich cream. Now for about four weeks I have been entirely free from headaches and nervousness, and am feeling unusually strong and well. There has also been a marked change in my appearance. I am 47 years old and my hair is very white, but the laggard, care-worn look is entirely gone from my face, my cheeks and body have filled out, the face shows a fine color, flesh firm and smooth, eyes clear and lips red. My friends comment on the change and say I look 15 years younger. They are incredulous when I tell them that skillful feeding on scientific food like Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee has wrought the change.

"Now as to my son 26 years old who has been afflicted with epilepsy from infancy. I hardly dare tell the facts but he is here in the body to prove them. He has had the best treatment in this country all without perceptible benefit. His memory was gradually growing weaker. At the time I started on Postum and Grape-Nuts he started also, and the change in him has been so wonderful that I can hardly describe it. Now he carries himself erect, instead of in his former careless way, his eyes are clear and bright, and best of all his memory is growing stronger and stronger every day until I am fairly overcome with astonishment. He shows a decision of character quite unusual and has lately expressed a strong desire to study. I dare not say what hope his improvement has raised.

"It is perfectly evident that bodies and brains can be rebuilt by skillful feeding and think means Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

DOURO.

—The many friends and acquaintances of Mr. Martin Nolan will hear with sorrow of his demise, which occurred at his home in Michigan. The late Mr. Nolan was at one time a respected and highly esteemed resident of Douro. He was in his 59th year, and leaves behind a widow and ten children, besides his two brothers, Laughlin and Thomas, of Douro.

The powder puff may help to hide the ravages of time but it avails little to hide the ravages of disease. When the face is disfigured by eruptions, the treatment must go below the surface to the blood, which is corrupt and impure.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures disfiguring eruptions which are caused by impure blood. It cures scrofulous sores, erysipelas, boils, pimples, eczema, salt-rheum and other eruptive diseases which impure blood breeds and feeds.

"I was troubled with eczema from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet," writes Mrs. Ella Quick, of Cass City, Tuscola Co., Mich. "Could not walk at times nor wear my shoes. Thought there was no help for me—at least the doctor said there was none. I went to see friends at Christmas time and there heard of the good that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery had done for them, and was advised to try it at once. For fear that I might neglect it my friend sent to the village and got a bottle and made me promise that I would take it. I had been getting worse all the time. I took thirteen bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and ten vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and used 'All-Healing Salve,' which made a complete cure. It was slow, but sure. I was taking the medicine about eight months.

"I would say to all who read this; try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery before wasting time and money."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

GAMEY COMMISSION HAS ADJOURNED, CONVERSATIONS RULED OUT BY JUDGES

There will be no Sitting Held To-morrow Other Witnesses That Testify

WILL CONTINUE MONDAY

Unimportant Evidence Given Before the Adjournment Took Place Yesterday About Three O'clock

The third of the three hidden listeners to the Gamey-Sullivan conversation in the Crossin piano factory told his story today. He differed from Price brothers and from Mr. Gamey at two or three points in the narrative. He said that he did not hear any reference to Mr. Gamey becoming Minister of Mines. Neither did he recall any reference to the Nobles and their paying a rake-off for their fishing licenses. In connection with the lumber deal he told Mr. Johnston that he didn't recall any specific quantity of lumber being mentioned. He was positive that he heard every word of the conversation.

The prosecution called two paper dealers who identified the papers used in the X.Y.Z. letter and enclosures as being the same brands as certain other papers which are among the exhibits. In this connection it may be mentioned that the prosecuting counsel have had a mysterious stranger at their table since yesterday. He carries with him two leather cases, which, when open, disclose several instruments. He has busied himself examining many of the exhibits. The prosecuting counsel decline to divulge who he is or whether he will go in the box, but it is said that his name is Osborne and that he is an expert on writing—both manuscript and typewriting—and that he hails from Rochester.

The prosecution today called the first of the Government officials as a witness in the person of Miss Durkin, who was for a time a stenographer in Mr. Stratton's office.

It is beginning to look as if the prosecution did not intend to put either of the Sullivans in the box. It was predicted this morning that all the evidence for the prosecution would be in this week, and this prediction was strengthened by a ruling of the bench which excluded, for the present, at any rate, evidence such as Mr. Might, who merely had a conversation with Mr. Gamey in the summer might have given.

WHAT KINNEY HEARD.

The morning's proceedings were opened by the re-examination of [illegible] In it Mr. Price said that he did not pretend to relate the conversation between Gamey and Sullivan in order or sequence.

Mr. James Arthur Kinney followed. Mr. Kinney was the third witness who hid behind the pianos and heard the conversation between Sullivan and Gamey. Mr. Kinney, before giving his evidence, admitted to Chancellor Boyd that he had read the evidence of the Price brothers in the papers. He then related the dialogue already given by the witnesses of Thursday. He said he didn't pretend to give the exact words of the conversation between Gamey and Sullivan, nor was he able to follow the sequence of the story, as told by the Price boys. His evidence was considerably abridged, but in the main agreed with the testimony of the previous witnesses. Kinney was not nearly as good a witness as either of the Price boys, and he told his story in a disconnected, disjointed manner. He disagreed with his associates behind the pianos on a number of the details of the conversation.

Mr. Johnston cross-examined the witness. He said this was not his first detective work. He was not proud of it, nor particularly ashamed of it. He said he had always voted the Conservative ticket, and before attending Osgoode Hall taught school on Manitoulin Island. His motive in doing what he did was partly out of curiosity, and because he had been asked to go. He went of his own free will, and never thought of getting evidence to hurt the Government. He had no inkling of what was going to happen. He admitted having taken part in elections, and in public speeches had condemned the Ross Government, but didn't especially remember charging the Government with corruption. He never had a like conversation to remember; this was his first detective work. He remembered this special conversation, but could not recall any other conversation in his life, either before or after the 10th of March.

"I'd like to show the marvelous memories that we have heard," observed Mr. Johnston.

Mr. Johnston limited the witness to this week, and Kinney told him of a conversation he had yesterday with a fellow student at Osgoode Hall named Jameson about a book. Then he gave two others that occurred this week. He couldn't recall any previous to this.

Mr. Johnston asked him if he was aware that to repeat a disconnected conversation was very often misleading, to which the witness assented. He said he had his back to the piano and was about 18 feet away from the speakers, with the piano intervening.

"Under those circumstances, will you swear that you heard every word of both parties?"

"Yes. No word was said that I missed. We could hear everything."

GAMEY CONTRADICTED

Mr. Johnston asked the witness if he had heard Sullivan say to Gamey, "You want to be sure to get things right" and "You haven't got it down right." Kinney said he never heard the words used, and he heard everything.

Mr. Johnston—This would indicate to your mind that these fellows were concocting a story, that they were planning some story if the words were used.

The witness—I never heard the words.

Mr. Johnston—Yet young Price said yesterday they were used.

Mr. Johnston—Your impression was that Sullivan and Gamey wanted to agree on some story in connection with their deals?

The witness hesitated, and Mr. Ritchie complained that he was cut off in his answer.

The Chancellor—I don't think that he was cut off.

The question was put again, and Kinney said that he thought they wanted to agree on the story about Meyers and Clune.

Mr. Johnston asked Kinney whether Gamey had said anything about being made Minister of Mines, or when he should be made Minister of Mines.

"I didn't hear it," said the witness.

"Yet," reminded Mr. Johnston "you have told me that you heard everything."

"There were so many things I could not remember them all."

"Will you swear these words were not said?"

"No."

Asked concerning Gamey's assertion regarding shorthand notes of the meeting between Gamey and Sullivan the witness swore that no notes were taken.

As to Sullivan's influence with the Government, as shown in the talk with Mr. Gamey, it was witness' impression that Sullivan could get nearly anything he wanted, if he took it at once.

"Did Sullivan say that he could get $160,000 from the Government?"

"I never heard it."

"If it had been said, you would have heard it?"

"Yes."

According to witness the word "parcel" was not mentioned that night between Gamey and Sullivan. In this, of course, witness contradicted Gamey.

Continuing, Mr. Kinney admitted that he did not remember hearing several things which were sworn to as being said by either Gamey or Sullivan in the dialogue.

"It was said that Mr. Gamey might be Minister of Mines and Sullivan might give information that would lead to the unseating of several candidates. Now did you hear that?" asked Mr. Johnston.

Mr. Kinney said he heard nothing about a Minister of Mines being mentioned, but he heard something said about Sullivan having evidence to overthrow the Government. He and the Price boys, he said, had talked the dialogue over several times.

In re-examination before Mr Ritchie Mr. Kinney told the court that the trio were so closely cramped behind the pianos that they scarcely had room to breathe, and that Mr. Gamey kept scraping his feet about to prevent any noise that they might make being heard.

Mr. Crossin, of the Crossin Piano Company was recalled to give evidence about the area and dimensions of the room in which the conversation of Gamey and Sullivan took place. Mr. Johnston complained that the defence on three occasions had endeavored to secure admission to this room, but had been refused. Mr. Crossin explained that this was by mistake. He promised that admission could now be secured at any time, and left the box.

The defence examined the rooms yesterday afternoon.

THIS BARRED OUT.

John M. Might was the next witness. Mr. Might was to corroborate Mr. Gamey and relate the conversation in which he told Mr. Might that he had been approached by Sullivan.

"We will not allow the evidence," ruled the Chancellor. "A hundred and fifty witnesses might be brought to tell of conversations. Mr. Gamey has sworn to the facts, and unless there are acts connected with conversations in cases like this we cannot allow such evidence."

This ruling will apply to both sides, and as a result several witnesses left court.

STRATTON'S STENOGRAPHER.

Miss Durkin, formerly a stenographer in Mr. Stratton's office, was the next witness. She was examined by Mr. S. H. Blake, K.C.

She said in reply to his question that she had always torn up the note books in which she had taken her stenographic notes while in Mr. Stratton's office. She threw the pieces in the basket.

"Why did you do that?" asked Mr. Blake.

"In Mr. Lumsden's office, where I was formerly, it was the distinct rule to tear up our notebooks, and I assumed when I went into Mr. Stratton's office, that I should do the same thing."

She explained further that she always kept one book until she completed the next book, and that she used up about one book every three weeks.

"When you were asked to produce your stenographic notes, and could not, why did you not produce the copies of the letters you had made?" asked Mr. Blake.

"She has no control over them," said Mr. Johnston. It was arranged that Mr. Blake should furnish a list of the letters he wanted, and Mr. Stratton would produce them.

Miss Durkin was asked the name of the stenographer in the office in which Frank Sullivan had been employed.

"Miss O'Grady," she said.

Mr. Blake asked her numerous questions about the typewriters in use in the Parliament Buildings. Her own machine was a Densmore. She was asked if she could identify certain letters as having been written on her machine or on any other. She could not.

"Did you complain at one time of having some books taken out of your drawer?"

"No."

"I am informed that you did. What do you say to that?"

"You must have been wrongly informed," said Miss Durkin, smiling.

"And, of course, I can place absolute reliance on what you will say to me?" said Mr. Blake with much gallantness and some coyness.

[illegible] returned Miss Durkin. "I think she's supposed to tell the truth. Don't you?"

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Blake.

Miss Durkin said that she had never missed any books out of her drawer.

In cross-examination she said another stenographer would not likely be able to make out much of her notes.

TRACING THE PAPER.

Mr. W. P. Ryrie, paper merchant, was the next witness. As a tradesman of experience he was called upon to compare various sheets of paper which have appeared in the exhibits.

GAMEY'S BROTHER IN THE BOX.

The first witness in the afternoon session was Wilford Gamey, a brother of R. R. Gamey, M.P.P. He gave his home as in the Township of Campbell, seven miles from his brother's. He recalled being asked to go over to his brother's about the middle of August, and while there a man called. It was late then, and the man said he wanted to see Mr. Gamey, who was in bed. The witness roused Mr. Gamey, who dressed and went out with the caller. In the light of subsequent events he was sure that the caller was Captain John Sullivan. Witness did not know what time his brother returned, but the next day he drove to Gore Bay with his brother and nephew, when they met Captain Sullivan. They all went to Sudbury.

There was no cross-examination.

D. G. Sturrock, local manager for the C. P. R. Telegraph Co. produced a message sent to Gore Bay to R. Gamey, dated January 7th, which says: "Important that you be here on Thursday or Friday. Frank."

There was no cross-examination.

BANK ACCOUNTS.

Mr. Read, general manager of the Standard Bank of Toronto, produced copies of accounts, Patterson & Grant, and R. A. Grant. The originals are in the books of the head office.

After some discussion, participated in by counsel and court it was arranged that the books should be examined later.

Mr. Blake called Mr. B. W. Murray, accountant in the High Court of Justice at Osgoode Hall.

In substance Mr. Murray's deposition referred to the withdrawal of the petition against Mr. Gamey, and the return of the one thousand-dollar deposit to James Fraser Munroe's solicitors, Messrs. Kerr, Davidson, Patterson & Grant. Mr. Monroe was the petitioner.

There being no other of the prosecution witnesses present, the court adjourned at this point to resume at ten o'clock Monday morning.

CANADA RETALIATES UPON GERMANY.

Mr. Fielding's Budget Speech Reflects the Prosperity of the Dominion

Ottawa, April 18.—Mr. Fielding, in his Budget speech, expressed hope of wider trade arrangements with France, but his recital of the efforts of the Government to remove German discrimination against Canadian imports was followed by this announcement;

"We propose that as respects the dutiable goods, we shall insert in our tariff a clause to the effect that when any foreign country treats the imports from Canada on less favorable terms than the imports from other countries, then in such a case there may be imposed on the goods of such foreign country a surtax over and above the duties expressed in Schedule A of our tariff, which is commonly known as the general tariff, such surtax to be one-third of the duty so expressed in Schedule A of the general tariff. This clause is general in its terms, and may be applied at any time to any foreign country which treats Canadian products unfavorably. But we propose to apply it immediately to the case of Germany and it will take effect as respects all German goods in all the Custom Houses of Canada this morning: subject, however, to this qualification, that it shall not apply to any goods which have been actually purchased by any corporation or firm or person in Canada prior to this moment, for immediate transportation to Canada. With that qualification, at every Custom house in Canada to-day a surtax, will be imposed on German goods."

IN ANNUAL CONCLAVE

Superintendents of the C.P.R. Meet at Fort William

Fort William, April 17.—The semi-annual meeting of all the superintendents of the Canadian Pacific Railway east of Fort William was continued at the Windsor street offices to-day. The subjects discussed included summer time-tables, conditions of tourist travel and other matters connected with the summer traffic, which this year is expected to be larger than it ever has been before.

Among those present at the meeting were Mr. Thomas Tait, manager of transportation; Mr. C. E. Ussher, general passenger agent; Mr. Robt. Kerr, passenger traffic manager; Mr. O. W. Spencer, general superintendent eastern division; Mr. James Oborne, general superintendent Atlantic division; Mr. G. J. Bury, general superintendent Lake Superior division, and Mr. H. P. Timmerman, general superintendent middle division.

White School Not Obliged to Admit Negro

Topeka, Kan., April 18.—The supreme court to-day, decided that the Topeka board of education can maintain separate schools for white and negro children and can compel the negro children to attend the negro school. A colored man has taken his son to the white school and the pupil was refused admittance. Mandamus proceedings were then brought against the board to compel them to admit the negro.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Does a Happy Work for Our Women in Springtime

It Makes Them Strong, Vigorous Vivacious and Bright

Let us reason together dear reader if you are one of the many plodding along from day to day, weary, worn, exhausted and anxious. If you are sleepless, nervous, despondent, rheumatic, neuralgic or burdened with any of the spring ills that result from foul and impoverished blood, let us give you the positive assurance of certain and speedy cure. Paine's Celery Compound, nature's true spring medicine is what you need to prepare you for the joys and pleasures of life; nothing else can give you the blessings you so earnestly pray for. Its use means perfect freedom from the grave sufferings and perils that must come later, if you waste precious time. Miss Lizzie Muir, Quyon, P.Q., says:

"After suffering from dyspepsia for fifteen years and meeting with many failures with other medicines, I decided to use Paine's Celery Compound, having heard of so many cures by its use. The compound, after I had used it for a time, produced miraculous results and banished all my troubles. From a condition of helplessness—being unable to sleep or eat—I now feel well and strong. I am astonished at the results, as my trouble was an old and chronic one."

KRUGER IS DYING

Report has It That Days of Oom Paul and Steyn are Not Many

Montreaux, April 18.—If President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, lives through the summer, which is very doubtful, he will ask Chamberlain to permit him to return to South Africa. He has reason to believe that permission will be freely granted, as it is hoped that Steyn's presence will help to bridge over existing difficulties.

THE TURKISH EMPIRE MUST VERY SOON BE DISSOLVED

Russia Only Waiting an Excuse to Attack

OMINOUS CLOUDS IN THE FAR EAST

A War Involving Europe is at Hand

London, April 18.—The outlook for peace in the troublesome East is far from assuring. The Balkan uprising is said to be a formidable affair, and this with the troubles in Macedonia will give Russia an opportunity to step in. Whether or not her ambition for a slice of Turkey, including Constantinople, will be realized, will depend on England and Germany. It is believed that the crisis will be reached in a few days, which may set Europe aflame.

The Daily Post, in discussing the situation, says: That Turkey is a sick nation, and must eventually undergo dissolution, is apparent to the civilized world. Abdul Hamid's perfidious conduct in the past has created the impression that he is incapable of performing an honorable act. If the occupant of the Yildiz Kiosk were not a very intelligent person, he might ignore the persistent demands of the European powers with the thought that as the head of Islam, Christianity would not dare to drive the European Turks into Asia. Abdul Hamid is statesman enough to know that he can only put off the inevitable destruction of his empire, and knowing this, the world should credit him with fair intentions in his present attitude in the Macedonian imbroglio.

The joint demand of Russia and Austria for reforms in Macedonia has placed the Sultan in a very peculiar position. Even if he desires to be fair with the disaffected subjects, he plainly understands that the European powers, and Russia in particular, are only awaiting an excuse for an invasion of the Turkish territory, and that they are hoping to find the excuse in the persistent agitation among the Macedonian revolutionists. Abdul Hamid's wise counsellors might recommend reforms, troops might be sent into the disturbed districts for the purpose of maintaining order, but the hatred of the Mussulman's toward the Christians must be reckoned with.

The Macedonians do not want reforms so much as they want separation from the Turkish empire. If the Macedonian Central committee is not in league with Russia's agents, it is at least seeking to draw the Czar into a quarrel with Turkey. It may be that Russia will find in the death of M. Stcherbina, the Czar's consul at Mitrovitza, European Turkey, a casus belli. The fact that the consul was shot by a lawless Albanian would not deter Russia [illegible]many and Great Britain do not propose to let either Russia or Austria secure the lion's share of Turkish territory. The Sultan's empire deserves to perish; but in all justness, neither Russia nor Austria has sufficient excuse to proclaim war against Turkey at the present time.

Mrs. Maybrick's Chance of Release

London, April 16—It is not unlikely that Mrs. Maybrick, who is now finishing her fourteenth year of imprisonment in Aylesbury Women's prison will be released next year. It was definitely stated through the week that she would be released, but officials declined to confirm it. The basis for the report was due to the fact that the home office recently adopted a rule liberating well behaved life prisoners at the end of fifteen years' imprisonment, instead of twenty years, as heretofore. This rule would, if applied to Mrs. Maybrick, result in her release next year.

Her release under this rule would not involve the slightest concession to the opinion of the late Chief Justice Russell, to the American government or to important new evidence adduced after Mrs. Maybrick's continuation. If she was detained after completing her fifteenth year, it would lay open the home office to the accusation of dealing with the American woman with United States authority. The home office always resisted the efforts to secure Mrs. Maybrick's release. It is not believed, however, they will suspend the new rule and detain her after next year.

POLICE COURT

A Sad Case in which the Childrens' Aid Society Interfere

Yesterday there was a sad case before Police Magistrate Dumble, in which Mortimer Mowry and his wife were charged with neglect of their children. It appears that in September last both of the accused were drinking to excess, consequently making their home a very undesirable place for children. The children were consequently taken to the Shelter. In January last, they were returned as Mr. and Mrs. Mowry had promised to abstain from drinking intoxicating liquor. This week, Mr. Cochrane, agent for the Children's Aid Society, received intelligence that Mr. and Mrs. Mowry had been drinking for some time past. He visited the house, and found it in a very filthy condition, and again took the children to the Shelter. Mrs. Mowry was at the time very much the worse of liquor and strenuously resisted the officers. After some further witnesses were examined, the Police Magistrate enlarged the case for one week.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun conducted the prosecution, while Mr. E. B. [illegible] defended.

Consul Maxwell at San Domingo Tells About the Fighting There

Washington, April 18.—United States Consul Maxwell, at Santo Domingo City, has cabled the State Department under yesterday's date, that the insurgents had been driven into the city on the ninth inst., and that their batteries and infantry had then checked the advance of the government forces. The firing continued throughout the day and until 8 o'clock the following morning. The consul adds that missiles were flying [illegible] being written.

Asthma Can be Cured

Thousands of testimonials conclusively prove that Asthma can be permanently cured by inhaling Catarrhozone, a vegetable antiseptic that destroys at once the germs causing the disease. Catarrhozone gives immediate relief to the distressing cough and suffocating sensations, makes breathing easy and regular and insures undisturbed sleep. Catarrhozone cures Asthma that doctors are unable even to relieve, and can cure you. The Catarrhozone inhaler is made of hard rubber, fits into the vest pocket, can be used at work, in church, in the street, in bed—any place—at any time. Two months' treatment (guaranteed), price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ENDANGERING PUBLIC HEALTH

A Careless Physician Who Should be Brought to Book

Dr. Young, who is at present acting as Medical Health Officer, reports that a lady who keeps a boarding house, says that she was advised by her physician to say nothing about a case of contagious disease that was being treated in her house.

If these are the facts, then the individual who calls himself a doctor and is so unmindful of the public good and who is so utterly selfish, should be punished severely and his name given to the public so he might be shunned by all respectable citizens.

On the other hand, there should be no credence placed in mere gossip, lest some innocent physician should be deprived of his legitimate practice through the misrepresentations of some spiteful enemy.

We do not know who the parties are in this affair, but at any cost, let the facts be obtained and the guilty party punished. That any person having sufficient education and intelligence to legally enable him to practice as a physician would commit such an outrage against society, is almost beyond belief, neither is it less creditable that any lady should so far forget herself as to give circulation to such a story without any foundation of truth.

The Board of Health is to be congratulated on the energetic manner in which they have taken hold of and managed the recent outbreak of contagious diseases and we are content to leave this matter in their hands, believing that the wisest course will be followed and justice will be done not only to the suspected physician, but to the public at large.

THE BONES OF COLUMBUS

[illegible] Many Bones

Washington, April 18.—In the Dominican Republic series is a note addressed to the State Department by Mr. Powell, United States minister to that republic, telling of the courtesies extended to General Maximo Gomez on the occasion of the visit of the Cuban to Santo Domingo. As a testimonial of their regard for the general, the minister said, they allowed him to view "one of their sacred treasures by exposing to him the casket containing the bones of Christopher Columbus and permitting him to handle the same.

London Papers Say Canada is the Better Country

BOUNDARY DISPUTES

Canada is Some to Blame in the Past

London, April 18.—The London Chronicle, anticipating the budget speech of Hon. Mr. Fielding, comments on the abounding prosperity of Canada, and says;

"Canada now more than ever offers greater advantages for settlers than the United States."

The Morning Post combats the idea that Britain has always given Canada away in the boundary disputes with the United States and says;

"Canada herself, at least, is as much to blame for the loss of territory beyond the Rockies, seeing her failure seriously to attempt to occupy it with settlers. Similarly her lack of faith led to the establishment of American settlements at the front door of the Yukon."

The Post also expresses surprise that Canada, by her attitude on questions of Imperial defence, should allow herself to compare unfavorably with Natal and New Zealand, countries which are not nearly so rich in men and material resources, as the Dominion.

In this connection, John Morley, speaking lastnight at Montrose, said he had always thought that the colonies were not to be looked to, by any rational provident statesman for serious contribution to the Empire's burdens.

A DOURO WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Ethel J. Charlton to Mr. C. W. Garbutt

On Wednesday evening "Cedar Grange," the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William Charlton, of Douro, was the scene of a very interesting event, the occasion being the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Ethel Jane, to Mr. Charles Wellington Garbutt, of Douro. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock by the Rev. C. A Campbell, in the presence of about seventy guests. The bride, who was attired in a very becoming costume, was assisted by Miss J Hendren, while Mr. Samuel Charlton, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman. After the ceremony the assembled guests sat down to a most inviting wedding dinner, the evening being spent in games and social intercourse. The bride was the recipient of a large number of presents, amply testifying to the esteem and respect in which she was held by her many friends. The happy couple will take up their residence in Douro, and have the best wishes of a large number of friends for their future welfare and happiness.

OUR BOOM

A London letter in the Ottawa Journal, speaking of the work of Mr. Smart, Deputy Minister of the Interior, in England, says: The Department of the Interior has been taking the best possible advantages of Canadian boom at present so prominent in England, the result largely of the extensive notices which appear regularly in the newspapers. The attention now given in influential journals to Canada and Canadian affairs presents a pleasing contrast to the prevailing apathy and indifference prevailing in former years. Of late all the colonies have [illegible] certainly Canada has had a fair share of journalistic attention for some time past. British newspapers are gradually waking up to the importance of giving encouragement to any movement having for its object the turning of the tide of emigration in the direction of the "Greater Britain Beyond the Seas."

AGAINST THE UNITED STATES

The German agricultural party intends to revive the scheme for a continental customs union against American goods at the international agricultural congress, which will be held at Rome April 13-17. A leading member will move that the continental States make new treaties among themselves giving special favor to European goods against American goods, and also British goods, which fall under the ban because of the action of Canada and the South African colonies in favoring British goods. The motion will provide that the importer must prove that goods are of European origin, whereupon a lower duty will be collected than would be the case were they of non-European origin.

REMEDIES FOR CORRUPTION

Mr. George H. Watson, K.C, who has had much experience as counsel in election cases, outlines certain measures for the lessening of political corruption. The News has suggested enforced publicity to all election subscriptions, and this is the chief feature of Mr. Watson's proposition. He suggests that nomination day should be fixed at least thirty days before polling, and that the candidates should then name their fiscal agents. He would provide that no subscriptions, contributions or payments should be made or received by any person, firm or corporation for election purposes until after the day of nomination, and then only to and by the fiscal agent so appointed. He would require the agent to make return under oath of the amounts subscribed and paid and of the application of all such moneys. He would impose imprisonment without the option of a fine upon any one who would violate the provisions of the Act, and should make or receive any subscription, contribution or payment, directly or indirectly, for election purposes before nomination day and afterwards through any other person than such agent. Thus, Mr. Watson argues, sufficient money would be provided for legitimate purposes, the illegitimate supply would be cut off, and if the law were enforced the evil of corruption would be removed or at least greatly restricted.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

One of our little local evening contemporaries recently printed an item stating that "a corset company has just doubled its capital." In this connection this g.f.j. would rise to remark that the corset has come to "stay"—or bust.

There are said to be more than 20,000 French Canadians in Lowell, Mass., and 60 per cent. of them are employed in the mills. Thirty French Canadians are physicians and six are lawyers. The leading shopkeeper of the town is a French Canadian. He employs 150 persons.

The offers of rewards by a newspaper in Salem, Mass., for the collection of nests of the brown-tail moths was so effective that within two weeks 140,215 nests were brought in. One lad collected 19,314 nests and won the first prize, $25. The next largest number was 18,344, for which the second prize, $15, was paid.

The Massachusetts legislative committee on agriculture met Monday afternoon and voted to report a bill appropriating $250,000 for the extermination of the gypsy moth. The bill has not yet been drafted, but will provide that the expenditure shall be by the State board of agriculture and that it shall be spread over the next three years.

It is announced that 150 acres of grape vines will be planted during the coming season in the vicinity of Dowagiac, Mich., and many acres more in various parts of the State. The lower peninsula of Michigan is well adapted to the business of grape growing. Its vineyard acreage is increasing from year to year, and will some time be a formidable competitor in the market.

Henry Stevens, of Laconia, N. Y., an extensive breeder of fancy stock, recently paid $4,000 for a nine-weeks-old bull calf from the Brotherton Stock Farm. The mother of the calf is Sadie Vale Concordia, holder of the world's seven and thirty-day records for milk and butter production. The sire is Berly Wayne, a prize-winning bull. The calf was born on Jan. 23, and the price paid is believed to be the largest amount ever paid for a nine-weeks-old animal.

A Chicago dispatch states that the demand from the East last week has been remarkably good for all fresh milk cows and forward springers. Dairymen in the vicinity of Buffalo, Cincinnati and Brooklyn have had urgent orders for all the good cows available, and local dealers have not been able to secure as many as were needed. Prices have ruled high, and are at the highest point of the season. Several choice cows sold at $55 to $65 and carload lots went at $45 to $50. There was also a brisk enquiry for the secondary grades, which [illegible] but the common kinds went on about the basis of what they were worth as butcher stock. Dealers say that the prospects are that the demand will be very good all spring.

Exercise in Dancing.

An amateur statistician, who believes in dancing as a winter pastime, has been calculating the distance covered by dancers in the course of an evening. He finds that a waltz of average duration represents, approximately, a run of a thousands yards. This is the longest dance, with the exception of the quadrille, which, with its four figures, covers nearly 1,800 yards. The mazurka is only equivalent to about 900 yards, and the polka to 800, while the lazy pas de quatre is barely 700 yards. Carrying his statistical ingenuity further, he estimates that the usual series of dances at an ordinary ball, beginning at 10 p.m. and finishing at 5 a.m., represents no less than 6,000 steps, equivalent to nearly thirty miles on level ground. Admitting that dancers are few in these degenerate days who go conscientiously through the entire list of dances provided for their entertainment, the fact remains that each man (and woman) who does his (or her) duty, accomplishes a very respectable amount of exhilarating exercise. The value of exercise from a physiological point of view is greatly enhanced by the exhilarating effects, and this is one reason why the daily "constitutional" fails to yield the health-giving effects of cycling, golf or dancing, the only drawback to the last-named being the lack of fresh air and sunlight, which adds so materially to the enjoyment and salutary effects of all forms of outdoor exercise.

A WOMAN'S PRAYER.

It is notable that in the despondency caused by womanly diseases, there seems to many a suffering woman no way of escape from pain except at the price of life itself. It would be sad to record such a story of struggle and suffering except for the fact that in such dire distress many a woman has found a way back to health and happiness by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This great remedy for womanly ills has well been called "A godsend to weak and sick women." It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"Your medicine almost raised me from the dead," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Egypt, Plymouth Co., Mass., Box 14. "My urine was like brick dust, and I had pain all over me and such a dragging feeling it seemed I could not do my house work. I had to sit down to wash the dishes, even. In the year 1897 I was so sick I did not care to live and prayed many times that God would take me. One day I found a little book. I read it and wrote to Dr. Pierce, and in a few days received an answer. I decided to try his medicine, and to-day I am a well woman. I have no backache, no headache, no pain at all. I used always to have headaches previously to the monthly period and such pain that I would roll on the floor in agony. I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and three of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and was completely cured."

JOHN MORLEY ON THE IRISH QUESTION

The Land Bill Marks New Chapter in Irish Situation

ATTITUDE OF THE NATIONALISTS

Are Very Much Annoyed at the Constant Liberal References to Home Rule

New York, April 16.—The correspondent of the New York Tribune in London cables: The anomalous condition of affairs as regards the relationship of the Nationalists with the two great English political parties receives a fresh illustration every day. Mr. Redmond's caution to the Liberals not to wreck the Land Bill by untimely remarks about Home Rule is being utterly disregarded.

John Morley, the sturdiest supporter of Gladstone's Home Rule Bill, addressing his constituents at Montrose last night, maintained that whatever consequences might follow from the transfer of the soil of Ireland, amongst them must be the strengthening of the principle of the policy of Irish self-government.

Morley, like other leading Liberals, is anxious to discredit the Government in the eyes of the British people, by demonstrating that the Land Bill is merely a prelude to a new Home Rule bill. The Irish Nationalists disapprove this Liberal view, as they fear that it may lead to Premier Balfour's [illegible] and they know that no Liberal Ministry would dare to introduce a Land Bill so far-reaching as Secretary Wyndham's, as it certainly would be thrown out by the same Tory Lords who will more or less cheerfully accept the present measure.

I learn that Col. Lynch's friends are greatly concerned about his health. Imprisonment and hard labor is not agreeing so well with him as it did with the patrician convict, Lord William Neville. Lynch has lost weight as well as spirits, and his friends are saying that his health is failing rapidly, and that he may not live long enough to be pardoned by a special act of grace of the King after the Royal visit to Ireland.

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease very common to the American people, but now quickly remedied.

A SURE CURE.

In a case of Nervous Dyspepsia a doctor sees two things, first, that the digestion is deranged, and second that the nerves are in a starved, irritable condition.

If abreast of the times, and in touch with the latest discoveries the doctor is sure to advise Ferrozone which is now universally prescribed in cases of acute Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Ferrozone is prepared specially for diseases of the stomach and bowels, and as a sure cure for Nervous Dyspepsia has proved itself a thousand times to be superior to all others.

Where Ferrozone is taken after each meal, it is impossible for Dyspepsia, or Indigestion to exist. It digests the food before it has had time to ferment in the stomach, and by its regular use one is enabled to eat and drink anything at any time, without fear of bad results.

Ferrozone relieves that distressing headache, and burning feeling in the stomach peculiar to dyspepsia. It regulates the action of the bowels, kidneys and liver; strengthens the nerves and makes the sad looking dejected dyspeptic feel like a new man in twenty-four hours.

The general manager of a Toronto Manufacturing Company, who used Ferrozone with very marked results, says: "The strain of conducting a large business brought on a siege of Nervous Indigestion about a year ago, which I endeavored in vain to shake off. Doctors told me only a complete rest would cure me, but not being able to spare the time, I used Ferrozone instead. It perfectly restored my good health in a short time. I have confidence in the merits of Ferrozone, and am pleased to recommend it."

What Ferrozone can do for you can be best proved by giving it a trial. Every reliable druggist recommends and sells it, price 50c. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress that Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year: The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Hastam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermilion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 300,000 acres of specially chosen lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 209 London Street.

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

"And yet, not an hour later, no, nor half an hour, I found him raving!"

Here Norma did glance up quickly, but she did not speak.

"I have not the least doubt," went on Dr. Wharles, "that the questions which Lady Darwen began to put to the lad the instant she was alone with him, the words with which she prompted him, upset his weakened reason, and caused him to say, in his delirium, things which, when he was calm, he would never have dreamt of."

Norma glanced from the doctor to the patient in the bed, and laughed a little.

"A very clever explanation, Dr. Wharles," said she in a low voice, "as might have been expected from you." Then she turned upon him suddenly, her eyes flashing fire. "I can trust you now," said she, in a voice not much louder than before, but very firm and determined, "because I'm not leaving him alone with you, and because, if he were to die to-night, you might find it difficult to explain away my explanation." She turned away from him as abruptly as she had turned towards him, and saying simply: "Good-night, Mrs. Raggett," ran out of the house to her lodging.

She would have liked to go to the police station that very night, but she dared not trust herself out alone in the dark along the road. She felt also that there was no need now to fear an immediate attack upon poor Ned; as she had said, the matter would look too suspicious, when her story came to be heard. She lay awake, however, wondering what the doctor's next step would be, and whether he would have Mrs. Raggett for a foe or an ally when she, in her turn, should hear her stepson's delirious words.

On the following morning, before ten o'clock, she was in the town, on her way to the police station. She passed Dr. Wharles, starting on his rounds in his gig; and if he felt any uneasiness at sight of her, he certainly concealed it very well, as he raised his hat and smiled at her as if she had been one of his favorite patients.

Her story to the superintendent was soon told: how she watched by the sick boy, the words he uttered, the entrance of the doctor, his suspicious behavior, her action in shutting and bolting him out, his accusations of her on the return of Mrs. Raggett.

After listening attentively the superintendent decided to go at once to the cottage, and to see whether the lad was in a condition to bear interrogation, and, failing that unlikely contingency, whether he was in proper hands.

On reaching Mrs. Raggett's cottage, however, the first person whom the official saw was Dr. Wharles himself, who was standing by the bedside talking to Mrs. Raggett.

The doctor appeared to be delighted to see him.

"Ah!" he said, "we've got a case for you here, I'm afraid."

"Indeed, doctor?"

"Yes. Here's a sick lad been sent out of his mind by the injudicious treatment of a lady whose zeal outran her discretion."

"You mean Lady Darwen? It is on her information I have come."

"I thought so. She plied him with questions and her own fancies last night till she had the lad in raving delirium, and then turned me out of the house when I came to see if I could do anything for the poor lad."

"Well, ladies are hasty, aren't they, doctor?" [illegible]

"Yes, but there ought to be limits to their hastiness when human life is at stake," said Dr. Wharles sonorously.

"I quite agree with you. Let me see how the lad is this morning."

"Oh, very cool and comfortable, as you see. His stepmother, Mrs. Raggett, has been performing a real mother's part to him, and has sat up with him all night."

To everybody's amazement, the lad, who had been lying with his eyes closed, to all appearance fast asleep, said suddenly:

"That's a lie. She wasn't wi' me for more'n a few minutes."

The doctor looked rather startled; Nance Raggett turned white. The superintendent walked to the bedside.

"So you can hear what one says, and understand, eh, my lad?" said he.

Before Ned could answer, the doctor interposed sharply:

"I must forbid you to put any questions to him at present. He is in my care, and I couldn't answer for the consequences if he were to be subjected to an interrogatory now."

The doctor and the policeman looked each other full in the face, and the latter had to give way.

"Right you are, doctor. Then you answer for his safe-keeping till he is well enough to be examined?"

"I do," said Dr. Wharles firmly.

CHAPTER XXIII.

For the next few days Dr. Wharles drove up regularly in the morning and again in the afternoon to Raggett's cottage, and Norma heard from Mrs. Giles that his reports upon Ned's condition were in every way satisfactory. The lad was going on so well, indeed, that the doctor declared he would very shortly be well enough to be re-examined by the police. And the doctor took particular care to call every day upon the superintendent to report progress.

Perhaps that official was not wholly at the mercy of the medical man for the information he received about the Raggetts and their doings. At any rate, when Nance Raggett started for a trip to the seaside, and took the precaution to go at night, taking Ned with her, she was met before she reached the railway station by a policeman, who courteously suggested that she should accompany him to the superintendent's office to answer a few questions, before proceeding on her journey.

Ned, who looked very white, and indeed wholly unfit to take a journey, began to shiver violently.

"Don't you be afeard, boy; no harm will happen to you," said he. "You've only got to speak out, and tell the truth, and you'll be protected, never fear."

They were walking back in the direction of the police station, but it was clear from the furtive glances Ned cast around him that he was on the lookout for an opportunity of running away. That opportunity, however, was not given him.

Mrs. Raggett was sulky and alarmed.

"Protected!" echoed she. "He doesn't want no protection, 'ceptin' from ladies as ought to know better than coom meddling wi' other folks' affairs! It was my Lady Darwen, I make no doubt, as put ye cop to stopping us!"

"Oh, no," said the officer with a smile, "we can depend on our own eyes."

"What do ye want wi' us?" cried she, stopping short defiantly.

"Well, as we shall be wanting to hear the lad speak at the inquest again, we might as well know where you're going to, and why you were going away at night," said the policeman.

When they got into the presence of the superintendent, Nance Raggett was very fluent, Ned very taciturn. Nance declared she had heard nothing during her stepson's delirium to make her think he knew more than he had owned to knowing: the lad himself said sullenly that, if anybody had said he talked about the murder in his illness, he remembered nothing about it, and he was not responsible for the fancies he might have had then.

It occurred to the superintendent to think that this phrase must have been suggested to the lad by someone with a clearer brain than his own, but he made no remark.

"I think, Mrs. Raggett, if I were you," he said, when she had told him an elaborate story of the arrangements she had made for a fortnight's stay at Southport, "I would go back home to-night, and put off the journey to Southport until this lad is a little stronger."

It was a piece of advice which she had no choice but to take. But it was with pale faces and downcast mien that the two went back to the cottage in the lane.

On the following morning, instead of the doctor's calling on the Raggetts, it was Nance who called upon the doctor.

And instead of Mrs. Raggett's taking a holiday with her stepson, it was the doctor who packed his portmanteau, and, with his wife, went away, in a day or two, rather unexpectedly, for a week in London.

There was some talk among the neighbors about this sudden holiday, taken without much notice upon the plea of Mrs. Wharles' need of change. And rumors got about, which culminated in a general wonder whether the doctor would be back in time for the adjourned inquest on the body of Tom Rogerson.

When the great day came, the court was, if possible, more densely packed than ever. People of note in the county were accommodated with seats in that part of the court usually reserved for the jury and witnesses and others directly concerned in the case. Every eye was bright with excitement; every ear was strained for hearing what new evidence the police might have to bring to light.

There were certain fresh witnesses to be heard first.

There was a young woman, to state that she saw two men go over the fields on the night of the murder, in the direction of the plantation at Darwen Haigh: the foremost of them she knew by his slight limp to be Sir Astley Darwen, but of the identity of the one who followed she professed not to be sure.

On account of the way in which Sir Astley's name had been dragged into the case, Mr. Capper appeared in court on the young baronet's behalf, and put a few questions to some of the witnesses.

"Where were you when you saw these two men going across the fields?"

"I were goin' home across t' fields, by t' track as goes reght across t' footpath from Blackdale."

"And how far were you from the men?"

"About as far as from one end of this court to t' other."

"I see. And there was still enough light left for you to recognize Sir Astley?"

"Ay. He has a little limplike in his walk. I'm main sure it was him."

"And the second man? Was he far behind? How far would you say?"

"He was nigh as fur from Sir Astley as I was mysen from Sir Astley when I first see him."

"Very good. And after seeing Sir Astley, you had been walking on all the time? You hadn't stopped?"

"Nay, I hadn't stopped."

"Then you must have been considerably nearer to the second man than you had been to the first, to Sir Astley?"

There was a slight sensation in the court. [illegible] young woman, with the clear, hard gray eyes of the typical Northerner, grew nervous, apparently for the first time, and looked down.

"You were nearer, were you not?"

"Ay, I suppose I must ha' been."

"Yet you recognized Sir Astley, but

The Telephone Newspaper.

In the November "Pearson's" is described an invention which may revolutionise the present method of newspaper publication. The article says:

"One of Bellamy's boldest conceptions was his idea of a speaking, singing, lecturing, and concert-giving 'newspaper.' He dreamt of the time when people would no longer go to the printed newspapers for their day's news, but to the telephone receivers. It will come as a surprise to most to learn that this fancy has been actually realised in Budapest, Hungary, where a telephonic daily has been in active operation for some time.

"Every day, from eight in the morning to eleven at night, the 'Telefon-Hirmondo' is busy sending the news of the world, hot from the wires, into its subscribers' homes. In the editorial rooms six 'stentors,' or speakers, with strong, clear voices, speak the 'copy' into the transmitters.

"At definite hours, concerts, or the performances of the Royal Opera or of the Municipal Operetta Theater, are to be heard through the ear-tubes. Eminent preachers, speakers, or actors tell their stories to enormous audiences scattered over the city. A list of strangers' arrivals, the correct astronomical time, and a list of amusements, are among the many features of this marvelous institution.

"The exact time for each of the news items is strictly regulated, and is announced to the subscribers every morning. Thus, each subscriber need only listen to the news that particularly interests him, and can always be sure of hearing it at the predicted minute. In case, however, of particularly important news coming to hand, it is immediately announced, and special alarm signals are rung."

John Chinaman as a Lightning Calculator.

A social observer of humorous sympathies reports to "Listener" of the Boston "Transcript" a trait of a Chinese servant employed in a suburban family, which reveals a certain capability for ready assimilation with American methods of dealing with the tramp problem. A hungry tramp called one Monday afternoon at the kitchen door, and was promptly challenged by John. To John the tramp told his tale of woe, ending with a humble petition for something to eat.

"Like fish?" asked John, in insinuating tones.

"Yes, I like fish," the tramp answered.

"Call Friday," said John, as he shut the door, with a smile imperturbable.

Montreaux, April 16.—If President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, lives through the summer, which is very doubtful, he will ask Chamberlain to permit him to return to South Africa. The heads of the Steyn and Kruger households exchange daily bulletins on the condition of the ex-presidents. It is thought here that Kruger's days are numbered, and Steyn is not much better.

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

STOCK VALUES

Have been continually unmercifully hammered for the past 60 days; prices have been driven below normal average figures.

Natural demand under adverse local temporary conditions has sustained values generally around going prices for two weeks past. Clique support is plainly discoverable; insiders have been steady buyers. The average of values is no lower than two weeks ago, yet we have been flooded with "Bearish" predictions, and the market has been the conscious object of Bear attack. Stocks are now a good purchase; we will be pleased to tell you the stocks likely to show the best profit if purchased immediately and will send you gratis, upon request, both our 400-page 1903 "GUIDE TO INVESTORS," and our "DAILY MARKET LETTER," one posts you in detail regarding Wall Street, its methods, securities, etc., the other informs you daily as to the probable immediate movement of the market.

We solicit your marginal or investment business placing at your disposal our statistical department advices appertaining to any and every speculation or investment security.

SIGNIFICANT FACTS

New York, April 17.—There are times when all signs fail. It is not actually a failure, but a delay in in the appearance of results coming from existing causes, owing to overshadowing factors, which though but local, for the time being rule the situation. The real factors that are permanent in character ultimately rule the situation. Much stress has been laid by the bears upon the increased wages now being paid by the railways, they saying that it would greatly decrease net earnings consequently decrease values. If their statements were true, the net results they suggest would probably prove true, also let us see what the actual facts are, the gross earnings are growing at a rate that offsets the increase in the cost of labor and supplies and the expenditure from gross income for improvements. This is proven from the fact that net earnings are really improving and actually upon comparison with enormous showings the previous year. This tendency exists all over the country. Illustrative look at the gain by Baltimore and Ohio in March, amounting to $504 060. The February gain of Missouri Pacific, amounting to $373,755. The gross earnings of the two roads increasing $733,206 and $568,955 respectively. Net gains now represent no small part of the improvement in gross gains. The American roads are now in better physical condition than ever before to handle at minimum cost an enormous traffic. Expenditures on property made in the past five years have increased earning power, and have placed the companies in a position to move greater loads at much less cost. The recent liquidation has most drastically cleaned up the weak spots in the market, reaching the weak holdings and placing them in the hands of more powerful people. Values are at a point which greatly stimulates investment purchases. In the past week our house had purchased more stocks for cash outright for clients than for any week since May, 1901. This is a most significant fact and would indicate that other houses have had the same experience. The attitude of the public towards the market, as we find it in our numerous offices, must mirror their attitude all over.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

Profitable Investment for Small Capital—A Splendid Opportunity

Hinsdale, Valley County, Montana, April 17.—A few days ago there was filed with the Secretary of State, of Montana, Articles of Incorporation of the Anchorage Live-Stock Co., of Hinsdale, Valley County, Montana. This is a co-operative association to enable a number of farmers living near Hinsdale to co-operate with persons having idle money.

It offers an exceptional opportunity for investment by the man or woman of moderate means to invest their savings by monthly payments and in a place where the interest or dividend will be all that could be desired.

T[illegible]ock business of northern Montana is one of the safest and most profitable investments, 25 to 50 per cent. being realized in many instances. This association feels fully able to realise from 25 to 30 per cent. yearly upon capital invested.

In the Anchorage Live-Stock Co. the plans provide for an abundance of hay each year by irrigation for winter feed, avoiding every chance of loss.

An investigation reveals the fact that the Company has been organized upon a practical business basis; practical hard headed business men are at the head with practical stock men in charge of the stock. 1000 head of steers will be handled this year, and ultimately 5000 cattle and 10,000 sheep, envolving an expenditure of fully $100,000.

The Association and its officers are well recommended by business men and banks of the Milk River Valley, being spoken of as energetic, capable business men of well and long known integrity and ability.

We predict that investments made in the Co-operative Association will be profitable and safe. Interested parties should communicate with them.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

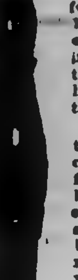
ASTHMA CURED

Mrs. Farndel, Clementsport, N. S., suffered all her life from asthama, but was permanently cur by Catarrhozone after all other means failed.

Mrs. Farndel's recovery affords overwhelming proof of what Catarrhozone will do. Nothing except Catarrhozone was of the slightest benefit, but when given a fair trial it cured.

Now perhaps you need something for your cold or bronchitis or Asthma? Why not try Catarrhozone? Thousands have been cured by inhaling it a few minutes now and again, and certainly it won't do you any harm to profit by their experience.



Mrs. Farndel gives the following statement of her case for the benefit of others who are suffering from asthma and hopes that many will follow her example and use Catarrhozone.

"I am now in my eightieth year and cannot recall the time when I was free from the Asthma. I had always a chocking cough, feverishness, spasms, difficulty in breathing, headache and nausea. My druggist advised Catarrhozone one day, and I bought a large outfit. It gave me relief in five minutes and helped me very much in one day.

"I inhaled Catarrhozone ten minutes every hour, and by the time two bottles were used, I was completely cured. I am as free now from Asthma, as if I never had it. My perfect recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. I prize my Catarrhozone Inhaler next to life itself.

(Signed) MRS. T. FARNDEL."

This is proof positive that Catarrhozone is a sure and speedy cure for the worst kind of Asthma. It is guaranteed to give satisfactory results, and your money will be refunded if it fails. All you need is a trial of this grand preparation to be quite satisfied and convinced that it is the best. Your druggist recommends and sells it. Price $1.00, small size 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A GOOD PROPOSITION

A Good Opportunity for Canadian Investments

We call attention to the advertisements of the Kries-Town-Larsen Company, of Tacoma, Washington, to be found on our financial page. This Company is splendidly officered, the Board of Directors being composed of Tacoma's leading citizens.

The consolidation of very valuable mines, not prospects, but developed mines, with rich ore bodies sufficiently exposed that the values can be almost determined. Nine properties embracing twenty-seven mining claims and 6,320 acres of the most valuable oil land in the State of Washington, is presented to the Canadian investor as a proposition that merits consideration.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Reynold's, the World's Secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, purposes spending three weeks in Canada, commencing the latter part of April. It is expected that she will be in Peterborough April 29th and 30th. Full particulars as to public meetings will be published later. The regular Gospel meeting on Sunday at 4.15 will be held by Miss A. B. Patterson. Subject, "The Walk to Emmaus." A cordial invitation to be present, is extended to all young women.

Pimples, Blotches and Skin Eruptions

How unsightly, sometimes even disgusting, and certainly very mortifying to the sufferer. They are merely an evidence of impure, poisoned blood, and lowered vitality of the elementary organs, which can be quickly changed by taking Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone cleanses the blood of all poisons and eruptions, makes it rich in red corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy, ruddy complexion. To have a pure, soft skin and good complexion, simply use Ferrozone regularly. Price 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50, at Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

BORROWAD A PACKAGE

And Learned the Scientific Value of Pure Food

Taking notice of little things is a valuable faculty in life and many great discoveries have sprung from a humble source indeed.

"One day," says a lady of Norwich, N.Y., a sister of the County Judge and Surrogate of Chenango County, "I noticed on a grocer's shelf the now familiar package of Grape-Nuts. I asked him to let me see it, read what it had to say for itself, paid the 15 cents required by the merchant and became its possessor.

"At this time I had lost my desire for food having suffered so terribly from indigestion and all of its attendant evils that no food agreed with me or attracted me. But from the time that I began to eat my first package of Grape-Nuts I began to improve, eating it every morning and frequently at noons and nights.

"I very soon found my whole strength coming back to me with an added force. I gained in flesh and also found I could eat what others did with relish without any ill effects following. In short it has changed my life.

"A few weeks since I visited a niece in Penn. whose stomach refused to care for any food put into it. Rice, whole wheat bread and other foods had to be pumped out ten hours after eating. I suggested Grape-Nuts and she ate it and when the contents of her stomach were syphoned out there was no trace of Grape-Nuts to be found; it had digested and assimilated. She made great gains in strength and flesh while I was there and made the six mile ride to Scranton three times, something she had not been able to do for three months previous." AN AFTER-EASTER WEDDING

Nuptials of Miss Alice Forsythe and Mr. James Griffin

On Wednesday evening last the residence of Mr. George Forsyth, Smith, was the scene of a very pretty home wedding when his second eldest daughter, Mary Alice, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. James Griffin, of Hamilton township, formerly of Peterborough. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Mr. Robertson, of Peterborough.

The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of cadet blue and white silk, trimmed with applique and Valenciennes lace, and carried a beautiful boquet of white roses and carnations. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Etta, who wore a dress of cadet blue which was trimmed with all over lace and applique; she carried a boquet of pink carnations.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests to the number of about fifty partook of a sumptuous wedding dejeuner after which the evening was spent in singing and parlor games. The presents received were numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the contracting parties were held by their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin will take up their residence in Hamilton. The Times extends its hearty congratulations.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. Percy Strickland, Lakefield, was in town yesterday.

—Mr. R. H. McGill was in Toronto this week attending a meeting of the Master Horseshoers' Association.

—Toronto Globe:—Miss Irene Noble, of Peterborough, is a guest at "Berwick Hall," Jarvis street.

—Mr. Joe Welch, of the Patterson Candy Company, Toronto, who has been visiting at his home here for the past few days, returned to Toronto yesterday.

A letter received yesterday from Dr. Bingham, who is staying in Toronto for a few days, states that he is almost completely restored to health, and will be able to resume his duties as Medical Health Officer about the end of the present month. The Doctor's many friends will be greatly pleased with this intelligence.

THERE'S HEALTH FOR YOU

There's health for you in the dish of Malt Breakfast Food that you use at the morning meal. If you have dyspepsia, indigestion or a deranged stomach, sure relief is found in Malt Breakfast Food, the only cereal food made according to nature's plans. The action of the Malt on the starch of the Wheat supplies the action in which the weakened stomach is defective, and the result is restored digestive vigor, regained health and growing strength. There is no other cereal food that goes so far to satisfy the needs of the body and brain. One package makes a meal for twenty-five people. Your Grocer will strongly recommend Malt Breakfast Food.

A sale of work, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St Paul's Church, will be held in the School Room Tuesday, April 21st, commencing at 3 p.m. High tea will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

THE BLUE BUTTON CLUB

Another Temperance Society Formed at Grace Sunday School

In connection with Grace Sunday [illegible] temperance organization known as the Blue Button Club, with the main object of getting the young folks to pledge themselves against strong drink. Quite a number have signed this pledge, and among them are some grown up men and women. The following is the pledge:

"I promise by the help of God, to abstain from intoxicating liquor as a beverage and will endeavor to win some one to do the same."

Each member wears a little blue button with a white cross on its face, the blue standing for temperance, and the white cross for Christian; thus it is a Christian Temperance Club.

The first quarterly meeting was held on Thursday evening, and took the form of an entertainment with the following program:

Opening hymn.
Prayer by Rev. J. A. Wilson
Chairman's remarks—Mr. J. J. Hartley.
Zonophone selection—W. Dredge
Recitation—Miss Hazel Pentland.
Solo—Miss Bertha Parnell.
Address—Rev. J. A. Wilson
Solo—Mr. John Miller.
Zonophone selections.
Recitation—Miss Mabel Pringle.

The object of the club was explained by Mr Geo. W. Powell, and several young people signed the pledge and received their little button.

The officers of the Club are:

Hon. President—Mr. J. J Hartley
President—Walter Dredge.
1st Vice-Pres.—Miss M. Detcher.
2nd Vice-President—Miss Marion Hilliard.
Secretary—Miss L. Higgins.
Treas.—Mr. Geo. W Powell

The address of the Rev. Mr. Wilson was very interesting. He based his remarks on the account of David slaying the giant with a small stone and a sling, and he told the young boys that there was a big giant nowadays just as there was in David's time and this giant was strong drink, and the stone he wanted them to throw at it was "never take the first drink" stone and by so doing would grow up to be strong and useful men.

A Painful Accident

At the C.G.E. works yesterday afternoon the son of Mr. L. Patterson met with a serious accident while operating a saw. The young lad's sleeve came in contact with the revolving machinery with the result that his hand was drawn in and almost severed from the arm at the wrist.

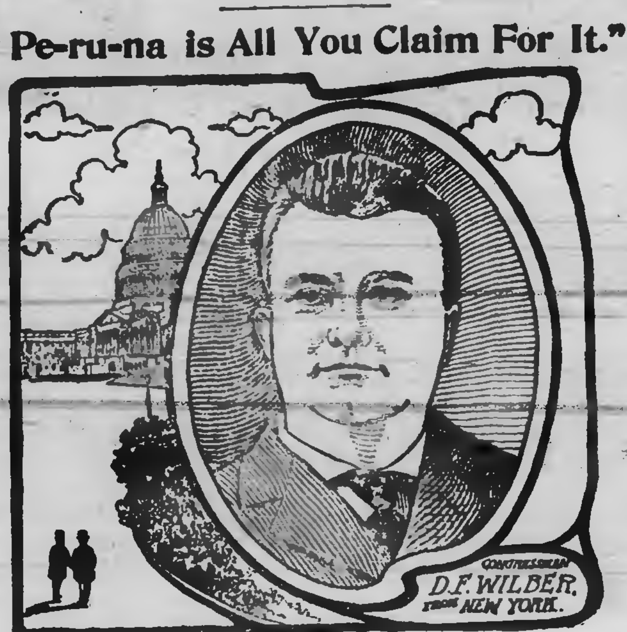
CONGRESSMAN WILBER SAYS

[To The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., of Columbus, O.]

"Pe-ru-na is All You Claim For It."



Congressman D. F. Wilber, of Oneonta, N. Y. writes:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—"Persuaded by a friend I have tried your remedy and I have almost fully recovered after the use of a few bottles. I am fully convinced that Peruna is all you claim for it, and I cheerfully recommend your medicine to all who are afflicted with catarrhal trouble."—David F. Wilber.

Peruna a Preventive and Cure for Colds.

Mr. C. F. Given, Sussex, N. B., Vice President of "The Past-time Boating Club," writes:

"Whenever the cold weather sets in I have for years past been very sure to catch a severe cold which was hard to throw off, and which would leave after-effects on my constitution the most of the winter.

"Last winter I was advised to try Peruna, and within five days the cold was broken up and in five days more I was a well man. I recommended it to several of my friends and all speak the highest praise for it. There is nothing like Peruna for catarrhal afflictions. It is well nigh infallible as a cure, and I gladly endorse it."—C. F. Given.

A Prominent Singer Saved From Loss of Voice.

Mr. Julian Weisslitz, 175 Seneca street, Buffalo, N. Y., is corresponding secretary of The Sangerlust, of New York; is the leading second bass of the Sangerlust, the largest German singing society of New York and also the oldest.

In 1899 The Sangerlust celebrated its fiftieth anniversary with a large celebration in New York City. The following is his testimony:

"About two years ago I caught a severe cold while traveling and which settled into catarrh of the bronchial tubes, and so affected my voice that I was obliged to cancel my engagements. In distress I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had never used a patent medicine before, I sent for a bottle.

"Words but illy describe my surprise to find that within a few days I was greatly relieved, and within three weeks I was entirely recovered. I am never without it now, and take an occasional dose when I feel run down."—Julian Weisslitz.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

DEATH SPARES NOT THE IMMIGRANT

In Strange Land--Neither Does the Fakir Nor the Grafter

The Con Men are Operating in the Throngs at Winnipeg—Among Our People

Winnipeg, April 18.—There are many heartaches out here in the West. Grim Death stalks as relentlessly here amid the rushing thousands as he does in the East, though less is heard of the pathetic side of his ravages.

Two years ago, J. Trefontain, a Wolverine State man, emigrated to Dauphin. He did well, and this spring sent money to bring his wife and family of five children. At Gretna, en route, the eldest lad was stricken with fever. The place was crowded, and the mother, encumbered with four small children, was worried almost insane. The Customs officer gave up his own room to the sick boy and mother, and a sectionman tucked the other quartet in with his brood. This touch of kindness braced the little woman up, but in the morning came a harsh blow—a message from Dauphin saying the father of the family was dying.

Yesterday a Russian woman carried into the Immigrant Hall a bundle. To the caretaker she unwrapped it, and showed the corpse of a tiny infant. The child died near Fort William two days ago, but she told no one beyond the party. She sat in the car and nursed and crooned over that corpse as if the little one were alive and was waving its chubby hands. No Greek priest could be found, but after a missionary had prayed over the tiny corpse, an undertaker enclosed the child's body in a wee white coffin and carried it away. The mother uttered not a sound as the body disappeared from view. She gazed wistfully down the roadway, and there was a strange silence in the crowd of loafing immigrants about the steps. Women of every nationality crowded round the bereft Russ, and though she understood not their words, she appreciated what they would convey. When she wept, they wept in sympathy, and their own sturdy little ones stood and gazed in open wonder.

It is a mystery that more of the children of emigrants do not succumb. An Englishman brought out two little lads clad in blouse suits and with short stockings. Their bare legs were blue from the chilly wind. Though none of the Galician, Roumanian, or Doukhobor children wear stockings, their bare legs are well protected by long boots and long-skirted outher clothing. The legs of the long boots are in most cases stuffed with rags.

Winnipeg is beginning to feel the squeeze of this great trek to the Westward. All the cheaper hotels have been crammed for days, and now the larger hostelries like the Leland and Clarendon are putting cots in the corridors and in the parlors. In the cheaper hotels, the guests are placed five and six in a room, and many sleep in the hallways on blankets.

The boarding houses cannot admit another guest, and furnished rooms command from $25 to $40 a month. No one has yet slept in the streets, nor have any tents been pitched to shelter homeless ones. The tales of overcrowding from the Territories are still arriving.

"Love or money will not buy shelter at Saskatoon," said a traveller from up the Prince Albert branch. Rosthern, he said, was in the same predicament, and despite snow on the ground, many persons had made their beds outside. Fortunately, the weather is not over cold. Food, while not scarce, is an outrageous price. Meals usually worth 25 cents bring a dollar, and every man who has anything new settlers want is playing a straight hold-up game.

"Pay my price, or you don't get it," is the motto of the West this spring.

FAKIRS IN EVIDENCE.

Hard upon the heels of the multitude busses a swarm of parasites. All sorts of cheap jewelry fakirs and medicine men pester the rank and file, while bunco men and card sharps are working right and left among those who have money. Fortunately most of those amendable to the attentions of these handy men keep in close touch with the immigration officials and so are protected.

Main street, Winnipeg, in the vicinity of the station, looks like a section of Coney Island transplanted. Hurdy-gurdies, phonographs, and barkers salute you from a score of amusement parlors where picture machines, roulette wheels, and all manner of similar devices for assimilating stray dimes and quarters are in full operation day and night. Shooting galleries are as thick as darkies around a watermelon patch, and a greenhorn who shoots fairly well is baited on by rifle sharps until a good wager is made on the scores, and then he can bid a fond farewell to his little wad, for these fellows can make bullseyes in a string.

MR. J. W. LEONARD TALKS OF THE WEST

Freight Traffic on the Lakes is Growing Rapidly

CARING FOR SETTLERS

Satisfactory Accommodation Being Provided Despite the Immense Rush for Land

Montreal, April 18.—"The upper lake traffic of the Canadian Pacific Railway has now reached a point when it has become only the matter of a little time when a daily service will be established between Owen Sound and Fort William, instead of a tri-weekly service as at present," was the official announcement made to a press representative by Mr. J. W. Leonard, who has just been appointed assistant manager of the Canadian Pacific, with full control over the Western Division. Mr. Leonard who has been in town for the past few days, conferring with the management, will leave for Winnipeg to-night.

"One of the principal features in rapid growth in the western bound traffic. Up to last year the company was able to handle its western bound traffic in its own steamers, but this cannot any longer be done. The increase is easily explained by the fact that the people of the West have now become fairly prosperous and are anxious to add to the comforts of their homes. To do so they have to get what they want from the East. The daily service will undoubtedly be established just as soon as we can get the boats.

SETTLERS NOT DELAYED.

"Would you say that more satisfactory arrangements are now made at Winnipeg for settlers anxious to the increase of the lake traffic, con- [illegible]

"There is not any longer the same delay there used to be. The principal cause of this has been that large American Land Companies have come into the country and bought up large tracts en bloc in the Saskatchewan and Saskatoon districts, and after dividing the land went back to the Western States and sold it to intending settlers. The latter on their arrival, therefore, can continue right on to the lands they have secured without any delay whatever."

"Can you state approximately what profits have been made by such land companies?"

"I would not hesitate to say that in three months they must have doubled the capital invested.

"And the prospects of an increase in the business that will be done by the different hotels west of Winnipeg?"

"Last year the accomodation was not in any way equal to the demand and even in the early summer we led to notify applicants that no accommodation could be afforded. During the past winter the accommodation of nearly every hotel has been doubled, and yet we will barely be able to meet the demands. While a large number of the visitors are from the Western American States, there are always quite a few from the different Oriental countries.'"

GERMAN VIEWS UPON THE SURTAX LEVIED BY CANADA

One Berlin Paper Says Germany Will Reply With a Further Measure of a Tariff War Nature and Another Thinks It will Paralyze Competition in Canada

Berlin, April 18.—The Vossische Zeitung thinks it not improbable that the Canadian surtax against Germany will paralyze competition in Canada. It doubts whether Canadians will calmly acquiesce in the loss of the German market.

The National Zeitung says the attitude of Germany on the question is of great importance, as it concerns not only the case of Canada, but involves future German policy towards the scheme of a Customs union between the British colonies.

The Tageblatt predicts that Germany will reply with further measures of a tariff war nature.

English Press on Canadian Budget

London Times Agrees That the Preference is of Substantial Value to British Commerce and Adds That Germany Cannot Well Challenge the Precedent

London, April 18.—The Times, commenting upon the Canadian budget, says: "It indicates the unexampled prosperity of the Dominion, and is a source of genuine, hearty satisfaction with us at home." The Times entirely agrees with Mr. Fielding that Canada's preferential treatment of British goods has substantial value. It says it will be interesting to see how the surtax on German goods will work out in practice, and adds that Germany cannot challenge the precedent.

The Morning Post says Mr. Fielding is in a position that most Finance Ministers would envy, and adds that the question of preferential tariffs for the whole Empire is not easy. It would be unwise to change the whole fiscal system at the suggestion of Canada without consulting Australia, South Africa, and India. The Post says the colonies must remember that finance and defence go together. Canada cannot expect Britain to differentiate in her favor unless she helps to protect the joint commerce. If we be partners in business, we must be partners in expenses as well as in profit. It is only right that the colonies to have claim to preferential treatment, should give an adequate contribution to the cost of a strong navy.

The Chronicle says Canada began the quarrel with Germany. What else could Sir Wilfrid Laurier expect but retaliation? adds the Chronicle. The system of preferences, surtaxes, and retaliatory tariffs is sorry business. Canada and Germany may continue raising tariffs till the prohibition stage is reached. How much better off then will they be financially, commercially and politically?

The Daily Telegraph thinks the surtax directs the attention of Great Britain to the grave question of tariff for preferential trade within the Empire.

OIL IN COLORADO

A Proposition Which Canadian Investors Should Fully Investigate

Small wonder that capital is quick to interest itself in any newly discovered oil fields. Colorado is about to take its place among its sister States in the production of this most important article, and those who get in on the start are likely to reap a rich harvest.

The fields at Florence, about 60 miles west of Pueblo, have been producing oil for the past 20 years and very little has been said about it, but with the new discoveries made [illegible] tion of oil prospectors was called to the Boulder district of Colorado, and the discoveries and wells that have been opened up have surprised the world.

Oil in Colorado is no longer a theoretical problem, but an established fact, and the attention of capitalists has been attracted to this new field. Not only has oil been found in paying quantities in this district, but from a chemical analysis it shows it to be the highest grade of illuminating and lubricating oil found in the United States, and its commercial value is beyond question.

Many companies have been organized and active development work is going on throughout the oil belts of Colorado, and the oil is in great demand for refining purposes. In some places oil has found its way to the surface in numerous springs, extending over a wide territory, and sensational oil strikes are of frequent occurrence.

The excitement is akin to that of the early days of the oil discoveries in Pennsylvania, when fortunes were made in a day; the poor man of today was the millionaire of to-morrow, and nearly every one was interested in oil. Individuals in the oil belts, who formerly considered 160 acres of land to be a large realty holding, have staked out oil claims aggregating thousands of acres.

You can make some money by investing in the stock of the Two-Ten Oil Company, of Boulder, Colorado. This company have a twenty (20) year lease, or as long as oil is found, on 20 acres of proven oil land in Section 9 of the Boulder district. This section and the immediate vicinity have the best and the greatest number of producing wells in the entire field. The Two-Ten Well No. 1 came in to oil at 2,141 feet in January last and is now pumping and regular shipments are being made to the refinery. The intention of the Directors of the Company is to put down other wells as fast as they can and for that purpose they are now offering a block of the treasury stock.

It is a well known fact that wells producing only 15 barrels of oil per day in this district will pay over 100 per cent. profit on their cost. It is no longer a speculation for the company have proved that they have the oil on their ground and in paying quantities. With two or three wells pumping regularly it can soon pay dividends, every well put down increases the earning and paying capacity of the Company. This is purely a business proposition, managed and conducted by business men and for the interest of all the stockholders.

The illuminating oil fields of the East are gradually declining in importance, on account of the decreasing output, having been pumped for over 40 years, during which time immense fortunes have been reaped by those interested. The oil fields of Texas and California produce principally a fuel oil which has very little value for refining purposes. The demand for high grade crude oil is increasing every day, and the Colorado oil, especially the Boulder oil, has solved the problem, and experienced oil men see in it the greatest opportunity at the present time for reaping a rich harvest.

The Two-Ten Oil Company is in good financial condition, being backed by New England men and capital and has about enough money in the treasury to sink well No. 2, the contract for which will be let at once and hope to have a producer by the early part of June.

Now is the time to buy the stock for with another well the price will be advanced, in fact, when this allotment is placed there will be no more offered at the price. The stocks of the Republic, Otero and other companies operating in this district, jumped from 6 to 50 cents the day that oil was struck in their wells.

The officers of the Company, who are men of good business judgment, have great faith that large profits will be made from careful management and the development of this property, and they consider that 20 acres of land here is worth more as a producer of oil than many hundreds of acres in other fields, it is a fact that no one who has drilled deep enough has failed, to get oil though in some instances not in merchantable quantities.

An experienced oil expert says in a statement over his own signature that when developed, this field will prove to be one of the richest and most valuable oil sections ever seen, and that the supply of oil is practically inexhaustible. He fully confirms the statement in regard to its superior quality.

The oil, as it comes from the ground, is being used in the place of gasoline for the gasoline engines made by some of the large machinery and engine builders.

The oil has a specific gravity of 43.5, which shows its high grade.

The district is having no boom, but a steady business growth as actually warranted by the present conditions, and it has been the aim of all interested that nothing but the facts as they were should be published, for they were of sufficient promise.

HIS HOLINESS THE POPE

The Pontiff Will Receive the King of England

London, April 20.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail claims to have received official information that a visit by King Edward to the Pope has been definitely arranged. It has been decided to depart from precedent, and the Pope will receive King Edward, who will proceed to the Vatican direct from the Quirinal. This extraordinary concession is the result of secret negotiations, which were eventually determined through the personal influence of the Pope. It is intended as a recognition of Great Britain's important relations with the Roman Catholic church.

THE POPE'S HEALTH

A Cable Despatch Says that it is Rapidly Failing

Chicago, April 18.—A cable to the Chicago News from Rome, says: The Pope received some pilgrims yesterday, but merely watched them file before him. He did not answer any addresses. The health of His Holiness is evidently breaking. His cough continues, his digestive organs are deranged, his appetite is gone and he has a feeling of listlessness. Fits of feebleness are frequent. There is no immediate danger, but great anxiety is felt over the Pontiff's condition. The prelates who would perform the duties of the Pope in case of his death have been ordered to remain constantly in Rome. Dr. Lapponi has positively vetoed the proposition for a papal celebration on April 26.

THE C.P.R. FLAG

Now Makes its Appearance on the Atlantic Ocean

Montreal, April 20.—The first steamship to sail the Atlantic under the flag of the Canadian Pacific Railway has started from Liverpool bound for Montreal.

The Lake Champlain, late of the Elder-Dempster line and now of the C.P.R., cleared from the other side for this port, having on board 1,275 passengers of all classes. The Champlain will be followed by the Montrose, sailing from Liverpool on April 21 with passengers of the second and third class, while the Lake Erie will follow her on the 28th of April with first, second and third-class passengers. The Lake Manitoba will sail on May 5 with passengers of all classes.

It is expected that these vessels will bring out an average of better than a thousand passengers each, being practically booked full at the present time.

The steamship Monterey, the first C.P.R. vessel to sail from Bristol for Montreal, left the Old Country port on Friday. She carries a general cargo, but no passengers.

Stomach and Bowel Troubles

A promptly satisfactory cure for Cramps, Colic, Indigestion, Heartburn, Billiousness, Sick Stomach and Summer Complaint, is a few drops of Nerviline in sweetened water. Nerviline at once relieves pain and suffering, erradicates the cause of the trouble, and cures permanently. Polson's Nerviline is the best general purpose remedy for internal pains known; it acts so quickly that no household should be without it. Buy a 25c. bottle of Nerviline to-day, it's all right.

VAST BRITISH CONQUEST IN CENTRAL AFRICA

An Immense Territory Has Been Added to the King's Domains

OVER FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND SQUARE MILES

A Once Great and Powerful Confederation Passes Under British Rule

London, April 20.—The announcement made in the British House of Commons a few days ago that Sokoto had been occupied by a British force following the capture of Kano, means that Great Britain has added to her dominions in Central Africa, a territory equal to 500,000 square miles. The fall of Sokoto means the end of the once great Fulah Empire, and the different states which constituted this powerful Mohammedan confederation will in future be under British control. It is stated that the slave traffic between Lake Chad and the seacoast may now be regarded as utterly at an end. The population of this territory is estimated at no less than 20,000,000.

The Fulah Empire was founded by Othman Dan Fodio a hundred years ago. He preached a religious war on the borders of Lake Chad, and after subduing and converting the existing kingdoms, firmly established his sway at Sokoto. He bequeathed two empires to his sons. To the elder he left Sokoto itself, and to the younger Gando and its dependent states, which have ever since recognized the supremacy of the Great Fulah. Six years ago Sir George Goldie dealt a crushing blow to the Fulah by the defeat of his Emir of Nupe, the strongest and most warlike of the kingdoms tributary to Gando. The position of the Great Fulah was at that time compared to that of the Great Mogul during the decay of the Muhammedan Empire at Delhi.

The British followed the example of the East India Company and avoided a direct challenge to the Fulah by administering their conquests indirectly through native feudatory princes. After causing some trouble the Fulah formed an alliance with Great Britain, rejecting the advances of the French. Later he began to intrigue against the British, and the expedition which has now been brought to a successful conclusion under the leadership of Sir Frederick Lugard followed.

Sir Frederick has been heartily congratulated by Mr. Chamberlain and other officials of the British Government on the success of the expedition, and it is further probable that he will receive some further honor as a result of it, possibly a peerage. His work has immensely improved the opportunities for opening up Central Africa to trade.

In an editorial article on the fall [illegible] a song of triumph of the kind which is so intensely irritating to some of the continental nations. It spoke of "the wrath of our rivals" over the continual enlargement of the British Empire, referred to Egypt, the Soudan, and South Africa, and added:

"And now, even before our German friends have had time to recover from the shock of the South African Customs Convention, with its preferential treatment of British industry, there comes this morning another blow—a blow not, of course, unexpected, but still, and equally, of course, entirely unwelcome. That is the news that Sir Frederick Lugard has occupied Sokoto. And what, and where, pray, is Sokoto? If we are not much mistaken there must be thousands of quite superior persons who must have asked that question this morning in the spirit of the rustic who, when informed of the death of the Duke of Wellington, merely said, 'Who wur' ee?' Of if somewhat more precisely informed, they will, perhaps, have opined, as in the case of Rhoda, who ran a pagoda, and sold teas and ices and soda, in 'San Toy,' that Sokoto has something to do with 'Africa or Fashoda;' and having been confirmed in that luminous opinion these quite superior persons will straightway forget all about it. Verily, it is a weird thing, is the British Empire, and we who run it are, surely, not less weird.

"Well, what is Sokoto, anyhow? And what does its occupation mean? Sokoto is to put it briefly, the capital of a great empire, an empire much larger and richer than some sovereign States of Europe, and containing, in the way of population, a trifling matter of about twenty million black bodies, each with a soul inside it, which is, however, not much blacker maybe, than the souls of some of our products of Christianity in this boastful isle. Into the effective population of this mere territorial trifle (it is only 600,000 square miles in extent) have just entered, or are about to enter, by the capture of the capital city of Sokoto, following on that of the ancient and important commercial centre of Kano. For this we have to thank the bold initiative of Sir Frederick Lugard, a typical specimen of this sort of tool of empire building which is, perhaps, the one product of British industry which our rivals cannot imitate."

EMIGRANTS FOR CANADA

A Small Essex Colony of Skilled Workmen Coming

London, April 20.—The Darkest England Salvation Army colony in Essex is sending this week 21 men emigrants to Canada, taken from the unemployed trained farm of artisan labor. Army officials say a more hopeful party of emigrants have never been sent to Canada, and much success is predicted for them.

WORK IN CANADA FOR OVER FORTY THOUSAND MEN

COL. LYNCH ILL.

London, April 18.—Colonel Lynch's friends are greatly concerned about his health. Imprisonment and hard labor is not agreeing with him. He has lost weight as well as spirits, and his friends are saying that his health is failing rapidly, and that he may not live long enough to be pardoned by a special act of grace of the King after the Royal visit to Ireland.

MANY MAFIA MURDERS

Chief and Eight Italians Arrested in New York

A STARTLING POLICE STORY

A Remarkable Sequel to the Betrayed Secrets of the Organization

The Italian Society Blamed for the Body Recently Found in a Barrel

New York, April 20. — Eight Italians, whom the police assert are both members of the big Mafia and of a big counterfeiting band, were arrested last night by detectives of the central office staff in connection with the murder of the man whose unidentified body was found crowded into a barrel Tuesday morning.

Late last night, detectives arrested Ignatz Lupo, who is believed by the police to be the chief of the Mafia Society in this country.

Inspector McCluskey said that for months he had been working in conjunction with the United States Secret Service men in keeping the members of this gang under the strictest surveillance, and says that it is thought the work of the federal authorities that he hopes to connect this band with the murder.

Emigration Agent, Preston, Speaks in London

London, April 20.—In connection with the present immigration movement, Mr. W. T. R. Preston declares that he can find work at once in Canada for 40,000 men, and adds:

"If I had £20,000 to-day I could spend it well in helping good people out to Canada who have little chance here, and who are wanted and would do well there."

Mr Preston also announces regarding the tales of congestion in Winnipeg that there is nothing in the situation there which should cause intending emigrants to postpone their departure.

SOME STARTLING FACTS

regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

—John Williams, of the C.P.R. Works, Toronto, was cured of chronic rheumatism, after taking 10 boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

—I was troubled with rheumatism for 23 years, and could get absolutely no relief from the doctors. Six boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills entirely cured me. God bless Dr. Clarke. (REV.) S. HUMMETT, Winnipeg, Man.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 63 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before I had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
133 Albert St., London.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price [illegible] will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Perfect Manhood

Is rightly yours; but if you are not the man you should be, if you are losing your energy, your Vital force, memory, annoyed by Varicocele, shrunken parts, and feeling if you don't care what happens, you are suffering from Lost Vitality; it creeps upon men unawares; do not deceive yourself or remain in ignorance while you are being dragged down by this disease: no matter what the cause may be, whether early abuse, excess, or overwork and business cares, the results are the same; premature loss of strength and memory, emissions, impotency, Varicocele and shrunken parts. OUR LATEST METHOD TREATMENT WILL CURE YOU. We guarantee it as a positive cure for these conditions; it is the outcome of years of experience; it equalizes the circulation, stops all drains, thereby vitalizes the parts, restoring them to their normal condition and makes the man of you as nature has intended. Do not be misled by so-called Specialists and Institutes. Read the following facts:

1. We do not accept an incurable case for treatment.
2. Each time you call you see Dr. Goldberg personally. He has 13 Diplomas, etc., which should be sufficient guarantee to his abilities. All other chronic, private and Blood Poison Specialists either have some doctor in charge of their office or have an assistant to doctor you.
3. We are doing business on our own reputation, not of our predecessor.
4. Our records show more actual cures than all the other Specialists combined.
5. You need pay nothing until you are convinced that you are thoroughly cured.

NO SLEEP FOR A MORTGAGE

The mortgage is a self-supporting institution. It always holds its own. It calls for just as many dollars when grain is cheap as when grain is dear. It is not affected by the drouth. It is not drowned out by the heavy rains. It never winter kills. Late springs and early frosts never trouble it. Potato bugs do not disturb it. Moth and rust do not destroy it. It grows nights, Sundays, rainy days and even holidays. It brings a sure crop every year and sometimes twice a year. It produces cash every time. It does not have to wait for the market to advance. It is not subject to speculation of the bulls and bears on the Board of Trade. It is a load that galls and frets and chafes.

It is a burden that the farmer cannot shake off. It is with him morning, noon and night. It eats with him at the table. It gets under his pillow when he sleeps. It rides upon his shoulders during the day. It consumes his grain crop. It devours his cattle. It selects the finest horses and the fattest steers. It lives upon the first fruit of the season. It stalks into the dairy where the busy housewife toils day after day and month after month and takes the nicest cheese and the choicest butter. It shares the children's bread and robs them of their clothes. It stoops the toiler's back with its remorseless burdens of care. It hardens his hands, benumbs his intellect, prematurely whitens his locks and often times sends him and his aged wife over the hills to the poorhouse. It is the inexorable and exacting taskmaster. Its whip is as merciless and cruel as the lash of the slave driver. It is a menace to liberty, a hindrance to progress, a curse to the world.

Evidence of the favorable action of X-rays upon lupus and cancer continues to increase. The action is not yet understood, one theory being that it kills the bacteria, while a more probable suggestion is that the inflammation set up brings an accumulation of phagocytes and leucocytes, and these "scavenger" cells attack and destroy the morbid tissues.

A Philadelphia baker is authority for the assertion that the latest fad of dyspeptics is bread made with sea water instead of fresh water. "It has a saltier taste," he says, "than we are accustomed to, but it is very palatable. In fact, he who likes salty things is apt to like it better than the other kind of bread. A physician asked me about three months ago to make some of this bread for his patients. At first I made six loaves a day, but now I make thirty. The dyspeptics who buy the bread say it is the only kind they can eat fresh without discomfort."

Texas growers and Chicago packers are said to be planning the establishment of an Angora goat packing house in Kansas City. The plant will be equipped with a tanning outfit, and the skins of the animals will be made into robes. The company will establish another branch of its business somewhere in Texas, where angora milk will be condensed and sold for medicinal purposes. Cheese will be made and macaroni and cheese will be packed and placed on the market.

The man in search of a coachman looked coldly at the voluble and eager young Frenchman before him, and shook his head.

"I don't wish another valet," he said. "I have one already; there would be nothing for you to do."

"But, monsieur," pleaded the young man, with outstretched hands, "if you could conceive how little it takes to occupy me!"

Consul Maxwell at San Domingo Tells About the Fighting There

Washington, April 18.—United States Consul Maxwell, at Santo Domingo City, has cabled the State department under yesterday's date, that the insurgents had been driven into the city on the ninth inst., and that their batteries and infantry had then checked the advance of the government forces. The firing continued throughout the day and until 8 o'clock the following morning. The consul adds that missiles were flying over the city as the cablegram was being written.

KANSAS COLOR LINE

White School Not Obliged to Admit Negro

Topeka, Kan., April 18.—The supreme court to-day, decided that the Topeka board of education can maintain separate schools for white and negro children and can compel the negro children to attend the negro school. A colored man has taken his son to the white school and the pupil was refused admittance. Mandamus proceedings were then brought against the board to compel them to admit the negro.

How Are Your Kidneys?

This Simple Test Will Tell.

If any of your family have been troubled with kidney disease, make a test of the urine, and satisfy yourself whether you need a food remedy before the disease has caused serious complications.

To-morrow morning put some urine in a glass or bottle, and let it stand for twenty-four hours. If it shows particles or germs floating about, is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish sediment, then your kidneys are diseased.

Commence at once to take Ferrozone to arrest these unnatural conditions. Ferrozone is especially intended for the immediate relief and cure of kidney and bladder troubles, and its health giving, strengthening properties will be felt at once in new pure blood, healthy circulation, good color, increased vigor, and a general strengthening of the system.

Ferrozone quickly corrects urinal disorders, headache, and pain in the back. It improves the appetite, digests the food, and makes it nourish the nerves, makes them strong and enduring, and fits one for lots of hard work.

Don't be misled by cheap, so called kidney cures offered by dealers for the sake of extra profits. There is only one safe and reliable specific for Bladder, Liver, and urinal troubles, and its name is Ferrozone.

Refuse point blank to accept a substitute, and insist on your druggist supplying the genuine Ferrozone; it is the best. Price 50 cts. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. At all druggists or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

were not sure about the second man?"

"Sir Astley has a limp."

"Yes. Was there no distinguishing mark about the second man? Describe him if you can."

"He were a tall man and muffled up."

"So muffled up that you could not see his face?"

"Not well."

"Did you take him to be a stranger?"

Long pause. Then the witness answered in a low voice: "No."

"You thought he was someone you'd seen before?"

"I couldn't reghtly be sure."

"Come, who did you think it was?"

"I might ha' been mistaken. There was a hedge between him and me."

"But a hedge is not very thick at this time of year, not high enough, either, to conceal the whole of the face and figure of a tall man."

By this time the girl's evident reluctance to tell the whole truth had roused curiosity and interest to the very highest point. People craned their necks to see, to hear.

"I doan't reghtly know who it was," she said at last, almost below her breath.

"Was it Tom Rogerson, the man who was murdered later that night?"

The answer came sharp and clear and prompt:

"Nay, I know it were not him."

"Come, you came here, I'm sure, like an honest, good girl, prepared to tell the whole truth."

"But they didn't tell me as how I should have to name him."

The impression these few hurried words produced upon the court may be imagined. A sort of sigh went round, followed by a deep, "Sh—sh," and the ushers cried "Silence!" when all were already as silent as the dead.

"Ah, but the whole truth must come," said the lawyer, impressively. "And remember, it can harm no one but the guilty."

"It woan't prove him guilty, if I say I saw him?" asked the girl quickly. "I didn't see him do no harm. He was only crossing the fields like any other man might ha' done."

"Who was?"

"Why, Dr. Wharles."

Again there was a sibilant sound, like the sudden rush of an incoming tide, and then again dead silence while the lawyer spoke.

He was very gentle, having to consider the overwrought feelings of the witness whose voice was now tremulous and much fainter than before. She could not but be conscious of the tremendous effect her evidence had already had.

"You are sure the second man, who was following Sir Astley, was Dr. Wharles?"

The girl hesitated a moment, then she said quickly:

"I was sure at t' time: but when I heard as how they'd gone and fetched Dr. Wharles away out of his house, later, for to see t' body, why I thowt I must ha' been mistaken. For how should they ha' had to fetch him if he was already there? And how could he ha' got back so quick?"

There came a sort of surging rush of subdued voices, whispering, exclaiming.

"Silence!" roared the ushers again.

With a kind word and an encouraging gesture, Mr. Capper gave the witness leave to retire, and she retreated, sobbing, into an adjoining room, while the witness, Ned Raggett, who had been kept out of the court, was at length called and, amid a scene of indescribable, subdued excitement, was brought in.

The lad was horribly pale, and had to be accommodated with a chair. His dry lips were parted: his eyes were glassy and heavy; his whole appearance was that of a person suffering not only from physical ill-health, but from some acute mental torture.

The coroner was very gentle and kind with him.

"Now, my boy," said he, "we're not going to bother you with many questions, because we all know you've been ill, and are not over-strong yet. Answer openly, truthfully, and don't be frightened. No harm shall come to you for speaking the truth, and there's not a creature in the neighborhood that wishes you anything but good."

A sort of encouraging murmur of pity and good-will seemed to be felt rather than heard. Enough had leaked out about the Raggetts and their affairs for a general feeling of compassion to have been engendered towards this lad, on whose evidence so much depended.

"When you were last in this court, before your illness, on the opening of the inquest, you were in fear of someone, were you not?"

The boy tried to answer, but his tongue was dry. He bowed his head, and it was only after a moment's pause that he was able to whisper: "Ay."

"You had been threatened, had you not?"

Ned stared round him with a sudden shock of alarm. The coroner spoke more encouragingly than before.

"Now take my word for it, there is nobody here who could or would possibly do you or wish you any harm. Speak out without fear. You are now ready to tell us what really happened on the night of the murder, are you not?"

"Ay," again blurted out the boy in a strangled voice.

"You got up in a tree because you saw Sir Astley coming, and you didn't wish to be caught trespassing. You have already told us that, and it is true, is it not?"

"Ay, sir, that were true."

"Well, and after that? What happened after that?"

A long pause. Then the lad seemed to pull himself together, and in a hoarse voice, plucking meanwhile nervously at his cap, he said:

"I waited till t' Squire were gone, and it was a long time, for he went slow-like. And I was going for to coom down, when I see another man a-cooming oop quick-like, as if for to follow t' squire. And—and then, while I was a-wondering who he was, and why he was so quick, I see someone a-cooming oop from t' lane, not cooming quick, like t' other, but creeping like and slow. And at first I didn't know who he was, no more'n t'other. But when t' first heard him, he turned from following t' Squire, and he looks round, and he says, says he: 'Who's there?' says he. And—and then, when he seen who t'was, he cries out, and says, says he: 'Why, doctor,' says he, 'is that yo?'"

There was a pause, and once more that strange, hushed, subdued movement ran round the crowded court.

"Well, go on, my lad."

"And I looked down, and I see—I see—" A shudder convulsed him, and he paused before going on: "I see t' man as was creeping along rise oop quite sudden, and hold oop his hand. And I see a flash, and I heard a bang. And there was another flash, and another bang.

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

STOCK MARKETS

SUSTAINED RECOVERY, EXCELLENT PROSPECTS

New York, April 18.—The fact that the recovery in prices has been so continuous and so well sustained argues well for substance and character of the current market. Had prices been more wavering and indicative of a rise, simply due to covering operations alone, many buying orders would have been cancelled under the idea that the rally had spent its forces, its back being broken by continued urgent liquidation. Instead of such being the case, in the past two days most issues have had to be bid for most sharply at advancing prices in order to secure stock. This has been noticeable in such stocks as Penna, B & O, N Y C, A C P, Mop Manh, Norfolk, etc. The Wormser party are apparently bullish, while the chief exponents of Waldorf-Astoria crowd have been particularly aggressive upon the bull side the past two days, indicating a change of their position upon the market. The head of a large western house, recently bearish, has announced his withdrawal from the bear party, and states that in his opinion stocks at the present time are unduly cheap, consequently good to purchase. The large volumes of business on Monday last, followed by a fairly good and sustained advance, would indicate the culmination of liquidation, and that bottom prices had been made. This week's market strongly indicates this view to be the correct one it is perfectly natural to anticipate frequent set backs due to profit taking, it would appear to be the thing to do on every set back to buy something. Those, who, holding stocks purchased at considerable higher prices would in our opinion do well to average them by purchasing a few more at going prices.

Summary—The days market opened strong, with Metropolitan as erratic as usual. During the first hour the tendency was towards irregularity, with plenty of activity, however, and prices inclined to hold well. Toward the close there was some desultory selling on the publication of a bank statement, not as favorable as had been expected, but in the main stocks were firm at the close and reflected good buying. The strength in Baltimore and Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Manhattan, and A. C. P. shows how varied the investment demand is and promises better prices for these securities, and in fact, for all the standard issues. Total sales 280,500.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY,
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

Are You Deaf?

Hundreds of perfect recoveries from impaired hearing and deafness are reported as a result of the use of Catarrhozone

This result of actual experience proves that ninety cases in every hundred can be cured, and stay cured, of impaired hearing by the regular use of Catarrhozone.

Among the many prominent business men whose hearing has been restored by Catarrhozone, might be mentioned Mr. Geo. W. Warner, of 353 Wellesley street, Toronto, and Mr. William Jones contractor, of Halifax, N. S. Both these gentlemen have testified to the merits of Catarrhozone as a valuable cure for deafness, and their statements prove beyond all question that Catarrhozone cures impaired hearing and even total deafness.

The efficiency of Catarrhozone is placed beyond dispute by its long list of successful cures, and on the highest authority we can recommend it to our readers. It is a very simple remedy to use, and never causes confusion or gets out of order.

Catarrhozone Inhaler is beautifully polished and made of hard rubber. It is suitable to carry in the vest pocket and can be used in the church, theatre street car, at any time, in any place. The complete outfit costs but $1.00 and lasts two months. Trial size 25c. Sold by druggists or sent to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A Close Call

Mrs. John Hatherley, of Cavan, met with an accident which might have proved fatal. It appears that she was standing near watching her husband and his hired help at work in the barn when a tamarack pole about six inches in diameter fell from the cross beams above, striking her on the head with terrific force. It is almost miraculous that she escaped with her life. Her friends will be pleased to learn that she is almost recovered from her injury.

A sale of work, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St Paul's Church, will be held in the School Room Tuesday April 21st, commencing at 3 p.m. High tea will be served from 5 to 7 p.m.

Fled from Justice

The Township of Cavan has a little sensation on hand at the present time. It appears that Mr. Geo. Southern is charged with having secured money by means of having mortgaged a farm which did not legally belong to him. When the facts concerning this case became known, Mr. Southern left for parts unknown. He has been regarded as one of the best residents of the township, nothing having ever occurred up to the present that would leave a stain or mark on his character. He has held the office of township clerk for many years, and has discharged his duties in that connection with marked ability. It therefore comes as a great shock to his many friends, neighbors and acquaintances to hear that he has done that which brings a cloud over a good name, and many hope that some satisfactory explanation may yet be made that will restore confidence in him.

DEATH OF MRS. CROWLEY

Suddenly Expired Yesterday Morning at Her Home in Otonabee

The many friends of Mrs. Crowley, wife of Mr. David F. Crowley, were shocked to hear of the very sudden and sad death of this much respected lady on Sunday morning. Death came apparently without a struggle and without a moment's warning. The deceased lady retired on Saturday night in her usual health and arose on Sunday morning with the intention of attending 8 o'clock mass at the cathedral, as was her usual custom. Shortly after her morning devotions she proceeded to light the fire and while so doing death came instantly.

Mrs. Crowley was in her 53rd year and was highly respected by all who had the good fortune to make her acquaintance. She leaves ten children, Mrs. Driscoll, Mrs. Latimer, and eight residing at home. The profound sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved family in their sudden and sad loss.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning from the family residence in Otonabee to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

A YOUNG LIFE ENDED

Death of Mrs. McWillan Causes Much Sorrow in Otonabee

The sad news of the death of Mrs. Wilbert McMillan, of Otonabee, will be received with profound sorrow by the very many friends and acquaintances of the family. She was well known and highly respected throughout the town and county.

The melancholy event took place Saturday morning, after a brief illness of a few months. She was only 22 years of age.

The funeral takes place from her late home to the Little Lake cemetery this afternoon.

SMALL-POX IN HARVEY

Several Well Developed Cases at Lakefield Village

On Saturday word was received at The Times office that five houses in Harvey are placarded for smallpox, and that seven cases exist, with several others developing. The outbreak had its origin from a traveller who passed through the country a couple of months ago, and who was quarantined when he got to Lindsay.

The serious part of the business is that little is being done to prevent the spread of the disease. The Provincial Board of Health has been notified, and it is expected that steps will at once be taken to quarantine all who have in any way been brought in contact with the disease.

A WISE COURSE

The Town Council Employs an Electrical Expert

The town authorities are certainly to be commended on the policy they have adopted with regard to the street lighting. The difficulty arising out of the Canal Company and the Otonabee Light and Power Company can very easily be determined by the employment of an electrical expert who has had a practical experience of street and commercial lighting. The town has been fortunate enough to secure the services of so eminent an authority as Mr. E. J. Phelp, of Toronto, whose acknowledged ability, combined with a thorough practical experience, places him easily at the head of his profession in this province.

The town authorities are anxious to know just whether the municipality can do its own street lighting with electricity generated at the waterworks dam, for less money than [illegible] this work for.

There is also the pole problem to deal with, as well as the different kinds of the lamps now manufactured.

Wiarton Beet Sugar Co.

The Monetary Times says: The Wiarton Beet Sugar Manufacturing Company was incorporated in 1898, with an authorized capital of $150,000, which in 1901 was increased to $340,000. The town of Wiarton, Ont., granted them a bonus of $25,000. The company gave a contract to the Colonial Construction Co., Limited, of Windsor, for the erection of plant, the price being $400,000, as security for part of which sum they gave a chattel mortgage for $150,000. So far as we can learn, they have experienced difficulty in obtaining the necessary capital, and whether the factory has been able to command the degree of efficiency in management so highly necessary in the manufacture of beet sugar, is doubtful. Some sugar has been turned out, though it is believed not to have been so far marketed.

Three of the secret service men declare that Monday night last they saw the murdered man in company with three of the prisoners in a butcher shop in Stanton street.

In the basement of a cafe in Elizabeth street, where some of the eight men were arrested, and which is said to be one of the headquarters of the band, the police found three barrels, one of which is identical in appearance to that in which the mutilated body was found. Secret Service Agents Herrick, Burke, and Ritchie have been watching the movements of the members of the gang that met at the butcher shop of Vito Labuco, in Stanton street, for whom the police are looking.

On Monday evening they say they saw the murdered man, who they declare was to them a newcomer in the circles of the gang, in the butcher shop. In the shop at the same time and in the rear were Antonio Genova, Dominico Pecorraro and Guiseppe Morello, all of whom were arrested, the latter being the leader of the band, according to the police. With them was another man, whom the police say they do not know. The four were seated in a group, and about the table, and were in earnest, confidential conversation.

BEHIND THE BACK DOOR.

This was about 7.45 o'clock. After a time one of the four went to the front door of the place and nailed a heavy cloth over the glass of the door. About 8 o'clock a rickety covered waggon, drawn by one horse, was driven up to the shop. Two men were on the seat. One of them went inside while the other drove away. Fifteen minutes later the shop apparently was closed up, the men leaving separately. At that time the secret service men discontinued their work for the night.

After the arrest of the men detectives went to the apartment of Morello, on the top floor of a tenement house, in Chrystie street, where they found a collar, marked 16 1-2 in size, and bearing the trade name "Ashbourne."

This collar is identical with that found in the barrel with the murdered man. They found a trunk half full of letters, all in Italian, and supposed to contain matters relating to the "Mafia."

Inspector Schmittberger says that the murdered man's identity will soon be disclosed. He says he has information which leads him to be almost certain that the man was decoyed here from out of town for the purpose of being gotten out of the way lest he should betray secrets of the "Mafia."

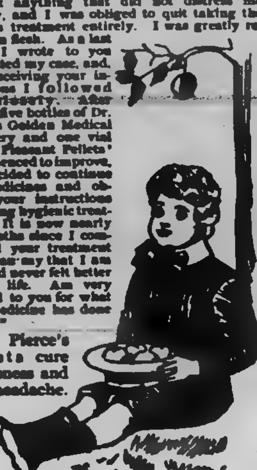
The police assert that they are almost certain the man was murdered by the same band that murdered Meyer Weisbard, a travelling jeweller, of the lower east side, two years ago, and stuffed his body into a trunk, and that did away with the grocer, Catania, of Brooklyn.

We Know What

Is going to happen to the little boy who is stuffing himself with green apples. A grown man couldn't be induced to try that experiment; and yet the grown man will overload himself with indigestible food for which he will pay a greater penalty than colic. It is this careless and thoughtless eating which is the beginning of stomach trouble and all its painful consequences.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other forms of "stomach trouble." It restores the weak and run-down man or woman to sound health.

"Some time has elapsed since I have written you in regard to the treatment I have been taking under your instructions," says Mr. E. F. Cingmars, of Minneapolis, Minn. "When first I commenced taking your remedies I was under treatment of a well-known specialist in this city (and had been for four months), for catarrh, and especially stomach trouble, and I was rapidly getting worse. Got so bad that I could not eat anything that did not distress me terribly, and I was obliged to quit taking the doctor's treatment entirely. I was greatly reduced in flesh. As a last resort I wrote to you and stated my case, and, after receiving your instructions I followed them closely. After taking five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I commenced to improve, and decided to continue the medicines and observe your instructions regarding hygienic treatment. It is now nearly six months since I commenced your treatment and I can say that I am well and never felt better in my life. Am very grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."



Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness and sick headache.

UNDOING VOLCANO'S FRIGHTFUL WORK

Nature Repairing the Harm Done in the West Indies

Report of the Royal Society of England Regarding the Eruptions

London, April 21—The scientific men sent out by the Royal Society of England to study the volcanic eruptions in the West Indies have made their report. It contains a very interesting statement of the work the torrential rains are doing in removing the deep layers of volcanic dust under which a large part of the surface of northern St. Vincent was buried by the ebullitions from the Soufriere volcano.

South of the volcano were a number of deep valleys extending nearly or quite across the island from east to west and clothed before the eruption with the most luxuriant tropical vegetation. The great black clouds discharged from Soufriere and heavily laden with incandescent dust fill these valleys with outpourings to a depth in some places as great as 200 feet.

Very little of the mass was deposited on the ridges between the valleys, for the force with which it was hurled was too great to permit it to lodge on the ridges. The hollows received most of the volcanic sand which lay in rolling masses like drifted snow. This was the first geographical alteration which the outburst made in the appearance of that region.

Six weeks later another change had taken place and the appearance of the valleys was again strangely altered.

The wet season had set in and as much as five inches of rain were recorded in a single day.

The torrents pouring down the great hill slopes were playing havoc with the loose material that had filled the valleys. The surface was everywhere scarred with rain furrows that joined together in a sort of feather pattern into larger streams which cut still deeper channels into the soft material. These channels also united, forming rivers to take the place of the old ones which had been buried out of sight. In some places they re-excavated the old channels while in others they cut new and quite independent ones.

The amount denudation accomplished in a few weeks would seem incredible to one accustomed to the leisurely rate of change in temperate climates. The Wallibu excavated a new bed in the still volcanic sand nearly 80 feet deep and left in places as many as five or six terraces to mark the successive stages of its excavation.

The torrents of water, after digging a channel would undermine the steep banks on either side, starting landslides of hot dust, which fell into the river, causing explosions of steam which threw showers of hot mud to a height of perhaps 150 feet, while great clouds of steam rose to a height of many hundred feet and were carried away to the sea by the trade winds.

There was another interesting phenomenon. Sometimes the fallen dust dammed the streams, and when the water at last overcame the obstruction, it descended no longer as water, but as a gush of boiling hot mud which made the river beds impassable and built up alluvial layers of mud spreading out like fans (alluvial fans) at the mouth of the rivers. The explorers brought home many photographs showing the progress of these interesting phenomena. One of them depicts the rolling and rounded character of the surface of the deposits, and the many furrows, and gullies that had already been cut by the rain. Another taken in the Wallibu Valley shows the terraces of hot sand marking the level to which the valley had been filled by the eruptions and some of the successive stages of its re-excavation. Weeks after the eruptions the sand was still so hot that steam was produced wherever water came into contact with it.

Other pictures show the alluvial fans formed at the mouths of the rivers, and new beaches along the sea that had been formed in about a month of the material washed from the cliffs or carried down by the rains.

Thus the forces of nature are rapidly changing the new topography that was introduced by the eruptions. A vast amount of the volcanic debris is being washed down to the sea.

If the two West Indies volcanoes which have done so much damage return soon to their former quiescent state it will not be many years before all the land surface they so completely desolated will be covered again with tropical verdure; and the present desert-like aspect will be wholly placed by myriad forms of vegetable life that will hide the scars and blisters on the surface which were produced during a few terrible hours.

Sending Out of a Steamer for the Manitoulin Witnesses

HOW A STEAMER WAS SUNK

Schooner Sent Out on a Mission Similar to the One to Manitoulin

Many Lives Lost — an Interesting Event Connected with This District

The following concerning an event in the history of the old Newcastle District, of which Peterborough and Cobourg was a part, will prove interesting reading. The circumstance is recalled in connection with the sending of the government boat to Manitoulin for witnesses and others engaged in the bribery investigation recalls the tragedy that destroyed the last vessel sent out on such a mission by the Dominion government. That was the schooner Speedy, whose hull lies at the bottom on Lake Ontario, somewhere off Presque Isle. Not only the witnesses, but the court officials perished. That was in 1804, when Toronto was known as York. Henry Scadding, in his "Toronto of Old," tells the graphic story of the event:

"The principal incident connected with the Harbor of York in 1804 was the loss of the Speedy. We give the contemporary account of the disaster from the Gazette of Saturday, November, 3rd, 1804."

"The following," the Gazette says, "is as accurate an account of the loss of the schooner Speedy in his majesty's service on Lake Ontario, as we have been able to collect. The Speedy Captain Paxton, left this port (York) on Sunday evening, the 7th of October last, with a moderate breeze from the north-west for Presque Isle, and was descried off that island on the Monday following before dark, where preparations were made for the reception of the passengers, but the wind coming around from the northeast, blew with such violence as to render it impossible for her to enter the harbor, and very shortly after she disappeared.

"A large fire was then kindled on [illegible] the night, but she has not since been seen or heard of, and it is with the most painful sensations we have to say, we fear it is totally lost. Enquiry, we understand, has been made at almost every port on the lake, but without effect, and no intelligence respecting the fate of this unfortunate vessel could be obtained. It is therefore generally concluded that she has upset and foundered.

"It is also asserted, by respectable authority, that several articles, such as the compass-box, hen-coop and mast, known to have belonged to this vessel, have been picked up on the opposite side of the lake. The passengers on board the ill-fated Speedy, as near as we can recollect, the narrative goes on to say, were Justice Cochrane, Robert J. D. Gray, Esq., solicitor general and member of the House of Assembly; Angus Macdonell, Esq., advocate, member of the House of Assembly; Jacob Herchmer, merchant, John Stegman, surveyor; George Cowan, Indian interpreter; James Ruggles, Esq., John Fisk, high constable, all of this place.

"The above named gentlemen were proceeding to the district of Newcastle, in order to hold the circuit, and for the trial of an Indian (also on board the Speedy) indicted for the murder of John Sharp, late of the Queen's Rangers. It is also reported, but we cannot vouch for its authenticity, that exclusive of the above passengers, there were on board two other persons, one in the service of Justice Cochrane, and the other in that of the solicitor-general; as also two children of parents whose indigent circumstances necessitated them to travel by water. The crew of the Speedy, it is said, consisted of five seamen (three of whom have left large families), exclusive of Capt. Paxton, who also had a very large family. The total number of souls on board the Speedy is computed to be about twenty.

A more distressing and melancholy event has not occurred to this place for many years, nor does it often happen that such a number of persons of respectability are collected in the same vessel. No less than nine widows, and we know not how many children have to lament the loss of their husbands and fathers, who, alas, have perhaps in the course of a few minutes, met with a watery grave. It is somewhat remarkable, the Gazette then observes, that this is the third or fourth accident of a similar nature within these few years, the cause of which appears worthy the attention and investigation of persons conversant in the art of shipbuilding."

AN HISTORICAL EVENT

Recalled By the Death of a Lady in London, Ont.

BURIAL OF SIR JOHN MOORE

Deceased Lady's Father Had Charge of the Burial of the General

Interesting and Thrilling Historical Event—Sir John Moore's Retreat from Corunna

London, Ont., April 21—The death of Mrs. Thomas, of 446 Queen's avenue (nee Henrietta Rothwell), at the age of 89, calls to mind the part her father took at the burial of one of England's greatest generals, Sir John Moore. Mrs. Thompson was the last of a family of six, most of whom lived to a good old age. The Rothwells before emigrating to Canada in 1832, had their residence at Cannonmount, County of Meath, Ireland. Their father, Major Wade Rothwell, served in the Peninsular, was under Wellington, and was attached to the 9th Norfolk Regiment. He was with Sir John Moore in his celebrated retreat upon Corunna.

It will be remembered that Moore left Lisbon in December 1808, with the expectation of forming a junction with the Spanish army of 100,000 men at Burgos, with the view of cutting off the French line of communication between France and Madrid, the French army having passed through the Pyrenees under Napoleon, who had established himself at the Spanish capital. Napoleon, who, amongst other things, was a great braggart, said, as he was leaving France:—"When I show myself beyond the Pyrenees the leopard (that is, the English) in terror will plunge into the sea to avoid shame, defeat and death."

When Moore reached Burgos with 25,000 men the Spaniards had disappeared, and he found that town held by the French, so that he was within a few days march of Napoleon who had 50,000, Junot and Soult, each with an army of 40,000 men. It was useless for Moore with his small force, to attempt any demonstration against 130,000 of Napoleon's picked troops, so he determined to make a dash for Corunna, then distant 160 miles, where he expected to find the British transports. He immediately began his wonderful retreat. Napoleon left Soult to follow and annihilate him, whilst he and Junot turned their attention to Spanish affairs.

Moore crossed the Esla on the 26th December, and on the 12th January 1809 he reached Corunna. Measured by time and distance the retreat does not seem a very formidable one, but when it is considered the ground was rocky, broken and mountainous; the snow and winds were terrible and tempestuous, the weather and roads adding greatly to the difficulties. During this march through mud and snow, passing swollen torrents in the bitterest weather, many brave men fell dead along the road, killed by short supplies of food and pure fatigue.

Napier, the historian, writes:—"I marched for several days with bare feet, which were swelled, and bled at every step in such a manner that General Crufurd, who saw me, turned his head away.' The rear guard, under a tonic of almost continuous battle, maintained their discipline unbroken. They passed whole nights under arms in snow and rain across this savage country. Seven times they closed in desperate conflict with the enemy. During this march Moore lost 4000 men. One regiment, Royals—quartered in this London some years ago with the 83rd—when they reached the coast only numbered nine officers, three sergeants and three privates; the rest had dropped on the road. At the close of this disastrous retreat the column marched over 14,000 strong into Corunna, never having lost a gun or a flag to the enemy.

As before stated, Moore reached Corunna on the 12th January, 1809. On the 14th Soult made his appearance at his heels, with his men nearly as exhausted as Moore's. The latter made all preparations for embarkation. The magazine outside the town, containing 4,000 barrels of powder was blown up, with a quantity of other stores. Nearly 700 horses were destroyed. On the 14th the sick, baggage and artillery were shipped. At noon on the 16th Moore decided to embark his whole force at 4 p.m., but on visiting the outposts he found the French columns advancing along the slopes and hills around Corunna. At this time Soult had with him 20,000 troops and a strong artillery force, whilst Moore had only 11,500 men with nine light six-pounders.

We have no space to give an account of the battle which followed. Suffice it to say that just as Moore was giving orders for finally overwhelming the French, he was hit by a cannon shot on the left shoulder, carrying away part of the collar-bone leaving his arm hanging by the flesh. The shock was so great that he was thrown from his horse. The stricken general raised himself on his right elbow. Not a line of his face altered as he watched the struggle. The soldiers at last had to carry him off the field, but Moore made them turn repeatedly that he might watch the fight.

The scene in the room where Moore died was most pathetic. Had Moore lived to finish the battle, it is said the victory would have resulted in the destruction of Soult's army, but General Hope forbore to press the retiring French troops, called off his troops under cover of night, and embarked.

The story of Moore's burial, made immortal by the Rev. Charles Woolf's noble lines, "Not a drum was heard, etc," shows that the poet took more than one license in their construction. He was not buried without a coffin, nor in the dead of night; neither were the sods turned with bayonets. A grave was dug for the dead soldier on the ramparts, his body was wrapped in a military cloak, surrounded by a blanket; he was laid in a rough coffin, and at eight o'clock in the morning just before the last transport left the shore, Moore was buried. Major Rothwell, the father of the deceased lady whose death we now record, had command of the funeral arrangements and the firing party; his men of the 9th Norfolk's, conducted the whole ceremony under his direction. Major Rothwell was subsequently seriously wounded in the face at Waterloo. Above General Moore's grave stands this day a monument raised by the French themselves, with this brief inscription, "John Moore, leader of the English armies, slain in battle, 1809."

STATE FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

The Late Lieutenant-Governor's Body to be Interred Wednesday

Toronto, April 21.—The late Lieutenant-Governor will be buried at Mount Pleasant on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The funeral will be a public one, and all arrangements have been practically completed.

The body will lie in state at Government House from 2 to 5 o'clock on Tuesday, and from half-past ten in the morning to half-past twelve on Wednesday. This is being done for the benefit of those coming from a distance. It is understood that all the Federal and Provincial Ministers will attend the funeral, including many members of Parliament of both stripes of politics.

At the request of the family six members of the Toronto Caithness Association will act as pall-bearers.

Would You Banish Dangerous Spring Headache?

Try Nature's Cure

Paine's Celery Compound

And You Will Quickly Rejoice in a New Life.

While headaches are varied in character and are produced by a variety of causes, the majority of victims suffer either from nervous or bilious headache. When neglected, either form will quickly cause serious suffering and will assuredly prostrate the system. Nervous headaches, to which women are specially subject, arise from weak and inflamed nerves, heavy and dull brain, poor circulation and debility. Bilious headaches are usually accompanied by sickness and vomiting. They result from inactive liver, digestive disturbances or sore and constipated bowels.

In the springtime, able and experienced physicians urge upon those who are subject to headaches the use of Paine's Celery Compound. In tens of thousands of cases this wonderful remedy has produced happy and permanent results after all other modes of treatment failed. Unlike other medicines claiming popular attention Paine's Celery Compound gives prompt and effective results. It gives to weak and sick people an immediate supply of nerve force, with pure blood active liver, and perfect digestive vigor. The work of Paine's Celery Compound is not a simple relieving of pain; it effectually reaches the root and causes of disease and permanently banishes the trouble. Mrs. L. Garland, Crawford St., Toronto, Ont. says:

"Your Paine's Celery Compound has most wonderfully improved my health. Before using it my appetite was poor. I was weak and debilitated, and suffered much from headache. Your compound has made me a new woman, and I wish it the success it so richly deserves."

FRANK SULLIVAN HAD A SECRET WHICH HE WAS FORBIDDEN TO TELL.

Mr. R. A. Grant Relates His Connection with Timber Deal in a Professional Capacity

MORE LIGHT ON THE TIMBER TRANSACTION

Lady Clerk in Public Works Department Refuses to Listen to Frank Sullivan

Mr. R. A. Grant's relation of the conversation between Mr. Gamey, Frank Sullivan, and himself in regard to a timber transaction was the feature of to-day's evidence before the Royal Commission. Mr. Grant denied emphatically that a "stock proposition" had been discussed, and claimed that in all the negotiations he merely acted in a legal capacity as in a business transaction.

At the opening of the court Chancellor Boyd made a feeling reference to the death of Sir Oliver Mowat, and announced that the commission would adjourn on Wednesday out of respect of the deceased Lieutenant-Governor.

SULLIVAN HAD A SECRET.

The first witness to take the stand was Miss O'Grady, a prepossessing young lady, who holds the position of clerk of files in the Public Works Department. Her immediate superior, she said, was Mr. Wm. Edwards, and in the same office with her was Mr. J. P. Edwards, the accountant, and Frank J. Sullivan, the assistant accountant. Her office hours were from 9.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m., and Frank Sullivan's were the same.

Miss O'Grady said she had never seen anyone come to the office on business with Frank Sullivan. She had done the typewriting for the files office on a Remington machine. Most of her work was on tabulated statements. She did very few letters, and they were first drafted by Mr. Edwards. Witness had never seen Frank Sullivan write a letter on a typewriter, but had once seen him address a letter on it. She did not know to whom it was addressed or how long ago it was. She had thought of the circumstance after receiving her subpoena.

Miss O'Grady said that she had had a conversation with Frank Sullivan on Saturday, the day after she received her subpoena. Frank had come to her and began to say something, but she told him "not to say anything as she did not want to know anything."

Miss O'Grady said she knew Mr. Gamey to see him. On the forenoon [illegible] the House Mr. Gamey had come into the office with Frank Sullivan, and both had gone away again in a few minutes.

On being asked to give the names of other stenographers and typewriters in the same department, Miss O'Grady mentioned Mr. McNaughton, Miss M. Garrett, Miss May St. Clair, Mrs. Nolan, Mr. M. P. Doherty and Mr. Bradshaw.

While Miss O'Grady was being questioned on this point, Frank Sullivan, seated near the defence table, beckoned to Mr. Riddell and the latter went over to Sullivan and held a whispered confidence with him.

The color of the carbon paper used was a purplish blue, but she could not identify any work done on her machine. Mr McPherson then showed the witness exhibit 30, and asked if the work done by her machine looked like it. She replied that she was not enough of an expert to say; she could not even be sure whether the type of her machine was larger or smaller than the type of the document exhibited. The examination then continued:

Did Frank Sullivan ever dictate a letter to you, addressed to Mr Gamey? A.—No sir.

Whose initials are these—F. J. S.? A.—They may stand for Frank J. Sullivan.

Is this his handwriting? A.—I don't know.

Could you tell it if you saw it? A.—I don't know.

Exhibit 31, which is in manuscript, was then produced.

Whose handwriting is this? A.—I don't know.

Do you believe this is his handwriting? A.—I could not say that I do.

You have occasion to copy Mr. Sullivan's handwriting at times? A.—Mostly figures.

Are the figures on this letter like those of Frank Sullivan's? A.—I don't know.

Is this his signature? A.—I can't say.

Do you believe it is? A.—I don't believe anything about it.

MR. GRANT'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. R. A. Grant, solicitor of the Ontario Reform Association, was the Toronto agent on behalf of A. G. Murray, solicitor of Gore Bay, in the Gamey election petition. Mr. Blake asked the witness if he had been personally interested in politics. To this Mr. Grant said he had not blossomed out as a speaker, but he had done some work in elections near the city. He had acted as solicitor after the last general election in 17 petitions, and had received 17 deposits of $1,000 each. In some cases the deposit had been paid by the original petitioners, in other cases raised by subscription. The witness had not kept any separate account of the $17,000, but had simply deposited it in the bank to his private account for the reason that he had to pay it out almost immediately in making the necessary reports.

Any memorandum as to the source from whence the money came? A.—It was very careless.

Do you know of any general election fund? A.—No.

The witness remembered an interview in the Walker House with Frank Sullivan and Mr. Gamey on the 11th of August. Sullivan had come to Mr. Grant's office and asked him to come to the Walker House to meet Mr. Gamey and talk over a timber transaction. Mr. Grant was about to leave the city, but he called at the Walker House on his way to the station.

Sullivan told me, said Mr. Grant, that Gamey wanted to see me about a timber transaction. I told him I had not time, as I was going away on the train, but he asked if I would not call for a few minutes on my way to the station, and I said I would. I met Sullivan in the Walker House office and we then saw Gamey.

Mr. Blake here led the witness into a recital of the proceedings being taken in the protest against Mr. Gamey.

Mr. Grant said that he had not heard Mr. Gamey's evidence, but had looked casually over it.

Mr. Blake—Do you agree with his account of it.

Mr. Riddell—That question is not fair to us.

The Chancellor—I do not think it an unfair question.

Mr. Grant—Mr. Gamey was mistaken in one or two respects at least.

Mr. Blake—In what respects? A.—My remark to him was "Mr. Gamey, I understand you and Sullivan are considering a timber transaction." Mr. Gamey, in his evidence, said I mentioned a stock transaction.

When Sullivan spoke of the lumber transaction, was there a twinkle in his eye? A.—No.

Mr. Grant, continuing his account of the conversation, said:

Sullivan said they wanted to take someone into the deal who would put in some money. I asked how much and Gamey said $4,000 or $5,000. I asked if their proposition was in shape and they answered no, not quite. When they got it in shape I could probably manage it. I understood throughout that I was to secure a client who would invest money in a genuine timber transaction. Nothing was said as to when the money was to be paid. The whole interview did not take more than two or three minutes.

Mr Blake—When did you next see either of the Sullivans? A.—I have seen neither of them since, except on the street.

Was there anything in the interview to arouse your suspicions? A.—Nothing occurred to do so.

How long have you known Frank Sullivan? A.—For one or two years personally. I have known his father eight or ten years, and knew of Frank through him.

What employment have either of them in connection with election matters? A.—I do not know of any.

It has been said that they have gone into the different constituencies? A.—I do not know of it.

A man named Suterland was sent up to one of the constituencies? A.—Yes; he is another man. He is in my firm's employ.

You know that Cap. Sullivan has taken a deep interest in election matters? A.—I have run across him in several election cases where he was involved.

Why do you smile, Mr. Grant? A.—You know the answer as well as I do, Mr. Blake.

I thought I saw "West Huron" written across that smile on your face. Cap. Sullivan was said to be there working hard and wrongly in behalf of the Government, wasn't he? A.—Yes.

Reported for bribery? A.—Yes.

He's a kind of hanger-on of the the Government? A.—I can't say that.

What name would you give him—a parasite? A.—In that particular case he was found to be very drunk. No one seemed to know what he was doing there.

He was not responsible for bribery because he was drunk? A.—He was on a lone spree.

Mr. Johnston—We are not trying Sullivan. As a matter of fact he was sent for trial and no charges were brought against him.

Mr. Blake—What knowledge have you had of Cap. Sullivan for the the last ten or twelve years? A.—I have had business transactions with him.

MR. LEONARD'S RAILWAY CAREER

Mr. J. W. Leonard, who has been appointed assistant general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been in railway work since 1872, when he became telegraph operator and agent for the Midland Railway of Canada in Peterborough. The remainder of his career has been as follows: August, 1877, to December, 1878, agent Victoria Railway; December 1878, to March, 1880, assistant manager same road; March to June 1880, assistant to general superintendent, Credit Valley Railway; June 1880, to November, 1883, general passenger agent same road; November 1883, to November 1884, master of transportation, Ontario & Quebec Railway; May 1884 to March 1890, superintendent of C.P.R.; March 1890 to November 1893, superintendent of lines east of Montreal, same road; March 1893, to 1900, general superintendent Ontario and Quebec division same road. In 1900 he was appointed general superintendent of the Western division, with headquarters at Winnipeg. As assistant manager he will have full control of the Western division.

Mr. Grant Says His Accounts for Services Were Rendered to the Ontario Reform Association

DROPPING OF PROTEST AGAINST GAMEY

Albert S. Osborne the Well-known Hand writing Expert of Rochester, N.Y., in the Box.

In getting limits? A.—In timber transactions.

How many and when? A.—Three or four within the same number of years.

Getting limits from the department? A.—Not from the department. Buying from one lumber man and selling to another.

Do you know anything of the transaction known as the Shannon deal in 1901? A.—Yes.

Will you tell us its nature? A.—Yes.

Mr. Riddell—This is not connected with the case here.

Mr. Blake—I am showing that Sullivan is the kind of a man who would be sent to Gamey.

The Chancellor—We are investigating a charge of conspiracy. The evidence may prove agency or it may lead to nothing.

Mr. Grant then proceeded to describe the Shannon affair.

To Mr. Blake Mr. Grant said that his account for services had been rendered to the Ontario Reform Association and paid by them.

To the Chancellor Mr. Grant said that the dropping of the protest was carried out solely as a saw-off with another petition.

Albert S. Osbourne, the well known hand-writing expert, of Rochester, N.Y., was next called to the stand.

The Discipline Broke Down.

Mahmoud Pasha was a progressive Turk of the new school. He was sent to St. Petersburg on a special mission, where, owing to his good manners and childlike ingenuousness, he soon became popular in diplomatic circles. He caught eagerly at new ideas and was always discussing the possibility of introducing reform into Turkey.

One day the Turk was at luncheon at the quarters of a Russian officer named Birnedoff. The conversation had turned on the splendid discipline to be found in every branch of the Russian service. Birnedoff suddenly rang a bell.

"I am going to show you how methodical my orderly is," said he to Mahmoud Pasha.

A trim-looking young officer entered the room, saluted, and waited. Birnedoff gave him a key and told him to go to his office and get a certain bunch of papers.

The man saluted and left the room. Birnedoff took out his watch. Keeping his eyes fixed on the dial, he said, "He is going down the stairs; he is in the street." And then, after a long pause "He has reached the War Office; he is going upstairs; he has entered my room; he has the papers and has started to come back; he has reached the street." Another long pause: "He is down at the door; he is mounting the stairs; he is here." At this moment the door opened, and the orderly reappeared and placed the required parcel in his superior's hands.

The Turk returned home and at once began to institute reforms. A year or more passed, and the Russian officer Birnedoff was in his turn sent to Constantinople, and became the guest of Mahmoud Pasha.

"Count Birnedoff," said the Pasha, at an opportune moment, "I want to show you what I have accomplished in the way of discipline during the past year, thanks to your teaching. I want to prove to you that the Turk is as capable of methodical training as the Russian."

At the sound of a bell a liveried servant appeared. The Pasha spoke to him in Turkish. When the man had left the room the Pasha took his watch in hand and said:

"Now he is going downstairs; he is in the street." A long pause: "He has reached the building where my office is; he is going upstairs; he is in my room; he has the papers; he is coming back—"

At this moment the door opened suddenly and the heavy Kurd reappeared. "Effendim," said he, with a low salaam "I can't find my shoes."

WAGE-EARNING WOMEN

A great city attracts throngs of women who are ready to turn their education to account in professional lines. Their ranks are being constantly recruited from the rural sections by girls who have gone through colleges and aspire to earn their own living. A study of our daily and weekly press reveals a gradual change in the recognition of woman as indefatigable readers and much more space than formerly is accorded to topics supposed to be essentially feminine. One feature of the movement among the fair sex to impress themselves upon the community is seen in the preference given to journalism by many of them.

The young woman who writes picturesque paragraphs, who sees what is going on in the town and describes it tersely, wittily, and with vivid color, meets a demand for her pen. The occupant of the seat at the telegrapher's desk, finds the work congenial and remunerative, and in time she becomes expert enough to take press despatches, or her individuality and faithfulness gains for her the management of an important office. The girl who may never reach the first rank among artists, but whose pencil is accurate and facile, or who can draw fashions or occasional piquant illustrations, may not make a fortune, but she may be sure, if her work is good and she is industrious, of earning a weekly wage. The young woman who has a position as private secretary, paid by the hour or the task; the stenographer, the visiting housekeeper, the music teacher and the governess, going to her pupils for a morning or an afternoon, all belong to the order of women whose earnings, while not magnificent, are enough to support them in a degree of comfort.

Anything in the line of work is better for a girl than a career of magnificent idleness. Planning to do good; acting; achieving carrying a ray of sunshine into distressed homes, toiling for one's family; these are the things that illumine the character of a woman. And with an ever widening sphere of influence the Twentieth Century is prepared to see the sex in every trade and profession, doing good that others may be impressed by example.

DECISION OF THE COURT

The Ontario Coal Association, whose object is to curtail the competition in coal, has been held guilty of a conspiracy against the people. The case goes from the court in Brantford to the court of appeal in Toronto, and a great deal depends upon the decision.

In Brantford the consumers of coal were defeated in their plans to secure a fuel supply by the interference of the combine, through which Brantford firms (not dealers) were refused the coal they desired by the Buffalo wholesalers. The penalty has not been imposed, pending the argument of the case before the judges in appeal, and it is hoped the decision may be reached early, as it may affect the operations of some people during the summer. Ex-mayor Morris, of Ottawa, has gone into the coal business in opposition to the combine, and he alleges that he will have no difficulty in getting all the coal he wants. This indicates a change of tactics or a surrender on the part of the combine.

BETTER DAYS FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Three years ago the world was considering the question, Has Great Britain's power departed? British statesmen themselves were considering it. To-day those interests appear to have reached a higher tide than ever before. There is peace in South Africa, with the Union Jack flying over all the disputed territory. The colonies are firmly bound to the mother country, with practical evidences of devotion to their credit. And now Ireland is to be the scene no longer of disorder, but of contentment and industry. There has been, and there still remains, a big bill to pay. But big things cost big money.

VERY PROPER CHANGE

The change in uniform, authorised by the militia department, is very sensible and very timely. The expense of uniform in the past was a bar to the usefulness of some young men. They liked soldiering, and they were willing to accept commissions, but the uniform question was a serious one. The full dress, mess dress and field service dress cost a lot of money, and the outfit was not available by those who went to South Africa. As a result, perhaps, of that campaign—as a result, at any rate of its experience—the uniforms of all officers will be the same, in material and outline. They differ only in the badges of distinction. The idea is to have a uniform which will be useful at all times, and under all circumstances and desired aid has been obtained in the product of the department. Some objection has been taken to the helmet, which remains, and which is not so comfortable as the felt hat which was the distinguishing head piece in South African war. The mess uniform, too, is an extravagance for rural corps. It may not be demanded any more than the mess uniform of the past. Few officers of the rural battalions equip themselves with this uniform, and it is probable that the department will not be more exacting in regard to it. The general feeling is that the change in uniforms is a move in the right direction.

BRONCHITIS

Catarrhozone cures Bronchitis of three years' standing after four Doctors Failed

A Remarkable Case

"I feel it my duty," writes Mrs. Boyd, of Lennardville, N.B., "to let you know that I have been cured of Bronchitis of three months' standing, by Catarrhozone.

[illegible] change in temperature or exposure to inclement weather, I was attacked with bronchial discomfort, wheezing in the chest, hoarseness, sore throat, partial loss of voice, and stuffiness of the head. I consulted four doctors and was treated by them all without any benefit.

"Catarrhozone was strongly recommended to me by several persons whom it had benefited, and was induced to give it a good trial."

"It quickly relieved my difficult breathing, so I got the complete outfit, hard rubber inhaler, etc., and I began systematically the Catarrhozone treatment.

"In a few days the huskiness and hoarseness disappeared, and my voice became stronger. The running of the nose, and 'stuffiness of the head,' feverishness, difficult breathing, were all done away with before I had been using Catarrhozone very long.

"About six weeks' treatment was sufficient to do more for me than four doctors failed to do in three years' time. It cured me and I don't believe there is another such a remedy on earth. Its action is speedy, pleasant and permanent."

Catarrhozone is a new, scientific treatment, and is guaranteed to cure Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Cold, etc., or money refunded. It contains nothing injurious and can be used by the infant as well as by the adult.

It is both a local and a constitutional remedy. The inhaler supplies abundance of medicated air, which spreads through all the air passages, killing germ life, and healing sore spots as it goes.

The impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone tablets which strengthen and build up the system to such a healthy condition that disease simply can't exist.

Catarrhozone is recommended by doctors and druggists for all respiratory diseases. It relieves quickly and cures permanently. Complete outfit costs $1.00; trial size 25c. At Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

Interesting Items.

A new departure is about to be made by the North-Western Railway, with headquarters in Chicago. The plan is to equip every freight and passenger train with emergency chests containing splints, cotton bandages, antiseptics, restoratives, etc., and to open a school of instruction in first aid to the injured.

The Norfolk, Virginia, "Pilot," says that the proverbial hard head of a negro was given a very complete test in a recent street brawl in that city. "A 32-calibre pistol ball was fired at a distance of twenty feet square into the middle of William Everhardt's head, and, after breaking the skin, flattened itself against the bone. Everhardt ran to police headquarters, a block away, and asked that the ball be extracted."

Homes for animals are coming to be a feature of every center of civilization. The latest to report the establishment of one of these humane affairs is Chicago, and it is being supported handsomely by voluntary contributions. Perhaps it would not be far out of the way to allude to these animal rescue leagues as animal intelligence offices, since they so often bring about the placing of a poor but worthy dog, whose owner neglects or refuses to pay his license, in the hands of a person who does appreciate him sufficiently to pay the necessary sum for his keeping. Failing to find homes for dogs because of their sickness or old age, these societies put them to death humanely and intelligently, and so place them beyond the reach of cold, hunger and abuse.

In the graveyard at Windham, Me., Charles H. Hunnewell has set up an extraordinary monument. In the middle of the lot he has set up on a brick case a large iron open fireplace, with the long crane hanging in the upper part. "This fireplace did duty for years in the old Hunnewell house, which is still occupied by Mr. Hunnewell and his family," says the Kennebec "Journal." "The old bricks in front of the fireplace are the ones originally used in the house, as are the andirons which impart to this strange monument such a—if the word is permissible in this connection—hospitable look. The frame which is inserted in this great open fireplace contains a printed record of eight generations of Hunnewells, or from 1654 to November 1, 1901, a period of 247 years. In addition, the frame contains—surrounding the family record on all sides—pictures of some of the oxen, cows, hogs and poultry owned by Mr. Hunnewell, and which drew prizes at the fairs. There is also a large picture representing a farm scene in winter. The frame contains pictures of seven hens, two hogs, four cows, six oxen in seven pictures, and one group picture of various domestic animals.

Came Out Just Even.

To illustrate how far wrong one may go in trying to estimate the goods and ills in another man's life, a speaker at a recent public dinner told this story: Two good New Englanders met at a college re-union after twenty-five years. They had been close friends in the old days, but had lost track of each other since.

"Well, Bill?"

"Well, Charley?"

"Tell me about yourself. Where have you been, and what have you done? What has your life been all this quarter of a century?"

"Well, Charley," said "Bill," reflectively and somewhat sadly, "I'm about where I was when I started out, twenty-five years ago."

"That so?"

"Yes; just about in the same place."

"But something must have happened to you."

"Yes, I've been married."

"That's good."

"Well, I don't know. She turned out to be a terrible shrew."

"That's bad."

"Well, I don't know. There was one compensation, she was rich."

"That's good."

"Well, I don't know. [illegible] stingy."

"That's bad."

"Well, I'm not so sure—she was always just."

"That's good."

"Well, yes, I suppose so. But she died."

"That's bad."

"Well, I don't know. She left a great deal of money."

"Of course. That was—well, money is an—advantage."

"Yes, it certainly is; but she didn't leave me any."

"That's bad."

"Well, it might have been worse. She left me a fine house."

"That's good."

"Yes, that was good—while it lasted, but the house burned."

"That's too bad."

"Yes, that was bad. It wasn't insured either. So I'm just where I was when I started."

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress the Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Hastam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is [illegible] the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 200,000 acres of specially choice lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. BRIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 209 London Street.

Our Strictly Policed Women.

No women in the world are so strictly policed as ours—for they watch each other. Huge incomes without any responsibility attached to the spending of them, lack of daily rational occupations, and a frank indifference to art and literature—not to mention politics and science—have turned our "Smart Set" ladies into dollies, gorgeously dressed (and too often freshly painted, I fear), some of which can say, "Mamma, Papa!" when you pull a string. A very few have phonographs in their pretty heads; but these are the exceptions; and one soon wearies, anyway, of hearing the repetition of their well-known little cylinders, scratched by the latest anybody who has talked into them.—Ex.

ADVERTISE IN 'THE TIMES' NOW

To Set Her Free

(COPYRIGHTED

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

and t' first man he gave one cry, not so very loud, it wasn't, but he fell down and he moved a bit and he give a sort of kick, and I knew he was shot dead."

"Well, go on."

"I must ha' moved, or cried out, for t' man as had shot t' other looked oop, and I see his face."

"Well?"

"It was Dr. Wharles."

There was a sound like the surging of the sea, a suppressed torrent of speech and movement. Then the coroner said:

"Go on."

"Afore he could speak to me, we heard someone cooming, and he ran away quick towards the lane. And then my Lady Darwen she coom oop, and I didn't dare tell her what I'd seen. I—I was afeard of what he might do to me."

"You saw him later?"

"Ay. And he towd me not to let on I'd seen owt, for if I did, I should very like be had oop for a—a—cess'ry—"

"An accessory after the fact?"

"Ay, 'twas summat like that. And he towd me it'd be seven years in prison for me and worse for him. So I didn't dare speak, sir, and I didn't, not till I was took ill and talked in my dreaming."

The story was told. There was minor evidence to be taken, but all the interest of the exciting day had culminated in Ned's confession.

The excitement in Blackdale was tremendous: nothing was talked of but the murder and the strange turn given to the mystery by the fresh evidence. And when it leaked out that the doctor had sold his house and furniture, wholesale, to a dealer in London, even his warmest supporters began to grow faint; and the warrant for his arrest, which was immediately issued, took no one by surprise.

In the meantime the Wyerdale people had overwhelmed both Astley and Norma with their congratulations, while at the same time they were full of hardly repressed curiosity as to the reason of the tragedy. That it was in some way connected with the unhappy circumstances of Astley's marriage they knew, but that was nearly all.

Norma could tell them little; but she wrote a note to Mr. Capper, before he left The Haigh, containing a suggestion which she begged that he would make to Astley.

It was that, since he had made up his mind to leave the neighborhood altogether, and since she herself was going away, too, he should make the continuance of his allowance to his wife conditional on her coming to live at The Haigh.

Astley thought the suggestion a strange one, but Mr. Capper approved of it.

"Lady Darwen is quite right," said he "It will clear away any mystery about the first wife once for all. It will ensure her behaving properly, and prevent any repetition of the tricks she has already played upon you."

So the solicitor wrote to Lottie informing her of Sir Astley's decision. The answer came from Mrs. Midsomer, who said her daughter was not well enough to move at present.

This answer roused Mr. Capper's ready suspicions, and he replied that, unless Mrs. Midsomer and her two daughters could find it convenient to fulfil his expressed wish without further delay, he was instructed to inform them that the allowance would be cut off at once.

To this second letter there came a submissive answer. If it cost her daughter her life, Mrs. Midsomer wrote, she would bring her to The Haigh on one condition, that the lady who was using the title of Lady Darwen should have left the town.

To this Mr. Capper, without consulting Norma, at once agreed. But, with the suspicion he was not unjustified in feeling, he called upon Norma immediately after this, and suggested that, on the day of the arrival of the ladies, if the meeting would not be too painful to her, she would do well to call at The Haigh on some excuse of fetching something that belonged to her, and to have one more conversation with Lottie.

"You say she seemed rather contrite about having placed you in a false position," said Mr. Capper. "Perhaps, if she sees you unexpectedly, and understands that you are not vindictive, she may be inclined to make a confession which would free Sir Astley, rather than remain in the practical confinement of The Haigh, where she is not likely to make many friends, or to have a very lively time."

Though rather reluctantly, Norma agreed to this; and when, a week later, Mr. Capper came to her lodging to take her to The Haigh, on the arrival of the Leamington party to take up their residence, she was dressed and waiting for him.

"I've got a disappointment for you," he said. "At the last moment, this precious Lottie had to be left behind. They say she was too ill to travel, but I expect she took fright, and refused to come. But they've given their word, the mother and sister, that she shall come next week; and I've told them that, if she doesn't, Sir Astley will certainly carry out his threat."

"Then I needn't go to the house," said Norma with an air of relief.

"I should, if I were you. This Mrs. Finch is not such a bad sort of woman; she's the best of the bunch, at any rate. And you may as well see the mother, who is an artful, intriguing woman, much of the same type as Lottie herself."

"Where is Astley?" asked Norma tremulously, as she began to walk quickly in the direction of The Haigh with her companion.

"I don't know. He's about here still, somewhere or other, I fancy. Perhaps at the Hall," said the solicitor.

Norma felt a pang of the jealousy she could not repress at any mention of the Hall, where the beautiful Lady Myfanwy lived.

She said nothing, however, and Mr. Capper tried to keep up her spirits by chat on indifferent matters until they came to the portico.

The butler informed them that the ladies were in the drawing-room.

It was a bright, spring-like day, and the wide hall looked a little less gloomy than usual as Norma and Mr. Capper crossed it together.

When the drawing-room door was thrown open, the sun was streaming in brightly, imparting a transient brightness to the faded glories of that melancholy state apartment. By the fire sat the two women, quietly dressed in black.

Both turned their heads as the visitors entered, and both started violently when the butler announced:

"Lady Darwen and Mr. Capper."

Norma came timidly forward. She had not reached the middle of the room when she stopped short, and uttered a low cry.

Alexandre Dumas' Figured Shirt.

There is no more characteristic story in Mr. Arthur Davidson's admirable "Alexandre Dumas: His Life and Works" than that of Dumas' deserted sick bed. It is so pathetic, so droll and so entirely Dumasesque! And it goes to show that genius can afford to go to almost any length of eccentricity in dress and behavior:

"One day in 1868 (writes Mme. Mathilde Shaw), I found Dumas in bed—in his study converted into a bedroom—and very sorry for himself. He was very poorly and unable to take anything but a decoction of lime-juice and barley-water. The servants had all gone out and left him alone. 'I have been calling in vain for Nathalie to bring me some barley-water,' he complained, and begged me to get him some. The kitchen was deserted and the fire out. However, I managed to make up some fire, and brought him what he wanted. He drank it, and was very grateful to me. His face was in a sad state—some skin eruption, which made it all swollen and shiny. But he informed me he had to get up and go to a reception at some ambassador's that evening. I could hardly believe that he was serious, and told him that, in his present condition, he was not fit to meet anyone. 'Nonsense,' he said, 'just look in that chest of drawers and see if you can find me some linen and a white tie.' I looked, and searched thoroughly; the total contents were two nightshirts, a black waistcoat, a pair of flannel drawers and a red tie. 'It is monstrous,' he exclaimed, 'the way they neglect me when I am ill! How on earth am I to get dressed?' Then, after reflection, he added, 'Just look, child, in that writing-desk,' indicating the drawer where he used to put his gold when he had any. I looked, and found it completely empty. To convince him, I brought the drawer, and showed it to him. 'Ah,' he said, with a sigh, 'yes, I remember.' Then he asked me if I had any money with me, and could lend him a little. 'Just enough to get me a dress shirt,' he explained, 'and if you would be so very kind as to take a cab at once, and go buy me one. But be sure and don't come back empty-handed.'"

But in the few shops open at that hour Mme. Shaw failed to find a white shirt large enough for the portly Dumas. Indeed, the only shirt procurable was one whose white ground was used merely to throw into relief "bright red demons jumping about in flames of yellow fire," intended as a striking design for some "bal costume" of the Quartier Latin:

"I opened the parcel. Dumas gazed for a few moments in blank horror upon those scarlet devils and those yellow flames. Then, as the storm follows the calm, he burst into one of his frantic passions, but subsiding soon to the necessity of the case, he recalled me from the door, and, saying curtly, 'Well, I shall have to wear it,' he bade me wait, and went into the dressing-room to make his toilette. Before long he reappeared clad in his dress suit, the low waistcoat of which displayed to full advantage the peculiarities of the shirt front. Having donned the red tie—the only one available—Dumas, sulky and silent, got into the cab and drove off to the reception."

A few days later a note came from him asking the lady to call, as he had much to tell her. On arriving she found him recovered end radiant:

"'You would hardly believe it,' he said, 'but my costume was an immense success. Everybody thought that it was an original idea of my own. They all thronged round me and made much of me.' 'What about the red necktie?' 'Oh, that was another success! It was supposed to be a souvenir of my friendship for Garibaldi. On the whole, I had a most delightful evening.'"

Trouble Ahead in Royal Families.

It does not much matter whether or not the eldest son of the German Emperor wants to marry an "American" girl. The problem which is reported as being presented to the German Emperor will demand solution within the next quarter of a century. The leading factors in such a problem are distinctly visible. There are thrones in Europe and there are rich "American" girls whose eyes are fixed on these thrones. The trouble began when the daughter of a rich "American" gentleman married into the Churchill family. The Churchill family was not one of the oldest or most illustrious in England, but it was of sufficient importance to establish a precedent. Since that time rich "American" girls have found it comparatively easy to marry into the noble families of England. And if into noble families, why not into royal families? In many respects the noble families of England are socially superior to royal families in Europe. They have larger incomes and on their estates exercise nearly all the powers of a sovereign.

Money is the talisman that has opened the semi-regal thrones of England to the untitled "American" girl. See what the Vanderbilt millions have done for the Duke of Marlborough! When Consuelo Vanderbilt exchanged her millions for the ducal title, the Duke was held in small esteem in his native land. Now he takes rank with the first of the British nobility. Examples of this character are too numerous to mention. There are hundreds of "American" girls moving in the highest social circles in Europe. Some of these days one will make a dash for a throne. Miss Deacon aimed rather high when she fixed her eyes upon one of the very first thrones in Europe, but she opened the eyes of other rich "American" girls to the fact that thrones are not above their reasonable aspirations.

Very Sad.

"Yes, it's very sad." "How is that?" "Why, he always held that, to train a wife properly, you should catch her while she's young. So he did." "Well?" "Well, it seems that she had the same idea about a husband, and now there's a crisscross of training ideas that is simply homewrecking."—Chicago "Post."

A Healthy Appetite.

Lady (to gardener)—Have you had your dinner, John?

John—Not yet, mum. I must 'eat the green'ouse fust.—"Punch."

"This is tough luck," said Ham, mournfully, as he leaned over the side of the ark. "What's wrong now?" queried Shem. "Why, all this water to fish in," replied Ham, "and only two fishin' worms on board."—Ohio "State Journal."

EMIGRANTS FOR CANADA

A Small Essex Colony of Skilled Workmen Coming

London, April 20.—The Darkest England Salvation Army colony in Essex is sending this week 21 men emigrants to Canada, taken from the unemployed trained farm of artisan labor. Army officials say a more hopeful party of emigrants have never been sent to Canada, and much success is predicted for them.

STOCK MARKETS

FACING FAVORABLE CONDITIONS

New York, April 20—The cyclonic disturbance emanating from the Northern Securities decision has evidently blown over. It came just at the inception of an improving market, one so firm in its foundation that the first effects of the decision were not felt until the following business day. Then people fell over each other to dispose of their stocks, and sold indiscriminately only to find that stocks had been taken by wiser and cooler heads, who had secured them at bargain figures. The balance of last week witnessed notable and practically continuous recovery. Appearances indicate that the recovery is yet incomplete and will go still further. Doubtless between now and Thursday next a reaction due to natural profit taking will put in its appearance. If it does not come advantage should be taken of it to purchase something. Opinion is rapidly coming to the appreciative point that it is a good thing to have staple and equitable rates. The business community benefits through them correspondingly with the transportation industries. Proper laws may be expected to recognise the fact. Bear in mind we are facing the harvest of the greatest winter wheat crop on record. The time of maximum expense of doing business for the railways is about culminating and their business will from now on be conducted at an average cost much less that heretofore. The fruit of the vast railway expenditure of the past five years is about to be reaped by the companies. Some of the leading financiers who have for some time past held aloof are now embracing the bull side of the market. Before June first time and call money should be obtainable in any quantity steadily below four and one-half per cent. Stocks will be cheaper before it occurs than after it is a fact. This is always the case in Wall Street. The past week it was self-evident that there was a continued and insistent demand for good securities. Early last week we dwelt on the fact that we were in receipt of more cash orders for purchase of stocks than for any week since May, 1901. This demand still continues. It is the best kind of buying and indicates well for the future.

SOME STARTLING FACTS

regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

—John Williams, of the C.P.R. Works, Toronto, was cured of chronic rheumatism, after taking 10 boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

—I was troubled with rheumatism for 22 years, and could get absolutely no relief from the doctors. Six boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills entirely cured me. God bless Dr. Clarke. (REV.) S. HUMMITT, Winnipeg, Man.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 81 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before I had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
730 Albert St., London.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

TWO-TEN OIL CO.
of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE: BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

Kidney Disease

Every Year Thousands Suffer and Die from Kidney Disease, That Never Knew the Exact Nature of their ailment.

Among the Most Easily Noted Symptoms are Pain in the Back, Frequent Desire to Urinate, Constant Headache Sleeplessness, and Nervousness.

When these signals of danger are unheeded, and proper precaution is not taken to avert more serious results, the very worst form of kidney trouble will develop, namely, Bright's Disease, which is almost incurable.

To obtain quick relief and a sure cure you must at once commence to take Ferrozone. It is a treatment for kidney and bladder troubles of undoubted merit and is prescribed now by all doctors and physicians who are abreast of their profession. Hospitals, Sanitariums, and all public health institutions rely on Ferrozone in all derangements of the kidneys, and claim that it affects more cures of chronic cases than any other remedy.

The action of Ferrozone is very mild and efficient and can be depended upon to give satisfactory results in every case. It brings about a healthy condition of all the organs of the body, causes the kidneys to eliminate all poisonous products and wastes of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, reconstructs wasted tissues, excites healthy appetite and promotes good digestion. By the regular use of Ferrozone nutrition is improved, and strength to ward off disease is established and maintained.

No remedy for the alleviation and cure of kidney disease can possibly equal or surpass Ferrozone. This fact is conceded by all those who have used it, and a trial will convince you of its merits. Don't be misled into accepting a cheap, unworthy substitute, but insist on having the genuine Ferrozone. It is the very best that money, brains, skill and scientific research can produce, and that is the sort of remedy you want. Price 50c per box, or three boxes for $1.25, at druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A Typographical Error

Yesterday our typesetting machine made us say that several cases of smallpox existed in Lakefield. This was a mistake; it should have read Lakehurst. This great family journal apologizes to the people of Lakefield. Smallpox could not live there. The only disease that takes an epidemic turn is the buck fever in the hunting season. If you don't believe this ask ex-Reeve Casement or Mr. Hilliard.

May Go to Ashburnham

Mr. F. Bartlett, who has the position of superintendent of construction for the National Construction Company of Detroit, who have the contract for building the Peterborough Sugar Company's factory, is examining the property on the east side of the Little Lake, with a view to locating the factory there. It is, however, improbable that the factory will be built on the east side of the river, for various reasons.

An Interesting Address

Last night a very interesting lecture was delivered on "The Waterways of Canada," in which special mention was made to the Trent Valley Canal. The lecture took place in the Opera House, and was illustrated by many stereopticon views by Mr. R. M. Roy. It was a most interesting and instructive lecture. At its conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Rogers and Mr. Roy.

OUR NEW STORY

A Splendid New Serial to Begin in the Times

We call the attention of the readers of The Times to the fact that a new and thrilling story is shortly to appear in these columns, entitled, "Buried Gold," by Fred Whishaw. The story is sold in book form for $1.50, so our readers will have the benefit of this serial without extra price. Now is the time to subscribe.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

A Series of Conventions to be Held in June

A series of conventions will be held throughout our County during the latter part of June.

These will be held from June 21 to 29, inclusive, in the following order:

Peterborough Association, June 21 and 22.

Asphodel Association, June 23.

Belmont Association, June 24.

Otonabee Association, June 25.

N. Smith and Harvey Association June 26.

Lakefield Association, June 28.

Dummer Association, June 29.

There will be two sessions at each, afternoon and evening.

Mr. J. A. Jackson, B.A., Toronto, General Secretary of the Provincial S. S. Association, and Rev. W. E. Hassard, B.A., of Toronto, also an active provincial worker, will be present at all of the conventions and deliver addresses. Let every superintendent and S. S. worker remember the dates and plan to attend the convention of their own association. You cannot afford to miss it for two reasons: (1) For the help you may receive. (2) For the help you can give.

Further particulars later on.

CHARLIE POGUE COMMITTED

He Accused of Committing a Fierce Assault

Charlie Pogue, well known in Peterborough, appeared before the Police Magistrate in Hamilton, charged with committing an aggravated assault on Louis Karr, of Beamsville. Pogue, through his counsel, pleaded not guilty, and declined to elect. The evidence was of a contradictory nature, but several witnesses for the Crown swore positively that Pogue was not the man who committed the assault, and Acting Crown Attorney P. D. Crerar confessed that there was nothing to show that Pogue had actually assaulted Karr. Yet in the face of this the Magistrate thought there was sufficient evidence against Pogue to put him on his trial, and he was committed. He held that the evidence showed that Pogue knew the assault was going to be committed. Karr's story was to the effect that he had met Pogue in a saloon on MacNab street. The latter asked him to have a drink, and then demanded that Karr pay him back $6 that he owed him. Karr said he did not have the money, and asked Pogue what about $10 that he claimed that Pogue had "swiped" from him one day before in a saloon on Merrick street. There were a few words, and then Pogue asked him to go down to his stable and see a horse that he was looking at with the intention of buying. Karr went with him, and when they got to the corner of Merrick and McNab streets they crossed over to the east side and when opposite an alleyway there Pogue asked him to go in. Karr went and when they got in about fifty yards Pogue hit him a terrible blow behind the ear, and then another one on the jaw. Karr fell down and Pogue kicked him several times.

A Successful Meeting

An exceptionally interesting meeting took place last night in the lecture room of the George street church, under the auspices of the Epworth League. Mr. Elcome gave a very thoughtful address on "Insects," and a choice program of vocal and instrumental music was rendered. There was a good attendance.

Poisoned by Hemlock Sliver

Contractor John Crawford, who has been at Sturgeon Point putting up a house for Mr. Broderick, on Monday ran a hemlock sliver into his finger, but paid no attention to it until he was awakened that night by a sensation of pain in the hand and up his arm. He continued his work until near noon on Tuesday, when the pain became so intense that he decided to drive to Fenelon Falls, and there took the train for Lindsay. The family physician was called in and pronounced it a bad case of blood poisoning, and it was only to most careful attention and nursing that the poison was checked. Mr. Crawford has been a very sick man, however, and it will be some days before he will be able to resume his work.

COULDN'T DO IT

Didn't Know the Food She Used Lacked Building Material

Proper food brought a woman and her child out of sickness into health. A lady living in Madison, Wis., relates her experience which certainly is interesting.

She says: "For about 15 months I was an invalid and part of that time caring for a little baby girl. Different physicians said I had heart trouble, torpid liver, nervous prostration and female trouble. Finally I was sent down to Chicago to my uncle, a good old physician. He said the difficulty all came from my not being able to build up from the kind of food I had been using.

"I had run down from 130 pounds to 90 and had about made up my mind that I would never get well. He put me on a diet of Grape-Nuts with good cream and graham crackers, a little stale bread when I wanted it, and butter, but no meat and no medicine.

"In two months I got so I could sleep sound, where before I used to walk the floor all night. My sick feelings left me and I began to get well. I weaned the baby but she was very sickly and puny. The doctor said it would be a wonder if we ever raised her. Grape-Nuts had done so much for me I concluded to put her on the food, and got a coffee mill to grind it in, and gave it to her with good cream. She picked up very quickly and began to gain flesh and strength. Now she has a round, ruddy face, is perfectly healthy, out doors all day and hungry all the time. I am grateful to the makers of the food that has saved my life and given strength and health to my little girl." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

EAST PETERBORO' LICENSES

Met on Saturday and Considered Applications for Renewal of License

The East Peterborough License Commissioners met in Peterborough on Saturday last, and considered the applications and granted licenses to the following:

Havelock, Thos. Read, M. McNicoll, Wm. Dineen.

Norwood, J. A. McNicoll, E. J. King.

Keene, M. Kenncaley.

Burleigh, Harry Mann.

Burleigh Falls, H. W. Darcy.

Westwood, J. Heffernan.

Warsaw, Fred Morgan.

McCracken's Landing, John Morgan.

Applications were received from T. J. Wilson, Apsley, and S. English, of Keene, but not granted.

A petition was presented signed by 388 ratepayers and citizens in and around Keene that only one license be granted in Keene. A motion was passed by the commissioners in view of such a large petition, granting only one license.

The application from Apsley was not accompanied by a petition from the majority of ratepayers as required by law, and the commissioners did not grant a license as they did not think a tavern necessary.

All licensees are requested to deposit their money and forward their receipt at once.

TO DEAL IN WESTERN LANDS

Prospectus of the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Ltd.

In another part of to-day's issue appears the prospectus of the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the West. The names appearing upon the Board of Directors shows the strength of this company and the immense immigration into Canada at the present time, and the practically assured future of the country should make its operations very profitable, and the stock of the company a practically attractive one from an investor's standpoint. The board, with the exception of the addition of Sir Daniel H. McMillan, K.C.M.G., and Mr D McGregor, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Galt., Ont., is the same as that of the Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, which was so successfully floated about three months ago, and whose operations have already made the stock of that company a valuable asset. The Union Trust Company, of Toronto are authorized to issue $300,000 of the stock of the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, at par, and application may be made either to that company or at any branch of the Merchants' Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada.

Mirth is an almost infallible sign of good health. A sick woman may force a smile or at times be moved to laughter. But when a woman is bubbling over with mirth and merriment she is surely a well woman.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has made thousands of melancholy and miserable women cheerful and happy, by curing the painful womanly diseases which undermine a woman's health and strength. It establishes regularity and so does away with monthly misery. It dries debilitating drains and so cures the cause of much womanly weakness. It heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures the bearing-down pains, which are such a source of suffering to sick women.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for female weakness," writes Mrs. Susannah Permenter, of Paula Store, Shelby Co., Texas. "I was troubled with bearing-down pains in my back and hips for six years, and I wrote to Doctor Pierce for advice. I tried his 'Favorite Prescription' and six bottles cured me. I feel like a new person and I thank Dr. Pierce for my health. Life is a burden to any one without health. I have told a great many of my friends about the great medicine I took."

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." There is nothing "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Had Lost Track of the Case.

The young woman who, when asked if she had read Romeo and Juliet, replied that she had never read Juliet, but she thought Romeo was lovely, was of the same temperament as a village postmaster who knew or pretended to know something of all the doings of the world, great and small.

Some wags from a neighboring town who strolled into the post-office one day thought they would have some sport with the wise man.

"I suppose it's pretty dead up here, Mr. Pratt," said one.

"Well, not so dead as you think. I guess there ain't much goes on that we don't hear about, even if it don't happen right here."

"Why, you people don't know the war's over," said another, falling back on the stock phrase.

"Oh, you can't work that dodge on me," replied the postmaster, looking shrewdly over his spectacles. "I guess I followed the negotiations with Kitchener in the papers."

"But there are some things that aren't in the papers," said another youth. "I don't believe you know when Shakespeare died."

"Well, no," said the postmaster, "I didn't know that he was dead, but I heard last week he was pretty low."

While Imprisoned.

A prisoner condemned to prison for life, after a careful study of the Bible, found it to contain 3,586,489 letters, 773,692 words, 31,173 verses, 1,183 chapters, and 66 books. The word "and" occurs 46,277 times, the word "Lord" 1,855 times.

The middle verse is the 8th of the 118th Psalm. The 21st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except "j."

The longest verse is the 9th in the 8th chapter of Esther. The shortest is the 35th of the 11th chapter of St. John's Gospel.

There are no words of more than six syllables.

It must have taken the poor prisoner many years of patient, careful study to gather all these facts.

NO TRACE OF ROBERT ROSWELL GAMEY HAS BEEN FOUND--SECURED DEPOSIT SLIP FROM BANK TELLER,

Made a New One, and Wrote the Teller's Initial on the Bogus Paper--After Being Confronted by the Banker, Gamey Left Toronto The Inquiry Adjourned to be Resumed on Thursday

Hon. S. H. Blake Leaves It to the Court If He Should Withdraw

IS ASKED TO CONTINUE

In the Public's Interest--The Chancellor's View, He Says The Inquiry is Not a Private One

Toronto, April 21.—The Gamey enquiry, which was intended should proceed all day lasted only about twenty minutes this morning, when an adjournment to Thursday morning was made. The cause was twofold. One was the unexplained absence of Mr. Gamey, and the other was the fact that the prosecution had been unable to secure the attendance of two important witnesses — Mrs. Frank Sullivan, and her father, Mr. Wilson. These two witnesses, said Mr. Blake, would practically conclude the case for the prosecution. In view of Mr. Gamey's absence, he said, he and his associate counsel would feel inclined to withdraw from the case should Mr. Gamey not return by Thursday, unless the bench should take the view that the case was one removed from the realms of private prosecution, and instruct consel to proceed in the interests of the public.

The Chancellor, after conferring with Chief Justice Falconbridge, said that this was exactly the view taken by the bench. If Mr. Blake decided to witdraw it would be extremely regrettable, and the court would have to appoint other counsel to represent the absent prosecutor. His Lordship signified the court's desire that Mr. Blake and his associates should continue the conduct of the case.

Mr. Johnston, in view of the fact that the prosecution's case was so nearly closed, asked that court adjourn till Thursday morning, in order to give the defence time to prepare their case. He promised if possible to have the desired witnesses present on Thursday.

The court assented to the proposed adjournment [illegible] at 10.45 a.m.

COURT IN QUANDARY.

The air of expectancy which hung over the court-room when the time arrived this morning for the opening of the Gamey enquiry was materially deepened by the mysterious actions of the chief personages concerned. In the first place, Mr. Gamey was not in the court, and no one seemed to have any reliable information as to his whereabouts. The judges, usually punctual to the moment, failed to ascend the bench on time, and it was 10.26 before they finally appeared in court, though they could be seen at intervals through the glass door of their room, pacing the floor as if in expectation of developments.

The movements of counsel were equally incomprehensible. At 10.10 Mr. Johnston and Mr. Blake came out of the judge's room, where they had been conferring with the commissioners. Mr. McEvoy, after going in and out of the room several times, entered and spoke to Mr. Riddell, and then withdrew with Mr. Johnston to one side, and they talked earnestly together for four or five minutes. Counsel for the prosecution meanwhile conferred at their table. Then Mr. Blake and Mr. Johnston spoke together, and Mr. Johnston asked rather querously why Mr. Blake would not call the bank witnesses.

The other actors in the drama, with exception of the star performer, were all in evidence. Mr. Stratton, after speaking with his lawyers, walked over to the stenographers' table and spoke for several minutes to Mr. Butchers. Frank Sullivan appeared early, and after speaking to Mr. Riddell left the court-room. His father, Cap. Sullivan, came in later, and took a deliberate scrutiny of the room, evidently with the intention of ascertaining if any concealed witnesses were hidden under the seats or tables. Mr. Walter Barwick, K.C., partner of Mr. A. C. Aylesworth, K.C., and solicitor for the Ontario Bank, entered and conversed with Mr. Stratton's lawyers. Mr.

The Case Ought to be Investigated to the Fullest Extent

SAYS MR. JOHNSTON

Many Yet Affirm Their Belief That Mr. Gamey Will Turn Up on Thursday

Barwick is said to have advised the Ontario Bank officials to prosecute Mr. Gamey for forging the substituted deposit slip on Saturday.

At 10.25, however, the spell was broken. The court crier called for order, their Lordships walked out of their room and mounted the bench, and made their usual graceful bow to counsel.

As soon as their Lordships had taken their seats Mr. Blake arose and expressed the desire that Mrs. Frank Sullivan and her father, Mr. George P. Wilson, be summoned as witnesses. He said:

Mr. Johnston has said that he would exert every effort to have these witnesses here at 10 o'clock on Thursday. I believe that Mr. Wilson is not in the best of health, but I believe he is well enough to give evidence.

I desire to say that until yesterday my attention was not called to the fact of Mr. Gamey's unaccounted absence—his absence, which, of course, may be accounted for later, but I can give no information to the Commission regarding his present whereabouts. If it were simply a case between Mr. Gamey and Mr. Stratton his absence might be a reason for us withdrawing from the case. He is a member of Parliament, and the evidence brought out yesterday is such that would affect his character and I would not feel like proceeding if notice were not given him, as I have said, if he is not here on Thursday I would be inclined to drop out of the proceedings, but it is not a question as to Mr. Gamey or others, but it is an investigation in the interest of the public generally. We place ourselves entirely in your Lord- [illegible] duty, even in the absence of Mr. Gamey, to aid the Commission by proceeding with the case and presenting witnesses, we shall continue. If you think that we are not bound by public considerations we shall withdraw.

After a moment's consultation, the Chancellor said: My brother and myself, after considering the aspects of the case, think that this is not a private prosecution. It is a matter which pertains to the good government of the country, and this is the view taken by the statute under which we act. The authorities direct that counsel be retained on both sides to assist the Commission to a decision by the elucidation of the facts. If Mr. Blake and his colleagues withdraw at this time we would have counsel only on one side, and we would be forced to act ourselves as counsel for the absent parties. It would be inconvenient, and we would feel ashamed in such a case to ask other counsel to act. We think that it would be unfortunate if Mr. Blake and his colleagues were to withdraw, and it is our wish that they remain in the case to the very end, that all honest people may be satisfied that everything possible has been done to get the facts of the case.

Mr. Blake accepted their Lordships' ruling, and suggested that the commission adjourn until Thursday, in order to secure the witnesses desired, and that the lost time be made up by a session on Saturday.

Mr. Johnston said that he quite appreciated the position in which Mr. Blake was placed, and he thought it not unreasonable that he should desire to withdraw. He was very glad, indeed, at the view their Lordships had taken of the position Mr. Blake should assume. "We feel," said Mr. Johnston, "that the case should be investiagted to the fullest extent, and we are willing to accede as far as it is in our power to the desired of our learned friends on the other side as to the witnesses and time. We agree entirely to the proposed adjournment until Thursday."

Mr. Blake said he was obliged to his learned friend for still another example of his usual consideration and kindness.

The commission then rose.

MRS. GAMEY DEPARTS.

Mrs. Charles Peek, of 274 Palmerston avenue, a cousin of Mrs. R. R. Gamey, said that that lady left about 7.45 this morning for the Union Station, but she kept her destination a secret.

Mr. Gamey came up from the Walker House to see his wife, and stopped there on Friday night. He was last seen about 8.45 on Saturday morning. He boarded a College car at Palmerston avenue, and asked for a transfer down Yonge street, presumably to take him to the hotel. Seeing a reporter on the corner he entered into conversation with him. Mr. Gamey had no grip or valise, and nothing in his manner or conversation revealed the fact that he would suddenly disappear and create the sensation that he has.

A DEPOSIT SLIP CHANGED.

No one has been discovered yet who will say that he saw Mr. Gamey after four or five o'clock on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Gamey was not idle on Saturday. Shortly after 10 o'clock he called at the Ontario Bank, corner of Wellington and Scott streets. He asked for and obtained the deposit slip which he had used in depositing $900 on the 11th day of September last. The 11th day of September was also the date upon which he deposited $1,500, which he alleges he got from Hon. J. R. Stratton. The $1,500 he deposited to his own credit in the Trader's Bank, and the $900 was deposited to the credit of the Crossin Piano Company in the Ontario Bank. Mr. Crossin accompanied Mr. Gamey when he made the latter deposit, but could not say what denomination the bills were. It is said that there were nine $100 bills.

It was the deposit slip which would show this that Mr. Gamey sought and received at an early hour on Saturday morning. He went over to the desk in the office, and stood there a few minutes, apparently writing. He then returned to the clerk with a deposit slip, which he handed in. The clerk presumed that it was the same deposit slip that he had handed out a few minutes previously. When he glanced at it, however, he saw that it was not the same. Instead of accounting for $900 in nine $100 bills, it accounted for $900 in a number of $5 and $10 and $20 bills, enough to make up the $900. The slip had the teller's initial on, but it was not a perfect

The clerk noticed Mr. Gamey leaving the bank, and called after him that he had left the wrong slip, or words to that effect. But Mr. Gamey was beyond the reach of his voice, and did not turn around.

The bank forthwith despatched the messenger, Burton, after Mr. Gamey. Burton followed him to the Crossin piano factory at 102 Adelaide street west, before he overtook him. Mr. Crossin was present when Burton arrived at the factory, and asked for Mr. Gamey. Mr. Crossin saw the messenger take a deposit slip out of his pocket. It was the slip that Mr. Gamey had left at the bank. Mr. Crossin stepped aside, and the messenger and Mr. Gamey had a short conversation. Mr. Gamey was unable to produce the original slip on the messenger's request, and the messenger went away. Mr. Gamey and Mr. Crossin went with him, on his request to the bank. Mr. Crossin says this occurred about a quarter past ten. The receiving teller, Mr. Howarth, returned with Mr. Crossin and Mr. Gamey. Mr. Gamey led the way, following the direction he had taken when traversing the distance between the bank and the factory a few minutes before. Mr. Gamey and Mr. Howarth made diligent search along the path, but found no slip.

They went up to the office in the Crossing piano factory, and Gamey and Howarth were closeted alone for ten or fifteen minutes. Mr. Howarth then came out, and two or three minutes afterwards Mr. Gamey followed. The deposit slip had not been discovered. It is said that in the afternoon Mr. Gamey again called at the bank with a slip, which he said he had been successful in finding. It was not accepted.

Enquiry at the Walker House elicited the information that Mr. Gamey had gone and taken his belongings with him. "But," said the clerk, "we are keeping his room for him. We have not let it to anyone."

Mr. W. R. Smyth, when asked if he knew Mr. Gamey's whereabouts, held up his hands and smilingly acknowledged his inability to answer the question. However, none of Mr. Gamey's friends displayed any anxiety for his safety, but admitted they were mystified at his disappearance.

MAY HAVE GONE TO GORE BAY.

It is believed that Mrs. Gamey and her son have gone to North Bay. She said before leaving town that her husband left on Saturday to see a man, and said he would return Tuesday evening. She was not perturbed in the least about her husband's absence. His counsel confidently expect that he will return this evening.

Mr. Gamey's brother, who was subpoenaed as a witness before the Commission, stopped with the Peek's during his stay in Toronto. He left for his home in Manitoulin on Saturday afternoon.

Chinese Tax Bill

In the Government bill to increase the poll tax on Chinese to $500 it is provided that the legislation is to come into force on January 1st, 1904. Power is taken to appoint one or more persons to carry the Act into effect.

No vessel carrying Chinese immigrants, under penalty, to Canada will be permitted to carry more than one such immigrant for every fifty tons of her tonnage.

No Chinese will be allowed to land in the Dominion until a permit is obtained, and until it is ascertained that the immigrant is free from dangerous disease.

Railway conductors are made liable for the payment of the tax on Chinese entering Canada by their trains.

The shipment of Chinese through Canada from one country to another is permmitted under specified regulations,

Chinese leaving Canada and returning within six months will not have to pay the tax over again, but individuals remaining away more than half a year will be subject to the payment of the $500 tax in exactly the same way as though they had never been in Canada.

The Governor-in-Council may frame such regulations as are necessary to prohibit the entry, into Canada of any larger number of persons from any foreign country than the laws of such country permit to emigrate to Canada.

The following are exempt from the payment of the entry tax :—Members of the diplomatic corps or other Government representatives, their suites and their servants, and Consuls and Consular agents; children born in Canada of parents of Chinese origin who left Canada for educational or other purposes, on substantiating their identity to the satisfaction of the controller at the port or place where they seek to enter on their return; merchants, their wives and children, the wives and children of clergymen, tourists, men of science and students who shall substantiate their status to the satisfaction of the controller, subject to the approval of the Minister, or who are bearers of certificates of identity, specifying their occupation and their object in coming into Canada, or other similiar documents issued by the Government or by a recognized official or representative of the Government whose subjects they are.

Surtax Will Not Be Applied Within The Next Thirty Days.

Montreal, April 21.—The question as to just how the surtax upon goods imported from Germany is to be administered is a matter which is attracting a good deal of anxiety just at present among those who deal in the market of the Teuton.

Mr. Robert S. White, Collector of Customs, states that no regulations upon the subject have yet come to him, and he is of the opinion that it might be some little time before they reached the collectors through Canada. Mr. White remarked that there was no special hurry in the matter, as the provisions of the budget were such that all goods ordered on or before the 16th of April for immediate shipment were to come in under the old tariff. This would mean that the surtax would not be applied within the next thirty days or so.

Yesterday afternoon the members of the Wholesale Dry Goods Association met at the Montreal Board of Trade and it is understood that they will address the Hon. Mr. Fielding with regard to the matter. It appears that many of the large dry goods houses have goods ordered for delivery later on, some of them not being due to land here in Canada until next autumn. In a number of cases these goods have already been sold by the Canadian houses, with, of course, no thought of surtax which will add, at least, ten per cent. to their value. One wholesale dry goods man stated to-day that he would be satisfied if some provision could be made for these goods already purchased.

An interesting question in connection with this surtax, which is yet to be defined, is whether goods which are partly German and partly British, and shipped from a British port, will come under the surtax regulation or not. According to the tariff regulations, as at present administered, German goods, imported to England, and then shipped out to Canada, come under the preferential clause, provided 25 per cent. of labor or material is added in Great Britain.

MR. GAMEY SAID TO BE IN BUFFALO DECLARES HE IS COMING BACK

And Denies That Deposit Slip IS Wrong

WILL RETURN TO TORONTO WHEN WANTED

Is Not in Communication with His Legal Advisers at Toronto

Buffalo, April 21.—R. R. Gamey is in Buffalo, and says that he is taking a rest from the excitement and worry to him consequent to his charges against the Government and its ensuing hearing. He says he will return to Toronto when he gets ready.

As unostentatiously as possible, Mr. Gamey came here Sunday, and engaged a room at the Mansion House, where he has since remained. He was seen by a press representative this afternoon. He had just finished his lunch, and was comfortably smoking a cigar in the hotel lounging room.

Asked why he left Toronto, Mr. Gamey said: "I came here to get a little rest. I won't say how long I am going to stay; maybe a few days. I may go back to-morrow. I will stay here until I feel like returning."

"Are you not wanted any more at the hearing?" was asked.

"I don't know. The prosecution has finished with me as far as I know. Maybe the defence will want me."

"Will you go back if you are wanted?"

Mr Gamey evaded the question by saying:

"You'll have an interview with me before long. I came here to get a rest, and I cannot say just when I will go back." Asked if he was in communication with Toronto, so he could return if wanted at the hearing, Mr. Gamey said he is not today, but expects to be.

"Will you return before the hearing is over?"

"I think so," was his reply. Mr. Gamey is registered as "R. Gamey, Sudbury," next below his name on the hotel register is that of "W. B Vicol," apparently in the same handwriting, but Mr. Gamey said he is here alone. He was talking with an elderly, grey haired man, tall and with a grey moustache, but declined to say anybody accompanied him.

A RECORD BREAKER

The United States Getting Thousands of Immigrants

New York, April 22—This month is expected to break all records for immigration at this port. At the close of to-day's business 64,000 aliens had passed Ellis Island in eighteen days. Those scheduled for the remainder of this month indicate that the total for April will exceed ninety thousand.

May, last year, with 82,000 immigrants is the record month at the Island. Reports from European sailing ports indicate that more than 100,000 aliens will arrive next month.

GRAIN GROWING IN THE YUKON

Prof. John Macoun Expresses His Belief that it Will Soon be a Fertile Belt

Ottawa, April 22—One of the most interesting addresses the Agriculture Committee has ever listened to was that given recently by Professor John Macoun, naturalist to the Geological Survey on the agricultural possibilities of the Yukon. It was a revelation to the members that on the northern slopes of the mountains it is possible to grow everything that can be grown within one hundred miles of Ottawa, that the short hot summer brings vegetation on rapidly so that tender flowers like roses will bloom earlier there than here.

Prof. Macoun is as enthusiastic a believer in the possibility of raising grain successfully in the Yukon as he was thirty years ago in regard to the North West.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY

The Chart of Stikine Considered to Be Important

New York, April 22—The correspondent of the New York Tribune in London says: The attitude of the United States embassy, at St. Petersburg, shows clearly that the chart of the Stikine is considered an important weapon in the settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute. This chart was made by an officer commissioned by the Russian Government previous to the transfer of Alaska to the United States, and was deposited with the Russian Admiralty where it has remained ever since. At the time of the transfer, a copy of the chart was given to the United States embassy at St. Petersburg have been asking for another one. The Daily Chronicle correspondent in the Russian capital says that a copy of the original chart, signed and certified to be a true copy, has now been handed to the United States Ambassador, and is at the present time on the way to Washington.

THE GRAND TRUNK PRESIDENT WILL SOON VISIT CANADA

SIR CHARLES RIVERS-WILSON TO LOOK INTO THE TRANSCONTINENTAL LINE

The Government to be Asked to Guarantee the Bonds of the Company

Montreal, April 22—That the Grand Trunk Pacific project is still being actively discussed by the English directors of the Company is shown by the fact that at the request of the directors, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson will come to Canada and look into the feasibility of the Grand Trunk Pacific project, and more especially that part of it involving the construction of another line along the north Shore of Lake Superior. The directors, according to the announcement made, are particularly anxious to secure the opinion of the President before definitely deciding how much stock the Grand Trunk will take in the Grand Trunk Pacific Company. It is now intended that Sir Charles should visit the West and find out exactly what is the nature of the country through which the new line will run.

In addition to the visit to the West Sir Charles will also wait on Sir Wilfrid Lauriers and members of the Cabinet and point out that the Government should agree to a satisfactory guarantee of the bonds of the company. Up to the present time Mr. Hayes has not been able to make as satisfactory an arrangement with the Government as he would like, and it was on this account that he asked Sir Charles to come to Canada as soon as possible after the semi-annual meeting of the shareholders of the company.

A fairly large Canadian stockholder, in discussing the Pacific project, stated that since it became known that it would be necessary to build a third line, owing to the impossibility of forcing a sale of the Canadian Northern, some of the directors had not taken the same favorable view of the project in which Mr. Hays has been so keenly interested ever since his return from the management of the Southern Pacific. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, on his trip across the continent will be accompanied by Mr. C. M. Hays, the second Vice-President and General Manager.

OF DOUBTFUL ADVANTAGE

Parties of Expelled Monks from France to Canada

Montreal, April 22—A party of 14 Franciscan monks and lay brothers have reached the city from Amiens, France. Among the number was a brother of Mr. Percy Quinn, the well known lacrosse and hockey player. The party formed a section of a much larger group which was recently expelled from France under the law of Associations. A few of the sections went to England, some to the United States and one to Canada. The monks have already taken up their temporary residence in the Franciscan monastery on Dorchester street. They came to Canada from France by way of New York.

The Critical Time of Life

Is between the years of fifty-seven and sixty-two. Nature's power slows down, vitality becomes less, and the progress of decay sets it. A means of extending old age and renewing decreasing vigor is to take Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone keeps up the appetite, and in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, imparts clearness to the tiring brain, force energy, and spirits just when they are needed most. To take Ferrozone regularly means adding from ten to twenty years to life. Large boxes 50c., or 6 for $2.50, at Druggists, or Polson

BANK AMALGAMATION

The Halifax Banking Company and the Bank of Commerce

Montreal, April 22—At a meeting of the Halifax Banking Company, held at Halifax the vote was practically unanimous in confirming the sale of banks' assets to the Canadian Bank of Commerce. This action consummates the amalgamation of these two institutions, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce will now have 105 branches, and their assets will amount to about $76,000,000 and deposits to $58,000,000, when the statements of the two banks are combined.

Latest Postal Regulations

Each article so posted must be stamped "Prepaid in bulk by newsdealers." All mail matter so sent shall be subject to the regulations relating to the posting of second class matter and specimen copies of Canadian periodicals.

POSTUM COFFEE

COW SENSE

People Get Willful

A cow or horse or even a dog will refuse to eat or drink what the animal knows to be harmful, but mankind will persist in pouring in coffee even after having been fully assured that it is steadily killing him. Once in a while they wake up and do the sensible thing.

A lady says: "Why will people wait as long as I did, when it is so easy to save oneself the suffering caused by coffee drinking? After using coffee several years I discovered that I was breaking down nervously. I consulted several doctors, but in spite of everything steadily grew worse.

"One physician advised me to quit coffee, and I tried quitting by the use of will power, but every time it was a miserable failure.

"My stomach was in dreadful shape, and I was unable to sleep at night, nervous prostration set in and I became barely able to drag about.

"One day while visiting a minister's wife, a motherly old lady, she proposed to give me a cup of coffee, the kind she had been using three times a day for three years. So she brought out a cup of the most fragrant, delicious beverage. It was coffee and it was not coffee. I tried it and was eager to know how it was made.

"She said: 'Five years ago I was affected much as you are, but I quit drinking coffee and began using Postum Food Coffee, and that produced the result you see and restored me to health.'

"She said a lot more, and when I went home I got a box of Postum and began using it. Such a soothing effect took place and I began sleeping nights and felt a relief from my awful nervous tension. Gradually and surely I got well, and now I feel as strong and healthy as a woman should at my age, with all my oldtime energy restored. I earnestly entreat all coffee drinkers to change to Postum. What is the use of suffering day and night because of some paltry coffee, when one has but to leave it off and use Postum to be well, and I think any one will agree with me that health is worth everything else—money, property or fame."

WHO PAYS FOR THE BREAKFAST?

Who pays for the wedding breakfast, says an exchange, the bride or the bridegroom? is the burning question in Chicago. It arises from the case of a young man who was married at the bride's home, the guests partook of a wedding breakfast and the couple started on their wedding journey. The father-in-law had the bill referred to his son-in-law. The latter returned the bill to his father-in-law with the information that precedent, at least, indicated that he was the proper man to pay the bill. The old man declined upon the ground that the breakfast was ordered for the young man and his wife; that as the ceremony was before the breakfast the bride was released from all claim on her father, and her future support and breakfasts for her friends were chargeable to her husband. It is to be regretted, perhaps, in order that a precedent might be established, that the matter did not come into the courts, but was settled amicably, possibly both parties sharing in the payment of the bill. Undoubtedly the legal decision would have been in favor of the father-in-law. The legal points were his way, though something would depend on whose name was used in issuing the invitations to the breakfast. At any rate, a nice legal point is raised, and young men, to guard themselves, should insist on getting their wedding breakfast or dinner first and being married afterwards. Public opinion will, as a rule, charge the father-in-law, in this case, with being somewhat too close in the financial settlement.

ANOTHER CLOSE CORPORATION

At the Ontario Educational Association the other day a proposition was discussed which has for its object the making of the teaching profession a close corporation. In the words of its sponsor, "the chief object of incorporation would be higher salaries, insurance, sick benefit, superannuation fund, circulating libraries and having control of entrance to the profession." It was said that the teachers of twenty county associations had approved of the scheme, which is not a matter for surprise. But what of the great public? The close corporations of law, medicine, etc., are bad enough in all conscience, but they deal with only the private individual; the teacher's status should be different. As long as the great public pays to keep up schools for teachers to be trained in, and compels the engaging of teachers so trained there should be no combine control of the profession. The teachers should not begin such a campaign, and if they do, the representatives of the people must take good care to preserve the rights and powers of those they represent.

UNDER THE TURK'S TROUBLES

The situation in the Balkans continues acute. Turkey is evidently endeavoring to bring about certain reforms which should satisfy Russia and Austria. In seeking to placate his ancient enemies, Abdul Hamid is meeting difficulties on account of the fanaticism of his subjects. The uprising of the Albanians, the murder of the Russian consul, M. Sr. Cherbina, and the bloodthirsty retaliation of the Bulgarians upon Mussulmans, have caused the fear in Constantinople that the Christian powers might find in these troubles an excuse for intervention. If the Turk could be persuaded to withdraw from the Balkan States, Russia and Austria would quickly put an end to atrocities which are daily disgracing Europe.

DISTRICT NEWS

GALWAY.

The concert at Kinmount on Monday of last week proved a great success. The chief character, Paddy Doyle, was well acted by L. Brown, who kept the audience in roars of laughter. His wit, his humor and his brogue were perfect. Every action corresponded, and imitated exactly the Irish trait. De Buffer was also in his usual form. Miss Foley took the part of Peggy, and a more suitable character could not be found. She seemed naturally gifted in the Irish brogue. The landlord showed himself very strict in regard to the young people, especially his Irish servants. Ida and Harry showed great determination in their resolutions to marry, notwithstanding the objections of their fathers. The following was the caste of characters:

Mr. Lovelady ....Laurence Doherty
Ida Lovelady ....Ermine Doherty
Paddy........................Lynn Brown
Harry Sterling ....B. Larrigan
DeBuffer........................Wm. Lawton
Peggy ....Alice Foley

The singing of Miss Foley, the Misses Wright, Miss Garden and L. Brown was excellent. The orchestra of Bobcaygeon and Fenelon deserve much credit for the excellent music furnished. The recitations by Ettie Cain and Nellie Allen were much appreciated.

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE

(A War Song Asked For.)

Just before the battle, mother,
I am thinking most of you;
While upon the field we're watching
With the enemy in view.
Comrades brave are round me lying,
Filled with thoughts of home and God;
For well they know upon the morrow,
Some will sleep beneath the sod.

Chorus—

Farewell mother, you may never
Press me to your heart again,
But, Oh, you'll not forget me mother,
If I'm numbered with the slain.

Oh! I long to see you, mother,
And the loving ones at home,
But I'll never leave our banner
Till in honor I can come.
Tell the traitors all around you,
That their cruel words we know,
In every battle kill our soldiers
By the help they give the foe.

Hark! I hear the bugle sounding,
'Tis the signal for the fight;
Now may God protect us, mother,
As he ever does the right.
Hear the battle cry of "Freedom!"
How it swells upon the air!
Oh, yes, we'll rally round the standard,
Or we'll perish nobly there.

Bad Complexion

Has Its Cause in Impure or Impoverished Blood

To have a soft, smooth skin, free from eruptions and unsightly blemishes, the blood must be maintained in a healthy condition.

Face powders, lotions and other toilet preparations may, for a short time cover up a multitude of wrongs in the blood, but they cannot remove these red, disfiguring pimples that are the bane of so many young ladies' lives.

Why not use Ferrozone? It is an unfailing cure for the worst kind of skin disease, the most effective of all blood purifiers, and cures bad complexion by removing its cause.

Ferrozone invigorates and purifies enfeebled blood. Makes it strong rich and red. Ferrozone puts power into the blood to nourish the body and all its organs. It is a regulator of acknowledged merit, and is quite unrivaled as a remedy for Female disorders.

Mrs. Shanly, of Pittsburg, Ont., says: "For five years my face was disfigured by raw, bleeding eruptions that resisted all treatment.

"Three Kingston doctors did their best for me and when they acknowledged themselves beaten, I tried Ferrozone. The first box helped me quite a little, and by the time I had used six boxes I was cured. Ferrozone is a fine remedy for womanly disorders of all kinds and I can highly recommend it." (Signed), Mary Shanly.

Growing girls, women, men, in fact everybody can derive untold benefit from Ferrozone. It is a tonic for the blood, brain and nerves and worth its price ten times over to everyone who uses it.

Three weeks' treatment contained in a box of sixty-three chocolate coated tablets, cost 50c., or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists, and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A PROMISING PROPOSITION

The Eastern National Copper Co. of Cape Breton will be Represented by Mr. R. J. Kidd of Peterborough

The rapid development of the mineral and industrial wealth of the Maritime Provinces of the Dominion, particularly Nova Scotia, is attracting wide attention of investors of this country and abroad. The abundance and the favorable position of the coal and metals of the Atlantic Provinces is a powerful factor in successful production.

An important discovery of Copper-gold ore which has just been made in Cape Breton indicates that that wonderful corner of Canada is likely to become as well known for its other minerals as for its coal and iron. The find referred to is at Cheticamp on the north shore of the island. Cheticamp (Eastern Harbor) is the best natural harbor on that side of Cape Breton and is to be the terminus of the Inverness (McKenzie & Mann's) railroad, of which there are sixty miles in operation already and it is to be extended this year from Broad Cove to Cheticamp, thirty miles, to secure a point of shipment for the output of several coal mines on the line of the road.

The find of copper-gold ore is a body of ore-bearing schist over 100 feet wide and traced for a mile in length averaging at least ten dollars per ton in gold, silver and copper. Some samples have given very high values, and the deposit is looked upon as one of the most important mineral discoveries in Eastern Canada, and being situated only four miles from tide water and being surrounded with coal, iron and limestone should prove of immense value when developed. With rail and water shipping facilities and ample timber and natural water power there is little doubt that a self-contained property like this should be the basis of an important industry. Prominent mining engineers who have visited Cheticamp district think that it will eventually rank among the most important mining sections of Canada on account of the undoubted great extent of the metal deposits and the nearness to rail and water shipping facilities, and to supplies of fuel and fluxes. The Eastern National Copper Company, Limited, which owns and is developing this valuable property at Cheticamp is a corporation of Nova Scotia business men. The Company commenced active development work last fall and have driven a main slope 100 feet and are getting ready to begin driving a thousand foot tunnel into the side of the mountain to meet the slope at a depth of 200 feet. Both the slope and tunnel are in ore all the time, there being not one foot of dead work, as the ore outcrops in a big reef along the mountain side and also down the side of the gorge where the tunnel begins. The tunnel will enable the mine to be unwatered by gravitation and will save hoisting of ore.

Development is proceeding night and day and it is estimated that the slope and drift when completed will block out between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 ore. Large smelter works are projected, but the company are making a mine first, and spending every dollar underground in blocking out ore. There are thousands of tons of ore in sight and on the dump. Copper-gold ores are perhaps the most attractive form of mining, because they are usually found in large deposits and carry regular and uniform values and have permanency to warrant the investment of large capital in extensive works. Many of the large private fortunes in the United States have had their origin in the copper-gold ores of the West, and just at the present time it is noticeable that copper shares in that country have tremendously appreciated and that the price of the metal has risen from 11c. to 15c. per lb.

The numerous uses to which copper is put are constantly increasing and the demand for the product grows faster than the supply of the available metal. Copper should be produced at the Cape Breton mines at very little cost, while the coal and silver contents of the ore are expected to cover the expenses.

The Eastern National Copper Company's advertisement on page 2 announces the offering of a limited number of development shares for public subscription at $3.00 (30 cents on the dollar) per share, par value $10.00. The proposition is well worthy of investigation.

The Fiscal Agents of the Eastern National Company, Messrs Alfred Bennett & Co., of No. 16 Prince St., Halifax, Canada, will be represented in this section of Ontario by Mr. R. J. Kidd, boot and shoe dealer of Peterborough, who has become actively interested in this very promising enterprise and will receive subscriptions for shares and answer all enquiries with regard to the proposition.

Insured Against Specialists.

In England people of moderate means are beginning to insure themselves against surgical operations. The plan is that subscribers who pay an annual fee shall be entitled either to free admittance to a hospital or nursing at home and a free operation or to a fixed sum paid down to defray the cost of an operation if one becomes necessary. In England, as here, the cost of surgical repairs to the human body has become oppressively great to persons who just manage to pay their way. People who are obviously poor get a great deal of excellent surgical and medical treatment in hospitals and elsewhere for nothing, but for the next class above them a serious illness—especially if it involves an operation—is almost ruinous. It would seem as if the time was near when societies for insurance against specialists might be profitably organized in the larger American cities. The specialists has come to be a very important—indeed, an indispensable—institution, especially to families in which there are children. The office of the family doctor has now become simplified to the task of coming in and telling the patient which specialist to go to. It is not that specialists charge too much, for their honorable services are above price. It is that landlord, butcher, baker, grocer, milkman, coalman, dentist and trained nurse do not leave you money enough to pay them appropriately. To subscribe a considerable sum annually and have all the repairs and desirable improvements made in one's family without further disbursement would be a comparatively simple way out of a troublesome predicament.—"Harper's Weekly."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"What is it?" cried Mr. Capper, on the alert for surprises.

But Norma could not speak. She could only stare, wide-eyed, at the younger of the two women, who, pale, trembling, nervous, stood before her, unable to utter a word.

"What is it?" repeated the solicitor, drawing nearer, and looking from the one to the other of the two younger women, and from them to Mrs. Midsomer, who was more utterly overwhelmed than either of the others.

Indeed it was she who gave the first indication of where the mystery lay. Muttering to herself, "Oh, dear, oh, dear! Now they'll know everything!" the elder woman stole quickly across the room and out into the hall before it had occurred to Mr. Capper to try to detain her.

As for Norma and Mrs. Finch, they still stood, in a state of the highest nervous excitement, facing each other in the middle of the room. Neither appeared even to have noticed that Mrs. Midsomer had gone out.

"Who are you?" said Norma at last, hoarsely. "Are you Lottie, or are you not?"

"Lottie!" echoed Mr. Capper, starting. "Why, no, this is her sister, Mrs. Finch."

Trembling more than ever, the guilty woman looked down, unable to meet the lawyer's stern eyes.

Norma, still with her eyes fixed on the worn, pretty face before her, said, in a low voice: "She came to me, saying she was Lottie. Oh, why did you do it? How could you?"

Mr. Capper came forward quickly.

"What! What!" said he. "Is this the bottom of the mystery then? Your sister is dead, and you personated her? You dared to?"

Mrs. Finch sank, trembling, into a chair.

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry," she murmured brokenly, "indeed I've never had a peaceful day or night since. Don't think I have had anything but misery from the misery I've caused you! Oh, dear, oh, dear!"

And she covered her face with her hands and burst into tears.

"What on earth put this wicked, infamous plot into your head?" asked Mr. Capper presently.

"Oh, it wasn't my doing, indeed it wasn't. I should never have thought of doing such a thing by myself. It was Frank Wharles suggested it—"

"Ah! The doctor! I thought so!"

"He was very hard up, and at his wits' end for money. He and Fanny were always extravagant. And it seems Lady Darwen—" she glanced up askance, not liking to meet Norma's eyes—"said something to him, the first time he saw her, that made him think she believed Lottie to be alive. And then he said the idea rushed into his head, of what a good thing he could make out of it if only he could induce her and Sir Astley to believe that was true."

Norma uttered a faint exclamation.

"Oh," cried she, "then it was you I saw at Oxford! Why did you go there, and follow him as you did, and run away when you saw me? Making me think there was something wrong?"

"Why," said Mrs. Finch, drying her eyes, and speaking freely, as if she found confession a great relief, "I went to Oxford, when I found Sir Astley was there, to beg him to help my mother and me a little. I knew very well we had [illegible] assistance from him, after the way Lottie had behaved, but he is so good-hearted, and we were so hard up that I thought I would venture."

"Then what made you shy at the last moment?"

"Why, when I heard you, a lady, ask for him, I thought it would not do for me to intrude, and I went away. And then I followed you both one evening, trying to screw my courage up, but afraid it would be of no use, since he was already married to someone else, so that he would feel there was no tie, even the slightest, between us and himself any longer. So I went away from Oxford without speaking to him."

"If only you hadn't done that!" sighed Norma. "That was the beginning of the whole miserable affair. I wondered whether his wife was really dead after all, and when Dr. Wharles said something about her, I asked the question which unluckily put this wicked plot into his head!"

"I can't understand how you, Mrs. Finch, could ever have lent yourself to such a business," said Mr. Capper, very sternly.

She burst into tears again.

"You don't know how ashamed of myself I felt over it," she said, with her head bent down, wiping her eyes. "I was over-persuaded; my sister and her husband were in fear of nothing less than ruin: my mother was not well, and I hadn't money enough to get her the little luxuries she likes. And so, and so—when the doctor urged and coaxed, and even threatened, I—I—gave way, and came here, and—and passed myself off as Lottie."

"But you tried to get into his room! And if he had seen you, you would have been found out!" said Norma.

Mrs. Finch looked up.

"I knew very well you'd never let me see him," she retorted. "I only pretended to want to go in, because if I hadn't, you'd have thought there was something wrong."

"Well, if the plot wasn't of your devising, you took very nicely to deception!" remarked Mr. Capper, dryly.

She made a reckless gesture with her right hand.

"Since it had to be done, it was as well to do it thoroughly," she said. "And, I suppose there's deceit in the blood of all the family. One thing I must tell you, though"—and she turned earnestly to Norma—"I very nearly broke down and confessed everything when you took me into your room and were so kind to me. If you hadn't been called away you would have known everything in another five minutes."

Norma sighed. It all seemed like a nightmare that she had gone through, and she was trying to understand that she was now wide awake.

"And the letter," she asked suddenly, "the letter that Astley received, and was sure was written by your sister, was that a forgery?"

"No," said Mrs. Finch. "It was not. When the idea of making up this story came into Frank Wharles' head, you remember that he went to Leamington, as he said to find out the truth?"

"Yes."

"Well, what he really wanted was to see us, especially my mother, and to make sure of having a good, sound story, that had no weak points. And he rummaged among the things Lottie had left behind, her desk, and her cupboards, and he found this old letter, one of the scores she used to write and then never send. If you [illegible] 'Will you forgive me for my deceit?'"

"Yes, I remember."

"Well, she meant deceit of another kind, something that could have been proved against her."

"What a mass of trickery!" cried Mr. Capper impatiently.

Norma sat silent, chilled with horror and disgust in the midst of the relief she felt.

"Then this unlucky Rogerson," said Mr. Capper, "was murdered, I suppose, because he knew too much, and threatened to tell."

"Yes. Poor Tom Rogerson! He was really fond of Lottie, and—well, I don't want to say anything about either of them but just this. Tom Rogerson knew that Lottie was dead, and when he heard how Sir Astley was being tricked, he said it was a shame, and he should let him know the truth. I don't say his motives were altogether disinterested: poor Tom didn't like work, and he guessed that Sir Astley would be grateful for any information which put an end to his anxiety. So he came to Blackdale, and called at the doctor's house, and I believe there was a dreadful scene. But Tom stuck to his intention, and said he would meet Sir Astley, and tell him everything. And—and—you know what happened," she added in a low voice.

There was silence for a space. Then Mr. Capper, who had been standing on the hearthrug with his hands behind him, walked forward a few steps on the way to the door.

"Sir Astley must know of this," he said.

Mrs. Finch started again.

"Sir Astley! He isn't anywhere near, is he? I thought he was in London!" cried she in alarm.

"I don't know exactly where he is, but he certainly isn't in London," said Mr. Capper, with his fingers on the door handle.

"Then I must go. I couldn't meet him, I wouldn't. And nor would my mother!"

"How came you to have the impudence to put in an appearance here, and to engage to bring your sister, when you knew you couldn't?" asked the lawyer abruptly.

"We thought—mother thought—we could say she'd run away. And then—why we were going to chance what happened," said Mrs. Finch desperately. "The truth is, we have been living in such a state of misery and anxiety, always afraid of being found out, and wretchedly poor, because nearly all Sir Astley's money went to Frank and his wife, that we didn't know what to do. And when we were told we must come here, we were quite glad of an excuse for a change from the life we'd been leading. And I suppose, sooner or later, now that—well, now that Frank Wharles has got into this terrible plight, I suppose we should have confessed everything, and thrown ourselves on Sir Astley's mercy."

"I don't think you deserve much, frankly," said the lawyer, with a grim expression of face.

"I—don't—think—we do," sobbed Mrs. Finch. "And now, oh, do let us get away before Sir Astley comes, do, do let us! I wouldn't face him for the world!"

"You could face him at Leamington though, and with a lie," said Mr. Capper sternly. "By the by," he went on, with a puzzled face, "how did you manage to pass yourself off to him as your sister? You are not very like her, and—and, why, surely you were with me all the time!"

Mrs. Finch hung her head.

"It was my mother—you know she is very like Lottie—she pretended to be she. And in the darkened room, where you couldn't see how much older she was, and with some of the hair poor Lottie used to wear peeping out from under her cap, I myself thought she looked wonderfully, horribly like her!"

"Oh, trickery, trickery, thy name is woman!" muttered Mr. Capper. "There, go away, if you like. I don't suppose Sir Astley will be particularly anxious to see either of you!"

But Norma stopped her.

"I think [illegible] him," she said quietly. "He may have some questions to ask, and you owe it to him, as

Speaking in Parables.

Phrases and figures of speech often tell much of one's early life and environment. Such illustrations as arise spontaneously to a man's mind in conversation are usually those derived from familiar scenes or favorite books.

Secretary Shaw, a Vermont Yankee, who has passed most of his life in the Mississippi Valley, often surprises his Washington callers by the terse, everyday phrases, and even homely illustrations, in which he sets forth his attitude on great questions of public policy. Not long ago a delegation of influential men were trying to persuade him to do something to which he was plainly disinclined. To their elaborate technical arguments he replied:

"Gentlemen, I expect to get into more or less hot water while I am in this office, but you must excuse me from stepping into a bucket from which I can see the steam rising."

When asked by reporters on another occasion why he was unwilling to give publicity to some views which he had just advanced, Mr. Shaw replied:

"Don't you know that when you spank your baby in public you give it a good deal worse reputation than it deserves?"

One of his casual admonitions which has been somewhat quoted, is:

"Don't drop your monkey-wrench into the cylinder just when the threshing-machine is going to start."

With an H.

"What's your baby's name?" asked a visitor who had called to secure Mrs. Johnson's services as washerwoman.

"I'm 'most 'shamed to tell you dat chile's name," said Mrs. Johnson, "'case de folks round here say it soun' like he was an Injun. But his name, dat his paw 'sisted on gibing him—his name am Hoscar, missy."

"Horse-car?" feebly repeated the visitor.

"Yas'm—Hoscar," said the mother, sorrowfully. "Dere was an Englishman dat was pow'ful good to Mr. Johnsing when he took dat foolish trip out Wes' four years ago, an' put him on de cyars to come home again; an' when my husban' ax him his name he smile an' say, 'Dey call me Hoscar when I'm to home,' he say. So when dis baby was born, nuffin would do but we mus' call him Hoscar, after dat Englishman."

"Livable."

"Yes," said Mrs. Farren, decidedly, "Milly Morris is a nice girl clear through, and if anybody ought to get along easy with a tryin' mother-in-law, she ought. A more livable person I never knew."

"Livable?" repeated her listener. "Livable? That must be a local word. I don't think I ever heard it before."

"It may be local," rejoined Mrs. Farren, a trifle loftily, "and it may be bad, and it may be good; but anyway it's just what I mean. Milly's livable. She's been brought up in a big family, and she's had to be, if she meant to be comfortable herself and let other folks be comfortable, too. There were more livable folks when I was a girl than there are now, and I think the big families had a good deal to do with it, though of course not everything.

"There were plenty of people then who never got their corners worn down, no matter how many brothers and sisters they had; but even when they rasped, those days, they got along together after a fashion. Nowadays, land! Sometimes it stumps me fair and square why the nice people I know in nice families can't seem to stand each other's little ways.

"Oh, I don't say it isn't so; when the doctors say they can't and it generally ends in doctors—why, I suppose they truly can't. It's nerves, and nobody understands nerves unless the doctors, and I'm a long way from being sure that they do. But just you count up some time the families where there's always one member mysteriously off visiting, and then the number of folks you know that separate when they'd naturally stay together, if only they could hit it off—one sisters and only-surviving bachelor brothers, and mothers and only daughters, and all sorts of family remnants that ought to be each other's best comfort. But as soon as they try living together, one of 'em gets nervous prostration, or has hysteric spells, or is ordered off quick to travel somewhere where the climate doesn't agree with the other one. They're fond enough of each other, generally, and they aren't generally ugly-tempered; they just aren't livable.

"It can't be endured, always, and it can't be cured, sometimes; but I'm firm in believing it could be prevented most times. If, when folks first began to harden in their own little crankums, and fret over the cranks of the folks they care most for, they'd stop and think where they were getting to, why, nine times out of ten they'd pull up in time, and get their nerves and feelings and foolish frettings tight in hand before they run away with 'em!

"Yes, that's what I surely do believe. And outside the great, big, deep foundation virtues, if I had a daughter, the little virtue—if it is a little virtue—I'd rather have her have than any other would be just that—being livable. It's an all-round, lifelong blessing to whomsoever it concerns."

"It may be good or it may be bad or it may be local," assented the listener, thoughtfully, "but whatever it is as a word, livable is a good thing to be. I'll own that."

An "American" Duel.

A Heidelberg student has just recovered from the effects of his own foolishness, after lying for weeks at death's door. The story is so disgraceful that it deserves to be made known. Last July some Heidelberg students—all mere lads—had a violent altercation about a girl. It ended in the usual manner, with a challenge, only the duel was to be more original than the ordinary run of German students' duels. It was to be a so-called "American duel," although it is an insult to American common sense to call it such. The duellists drew lots as to who should kill himself, and the lot fell upon a young idiot of nineteen, a student of medicine and son of a high government official at [illegible] modes of suicide, and selected cutting open his arteries. His fellow-students drew a picture of his "death-mask," placed a couple of skulls on the table by the side of it, solemnly said farewell to the doomed one, and left him in his room. The landlord, suspecting something was wrong, forced the door, and found the student lying in a pool of blood unconscious. He had done his best to comply with the terms of the duel, but was not quite dead. While medical aid was being summoned the other students returned to see if the sentence had been carried out. In disgust at the result, one of them kicked the body of the almost lifeless youth, saying, "Why, the fellow's alive! He's only disfigured himself!" And this is the much-vaunted German university life!

These Bill Boards!

Humor is hardly the quality one expects to find on the editorial page of the London "Times," yet it gives a most effective turn to a plea for the restriction of the advertising bill-board nuisance. "Let us think," says the "Times," "of the opening of Gray's 'Elegy:'

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day;
The lowing herd winds slowly o'er the lea,
The plowman homeward plods his weary way,
And leaves the world to darkness and to me, and consider whether such lines could ever have been written if the poet, musing in Stoke Pogis churchyard, had looked in one direction and seen the lowing herd winding past somebody's advertisement of a patent oil cake; in another, and seen the weary plowman considering whether he should buy some gaudily flaunted nostrum warranted to ease his weariness; in a third, and spied some parish board offering him an oil to illuminate the glimmering landscape as it faded on his sight."

What a Jealous Wife Found.

A Fayette woman suspected that her husband was in the habit of kissing the hired girl, and resolved to detect him in the act. Saturday night she saw him pass quietly into the kitchen. The hired girl was out, and the kitchen was dark. The jealous wife took a few matches in her hand, and, hastily placing a shawl over her head, as the hired girl often did, entered the back door, and immediately she was seized and kissed and embraced in an ardent manner. With heart almost bursting, the wife prepared to administer a terrible rebuke to the faithless spouse, and, tearing herself away from his fond embrace, she struck a match and stood face to face with—the hired man.—Salisbury "Press-Spectator."

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

STOCK MARKETS

TWO EXISTING POWERFUL BULL FACTORS

New York, April 21—Money is working cheaper; it will be in plentiful supply. In June the Pennsylvania railroads pay off a loan of $40,000,000. Large lenders are putting out all the cash they can, as they foresee the fall in demand, consequently in rate. The rapid current increase in our exports is helping matters moneywise and otherwise as well. It now looks as if our trade balance this year will equal that of the year before. Our greatly reduced foreign borrowings at present are also of incalculable benefit. The next gold movement is more likely to flow this way than towards Europe. The increased net earnings cannot be dwelt upon too strongly by market students. The railways, as we said yesterday, have passed the period generally of extraordinary expense caused by freight congestion. It is no longer necessary to issue orders to move freight at any cost. Economic principles can now be applied. Take Mo. P.; its heavy expenditures are about over; its net gain for February of nearly $800,000, and the net increase of B. & O. for March of over $500,000 show most clearly what is going on. B. & O. is at present earning over 9 per cent. upon its common stock. We would have been enjoying at present quite a rampant market, had not the Northern securities decision been sprung. The government report on winter wheat, issued on April 10th, showing practically perfection would have been accomplishing its work. The strength of the bond market indicates much for the future, as well as the desire of investors to buy into the current market. European demand for such American investments is at present very large. It is plainly evident that necessitous share holders have finished their liquidation. Stocks are now in the hands of people abundantly able to care for them. The present range of values is exceedingly low also, far below the average prices in most instances. This makes the market attractive also and unusually safe to buy into at present, with a fair margin. Buy stocks.

To the Public:

The plans of the Anchorage Live-Stock Company should readily meet with the approval of those wishing a live stock investment.

It is no chance speculation. Live stock, properly cared for, always makes large dividends. No money is retained from investment but immediately all is assigned its mission—making dividends for the shareholders.

Allowing stock certificates to be paid for in monthly installments offers an opportunity to the laboring man to increase his income, by making small investments, each month, in a large company; thus reaping the same benefits, in proportion, as the larger share owners and also having a voice in the management of affairs.

Being personally acquainted with the officers of this Company and knowing them to be progressive and reliable business men I heartily recommend, to all, the Anchorage Live-Stock Company for a sure and safe investment.

Yours very truly,
CHAS. E. OWENS,
Cashier.

SOME STARTLING FACTS

regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 31 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
120 Albert St., London.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

RED ROSE TEA

A NAME THAT IS A GUARANTEE OF QUALITY.

IT CURES

Colds

Coughs

Catarrh

Asthma

Bronchitis

Pneumonia

Consumption

Actual size.

CATARRHOZONE INHALER is the greatest invention of the century for the cure of diseases of the respiratory organs. It is sure to cure because it cannot fail to reach the germs in the air passages that give rise to the diseased conditions.

The antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone is inhaled at the mouth, and after permeating the air cells and passages of all the respiratory organs, is exhaled slowly through the nostrils. It goes everywhere the air we breathe goes, and is certain to reach the seat of the disease no matter how remote.

AN ORDINARY COLD lasts about one day if Catarrhozone is inhaled five minutes every hour.

CATARRH and BRONCHITIS are relieved at once and cured for all time, by the persistent use of Catarrhozone.

CATARRHOZONE OUTFIT consists of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months. Costs $1, or trial size 25c. Sold by Druggists and N. C. POLSON & CO., Kingston, Ont.

Death of Miss Hawkins

We regret to chronicle the death of Miss Clara, daughter of Mr. John A. Hopkins, Communication Road, which sad event took place on Monday evening, after a lingering illness. The deceased young lady was only 19 years of age, and was much beloved by all who knew her. The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon to Little Lake cemetery. Mr. Hawkins has the sincere sympathy of a wide circle of friends in the loss of so bright and promising a young daughter.

Valuable Advice to Mothe

If your child comes in from play coughing or showing evidences of an approaching attack of Grippe, Sore Throat, or sickness of any kind, first thing get out your bottle of Nerviline. Rub the chest and neck with Nerviline and give internal doses of ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water every two hours. This will prevent any serious trouble. No liniment or pain reliever equals Polson's Nerviline, which is a necessity in every household. Large bottles cost only 25c.

GEN. BADEN-POWELL IN TOWN

The Hero of Mafeking Making a Flying Trip Through Canada

General Baden-Powell, the hero of Mafeking, passed through Peterborough on Monday, on his way east. The General is on a secret mission to the United States and Canada in connection with military affairs. A Times reporter tried to get an interview, but was unable to do so, as the General, who occupied a stateroom sleeper, had retired.

THE HIGH TEA

Very Successful Affair Held Last Night at St. Paul's Church

The high tea given last night in St. Paul's church, was a great success. From five o'clock until nearly eight, the clatter of knife and fork was the chief feature, after which the sale of fancy goods was proceeded with. The Ladies' Aid Society of the church, under whose auspices the affair was conducted, are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts. The proceeds were in aid of the organ fund of St. Paul's mission.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD

Organized a Baseball Team on Monday Evening

St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild held a special meeting on Monday evening. The chief business was the question of summer athletics and it was decided to form a baseball club. The following officers were elected:

Hon.-President—Rev. J. G. Potter.

President—Mr. P. Kerr.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. J. M. Laing.

Manager—Mr. R. Elliott.

The Guild have secured grounds on McDonel street, and will begin practising shortly. It is expected that a league from the different guilds in town will be formed and some interesting contests should ensue.

STANLEY PIANO WORKS

A Toronto Firm Preparing to Operate it on Large Scale

Mr. Owen Martin, one of the Toronto men who purchased the plant of the Stanley Piano Company, will arrive in town this week to take over the plant and to make arrangements for the manufacture of pianos on a large scale.

Much regret is felt that Mr. Stanley will no longer be associated with the works. It is, however, gratifying to know that Peterborough will not lose one of her industries, but that it will, in all probability, be one of the largest and most important.

OBITUARY

Midland Free Press: The death occurred on Friday last of Mr. Fell, who had been a resident of Midland for the past fifteen years. Mr. Fell moved from Omemee to Midland fifteen years ago, and since that time has been engaged in the mills and lumber camps in connection with this town. Some time ago he contracted that dread disease, consumption, and gradually sank until Friday last, when he passed out of this life to the great unknown. Mr. Fell was in his 57th year, and leaves a wife and several children to mourn his loss.

A Cold Outlook

A Detroit astronomer has made a forecast of the weather, basing his prognostications on the opposition of the planet Mars, which occurred on April 9, and the full moon on the 11th. He says that Saturn is the greatest disturber of the weather, Venus is next, and Mars comes in neck and neck as a vigorous third. The new moon which will occur on April 27, is going to be a disturber of the moisture in the earth's atmosphere, and during the lunar month there will be a bunch of rainy weather. This pleasant forecast will make the umbrella and mackintosh dealers happy. But, worst of all, it will brighten the hopes of the coal dealer and sadden the hearts of the householder. It is going to be cold enough till the end of May to require furnaces and base burners to be kept up to almost winter glow.

An Ode to Spring

This great family journal has received the following from an anonymous source. It may not be quite in season, but nevertheless, is worth reading:

Spring,
Howdy do?
We pine for you,
The rooster scratches the frost-bound yard,
But he finds the earth is mighty hard;
Beneath the ice, the sleet, and snow,
The wriggling worms are lying low.
The boy who waits with pin and hook
To dangle it o'er the purling brook
Waits to catch this self-same worm,
To sew it through, to watch it squirm.
They both agree
With me
That you
Are nearly due.
This tramps who yearns for the country air—
The ragged gents—they'll soon prepare
To move
They love
To roost beneath the diamond-studded sky
Where the winds are warm and the swallows fly
They long for the cooling brooks that ripple
For the wayside inn and the friendly tipple.
With rooster and boy they are agreed
That from winter's grasp we should soon be freed;
So hustle,
Say, Spring,
Think of the poets and their muse,
Just waiting for breezes on which in enthuse
Like hounds full leashed,
With pens still sheathed.
They itch to write
They would indite
Some thought eternal
Some verse supernal,
Would empty out their very soul,
Use up reams, scroll on scroll;
What a slinging of words what a slushing of ink.
It palls me, Spring, as I stop to think.
Then there is the rum side,
The very glum side—
Housecleaning—
Aye, there's the rub,
Within the steaming tub.
But, Spring, e'en that pang I will endure.
Thy subtle pleasure must still allure
So, Winter, do not wait upon the order of thy going,
But go at once and quit your snowing.

The young man had been poorly for some time, but his demise was quite unexpected, and will come with a great shock to his relatives and friends in Peterborough.

They Father Consumption

Bad coughs, colds and catarrh are responsible for more consumption than is traceable even to heredity. Catarrhozone cures more quickly than ordinary remedies because it is the only antiseptic yet discovered that is volatile enough to reach the root of the trouble in remote parts of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and impregnate every particle of the air breathed with its healing, germ-killing vapor. Colds can't last ten minutes, or coughs more than thirty minutes when Catarrhozone is inhaled. It clears nose, throat and air passages at once, stops dropping, headache and eradicates catarrh from any part of the system. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists or N. C. DANGER SIGNALS.

No engineer would be mad enough to run by the flag which signaled danger. What the danger was he might not understand, but he would take no chances. It is different with the average man or woman. They attempt constantly to run by the danger signals of Nature and that attempt costs thousands of lives every year. When the appetite becomes irregular or entirely gives out, when sleep is troubled and broken, when there is a loss of flesh, when there is a constant feeling of dullness and languor, Nature is hoisting the danger signal. The stomach and its allied organs are failing in their work and the body is losing the nutrition on which its strength depends.

Such a condition calls for the prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the body with sound, solid flesh.

"Your kindness to me I can never forget," writes Mrs. Josie E. Clark, of Enterprise, Shelby Co., Mo. "I cannot express half my feelings of gratefulness to you. I had despaired of ever getting well. I had been in bad health for twelve years. Had aches all through me, numb hands, cold feet, and everything I ate distressed me; bowels constipated, was very nervous, depressed and despondent. In fact, I can't express half my bad feelings to you. When I first wrote to you I thought I could never be cured. I have taken six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and my health is now good. You have my honest recommendation to all sufferers. I think there is no medicine in the world as good as Dr. Pierce's."

If constipated use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They cure constipation, biliousness and sick headache. They do not produce the "pill habit."

GAMEY EXPLAINS DEPOSIT OF THE $900

FRANK SULLIVAN AND J. E. McEVOY, JUNIOR COUNSEL FOR DEFENCE, ALSO IN BUFFALO

HAS DUPLICATE SET OF BANK BOOKS

With No Leaves Missing, Member for Manitoulin Expresses Amazement That That Absence Has Occasioned So Much Excitement

HE WAS IN COMMUNICATION WITH COUNSEL

Buffalo, April 21.—R. R. Gamey is at the Mansion House. He came here on Sunday, and registered from Sudbury. To-day Frank Sullivan and J. M. McEvoy, junior counsel for the defence in the investigation arrived. They are at the same hotel. These two men assert that they are here, en route to Rochester, after Frank's father-in-law, who is wanted as a witness. The direct route to Rochester from Toronto is not via Buffalo.

DETECTIVES WATCHING HOTEL.

The police authorities say they have received no order from Toronto authorities to arrest Gamey, or even watch him. For all that, several city detectives have been watching the hotel all day. The correspondent has seen all three of the Toronto men. William Masson, of Owen Sound, is also here, with Gamey. He came over this evening, and declares that he is acting as Gamey's legal advisor. He ridicules the idea that Gamey is running away, and says he will be in Toronto when it is necessary.

GAMEY WILL EXPLAIN.

To-night Mr. Gamey kindly consented to be interviewed by a correspondent. He made some statements that throw a great light upon the vexed question of his sudden disappearance from Toronto.

"When are you going back to Toronto?" was the first question. "In a day or so," was Mr. Gamey's reply. "There is no immediate hurry for my return. Things can go on very well without me."

Pressed for an exact date, Mr. Gamey said that Thursday would probably see him in the Queen City again. He said that the defence had been in touch with him during his absence, although probably Mr. Blake was not aware when the commission opened on Tuesday morning as to exact whereabouts.

"Don't be afraid," were Mr. Gamey's words, "I will be back. What have I to fear? What reason is there for my staying away? I am merely taking a rest and visiting my relatives in this city."

HAS DUPLICATE BOOKS.

"What about that page torn out of Mr. Crossin's cash book?"

"I know nothing about that," was Mr. Gamey's reply.

"I have a duplicate set of books, and have never touched Mr. Crossin's books. If a leaf is torn out either Mr. Crossin or Mr. McEvoy is responsible."

ACCOUNTS FOR DEPOSIT.

"How do you account for that $900 deposit?" "That is very easily explained. I arranged some time before with Mr. Crossin to pay $640 into the business. I collected the money during the summer. This $640 has nothing to do whatever with the $1500 bribe."

"Mr. Crossin says you paid it into the bank yourself."

"Mr. Crossin is mistaken. I gave Mr. Crossin the $900 on the 11th of September. I did not pay it into the bank personally."

"Why did you get the slip from the Ontario Bank?"

"To check off with the pass book. I also wanted to see in whose handwriting the slip was made out. I had some dispute with Mr. Crossin as to who wrote the slip out. I regarded that slip as my own property."

"Why did you change the slip and give another one to the bank?" Mr. Gamey was asked.

HAS ORIGINAL SLIP?

"I had a perfect right to do what I liked with my own," was Mr. Gamey's reply.

"Have you the original slip?"

"Now you are asking too many questions," was the kindly reply of the member for Manitoulin.

"You do not forget the tellers initials on the slip you substituted for the original?"

"Most emphatically no," was the reply.

Mr. Gamey volunteered the information that he had deposited $500 to the credit of the Crossin Piano Company in December last. He confessed his inability to see whatever his own private business affairs had to do with the bribery charge.

NOT BRIBED TO LEAVE.

"There is a report in Toronto that you have been paid to leave the country?"

"There is not an atom of truth in that statement," replied Mr. Gamey. All my business affairs are in Canada, and incidentally I may mention that I have a great many friends in that little province of Ontario."

"You did not leave Toronto to avoid arrest?"

"Certainly not. Why should I be arrested."

"Well about that forgery?"

"I did not commit forgery."

"Will you tell me exactly why you wanted that slip from the bank?"

"Simply to check off with my books, (not Mr. Crossin's books) in order to settle the question as to who deposited that $900," replied the Manitoulin member.

Has Relation in Buffalo and Went to Visit Them, Says He Will Explain All Police Admit Receiving Instructions

FROM UNOFFICIAL SOURCE TO WATCH GAMEY

"My dates did not agree with Mr. Crossin's date. I paid him the money. I wanted the slip to verify that fact, and the slip proved the truth of my argument in regard to the deposit."

"Can you tell me about the transfer of your stock in the Crossin Piano Company?"

AS TO STOCK DEAL.

"I held fifty-five shares of stock in one hundred dollar shares. I held the stock in two certificates of twenty-five shares each. The other five shares were made up in small amounts. In March last I transferred one certificate of twenty-five shares of W. R. Smyth, member for Algoma. Smyth paid me fifteen shares, and I gave him the certificate for twenty-five shares. On the back I wrote that if Smyth wanted to pay the thousand dollar balance to complete the twenty-five share purchase he could do so. If not the matter could be fixed up later by the issue of a new certificate.'

Buffalo, N.Y., April 22.—Mr. Alexander Wright, of Toronto, the well known Conservative politician, has been in Buffalo since Monday, but denies emphatically that his visit has anything to do with the Gamey case. "I have been here on private business entirely," said Mr. Wright.

Last night, before Mr. Gamey returned to the Mansion House, Mr. Wright had a long talk with two gentlemen, one of whom at least is from Toronto. The names of these gentlemen were not learned. About 11.45 p.m. Mr. Wright left the Mansion House and went to the Iroquois. Mr. Gamey came in about 12.30 a.m. and after the interview with the reporters spent a long time at the time at the long distance telephone, presumably replying to the persons who telephoned late yesterday afternoon from Toronto. After finishing his conversation, Mr. Gamey met Mr. Masson in the office and they again went out. They were followed to the Iroquois Hotel, where they had a conference with Mr. Wright that lasted at least an hour.

At 3 a.m. Masson and Gamey returned to the Mansion House and met a reporter in one of the corridors. After the usual greeting, Mr Gamey said, "What are you doing up so late as this?" The reporter said he had been communicating with his paper, at which explanation Mr. Gamey laughed. On being asked where he had been in the meantime said, "Good-night," and he and Masson moved off to their rooms.

MR. GAMEY HAS REACHED TORONTO RETURNED SHORTLY AFTER 4 O'CLOCK

ARRIVED AT TORONTO

At the Walker House Shortly After Four O'Clock in Afternoon

Buffalo, N.Y., April 22.—Mr. Alexander Wright was seen this morning and asked to make a statement in regard to the conference with Gamey last night. When approached, Mr. Wright was in conversation with a prominent Toronto Conservative, who declined to allow his name to be mentioned. The prominent Conservative explained the circumstance as follows.

"I arrived in the city last night on private business, and as it was known that I was coming to Buffalo, I was asked, in Toronto, not by party leaders, but by a couple of business friends, to see Gamey and learn whether or not he was coming back. I therefore telephoned to the Mansion House last night for Mr. Masson, and told him I would be glad to see Mr. Gamey. As Mr. Masson said he was out, I asked him to bring him to [illegible] he came in, and in the meantime Mr. Wright came to my room to have a talk with me over some political business aside from the Gamey question, which had brought him to Buffalo. About half-past twelve a knock came to the door. I thought that the hour was so late that Mr. Gamey would not come, and I was therefore, very much surprised to see him and Mr. Masson at the door. I invited them in, and told Mr. Wright that I desired to see Mr. Gamey privately. Mr. Wright, therefore, shook hands with Mr. Gamey and withdrew. I then explained the furore that had been caused in Toronto by his disappearance, and I asked him if he intended to return. He replied that he would certainly return. He said that he had no idea in the world that his absence for a few days would cause such a sensation, and he would certainly be back in Toronto when wanted. After some general conversation the two gentlemen withdrew.

"This morning they again came to the Iroquois and met me in my room. Mr. Gamey was prepared to discuss all the questioned points as as to his conduct, but I requested him to reserve all explanations until he went into the witness stand, as I did not care to hear them. This morning he again asserted his determination to go back to Toronto, and I am perfectly satisfied that under the present circumstances wild horses could not keep him in Buffalo, unless what is very unlikely, he is advised by Mr. Masson to remain here. That is such an improbable event, however, that it may be eliminated from consideration. I am perfectly assured in my own mind that Gamey will be in Toronto, when court opens to-morrow, but he has not told me on what train he is leaving."

Mr. Wright was asked to explain [illegible] He said "None whatever." I am in Buffalo on political business that has nothing to do with Gamey. The nature of that business will likely be made public in a few days. F arrived here on Monday, and did not know that Gamey was out of Toronto until I saw him sitting in the dining-room at luncheon. To say that I was surprised is putting it very mildly."

Mr. Gamey was Anxious to Fxplain His Conduct

MIDNIGHT CONFERENCE

He Expressed a Desire to Go Into the Minutest Details in Connection with Deposit Slip

Mr. Gamey rose this morning about 9.30, and after a substantial breakfast of bacon and eggs he put a toothpick in his mouth and with Mr. Masson strolled up Main street.

He was jaunty and debonair as ever when seen by a reporter, and smiled his welcome.

"When are you going back, Mr. Gamey," said the reporter.

"I have not decided upon what train."

"You are going back though?"

"Certainly, I told you that last night."

"Where are you going now?"

"Just up street to see a friend."

He and his friend continued their [illegible] where they saw Mr. Wright and his friend, as before stated.

Toronto, April 22.—Mr. R. R. Gamey arrived at the Walker House at 4 p.m.

BINDER TWINE BOUNTY.

The Industry to be Protected by the Government.

Toronto, April 23—It is believed that the compensation which the government will propose shall be granted to manufacturers of binder twine in Canada will take the form of a bounty of three-eighths of a cent per pound. This will put them on the same footing as the United States manufacturers, who are given a rebate equalling the export duty of 3-8 of a cent on Manilla shipped from the Philippine Islands.

The price of binder twine manufactured at the Kingston Penitentiary has been fixed for the season as follows: Pure Manilla, 650 feet, 11 1-2 cents; pure Manilla, 600 feet, 10 3-4 cents; Kingston special, 525 feet, 9 1-2 cents.

TRUE BILL AGAINST KING

Must Stand Trial for Wilful Shooting of Willie Freeman

St. Thomas, April 22—The Grand Jury at the assizes here late this afternoon brought in a true bill for murder in case of Charles William King, accused of murdering Willie Freeman at Aldborough on Sept. 9 last. The prisoner was then arraigned, pleaded not guilty and Justice Street adjourned the case until 9.15 Wednesday.

King looked well and appears to have enjoyed jail life but was a trifle nervous. L. F. Heyd, K.C., Toronto, is prosecuting, assisted by Detective John W. Murray and W. L. McLaws of this city is defending.

The line of defence, no doubt, will be that King did not know that the gun was loaded when he pointed it at the boy.

MAY MEAN DRIVING OF TURKEY OUT OF EUROPE

Russia is Preparing to Settle the Balkan Imbroglio Definitely and for All

Vienna, April 23—News received here within the past few days indicates that Russia is preparing to take a hand in the Balkan imbroglio and the scale on which preparations are being made leads to the belief that the czar intends if he takes a hand in the fight this time, he will settle the far eastern question definitely and for all time by driving Turkey out of Europe, taking Constantinople and other such portions of European Turkey as he desires, and disposing of the remainder as circumstances may indicate.

Not only are Russian troops being massed in such a way as to attract the least attention, but will place them where they may be used promptly and effectively when the time comes, but the navy is also being put in condition for use. The Black Sea fleet is being put on war footing, the auxiliary navy is being kept in touch with the admiralty and it would take very little to put Russia on a full war footing. This may all mean simply precaution, but in well informed circles here, it is believed that aggressive action is not far from the minds of the czar's government.

A HORRIBLE DEED.

A Seventeen Year Old Boy Kills His Father With an Axe.

Clinton, Mass., April 23—Thomas Smith, who was assaulted by his 17-year-old son, Walter, died yesterday. The boy, who surrendered to the police, is said to have made a statement to the Chief, admitting that he attacked his father with an axe. There had been trouble in the family for some time, he said. After the father has been particularly abusive to the lad's mother, Walter said he seized an axe and followed him into the street, where he struck him three times. The father fell, mortally wounded, and the boy went to the police station, where he surrendered.

AWFUL FAMINE IN CHINA.

Husbands Sell Their Wives in Order to Obtain Food

Hong Kong, April 23—Thousands of people are starving in the province of Kwangsi. The lack of means of sustenance is driving whole families to desperation and suicide. Husbands are selling their wives and children in order to obtain food. Sir H. A. Blake, Governor of Hong Kong, is organizing relief.

KING LEAVES FOR NAPLES.

The Whole British Mediterranean Fleet Escort the British King.

Valetta, Island of Malta, April 23—The Royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King Edward on board, sailed for Naples yesterday, escorted by the whole British Mediterranean fleet. As the yacht steamed out of the harbor she was saluted by the guns of the fort and cheered by thousands of people who lined the sea front to bid her farewell.

THEIR SKULLS IN COURT.

Secret Decapitation of Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair.

San Francisco, April 23—The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fair have been decapitated and the skulls will be used in the New York courts to refute the witnesses Mas and Mofans, that the husband died first. The bodies were never buried as the attorneys suspected this move by by Mrs. Nelson, mother of Mrs. Fair. The secret decapitation became known and has caused much indignation among friends of the family.

BRITISH IMMIGRATION.

Lord Strathcona Gives Some Good Advice to Emigrants.

London, April 23—The London East End emigration fund is sending to Canada a party of 167 emigrants on the steamer Canada in charge of Rev. A. H. Cook.

Lord Strathcona and others addressed the emigrants at Euston last night, giving them some good advice regarding Canada.

Since this society was formed, some twenty years ago, it has assisted 6,637 people to emigrate to the colonies where a large majority of them have done very well.

A party of one hundred English farmers left Euston last night and embarked on the Saxonia to-day for Canada.

KING AND POPE.

Honor to be Bestowed on the Pope's Chief Adviser.

Rome, April 23—Should Mgr Stonar Canon of St. John Lateran, the highest English prelate in Rome, succeed in arranging a visit of King Edward to the Pope, he will probably be created a cardinal at the consistory to be held June 22. His Holiness is also inclined to name an American cardinal. The appointment would probably be given to Archbishop Ireland, on account of the great increase in the number of Roman Catholics in the United States.

Ruler on Vacation

London, April 22—Nearly all the rulers of the world, including President Roosevelt, are away from their capitals on visits.

The Kaiser has been to Copenhagen. King Edward is yachting and looking in on his fellow sovereigns in Southern Europe.

President Loubet is going to Algiers, while the Emperor of Austria and the King of Italy are packing their bags preliminary to visiting neighboring sovereigns.

Only the Czar of Russia and the Sultan of Turkey stay at home.

Both these autocrats fear to journey abroad because of the threats of Anarchists.

PEACE PROSPECTS ARE NOW WANING

Unrest and Terrorism are Spreading in the Balkan States

THE CAPITALS ALARMED

Owing to Turkish Censorship it is Difficult to Ascertain Real Situation

London, April 23—The Macedonian situation is evidently causing intense uneasiness in Vienna, St. Petersburg and Berlin. There is no general revolt, but there is considerable extension of guerilla warfare on the part of Macedonian and Bulgarian insurgents. The details of the skirmishes and battles are now supplied owing to the Turkish censorship, but several British and American correspondents are now on the ground, and the truth will be known when they reach the frontiers, where there will be free use of the wires.

Forecasts from Paris and other capitals that the Turkish troops will suddenly be ordered to march across the frontiers to Sofia and Nisch are clearly premature. The Turkish troops and the Albanian irregulars would prefer a regular campaign against Bulgaria and Servia to a continuance of the present state of guerilla warfare, and the Macedonians and Bulgarians would be equally pleased, since the two Balkan States would be put on the defensive, and a general war for the deliverance of European Turkey would be rendered inevitable.

There is rich soil on both sides of the frontier for the growth of such rumors, but it is most improbable either that the Sultan intends to make an aggressive movement, or that the Russian and Austrian Governments have consented to an invasion of the territory of the Balkan States. The Turks, the powers and the insurgents are seeking to frighten the minor Balkan Governments, unrest and terrorism are spreading, and the prospects of peace are waning.

C.P.R. WILL BUILD LINE TO ST. PAUL

Surveys Now Being Made to Decide What is Required in the Way of Tracks

Montreal, Que., April 21. — The passing of the Canadian Pacific Railway from an All-Canadian to an International line was confirmed to a press representative yesterday by the announcement that the company [illegible] south from Winnipeg to the city of St. Paul. The surveys that are at present being made are to decide whether it will be more advantageous to build an extension from Emerson or Gretna, to join with the branch that the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie line intend building, and running into St. Paul over the latter's lines. The Soo being now a subsidiary line of the Canadian Pacific, an absolutely independent line would then be afforded. The distance from Winnipeg to St. Paul according to survey, would be between 442 and 460 miles. Up to the present time the Canadian Pacific has had a traffic arrangement with the Great Northern Railway, but in view of certain recent developments the Canadian Pacific, according to the statement made by an official, absolutely require an independent line to handle their largely increased traffic to, and especially from, the [illegible]

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Mr. Sifton and His Staff Busy in London.

Ottawa, Ont., April 22—A private cablegram from Mr. Pope, received this morning, corrects the impression that the meeting of the Alaskan Boundary Commission has been postponed. He points out that the meeting has not been postponed, and that the British case must be ready by May 2nd. Since their arrival in London Mr. Sifton and his staff have been exceedingly busy, and have been greatly assisted by the officials of the Foreign and Colonial Offices.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Nuptials of Rev. O. C. Elliott and Miss Florence Scott.

A very pretty house wedding was celebrated yesterday at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. S. Scott, when her daughter, Miss Florence, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Rev. O. C. Elliott, of Belleville, formerly of Peterborough. Rev. Dr. Torrance, assisted by Revds. Mr. Barrow and J. A. Wilson, performed the marriage ceremony in the presence of a number of intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride was supported by Miss Florence Thompson, while a similar duty on behalf of the groom was performed by Rev. Mr. Leavitt, of Picton.

The presents were beautiful, testifying to the high esteem in which the bride is held by her many friends.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a sumptuous dejeuner was served, after which the happy couple left by the early afternoon train for Belleville, carrying with them the hearty good wishes of their many friends.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Provincial Secretary Recommends Building of Hospital for Contagious Disease

At a meeting of the Board of Health, held yesterday morning, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A letter from the Provincial Secretary complaining of the ventilation of the two hospitals. He also recommended the use of tents for contagious diseases, and the erection of an isolation hospital directly under the control of the Board of Health, especially as he considers the present accommodation entirely inadequate. A letter was received from Mr. R. C. Brand asking for permission to put in a cesspool for his terrace at the corner of Townsend and Rubidge streets. The Board recommend the Town Council to construct a sewer on Rubidge street, from Charlotte to Brock streets, for sanitary purposes, as advocated many times in the Times. It was decided to subscribe for the Public Health Manual.

A complaint was made by a tenant against his landlord for the unsanitary condition of his house, which he believed was the direct cause of his child taking scarlet fever.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND

Has Proved a Blessing to Thousands of Our School Teachers who were Victims of Neuralgia Sleeplessness and Nerve Troubles

Neuralgia, sleeplessness, nervousness, dyspepsia and general rundown condition make life a weary burden for thousands of our school teachers. When nerve force is low, the brain tired and digestion in a disordered condition, there is irritability, bad temper, impatience, and often great despondency. Under such circumstances, the important work of teaching can never be successful. Paine's Celery Compound is doing a grand work for half-sick, weary and rundown school teachers in every part of Canada. Thousands engaged in the work of educating the young are kept well from year to year by the strength giving virtues of Paine's Celery Compound. It is the one great medicine for all classes of society. It maintains its popularity and reputation because it makes sick people well. Mr. L. A. Belyea, a well known school teacher of Hampstead, N.B., says:

"I was taken with a severe attack of neuralgia in the head and shoulders, and gave up the idea of ever being cured. Have taken medicine prescribed by different physicians, but all to no avail. I was induced to try a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound. Before I had taken the half of it I began to feel better. I have taken three bottles of this glorious medicine, and to-day I can say that it is the first time in eleven years that I have felt none of those piercing pains to which I had once been a victim. If any one discredits this statement, let them write me, and I will be glad to inform them of what has cured me of neuralgia and a shattered nervous system."

LONDON OFFICE 30 Fleet St., London, E. C.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 23, 1903.

GLASGOW'S GREAT WORK

Sydney Brooks writes from London, England, to Harper's Weekly, for the purpose of venting his views on municipal ownership. Mr. Brooks seems to find in the so-called municipalism in England, a tendency toward socialism, which, in his estimation, breeds corruption and various civic drawbacks.

In the United States, few communities have ventured farther than the control of such services as public baths, parks, water, electric light and gas. While in many respects the most progressive people in the world we are as conservative as the Dutch in matters appertaining to the control of public utilities.

Glasgow, Scotland, is one of the most progressive communities in the world. The City Council supplies the people with water, gas, electric light, cable and electric cars and telephones, the municipal authorities control eleven public parks and galleries, thirteen bath tubs and wash-houses, a fruit and vegetable market, a dead-meat market, a cheese-market, a bird and dog-market, and an old-clothes market, four slaughter houses and offices, four hospitals and one burying ground. Glasgow is the owner of 2,488 municipal houses, seventy-eight lodging houses, of which the city manages seven; a family house, which the municipality also directs; 372 shops, forty-nine stores, forty-[illegible] workshops, twelve halls, two churches, two hotels, one theatre, one studio, one pawn-office, one nursing-home, one powder-mill, one laundry, one bake-house, one golf-course and one gospel-tent. Glasgow farms over 1,000 acres of land, where large and profitable crops are grown, including all the hay used in the stables of the cleansing department, as well as crops of oats, wheat, turnips, etc. The authorities convert the city sewage into solid matter, and sell it to the farmers for manure; they carry on business as market-gardeners; they possess stone quarries and 140 railway wagons; they build street cars, reclaim bogs, conduct a civic granary, raise $5,000 a year on the clinker from the refuse, cremating furnaces, collect and sell the waste paper and occasionally melt and dispose of the solder from the old tin cans found in the heaps of refuse.

Mr. Brooks declares that these extensive operations in municipalism are causing the "best type" of men to lose interest in municipal affairs. "At the same time," says Mr. Brooks, "a bureaucracy of municipal office-holders is being solidly formed, and even the municipal employees are now a sort of trade-union on their own account. Add to this the unfairness of a local authority competing with and finally crushing private traders and professional men."— and the public can understand why certain people are now anxious to discredit the splendid efforts of the City Council of Glasgow.

The interests which formerly controlled franchises and offered inferior service, are now combining, for the purpose of arresting the growth of municipal ownership. As long as the public authorities of Glasgow and other British cities continue their present efficient management of important services, the people will fight all attempts to return franchises to sordid speculators

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR CLARK

Mortimer Clark, K.C, of Toronto, has been sworn in as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, vice Sir Oliver Mowat, deceased. Mr. Clark is known in Toronto as an active Liberal politician, but he has never attained to a provincial reputation, and is entirely unknown to the bulk of the Ontario people. He has no particular sins to account for; neither has he any brilliant performances to point to. He is eminently and decent, and being able to wear a Windsor uniform and write his own name, will be able to fill the office with credit to himself.

A MAN OF THE HOUR

The appointment of W. Mortimer Clarke, K.C., to the high position of Lieutenant-Governor of this Province is both a compliment to the man and to the province. It looks to us, in view of the unexpected nature of the appointment and of the number of candidates for the office, as if the Government at Ottawa had felt the necessity of restoring public confidence by appointing a non-partisan. It is not too much to say that in times of political strenuousness, such as these, the nomination of a strong party man would excite public comment to such a degree as to imperil the well-being of the Province itself. The appointment also shows that all the plums are not for the party manager or the party slaves, and that a true representative of the people may sometimes be chosen from the people themselves. This is a decidedly hopeful sign. It would be well for the public at large to take note of this and govern themselves accordingly.

AT WORK ON ALASKA CASE

Officials and Lawyers in London Preparing Canada's Case

Ottawa, April 21.—A private cable received to-day from London from Joseph Pope, C.M.G., says:

"From information received here it appears that an impression prevails in Canada that work on the Alaska Boundary Commission has been postponed. This is altogether incorrect. It has been arranged that the meeting of the commissioners should be postponed for the present, but this in no way interferes with the preparation of the case of the respective parties to the controversy. The British case and United States case, with all documents and evidence relied on in support, must be filed on May 2. The time given by treaty was extremely short, and both sides require to make strenuous efforts in order to complete their cases within the time limit. Mr. Sifton and his staff have been hard at work ever since arriving in London. The leading counsel on the British side are the Attorney-General, Sir Robert [illegible] Edward Blake, and Mr. Christopher Robinson. The officials of the Foreign Office and Colonial Office are giving every assistance possible."

Mr. Richard McCallum

A well known citizen of Stirling Ont., cured of Chronic Catarrh and Irritable Sore Throat by Catarrhozone.

A Remarkable Case Exciting Great Interest in Stirling, which, if Possible adds to the Popularity of Catarrhozone as a cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Throat Trouble

Catarrh is one of the most disagreeable and at the same time hardest to cure diseases. This has been Mr. McCallum's experience.

"For many years," he writes, "I have suffered from Catarrh and continually hawked and coughed, so that my throat was always in an inflamed irritable condition.

"Doctors' medicines did not help me in the least, and all other remedies I used were quite useless. In one case it was time wasted in snuffing powder up the nose; in another using a greasy ointment, and so on. Not one of them was the least bit of good.

"I heard Catarrhozone favorably spoken of, and tried a sample, and it really benefitted me more in a few hours than years of treatment with doctors' and other so called remedies.

"Receiving such immense benefit from the sample size I got the complete outfit, large Hard Rubber Inhaler, etc., and but a few weeks of its use completely cured me of Catarrh and throat trouble.

"I recommend Catarrhozone as the most satisfactory Catarrh remedy on the market. Every word said about it is true.

(Signed) "Richard McCallum."

Now, perhaps you need a remedy like Catarrhozone. It is the only treatment that is applied locally as well as constitutionally. The Inhaler clears the air passages, stops hawking and spitting, and purifies the breath.

The Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler, drive all the poisons from the blood and build up the system to a healthy, vigorous condition.

The complete outfit costs $1, at all druggists; trial size 25c., by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont. Buy Catarrhozone to-day.

DISIRICT NEWS

HALL'S GLEN.

—The Zion Methodist Sunday school which was reorganized a short time ago will open on May 3rd.

—Mr. A. Nelson has again resumed his usual duties, having previously spent his Easter holidays at home, which vacation has fitted him for work once more.

—Mr. W. Carveth who has recently moved out from his shanty on the ninth line, is hard at work on the farm again.

—Mr. John Darling, president of the N.D.D. Co. deserves much credit for his considerate and judicious management of affairs for the said company under his jurisdiction.

—Some very encouraging reports have recently been received as to the convalescence of Mrs. W. J. Little, who has written home at different times of late; we are all glad to learn of her speedy recovery, and we expect to have her in our midst again in the near future.

—Mr. D [illegible] shingle mill, which has been in operation for some time, is adding considerably to the business of the place. Any one wishing to purchase first class shingles may have their orders satisfactorily filled at a reasonable price by applying to the manager.

—On Monday evening last the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Carveth was the scene of no little excitement, as a large number of their friends and neighbors gathered to participate in the joys and pleasures resulting from the consummation of the sugar making season. The first part of the evening was passed in various amusements and games, etc., in which all took an active part. When the taffy was copiously meted out, great satisfaction was exhibited in the sumptuous participation of the same. After expressing their many thanks and tendering their gratitude to their host and hostess all dispersed.

—The Good Templars of Zion Lodge No. 96, I.O.G.T. have decided to give a lunch social preceded by a suitable programme on Friday evening, May 1st, instead of their annual taffy social. This entertainment will doubtless be of equal profit and a very pleasant time is anticipated by all concerned.

—Mr. Jordan Crowe has been spending his Easter holidays in the village, but expects to return to his studies at Belleville College very shortly.

—The North Dummer Football Club expect to reorganize very soon, and make preparations for summer athletic sports. During last summer they were very successful in winning or holding at their will most of the other teams who thought fit to contend with them, and so they deserve much credit. The team has become so famous that challenges are frequently received from teams holding the championship.

BANK AMALGAMATION

The Halifax Banking Company and the Bank of Commerce

Montreal, April 22—At a meeting of the Halifax Banking Company, held at Halifax the vote was practically unanimous in confirming the sale of banks' assets to the Canadian Bank of Commerce. This action consummates the amalgamation of these two institutions, and the Canadian Bank of Commerce will now have 105 branches, and their assets will amount to about $76,000,000 and deposits to $58,000,000, when the statements of the two banks are combined.

Among a Host of Competitors It Stands Supreme

Malt Breakfast Food, the original and standard Malted Food, stands supreme among a host of competitors in delicacy of flavor and nutritive properties.

Malt Breakfast Food is the most easily digested of all cereal foods. This special advantage should commend it to dyspeptics and those suffering from weak digestion.

Malt Breakfast Food is prescribed by over ten thousand medical men for the little ones after weaning; it is the ideal form of nutrition for all growing children. No other grain food has ever given such general satisfaction in the homes of Canada. Order a package from your Grocer.

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress this Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States are [illegible] investing immense sums in land and looking for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value, investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Hastam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold [illegible] acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over [illegible] acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals, an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 300,000 acres of [illegible] section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 308 London street.

To Set Her Free

(COPYRIGHTED

By FLORENCE WARDEN.

Author of "The House in the Marsh," "A Prince of Darkness," etc.

I think you'll admit, to give him all the poor satisfaction you can. I don't think you need be afraid of his not treating you even more generously than you have any right to expect."

"Very well," said Mrs. Finch, who was completely broken, very contrite, shy and miserable. "I'll go upstairs and see my mother, if I may, and then I'll come down and wait wherever you tell me to."

She went quickly past them, and ran upstairs.

"Do you think we shall ever see her again? Or will she steal away before he comes?" asked Norma.

The lawyer shrugged his shoulders as he drew on his gloves.

"Impossible to say," he said. "Could anyone predict with certainty anything these wretched women would do?"

"Do you know," whispered Norma as she accompanied him to the door, "I feel rather sorry for her, just as I did before, when I thought she was—the other woman. She seems so unhappy, so miserably, horribly ashamed!"

"So she ought to be," retorted Mr. Capper quite fiercely, as he started in search of Astley.

Norma tried to sit still in the drawing-room until they came back; but she found it an impossible feat. Wild thoughts, hopes, fancies, danced in her brain. She could not believe her good fortune, and was forced to torment herself by imagining that Astley had grown tired of her, that he would rather have had Lady Myfanwy for a wife than the wayward, wicked little girl whose life he had saved.

And then, while she was still wandering up and down, up and down, listening with pained ears to Mrs. Finch's sighs as she sat in the library, ready to rush out and make confession, there was a tap at the window, and Astley, trembling, pale indeed, but with bright eyes and a different look on his face from the hopeless expression he had recently worn, demanded admission.

Norma flew to shut the inner door, which she had left open, listening for his step, believing that he would come in by the portico entrance.

Mr. Capper had discreetly left the [illegible] to come across the lawn by himself, and the next moment Norma unfastened the window, and husband and wife were in each other's arms.

"[illegible], my wife at last! Didn't I tell you it would come true?" murmured he into her ear.

"Oh, Astley, is it true? Can you believe it? Do you love me? Aren't you tired of me? Oh, it's too much, it's too much joy!"

But the young baronet had not many minutes to spare at that time for his newly-found bliss. There was another [illegible], a less tender one, in his heart. The resentment which, in the woman, was instantly swallowed up in happiness, [illegible] in his breast against the [illegible] who had so readily joined the [illegible] doctor in the conspiracy [illegible].

[illegible] straight to the library, [illegible] that Mrs. Finch was there, not [illegible] heeding Norma's prayer that [illegible] not be harsh. But she need not have been afraid. Emmeline Finch was so abjectly miserable that it was impossible for a kind-hearted man to do anything but let her off easily: and the end of it was, that though he bade her take her mother out of the house, and never come there again, he promised [illegible] a small allowance to free them from the monetary troubles which beset them.

[illegible] she added by way of postscript, as she left the house, "not to apply to me at Oxford [illegible], and save all this horror."

Then he went back, and as the two sat together by the fire, too solemnly happy to talk much, the door opened, and there burst in upon them not only Mr. Capper, but Jack Wyersdale and Miss Brown, and Lady Myfanwy.

"You've got to invite us to dinner, Lady Darwen, and let us drink your health in the most solemn manner!" cried Jack, who was crazy with delight at the news which Mr. Capper had imparted on meeting them returning from [illegible].

"Why, you ought not to be glad, you [illegible]," said Norma, mischievously to him, in an undertone, while the others chatted. "You seem to forget that you gave me to understand that you were desperately in love with me yourself."

"Ah, well, so I was, so I was," said Jack, with a boisterous, boyish laugh. "That is, I was as long as I thought I had a chance. But I'm not one of those fellows who can sit and sigh for a woman who won't have anything to say to them," he added with a man-of-the-world air. "So I say honestly, I'm not jealous of Astley, not a bit."

"And you'll marry Miss Brown, and live happy ever after," suggested Norma, laughing.

"Well, perhaps I shall. I think I might do worse. She's a very decent sort of girl—for an American!" said Jack loftily, as he twirled—nothing, and tried to persuade himself that it was a moustache.

Even Lady Myfanwy was nice. She had indeed taken a fancy to Astley, and would not have been sorry to console herself and him, if circumstances had permitted it. But, now that there was no doubt he was happy in the safe possession of a wife with whom he seemed thoroughly content, there was nothing left but to make the best of it, and to accept the inevitable in the shape of a new and amiable neighbor, with a good grace.

The young people positively refused to go back home to dinner, although they were warned that no preparations had been made for anybody. So after a little waiting, and much tribulation on the part of the housekeeper, some sort of repast was spread for them all, and Jack made a speech at what he persisted in calling the wedding breakfast, although it was pointed out to him that there was no breakfast and that the wedding was [illegible].

It was all the same to him. He thought that he shone as a speech-maker, and he was eloquent in the extreme. And they all had a pleasant evening, clouded from time to time by certain unhappy recollections of the past, of the tragedy which had so recently taken place, and of the further tragedy that [illegible].

It came sooner than they expected. Dr. Wheeler was arrested at Liverpool, as he and his wife were about to sail for America. But the wily doctor escaped the gallows. Probably he had been prepared for some such contretemps as this. For he had not been in the hands of the police ten minutes before he contrived to swallow poison, and in half an hour he was dead, in spite of every effort which was conscientiously made to save him.

Mrs. Wheeler disappeared from the sight of her mother and sister, and no one in [illegible] ever knew what became of her.

Poor Ned Raggett, though not exactly half-witted, never entirely recovered his normal wits after a relapse occasioned by the excitement of the adjourned inquest. He was taken on at The Haigh for such light work as he cared to do, and remained for many years the one sad reminder of a hideous tragedy.

Astley and his wife lived a very quiet life, as if they never quite recovered the youthful zest of life after the anxieties those dreadful weeks laid upon them. But they were happy, even happier than gayer couples, and Norma's gentle manners endeared her to her husband's tenants and friends, as much as her earnest efforts to make him as happy as mortal could be endeared her to him.

And when, five years later, they were present at the wedding of Jack (now grown into "Reginald") Wyersdale and Sadie Brown, the best wish anybody could give the young people was that they should be as happy and devoted a couple as the baronet and his wife, who had made their way to happiness through such a veritable sea of troubles.

(The End.)

A Sensitive Man.

"Ah! good morning," said a well-known gentleman, addressing a man whom he met in the street.

"How are you, Colonel?"

"Look here," the first speaker, after a short pause, continued, "every day I discover additional evidences of the fact that you do not like me. Why is it?"

"Do you mean why you discover the evidences or why I do not like you?"

"Why you do not like me, of course."

"Well, in the first place, you are such an outrageous liar."

"Yes."

"And, in the second place, it has been proved that you are a thief."

"Well," said the Colonel, "I merely wanted to know, and it strikes me that your reasons are very good. I am a sensitive man, and it settles me to think that anyone dislikes me without a cause. I am glad you have expressed yourself so clearly."

Having One's Skin Removed.

After describing some of the up-to-date methods employed by modern beauty doctors, the "Strand" says that all these operations appear pale and commonplace by the side of the heroism displayed two years ago by a celebrated actress, to whom truly belongs the martyr's crown. Driven to desperation by seeing her beauty compromised by a series of superficial alterations in her complexion, she decided to have the skin of her face completely changed! She found doctors who undertook the performance of this strange operation, which extended over seven weeks — seven weeks of uninterrupted suffering. All the skin of her face was chemically burned, then detached bit by bit. At the end of two months of suffering the old epidermis had entirely disappeared and been replaced by a skin as rosy, thin and tender as that of a new-born child! So disconcerting was the aspect of this baby-like complexion to a woman of thirty that the desperate actress found herself more ill-looking after the operation than she had thought herself to be before undergoing it, and had to seclude herself for a month to allow her new skin to age a little. At the end of four months, however, the result [illegible] the actress all declaring that she was "unrecognizable," so completely was she rejuvenated and transformed!

Carriers Wanted

On account of the rapidly growing circulation of The Times, we are in need of three additional carriers (men preferred). We pay liberal salaries, and require steady and trustworthy help in this department.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Additions, Berlin Post Office, Ont," will be received at this office until Monday, April 27, inclusively, for additions required to the Post Office at Berlin, Ont., according to plans and specifications to be seen on application to the Postmaster at Berlin, and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied, and signed with the actual signatures of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of tender, must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

TITANIC WAR OF TARIFFS PREDICTED

Not So Bloody as Actual War but Very Bitter

GERMANY IS RESPONSIBLE

It was This Nation that Stirred Up the Bitter and Regrettable Strife

Montreal, April 22—Mr. Franz Bopp, Imperial German Consul, discussed the German feeling in regard to Canada's retaliatory attitude. In the course of an interesting interview, he said:

"I must confess that I was as much surprised by the budget as anyone, and more especially after the rather conciliatory declarations that the Canadian Government had given during the last session of parliament. Since that time nothing has occurred to make the position in regard to the negotiations any more strained. The informal negotiations were never broken off; I never said that the German Government was not willing to negotiate with them, but, on the contrary, I stated that the matter was still under the consideration of the German Government, and the last thing I heard from the Canadian Government was the letter of November last, contained in the published correspondence, and where the Canadian Prime Minister enquired whether Germany had come to a decision. I answered that to my knowledge they had the matter still under consideration, and just at the present time we were in an awkward position for making treaties, because our tariff legislation was in an unsettled condition.

"Just now our new tariff law was before the German Parliament, and it was much contested—there was a strong party against it. Of course, before this new tariff, which will go into effect at the end of the year, was passed we could not make treaties for any time beyond the present year, and I pointed that out.

"Now, at the end of last year—six weeks after the date of the above-mentioned letter—this new German tariff was passed and the Canadian Government knew it because the Finance Minister, in the last remarks in his budget speech refers particularly to our new tariff law.

"That the Canadian Government is more interested than we are is shown by the complaint that under present conditions Canadian exports to Germany suffer very much while the German exports to Canada suffer very much less.

"Notwithstanding this, the Canadian Government did not inquire whether, now that the new German Government was ready to make a treaty with Canada. The first thing I heard was the imposition of this surtax against Germany. While, however, it will interfere with German exportations to Canada, it must not be forgotten that all our exports to Canada are only a small percentage of our aggregate exportations, and even if we lost the whole trade with Canada, Germany can easily stand it, but naturally one does not like to lose even a small customer.

"There never was a discrimination [illegible] against Canada. Canada [illegible] no treaty with Germany since 1898, and in consequence, Germany applied her general tariff to Canada. We had nothing like a surtax against Canada in particular. My published correspondence with the Canadian Government shows that they were repeatedly urged to declare what tariff reductions they were ready to give Germany, if they were not willing to grant us the British preference. The answer was that they could grant us only the insignificant reductions of the present Canadian-French treaty on wines, but Canadians did not drink German wines; and on almonds, in which Germany had no interest, and [illegible] thing I heard from the Canadian Gov[illegible] iff with its hundreds of important reductions.

The Florence Oil Co.

has just been incorporated and organized by New York business men to operate on their property in the celebrated Green River District of Utah. By all reports this is the coming Oil Territory. The quality of the oil is of the very highest grade and experts say the Green River District gives evidence of being the greatest oil field in the United States,

The unsold part of the first allotment of Treasury Stock will be sold at 20c per share, par value $1.00. Purchasers of this allotment are in on the "ground floor" and are almost sure to get returns of $5.00 for $1.00 within a reasonable time. The management is honest and competent.

THE
TWO-TEN OIL CO.
of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

[illegible] oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and [illegible] immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralised gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralised, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

TOOK ALL NIGHT TO CATCH BURGLAR

Two Thousand People Watched the Police Make the Arrest

Bridgeport, Conn., April 21.—After an all-night siege the police, with the aid of the fire department, this morning captured a supposed burglar who had taken refuge on the cupola above the roof of St. Paul's Parochial residence, sixty feet from the street. The man defied arrest when his presence on the roof was discovered at 10 o'clock last night, and after an officer, who mounted a ladder, had received severe blows on the head, from a section of a lightning rod which the man used, it was decided to wait until daylight before making further sorties.

At intervals during the night, while the police maintained their guard around the building, the man gave vent to yells which could be heard for several blocks and kept the whole neighborhood aroused.

At daybreak, when it became possible to get a view of the fellow, there were 2,000 people around the building. To assist in the capture the police sent for a hose wagon, and a stream from a hydrant was directed at the man. This, however, had little effect, for he merely laughed and brandished his club like a maniac when the water hit him.

A fire engine was then brought up. Under cover of its powerful stream, five policemen succeeded in reaching the roof. Even then the capture was effected only by a hand-to-hand struggle lasting half an hour.

The man was carried to the station, but refused to tell his name. He appears to be a Russian. Five pawn tickets were found in his pockets.

To the Public:

The plans of the Anchorage Live-Stock Company should readily meet with the approval of those wishing a live stock investment.

It is no chance speculation. Live stock, properly cared for, always makes large dividends. No money is retained from investment but immediately all is assigned its mission—making dividends for the shareholders.

Allowing stock certificates to be paid for in monthly installments offers an opportunity to the laboring man to increase his income, by mak[illegible] in a large company, thus reaping the same benefits, in proportion, as the larger share owners and also having a voice in the management of affairs.

Being personally acquainted with the officers of this Company and knowing them to be progressive and reliable business men I heartily recommend, to all, the Anchorage Live-Stock Company for a sure and safe investment.

Yours very truly,
CHAS. E. OWENS,
Cashier.

SOME STARTLING FACTS

Regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 41 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before I had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
[illegible] Albert St., London.

—John Williams, of the C.P.R. Works, Toronto, was cured of chronic rheumatism, after taking 10 boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills,

—I was troubled with rheumatism for 23 years, and could get absolutely no relief from the doctors. Six boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills entirely cured me. God bless Dr. Clarke.
(REV.) S. HUMMITT, Winnipeg, Man.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

POLICE COURT

A drunk was fined $5 and costs, in all $8.75, and the case of Wm. Graham, who was charged with vagrancy a few days ago and who was ordered by the police magistrate to leave town, came again before the beak. Judgement was reserved in his case.

Sermon to I. O. O. F.

The Rev. J. A. Wilson will preach to the Oddfellows of the town and district on Sunday evening next in St. Paul's church. Brethren are expected to meet at the lodge room at 6.15 and march in a body to the church.

Howden Property Chosen

The final arrangements have been made for the purchase of the Howden property, near the locks bridge, by the Peterborough Sugar Company. The right of way from the G.T.R. through the Hartley and Phelan property has also been secured.

Big Demonstration

The Trades and Labor Council met last night in their hall on George street, and are making arrangements for a demonstration on the first Monday in September. It is expected that a much larger demonstration than has yet been held will take place on Labor Day.

Faithful Services Recognized

Mr. Thomas Thorn was presented with a richly bound prayer and hymn book, before service began last Sunday, in behalf of the vestry of St. Marks for his untiring and faithful services in the enlarging of the vestry room. The congregation joined in presenting Mrs. Thorn with a beautifully bound hymn and prayer book.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Reynolds, the World's Secretary of the Y.W.C.A., of London, England, will be in Peterborough from Wednesday, April 29th, to Friday, May 1st. The Board of Directors met last evening to arrange about a big meeting to be held on Thursday, April 30th, at which the World's Secretary will be the speaker.

Left for the Northwest

Mr. Jas. Dickson, D.L.S., of Fenelon Falls, father of Miss Dickson, secretary of the Y.W.C.A., who has been in charge of a surveying party in Manitoba every year since 1886, has passed through to Regina, N.W.T. [illegible] Mr. Dickson has been given the contract to lay out several townships in the vicinity of Saskatoon, near the third meridian, and will be away until the snow flies in the fall.

A Pretty Wedding

A very interesting and pretty wedding took place at ten o'clock yesterday morning in St. Peter's cathedral, when the Rev. Father McCaul united in marriage Miss May McDonald and Mr. D. Gleason, both of town. Miss Jennie Gleason assisted the bride, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Joseph, of Markham. The altar of the church was elaborately decorated with Easter lillies. The happy young couple will reside on Lake street. The Times joins with friends in wishing the young couple happiness and prosperity.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. J. M. Might, of Toronto, is in town again on business.

—Mrs. H. P. Kennedy, accompanied by her little son, Maxwell, is in Lakefield on a visit to relatives.

—Mr. John Wilson, of Campbellford, was in town yesterday on business.

—Mr. R. R. Gamey has returned from Buffalo, where he has been adding pleasure to "business."

Mayor Roger was in Toronto yesterday representing the town at the funeral of the late Sir Oliver Mowat. He returned on the evening train.

—Mr. A. P. Poussette has returned from Winnipeg, where he was called by the dangerous illness of his son some weeks ago. We are pleased to state the cause of Mr. Poussette's anxiety has been removed in the recovery of his son, who will return with his mother in a few days.

—The many friends of both Messrs. Wm. Snowden and R. B. McKee will learn with pleasure that they have returned much improved in health from Preston Springs.

THE FORMAL OPENING

The Formal Opening of Albany Club Rooms Last Night

The formal opening of the handsome suit of rooms belonging to the Albany Club took place last night, and was quite a brilliant affair, nearly 200 being present. Refreshments were served by Mr. Gardiner, the George street caterer.

Mr. Glidden's orchestra was present, and greatly enlivened the proceedings. A choice programme of vocal and instrumental music was rendered.

NAVIGATION NOW OPEN

Lock Gates Have Been Repaired and Steamers Running

The lock gates, below the Little Lake, have been repaired and are now in working order. The steamer Water Lily passed through last night on her way to Campbelltown, where she has 600 cords of wood to bring to town. She will run her first Saturday excursion this week, from Harwood and points on the river.

The City of Peterborough is being put in order, and will be ready for work about the middle of May. Already a number of excursions have been booked, and the outlook for a big season's trade is practically assured.

A COMING TREAT

An Entertainment on Friday Evening May 1st, in the Opera House

S. H. Eaton, of Boston, one of America's cleverest entertainers and W. Francis Ferth, eminent baritone and song writer, have combined with the purpose of giving a series of entertainments in Ontario.

Peterborough is the first town to be favored by these two artists, on Friday, May 1st., under the auspices of the Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A.

They will be accompanied by Miss Adra Luton, dramatic soprano, and Mr. Wilbur C. Grant, accompanist. Such talent has seldom been heard in Peterborough and a full house should greet the artists.

DEATH OF MRS. CRONIN

The Old Friends are Passing Away in Rapid Succession

The many friends and acquaintences of Mrs. John Cronin will be shocked to hear of her death, which occurred in Chicago last Sunday. The body arrived in town and was immediately taken to the residence of Mr. John Conroy, of Otonabee.

Mrs. Cronin's maiden name was Margaret McGrath, daughter of the late P. McGrath, of Otonabee, and was married in 1851.

She leaves a husband and a family of six children to mourn the loss of a life companion and a warm hearted mother.

The funeral takes place from Mr. Conroy's residence in Otonabee to St. Peter's cathedral and from thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery at 9 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Cronin's many acquaintences and friends sympathise with him in his sore affliction.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Come and sample our fresh stock of maple syrup at A. C. HAWLEY'S, 161 Hunter street.

—It is wonderful how the coal trade keeps up, so says R. Hicks.

—Mr. Devonshire, Bolivar street, will take the services in the Omemee Methodist church on Sunday the [illegible] Brown.

—Miss L. Coleman will read a paper on the poet "Moore" to the Ladies' Reading Circle of St. Peter's T.A.S. at their closing meeting on Friday evening next.

—Mr. Wm. Cresswell, bush ranger and foreman for Messrs. Boyd & Co., Bobcaygeon, arrived from the east recently in charge of about 20 men picked up at Peterborough, Hiwatha, and Campbellford. The men were taken north this afternoon and will be employed on the firm's drive at Bark Lake. Mr. Cresswell says the drive this year will comprise over 50,000 pieces and will be brought through to Bobcaygeon.

Steamboat Sold

The Empress was sold to Mr. W. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, this week. Although this pretty little craft has changed hands, it does not mean that she is going to leave the Stony Lake waters, for she is intended to commence daily round trips from Lakefield on June 1st, and on Saturday she will make a double trip. On June 15th she will commence her regular double trips daily, to accommodate her customers as in former years.

BUILT OVER

Food That Rebuilt a Man's Body and Built It Right

By food alone, with a knowledge of what food to use, disease can be warded off and health maintained, also many even chronic cases can be cured. It is manifestly best and safest to depend upon food to cure, rather than too much drugging.

A case in point will illustrate. A well known man of Reading, Pa., Treas. of a certain club there, says: "I have never written a testimonial letter but I have been using Grape-Nuts about a year and have recovered my health, and feel that I would like to write you about it for the case is extraordinary.

"For five years I was a sufferer from a dreadful condition of the bowels; the trouble was most obscure."" Here follows a detailed description and the condition was certainly distressing enough (details can be given by mail).

"Nothing in the way of treatment of drugs benefitted me in the least and an operation was seriously considered. In May 1901, I commenced using Grape-Nuts as a Food with no idea that it would in any way help my condition. In two or three weeks' time I noticed an improvement and there was a steady gain from that time on until now I am practically well. I don't know how to explain the healing value of the food but for some reason although it has taken nearly a year, I have recovered my health and the change is entirely attributable to Grape-Nuts food, for I long ago quit medicine. I eat only Grape-Nuts for breakfast and luncheon, but at my night dinner I have an assorted meal." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

T. A. S. HOCKEY TEAM BANQUETED LAST NIGHT

The Players Presented With Rings by the Society

The banquet tendered the T.A.S. hockey team, champions of the T.V.L., last night, by the members of the T.A.S., was a most enjoyable and brilliant affair. The lecture hall was beautifully decorated with flags. The tables were decorated with flowers and colors of the team, and laden with a most elaborate menu, to which about 150 did ample justice. After all had partaken of the good things provided, Rev. Father McColl, who occupied the chair, proposed the toast of "The King," and all rose and drank his health, after which the rev. gentleman paid a tribute to His Majesty, and to his untiring efforts to serve the people and bring peace and quietness to the world at large. He also spoke of the important part His Majesty had taken in regard to the [illegible] of the Boer war. He congratulated the society on the brilliancy and success of the banquet and also the hockey team in winning the championship.

Mr. Hampden Burnham was called upon to respond to the toast of "Our Country." He said it was a great pleasure for him to be present at this banquet, as it differed from many at which he had occasion to be present, as regards the management of the affair and the sociability of those present. The beautiful decorations of the hall and tables reminded one of a palm garden, and to add to the beauty of the affair was the attendance of so many handsome young ladies. Mr. Burnham spoke of the progress of the society and said that the general public could look upon it as a fitting example.

Mr. R. E. Layfield also replied to the same toast, and congratulated the T.A.S. on being an important part of the town in respect to the work being done by the society. He referred to its members employed at the C.G.E., and said that they could be relied upon and were always in their place, except when sickness or accident prevented them. He spoke of the success of the hockey team, and hoped that the lacrosse team would come out on top at the end of the coming season, and in the same true sportsmanlike manner as the hockey team had received their victories and defeats, but if they could not win by fair means he hoped to see them defeated.

The Rev. Dr. O'Brien, honorary president of the hockey team, made a suitable reply to the toast of "Our Champions." He referred to the continuous success of the team from the time of their first match until they landed the cup, and to the support rendered them by the society, which was a great benefit to the boys, and was much appreciated by them. The rev. doctor also spoke of the organization of the T.A.S. by Father Sullivan some three years ago, and the success with which his labors had been crowned. A very pleasant duty fell to the lot of the speaker in presenting each member of the team with a beautiful gentleman's ring with a monogram of the T.A.S. and two hockey sticks engraved on it.

Mr. Will Crowley, the president of the team, on behalf of the players thanked the society for the beautiful souvenirs, and for the unbounded help given the team during the season.

Mr. George Lynch, captain of the team, thanked the society for their hearty support, and for the manner in which they were treated after practices and matches by the society.

A beautiful group photo of the team as they appeared on the ice was presented to the team by Mr. Whiten, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien took this occasion to thank that gentleman for the photo, which was a beautiful sample of photographic art. Mr. Whiten replied, thanking the rev. gentleman for his kind remarks, and spoke of the success of the champions, and of the great work the society was doing.

"The Dramatic Section" was replied to by Rev. Father John O'Brien, who thought that the society was very near perfection when it had taken upon itself to strengthen the members intellectually and physically. Mr. T. J. Begley also made a few remarks in connection with this particular branch of the society.

Mr. E. S. Clarry, secretary of the Trent Valley Hockey League, was called upon to respond to "The T.V.L." and present the cup to the champions. Mr. Clarry said it was a great pleasure to him to be present on this occasion, and particularly so to present the T.A.S. hockey team with the cup won by them. He spoke of the cordial relations between the team and himself and how harmoniously they had worked together.

Rev. Father Phelan, of Lakefield, was present and congratulated the team on their success.

Mr Jack McCabe responded to the toast of "Kindred Sports," Mr. W. George "The Ladies," Mr. McAuliffe "Our Society," and Mr. E. H. Bartlett "The Press."

Mr. T. J. Begley favored the audience with a solo, a parody on "Mr. Donley," and Mr. George Lynch gave a recitation.

Mr. D. Devine, secretary of the club was then called upon, and gave an account of the finances of the their support, the rink attendants society. He thanked the press for the courtesy shown them, and the society for the support meted out by them.

Mr. Tom Turkett, assistant secretary of the T.A.S., was presented with an address and ring in token of the many favors rendered to the hockey team and society.

The pleasant evening broke up with the singing of "God Save the King."

Mr. W. J. McCallum did the catering a very creditable manner.

A Successful Business

A visit to Mr. H. P. Kennedy's store reveals the fact that he has learned the art of running a successful meat market. Every thing in the meat line is of the best quality that money will buy. His Easter beef was selected from the choicest bullocks the Toronto market offered. He assures us that from six to ten good cattle are required each week to supply his growing retail trade. He is shrewd enough to retain the services of Mr. John Duncan, who always has the happy faculty of keeping counters, blocks, tools, scales, and above all the meat as clean and neat as the most fastidious could desire.

LIGHT AND DARK,

Day and night, sunshine and shadow are not more different from each other than a healthful from a sickly woman. The healthful woman carries light and sunshine with her wherever she goes.

The woman who suffers from ill-health casts a shadow on her own happiness and the happiness of others. She cannot help it. Those who suffer cannot smile and sing.

Ill-health in woman is generally traceable to disease of the delicate womanly organism. Many women have been restored to happiness by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"I feel it my duty to inform you that I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications," writes Mrs. O. N. Fisher, of 1661 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. "I was constantly going to see a physician or purchasing medicine for this or that complaint as my troubles became unbearable. In the spring of 1897 my husband induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. After taking one bottle and following your advice I was so encouraged that I took five more bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and then I did not take any more for several weeks as I felt so much better, but still I was not completely cured. I commenced taking it again and felt that I was improving faster than at first. I am not now cross and irritable, and I have a good color in my face; have also gained about ten pounds in weight and one thousand of comfort, for I am a new woman once more."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. His profit is your loss, therefore accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

GAMEY CHARGES A PLOT TO WRECK GOVERNMENT, SAYS FRANK SULLIVAN

SULLIVAN DECLARES THAT HE DID NOT SEE MR. STRATTON ON SEPTEMBER 10 AND 11

Swears That the Member for Manitoulin Offered Him $2,000 to Support the Story That He Received a Bride From Stratton.

Toronto, April 23.—The line of defence in the Gamey case was revealed this morning, when Frank Sullivan swore that on the day before the member for Manitoulin made his revelation in the House he proposed to him that they should go into a plot to wreck the Government by stating that Mr. Stratton had paid him $1,000 for support. Sullivan was to corroborate him, and apparently encouraged him to go on with it. The young man who has gained fame almost equal with that of the two chief factors in the case, frankly declared himself in the witness box to have been "out for the stuff." Mr. Gamey remained in the court house most of the morning and did not show himself to the crowded court room.

THE FIRST WITNESS.

Mr. George B. Wilson, the father-in-law of Frank Sullivan, was the first witness of the morning, and threw new light on the matter. He is an elderly man, who lives on a small farm near Newmarket, and tills the soil, oblivious to the turmoil of politics. He even swore that he had never heard the name of J. R. Stratton until he saw it in the newspapers in connection with this case. About ten days ago he went away to his native village, Penfield, N.Y., seven miles from Rochester, which he had not visited for 52 years. He testified that he did so because his health was bad, and he did not know that he would be wanted at the investigation. He denied having told Mr. Davis and Mr. Leavitt that Frank Sullivan got half of a sum of money paid by Mr. Stratton to Mr. Gamey, or that any such conversation took place. He also denied having received a telegram signed "Hattie" (the Christian name of Mrs. Frank Sullivan), but stated that the latter had made arrangements for driving him to the station on the day of his departure. Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Wilson accompanied him as far as Buffalo and returned. He had had a conversation with Frank Sullivan over the telephone last week because he was short of money, and last Saturday night Sullivan went to Penfield to see him to know if he would give his evidence. Yesterday Frank returned in company with McEvoy and they came to Toronto.

Mr. Blake announced that he would confront Mr. Wilson with Messrs. Davis and Leavitt later in the day.

Thos. H. Lloyd, the well known Liberal solicitor of Newmarket, denied having had any dealings with Wilson in this matter.

FRANK SULLIVAN TESTIFIES

Mr. Blake produced an unsigned letter sent by Sullivan to Gamey early in August, and Sullivan admitted that he wrote it.

"Why did you not sign it?" asked Mr. Blake.

"Just carelessness!" said Sullivan.

"Is it your usual custom not to sign letters?"

"No!"

Mr. Blake asked what was the "deal" which the letter referred to, and what he meant by saying: "I have seen our man!" Sullivan said it referred to the timber on McGregor Island, and that "our man" was his father, Captain Sullivan, who had interviewed a third party as to putting some money into the deal. Sullivan said that the "deal" discussed subsequently to the falling through of the McGregor Island timber deal was the Clemow deal as to timber back of Sudbury. Asked why nothing was done about this deal, he said it was because Gamey wanted to wait until the session took place.

Sullivan also swore that Gamey said he wanted to meet a Cabinet Minister about his protest, as he understood they were going to press him pretty hard. Witness agreed to introduce him to Mr. Stratton.

"Why not the head of your own department?" Mr. Blake asked.

"I don't know Mr. Latchford very well," was the reply.

They went to see the Provincial Secretary together, and Mr. Stratton suggested that Gamey go to see Mr. R. A. Grant, who had charge of the Liberal protests. Gamey said he did not wish to go to see Grant, so Mr. Stratton suggested that he go to see Mr. Aylesworth. Gamey consented to do this. Mr. Blake wanted to know whether he was excused from attendance from the office.

Sullivan said he was not, but went about with Gamey out of friendship for him. His salary had not been docked, however. Mr. Stratton, he thought, did not know that he had gone to see Mr. Aylesworth with Gamey. At the interview, he, Sullivan, did the honors, and had said: "I'm Frank Sullivan." He did not know Mr. Aylesworth personally, and Mr. Blake feigned to be puzzled over their reception.

"I could understand if you had said 'I'm John L. Sullivan,'" he said.

Sullivan confirmed Mr. Aylesworth's evidence that Gamey signed a letter agreeing to support the Government, and then spoke about raising some money. After they went out of the office, Gamey said: "I think I made a fool of myself, speaking about money in Aylesworth's office." Sullivan said: "That's all right, Bob."

[illegible] describe how they proposed to make use of Gamey's turnover. His father, Capt. Sullivan, had for some time been applying for certain timber berths on Manitoulin Island, in the name of Conlin Bros. Gamey was to endorse the application, and was to receive $5,000 for his services in so doing. Gamey subsequently learned that Geo. McCormack, M.P., and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt were after the same timber, and that it was likely to prove still more valuable, and demanded a larger share, and was promised a full quarter of it. Mr. Blake wanted to know why Mr. Gamey was so early taken into the deal, a month at least, before he signed his letter in Mr. Aylesworth's office.

Frank Sullivan Appears

A flutter of excitement arose when the name, "Frand Sullivan," was called. The witness marched hurriedly into court as though under nervous tension and constantly wet his lips and clasped and unclasped his hands during the ordeal, but gave his evidence in a voluble and straightforward manner. He is a clean-cut, thick-set young Irishman of rather Hebraic appearance. In cross-examining, Mr. Blake, instead of taking up Gamey's statements seriatim, took up various incidents at random. He testified that at one time he had been a contractor in a small way, and a couple of years ago entered the service of the Ontario Government as sessional clerk in the private bills room and was afterwards appointed assistant to Mr. Edwards, accountant of the Public Works Department. He swore that he had no bank account except a small balance in the bank of Hamilton.

Michigander Fires twice at his Sweetheart's Mother

Houghton, Mich, April 24. Determined to kill his sweetheart, Miss Eliza Mahar, who spurned him, and her family, John H. Molesworth, a baker 34 years old, went to their home in Hurontown, near Houghton, Saturday night. After firing three shots at Mrs. Bridget Mahar, the girl's mother Molesworth turned his weapon on himself and sent two bullets into his own brain, dying instantly. Mrs Mahar is 60 years old and is seriously though not fatally wounded.

GRUESOME COINCIDENCE

Brothers Meet Death under Circumstances strangely Similar

Calgary, N.W.T. April 24—The body of John Christie, a rancher, was found near here yesterday. At the inquest it was concluded that he had been thrown from his buggy, which was found, along with the horse, near the body, into a pool of water and drowned. His brother died within about 100 yards of where he was found, under conditions almost identical. The Christies originally came from Ottawa.

J. T. NELSON ARRESTED

In Buffalo, Charged With Stealing a Document from the Office of Lawyer Ryan

Buffalo, April 23.—James T. Nelson was arraigned before Judge Murphy this morning upon a charge of stealing a document from the office of Lawyer Ryan, of this city. [illegible] of Ontario political methods. Nelson claim that he was engaged as a detective by the Liberals to go into North Perth at the bye-election in January, that he did service there but that those who engaged him refused to pay him. Thereupon Nelson communicated with Mr. J. P. Whitney, and told him that he would make some revelations of the manner in which the "three Norths" were carried. This letter was referred to Mr. A. W. Wright, the Conservative organizer, who secured an affidavit from Nelson reiterating his revelations. He says he was hired by "Cap" Sullivan, with nine other men to buy votes, and they did so, the price varying from $5 to $10. The existence of this affidavit came to the ears of people interested in Toronto, and an effort was made to get Nelson to sign a second affidavit denying the first one. He and Mr. Wright went to Lawyer Ryan's office, and there Nelson put the second affidavit in his pocket, unsigned, and refused to give it up. Hence his arrest. He was charged with stealing a typewritten document, was remanded until to-morrow morning, and released on bail.

Getting in Touch

London, April 24—P. B. Ball opened the Canadian Government Commercial Agency, in Birmingham, the first of a series to be established in Britain.

In an interview he declared that Canada was anxious to increase the trade with Britain. He is placing himself in touch with the Midland manufacturers and merchants in view of the increase of the sales of the British manufacturers under the present preferential tariff, believing if Canada buys more, the British manufacturers will sell more Canadian produce.

Witness Acknowledges He Was Out for Coin--Tells of Various Deals--Declares He Did Not Say Stratton Gave Money.

Sullivan said that on their first meeting after the general election Gamey had told him that he was going to support the Government, using the phrase that he was going to sit like a bump on a log for four years a mere voting machine for the Government.

"You were sent out to see how you could realize this bonanza of a willing member of Parliament?" said Mr. Blake.

The witness assented to this. The counsel enquired whether his father's title of "Captain" was naval or military.

"Naval!" promptly replied the witness.

Mr Blake then wanted to know why he went to Mr. R. A. Grant. Sullivan said it was because he was green, and thought Mr. Grant could find a client who would put in $5,000.

"What had Mr. Grant to do with lumbermen?" The witness could not answer this either.

Sullivan also swore that he arranged to assist in handling the patronage for Gamey.

"Was there something in it for the boy?" asked Mr. Blake.

"I'm not working for my health," said Sullivan.

Mr. Blake asked him about the mining application discussed at the interview in the piano ware room. Sullivan explained that by this Gamey proposed to knife his friend "Jim" Miller, who had confided in him the discovery of gold. Gamey proposed to take out a blanket application and rob Miller of his claim. Sullivan had said, "All right, I'm in on that."

Going back to the timber deal, Mr. Mr. Blake wanted to know who the man was who was to put in $5,000. The witness refused to answer, but, when ordered to do so by the court, said it was Mr. Thomas Nihan, St. Catharines.

During the last ten minutes of the morning session Sullivan talked like a mill stream. He declared that on March 9, the day before the House met, Gamey came to him and said he wanted him to corroborate him on a charge he was going to make that Mr. Stratton had paid him $4,000 for his support, and that they had divided the proceeds. Sullivan said he'd like to see the money first, and Gamey said he would arrange that all right. Sullivan agreed to think it over, and resolved to go and see Mr. Stratton. He met the latter in the corridor, and said he didn't think Gamey was going to support the Government after all. The latter waved him away and said: "I don't care, I never trust those kind of fellows." Sullivan thought if Mr. Stratton didn't care he need not, and agreed to go down to the Crossin warerooms.

Here the morning's testimony ended.

A LIBERAL DONATION

Havana Cigar Company Gives a Big Subscription to the Races

The Peterborough Turf Club have reason to feel jubilant over the success which is attending their efforts to provide funds for the big races to be held here in August next. A few days ago Secretary Roumtree received a substantial subscription towards the purse to be known as "The Old Abe Purse," from the Havana Cigar Company, Toronto, manufacturers of the brand of cigars of that name.

That the meet will be a great success is already assured. The horses entered are amongst the best in the country, and this will assure a big crowd of people.

A SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT

[illegible] Lecture Hall

One of the most enjoyable entertainments of the season took place last night in St. Andrew's lecture hall, under the auspices of the Junior Guild of the church. An excellent programme was presented, creditable alike to the Guild and to those who took part.

The first number was a piano solo by Misses Tully and VanEvery, which was admirably rendered. Owen A. Smiley, the inimitable personator, next appeared and received a hearty encore. A poem by Mr. Smiley, a solo by Mr. James Morgan and a musical sketch by Mr. Smiley, completed the first part of the programme.

The Misses Campbell opened the second part with an instrumental selection, charmingly rendered. This was followed by a poem by Mr. Smiley, and a song by Mr. Joseph Legg, in excellent voice. The entertainment concluded with a poem by Mr. Smiley and a song by Mr. James Morgan.

The Guild is to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment, which was first class from start to finish.

IN SOUTH AFRICA

Canadian Girls May Stay Longer if They so Desire

Ottawa, April 24—The Canadian girls who went to South Africa to teach the Boer children have an opportunity of returning home at the end of their year's engagement, passage paid, or they may sign an agreement for three years from the termination of their present engagement. In the latter case they may have three months' leave of absence, without pay, and passage paid home, and return, and a gratuity of three months' pay at the end of the three years. A teacher taking three months' leave of absence will not be entitled to her final passage home.

The teachers may also sign for three years from the date of their original agreement forfeiting the three months' leave of absence. The teacher intering into this agreement may have full gartuity at the end of her engagement, free passage at the end of agreement or at three months' notice.

The teachers have been paid at the rate of £100 per year and maintenance. Under the new terms it is understood the payment will be £180 per annum to include all expenses.

Rumor About General Buller

London, April 22—The fantastic rumor that Gen. Buller will be appointed Field Marshal is not credited even by his friends in the military clubs. The revival of the controversy over the Natal operations is not desired by the War Office.

DREYFUS NOW DEMANDS TO BE GIVEN ANOTHER TRIAL

The Great Case Not Yet Finall Settled

A MILD SENSATION

The Prisoner of Devil's Island Says Much of the Evidence was False

Paris, March 24—Alfred Dreyfus has submitted to Minister of War Andre a lengthy letter in which he earnestly asks for a re-opening of his case by means of an investigation by the Minister, as the Supreme head of military justice. The letter, which is dated Paris April 21, confirms the report that Dreyfus has been living quietly here for some time past. It promises to cause a tremendous agitation among the various elements of the political groups for and against Dreyfus.

The first part of the letter is a calm, earnest plea that the court which condemned him at Rennes was improperly influenced, first by the annotated document ascribed to Emperor William, and second to the false testimony of one of the witnesses, Czernuski.

After arguing on the extent to which these contributed to his condemnation, Dreyfus recalls in graphic terms the long series of horrors to which he had been subjected.

The letter throughout is couched in a highly dramatic style, which will likely make it one of the notable papers of the case.

Mr. Fisher Still in Japan

Ottawa, April 23—Hon. Sydney Fisher will leave Japan for Canada on May 1. He has been feted and entertained in the Mikado's kingdom and has had some very interesting experiences. He was received in audience by the Emperor of Japan and witnessed a performance of Othello in Japanese.

SOLDIERS SENTENCED TO DEATH

Convicted Men Belong to the Second Battalion of the Leinster Regiment

Pretoria, Transvaal, April 24—Five private soldiers belonging to the second Battalion of the Leinster Regiment, were sentenced to death, in the Supreme Court here. The conviction of the men followed their trial in connection with a riot which took place at the barracks of March 28. When the military police attempted to arrest a number of drunken soldiers the latter, reinforced by some of their comrades secured rifles and ammunition and opened fire on the military police. One of the latter, a member of the Leinster regiment, was killed, and sixteen men were injured.

THOUSANDS TURNED BACK

Europe's Paupers Anxious for New Homes Across the Atlantic

Hamburg, April 24—Crowds of would-be emigrants to Canada and the United States are daily turned back from this and other Continental ports. The rush to obtain accommodation is unprecedented. The shipping companies are refusing thousands of dollars weekly in order to avoid carrying passengers likely to be refused admittance to the United States or Canada. The companies' medical inspectors scrutinize applicants for passage with the utmost care, and permit no considerations to weigh with them except the fitness of the subjects.

When rejected the people take their fate much to heart. Pathetic scenes are witnessed among families stopped at the water edge because of suspected disease or pauperism. Numbers of the unfortunates experienced great difficulty in getting back to the places from which they started.

Many of them are utterly dependent on the charity of the country. The roads leading out of the chief seaport cities are frequently covered with distressed men, women and children, driven to tramp to their distant homes by the stringent immigration laws.

Quebec, April 23—Azarie Plamondon, a married man, 28 years of age, was accidentally killed at St. Raymond on Tuesday by a cart load of bricks passing over his body.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

INCREASE IN SUICIDES

Steady Advance During Last 25 Years in Most Countries

London, April 24—Considerable attention has been drawn to the numerous suicides in England recently, and statistics show that there has been a great increase in the number of cases of self-destruction in the last twenty or thirty years in all but a few countries.

The proportion of France during the past twenty-five years increased from 157 to 224 per million of population. In Germany it is about the same, and Belgium showed a somewhat less proportion. In Russia there was no increase. Austria increased by 30 per cent per million. Hungary by 27, Australia by 24, Ireland by 8, Scotland by 18, and England by 15 in the same period. In England there has been a steady increase for fifty years. In 1860 the number of suicides was 1,357. In 1896 it had reached 2,639, of whom 1,971 were men and 668 women.

In all countries the suicides have been more common among men than women. The proportion of women to men is greatest in America and Spain. England comes next with 28 women out of every 100 suicides. In the ten years between 1887 and 1897 there were over 400 suicides in England of persons under 15 years of age. Of these 76 were girls.

Miss Jones' Voice Greatly Improved

A startling improvement is noticeable in Miss Jones' singing. Her voice is stronger, and sounds clearer and sweeter than before using Catarrhozone, which is a wonderful aid to singers, speakers and ministers. Catarrhozone inhaler insures absolute freedom from Colds, Coughs and Catarrh, clears the nose and throat and prevents hoarseness and huskiness. Catarrhozone makes the voice brilliant and enduring, and is uncommonly well recommended by Prima Donnas, members of Parliament, Lawyers, Doctors and thousands that use it daily. Better try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA

Has a Jolly Time in Denmark while the King is in the south

Copenhagen, April 24—While King Edward has been enjoying himself in the south of Europe, his Queen has been renewing her youth and having a good time in the city of her birth. Yesterday Alexandra, accompanied by Princess Christian, spent the day shopping. They visited a dozen shops. The Queen bought a quantity of Danish terra cotta and marble figures and pictures, the work of local artists, inquiring for the names of the artists. Alexandra afterward drove to the theatre and bought at the box office 25 tickets for "Cavalleria Rusticana." In addition to the royal Danish family the Queen bought tickets for every member of the staff of the British Embassy, whom she invited to join the royal party. Reports from Moscow deny the rumors that the Czarina is very ill. She and the Czar are going about visiting churches and shopping absolutely unescorted. The Czar apparently is desirous of showing that he does not fear his subjects. The Czarina looks in the best of health and there are no signs of melancholia.

SOLD BOER CATTLE AND POCKETED THE MONEY

Two Canadian Officers Disgraced in South Africa

Kingston, Ont., April 23—Two young Canadian officers, one well known in Kingston, are in disgrace in South Africa. They accepted positions under the Imperial Government after the Canadian troops had left the Dark Continent, and it was part of their duty to handle the cattle which the Imperial Government sent out to restock Boer farms. The excessive mortality among the shipments, as shown by the returns made by these officers, led to an investigation, when it was discovered that the officers in question were falsifying the returns, and selling cattle, the proceeds of which they pocketed.

One of the pair fled to Portuguese territory, and the other succeeded in escaping arrest. The second one who was for a time stationed in Kingston, was caught at Delagoa Bay, and imprisoned.

PARIS WILL GIVE THE KING A ROYAL WELCOME

Edward's Visit to French Capital to be Made the Occasion of Much Gaiety

OLD SCORES ARE FORGOTTEN

Edgar Combes Incident is Likely to Cause Disruption of Frenc Cabinet

Paris, April 22—Parisians are determined to give King Edward a hospitable reception during his visit. Many Parisians are talking of little else nowadays. His Majesty's visit is not due to the invitation of President Loubet as reported. The fact is the British Cabinet suggested the visit, arguing that no member of the royal family has yet visited France officially and that the present was the psycological moment, as France is disposed to regard Great Britain favorably and the visit of King Edward will be considered a greater compliment now than later on, when the French might suspect England wanted something. Boulevardiers have forgotten the hostility to England because of the Boer war, and are prepared to welcome Edward joyously as they welcomed the Czar two years ago. The King is very fond of Paris. He knows intimately the leaders of ancient society and it is reported he is anticipating the visit with eagerness.

A Slight Mistake

Our little evening contemporary on George street should read up American history. In its issue of Wednesday it stated that it was Washington's birthday, whereas the immortal George was born a month earlier. The g.f.j. like the father of his country, cannot tell a lie, or yet will it calmly sit down with its limbs crossed and arms folded and see its contemporary indulge in romance without remonstrance.

Removed to Ashburnham

Mr. Isaac Eastwood, of Walmapitae, has disposed of his property in that town, and has purchased the Mowry property in Ashburnham, where he and his family will reside in future. His many friends and acquaintances are glad to welcome an old friend and good citizen. He is to be congratulated upon the choice of his home, which is situated on the high ground beside the present residence of Mr. O. B. McAllister. The Times joins his friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood many years of pleasure and enjoyment in their new home.

LABOR'S FRANK PURPOSE

Mr. Samuel Gompers, the President of the American Federation of Organized Labor says bluntly and simply that it proposes to secure a larger share of the wealth it produces. He says further that it is constantly striving for the attainment of a better and higher life, that it seeks the realization of man in his broadest sense. We are glad that this unequivocal platform is offered in such a public manner. There is yet, in spite of the thirty years or more of agitation and education, a very vague idea in the public mind as to what organized labor really and fundamentally stands for.

Mr. Gompers' statement covers the ground thoroughly. The contest of labor is merely waged to secure a more equitable division of the spoil of toil, of a fairer division of the profits of a union between intelligence and accumulated resource on the one hand and stored-up human physical energy on the other. The mind is always master, and always has been. It enters the contest with centuries of prestige behind it. It has always taken the lion's share of everything. What labor has won so far has been won by brute force, terribly handicapped. What capital has taken has been that which it could wheedle or browbeat or cheat labor out of. There has been a constant depreciation of the capitalist's share, and as constant an appreciation of labor's share, owing to the growing intelligence of the toiler and, let us say in [illegible] owing, too, to the enlarged and more sensitive conscience of the employer. The extreme among the laborers claim that capital earns no share of the wealth it is used in producing whatever, and that labor rightly should have it all, and the tendency of the times is towards this ultimate division; but it is utterly impossible so long as men are constituted as they are that any such division can be agreed upon. The present movement, however, looking toward a more generous division for labor, is one that the country can regard with equanimity.

The fact is evident that there is more inspiration in bossing 100 shovellers than there is in wielding a shovel. There is more satisfaction in directing the energies of a thousand men than being one of the thousand directed. It takes more ability, it is admitted, to direct than it does to merely work under someone else's direction. The training and responsibility are both greater, and usually the term of useful service shorter. But we have lost sight of the fact in rewarding these different classes of labor of the compensation in the work itself, a matter which should be taken into consideration. The motormen, truck drivers, the farm hands, the scrub-women, the house servants, those who do the so-called drudgery of life, have tasks that are themselves, as such, distasteful. This work must be done, but only through dire need are people willing to be exposed to all kinds of weather and to all sorts of physical discomfort and danger. Such work, by right, ought to demand a higher compensation than that measured by mere talent, which ought rightly to be more its own reward. Men who have office positions with short hours of service and big responsibilities, have the artist's appreciation of their tasks to sustain and stimulate them. It would be only fair to equalize conditions of employment by giving those who merely toil more inspiration to do this well.

There is another and more important point than this. This highly-paid specialized managerial work is very wearing on men. Nervousness is the least of the discomforts they suffer. Men are frequently physically incapacitated and have their lives shortened by too exacting and ardous brain work. Not one of them is there but would be highly benefitted by doing some of the tasks which the most poorly paid laborer has to do. Is it worth while, therefore, for society to continue putting such premiums upon labor as to force one class into soul-destroying drudgery and the other to nerve-racking excess. We do not see exactly how things industrial and economic can be properly adjusted just yet. Human selfishness is far too strong and our slavishness to routine, precedent and custom too complete yet. We do not just yet see how the banker, the bookkeeper and the marchant can change places or at least relieve, the truck driver, the postman and the ditch digger; how men who use their brains only can take their turn at the tonic of manual labor, or how the laborer can be led to usefully employ his brain at times, but we believe that such a change in many cases would be a highly desirable one all around.

There is no higher purpose in life than the production of well-rounded resourceful men and women, who have large experience and efficiency in various walks of life. Specialization is good from the standpoint of mere production. But rightly we should produce to live well, instead of living merely to produce.

BORNE TO THE GRAVE WITH SOLEMN STATE

Funeral of the Late Lieutenant-Governor was an Imposing Spectacle in which many Thousands Joined

Amid the mournful tolling of city bells the State funeral procession of Sir Oliver Mowat Wednesday afternoon wended its way through city streets lined with tens of thousands of citizens all the distance from Government House to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. All the business houses of the city were closed, and along the route buildings were heavily draped.

The cortege was the largest and most imposing ever witnessed in Toronto. In the procession were noticed many of the leading statesmen of the Dominion and of the provinces, exalted members of the judiciary, men eminent in the professions, and individuals prominent in every walk of life.

MONEY NO OBJECT

When People are seeking health or relief from any disease the price never counts.

It is a fact that not less than a million is spent every year by people seeking a satisfactory cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

Probably the best and most highly recommended preparation is Catarrhozone, which treats the local symptoms very effectually by means of medicated air supplied through a convenient hard rubber inhaler. The poisons in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone Tablets, which are taken after each meal. They promote appetite, aid digestion, and make the blood rich and pure, so that it will nourish all parts of the body.

This combined local and constitutional treatment in catarrhal diseases has met with wonderful success and can be relied upon to cure every time. The inhaler stops sneezing, coughing, droppings in the throat, and brings quick relief and cure to all the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh.

The following testimonials from well known Canadians furnish abundant proof what Catarrhozone accomplishes in stubborn cases.

Mrs. James Tweedie, of Jay Bridge, says: "For years my daughter doctored unsuccessfully for Catarrh. She had droppings in the throat, hawkings, nausea, and could not sleep at night. The first day's use of Catarrhozone benefitted and ultimately cured my daughter so that Catarrh has never returned. I can recommend Catarrhozone as a grand remedy for Catarrh."

Thousands of strong letters could be given like the above if necessary, but all that is required to prove the merit of Catarrhozone is a fair trial. It is sure as death to cure and if it fails your money will be refunded. Catarrhozone cured lots of cases worse than yours and can do it again.

DISTRICT NEWS

INDIAN RIVER.

—Farmers are busy seeding.

—Gypsy Blair is working with Mr. Leach for the season.

—Mr. Thomas K. McGuire, of the hydraulic lift lock at Peterborough, was seen passing through the village on Sunday last.

—The milk drawers are busily engaged getting ready for the coming season, which opens in another week. John Clancy has a large route, but John says, "Gee! I am good for it."

—The monotony of our quiet village was broken on Monday night last by a social hop being held at Mr. John O'Brien's. The elite of the surrounding country were there, some coming from Asphodel and Peterborough. The music was furnished by Mr. P. Doherty, while Mr. Maurice Mead acted in the capacity of floor manager and called off. During the evening there was some neat bouts in step dancing, the most noteworthy being one given by the "host" himself and Frank O'Brien, the music to their taste being "McLeod's reel." They didn't do a thing to it and some old judges of the light fantastic say that tune never got more justice, but John says if they had good partners, they could knock that step sky high. The next on the programme was a recitation from Mr. Wm. Heffernan, entitled "Curfew shall not Ring To-night," and as many had not heard this before, it was indeed a treat to them. It being now time to break up every one demanded a song from John Herr. Johnny was received with great applause, the song being, "I'm a Man you don't meet every day." Everyone was very much interested in it and no one appreciated it more than his best girl, who was one of the audience. The crowd broke up after spending a very enjoyable evening.

DRINK EVIL IN GERMAN KINGDOM

Recent Conference in Bremen Resulted in Joining of Various Abstainer's Societies

GOOD RESULTS LOOKED FOR

Excessive Drinking Among Working Classes the Great Hindrance to their Progress

Bremen, April 23—Among the great results of the International Anti-Alcoholic Congress, just concluded in this city, is the amalgamation of all workmen's abstainers societies in brilliant and popular member of a brilliant and popular member of the Reichstag, Herr Stoermerr, of Hamburg.

Speaking to a correspondent Herr Stoermerr, who is a Social Democrat, said: "Excessive drinking among the masses in general, and among workmen in particular, is the most serious bar to the emancipation of the lower classes. It undermines the mental capacity and energies of those who would otherwise be capable of attaining efficiency and culture. While it continues the aims of Social Democracy, viz., the destruction of social barriers and the realization of the beauties and joys of civilization will not advance an inch. Hence we seek to free workmen from the fatal drawback of alcoholism, and prepare them both in body and mind for the stress of life. The purposes of the new scheme, launched with so much enthusiasm are educational. It will distribute literature dealing exhaustively with the liquor evil, and promote personal efforts to elevate the working classes of Germany."

In the opinion of the delegates the convention just closed has acheived more practical [illegible] than any that have gone before. In Vienna, two years ago, when it was proposed to hold the next meeting in Germany, the proposal met with strong opposition that the beer-loving Tuetons would injure the work. However, the Germans adopted quite a contrary attitude.

IMPERIAL GERMAN CONSUL CRITICIZES OUR NEW TARIFF

The German Agent at Montreal Speaks

And Naturally Condems the Canadian Government

London, April 22—British commercial men believe the nations are on the verge of a titanic battle of tariffs. They say that the spirit of economic warfare most recently illustrated in the case of Canada and Germany is spreading and that all conditions exist for its extension. The tariff, as a weapon of international strife, they assert, has never been fully treated, and commercial peace is certain to rest on an insecure foundation until that test has been made and the great trading countries accept the results.

"Germany is stirring up a hornet's nest," said Kenric Murray, secretary of the London Chamber of Commerce to a correspondent this morning. "The agrarian population has got the upper hand in the Legislature and is driving the nation to throw down the gauntlet to the whole commercial outside world. The row with Canada is but a fraction of what is coming. Germany's threat to retaliate on the Canadians is mere bluster. For two years they have taxed the Dominion's foodstuffs, and what more can they do. Like Great Britain, Germany must import a large percentage of its foodstuffs. The higher it raises its tariffs the worse for the German consumer. The moment the new duties become effective they will shut out French wines and silk and a bitter fight will ensue in that quarter. Russia, also is preparing to retaliate. It is expected that the anticipated tariff wars will result in a general readjustment of international relations and momentous shifting of markets. It is thought, however, that when this commercail war has been found insupportable on account of its expense commercial reason will assert itself and trade will speedily return to its old natural channels."

MILITARY CIRCLES

Great Enthusiasm Shown by the Local Soldiers

The 57th Regiment Peterborough Rangers is making rapid headway [illegible] ed on April 18th and three drills have taken place, the turnout shows an average of two-thirds of the whole strength of last year. This is considered a very unusual occurrence, as very many do not turn out until the warm weather commences, and it is confidently expected that when the first public parade takes place on Tuesday, 28th inst., that the number in the line will exceed that of any turnout in the history of the regiment.

The government has raised the standard of regiments in cities and towns and country districts to eight companies. It was thought that after the excitement and enthusiasm of the recent South African war had passed away that it would almost be impossible to add the two necessary new companies to complete the regiment; but the officers set to work recruiting, and find their labors amply repaid, as not only have the new companies been filled up, but old ones are stronger, better equipped and more enthusiastic perhaps than ever before.

Two excellent young officers have been put in command of the companies formed, in the person of Captain McWilliams and Captain McPherson, than whom no better officers could be found anywhere; both young, enthusiastic, capable and highly educated, who have not only made themselves popular with their men and fellow officers but with the whole town. Their characters are clean and above reproach, and the example set by either of them may be proudly followed by not only the men marching under them, but by the most ambitive Christian young man in the land.

The officers and men are to be congratulated upon the success the Regiment has attained, and we hope that their most sanguine expectations may be realized during the coming season.

SOME STARTLING FACTS

regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 31 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before I had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
126 Albert St., London.

—John Williams, of the C.P.R. Works, Toronto, was cured of chronic rheumatism, after taking 10 boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

—I was troubled with rheumatism for 12 years, and could get absolutely no relief from the doctors. Six boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills entirely cured me. God bless Dr. Clarke. (REV.) S. HUMMITT, Winnipeg, Man.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $00 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

CHAPTER I.

A Misunderstanding.

About seven in the evening and a beautiful May day. The lazy wavelets—tired with the exertion of going through their perfunctory duty of accompanying the tide throughout a six hours' rise from low to high, uphill work every inch of it—scarcely had the energy to flop one after the other exhausted upon the sand. Few people were to be seen about the streets of Seadown, though in the small harbor at the end of the beach there were still busy sounds to be heard. The prevailing impression was one of peace and rest.

From an upper window of the little terrace overlooking the harbor from the hill beyond, a pretty girl leaned and gazed down the street, anxious to discover whose footsteps were to be heard breaking the silence of the thoroughfare. Whether she wished or expected to see anyone in particular is a debatable question; we have to deal with facts only. When she had ascertained to her satisfaction the owner of the feet which tramped noisily towards the house, she drew quickly within; but, though she concealed herself behind the muslin window curtain, she continued to watch the approaching pedestrian.

"I thought he'd come to-day," she reflected—and the observant spectator, had there been one, might have observed a deepening in the tint of her very pretty complexion—"from the way he looked at me at church yesterday."

But to her chagrin, the youth, a good-looking fellow of twenty-five, with the cut of a sailor, and a frank, honest face—though he slowed down as he reached the door of No. 8, her door, and seemed to hesitate as he glanced up at the windows—passed along the street without stopping.

But at the end of the terrace he paused, turned, and came back. This time he went by so slowly that Ruby Amright made sure he would stop and knock. But he passed for the second time, walked up as far as No. 1 and turned upon his heel again.

Still he hesitated to enter, though at his third passing he actually stopped for an instant at No. 8 and went on again. The fourth time he had, it appeared, made up his mind to a dash, for he came slowly down the terrace, stopped outside No. 8, blew his nose several times, carefully scraped his boots, which had neither mud nor dust upon them, and knocked at the door.

Now Ruby Amright had watched the whole of this comedy from behind the muslin curtain of her bedroom window. With delight she had seen Keith Adams approach for the first time. With disappointment and surprise she had observed him pass the door. With renewed satisfaction she had watched him return, and with rising anger she had noted the following foolish acts of the farce, until by the time Keith had at length taken heart of grace and knocked at the door, she was a very angry maiden, and showed it.

Now this Keith Adams was a noteworthy person in the little town of Seadown; an eminent footballer, when ashore; one of the smartest of sailors when at sea; a prominent member of the lifeboat crew of the place, and the hero of many episodes in which the quality of pluck in those taking part would seem to be obviously a sine qua non. Yet at sight of the angry face of a pretty girl this same Keith Adams became so embarrassed that he was unable to utter a word for the first moment or two.

"She's sorry to see me—she hoped it [illegible] up with me then." These were the thoughts that passed through his brain and prevented him from uttering the commonest greeting.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" Ruby had said, as she opened the door. Her tone suggested indifference, if not displeasure; she was obviously in bad temper. "And what may I do for Mr. Keith Adams this evening?"

"I came," Keith stammered, "to know if you'd walk out with me a little; I've——"

"Oh, and shall I be expected to do all the talking, as I did t'other night?" Ruby interrupted cruelly; "if so maybe it'd be better for my throat if I walked out with someone else."

Keith blushed.

"I know I'm not much of a talker," he said; "but I've something rather particular to say to-night."

Ruby's heart bounded within her, but she kept a tight hold upon herself lest eye or cheek should tell a tale against her.

"Oh," she said, indifferently, "indeed! —well, I suppose I must come then, though it can't be for long, for I ought to be better employed at home."

In spite of Keith's assertion that he had a particular subject to speak of, the young man and young woman paced the deserted beach in silence. Ruby's anger did not subside under this treatment. It passed through all the phases of simmering, boiling, seething and gradual cooling as the humor of the situation made its inevitable appeal to her laughter-loving soul.

Right up to the rocks that limit the beach at the down end they walked, and not a word had yet been said. They were half-way back to the harbor when Ruby suddenly burst into a loud and uncontrollable fit of laughter. Keith, embarrassed yet relieved that the tension was at last broken, smiled somewhat inanely.

"I'm sorry to put an end to so interestin' a conversation, Mr. Adams," said Ruby, when she could speak, "but they'll be wantin' me at home." Keith blushed and cleared his throat.

"I'm no better than a fool with maids," he said, "and that's a fact!"

"At any rate one hears the truth when your lips do open!" replied Ruby. "Is that the particular thing you had to say? I'd rather hear something fresh."

"No, there's more behind," said Keith, gathering heart now his tongue was loosened. "Me and Dick Robinson are both of us sailing in the 'Hecuba' on Saturday, as p'r'aps you may be aware; well, me and him——"

"What have I to do with Dick Robinson?" asked Ruby, flushing; "what have you brought him in for?"

"I'll tell you in a minute; let me speak now I've begun. Me and Dick are pals, that's known to most in this place; well, it came out in talking that him and me are steerin' for the same moorings, in a manner of speaking; that is, we've both fallen in love with the same maid. If I'd known which way he was heading maybe I'd have altered my course a point or two, or he might've; as it is we're too late and we've done it."

"How very interesting," said Ruby, affecting indifference. The affectation was very moderately done, but apparently it was sufficiently well assumed to depress and discomfort the embarrassed young man at her side.

"I thought I'd tell you all about it anyhow," he said; "though I'm the one as isn't going to have a look in with the maid—I can see that. Well, I'd rather it was Dick if it can't be me."

"There now, isn't that grand and noble! That's true friendship, that is!" said Ruby, flashing her dark eyes at him. "The maid'll thank you if you tell her that. She'll like to be told it's the same to you whether you get her or t'other chap."

"You're the maid yourself, you know that well enough; and there's a thing you know still better maybe, and that is that it's not the same to me, not by any means. I only said I'd rather it was Dick than anyone else if it can't be me. Dick'll come and talk to you himself; it was my turn first or he'd have come to-night instead of me; I wish he had. We agreed I was to speak first; he's a better maid's man than I am, Dick is, and I'm not surprised maids like him better. It wasn't because I thought I'd the best chance that I came first, mind you; that wasn't it at all; we tossed up who should have first say, and——"

Ruby stamped her foot upon the sand; then for the second time she burst into uncontrollable laughter.

"Well, of all the fools that ever I did see, you two are the very biggest," she cried; "you may go home and tell Dick so from me. So you and he made sure one of the two'd get me, did you? I'd as soon marry a sheep as one that can't say more than baa, and vows it's all the same to him whether the other has the maid or he does! A likely pair, indeed, oh, dear me! A pretty fool you've made of me to-night, Mr. Adams, first tossing up for me as if I was a drink at the public, and then baa-baaing to me like any sheep——"

"We didn't toss up for you," said Keith hotly; he felt nettled and distressed. "We tossed up for first say and I won it. If you don't want a man you needn't speak insulting to him because he happens to like you, and you don't feel the same to him; no more you needn't put words in his mouth that he didn't say——"

"What, baa, for instance? Well, good night to you, Mr. Sheep. I'm afraid I must be going; send Mr. Dick Robinson along as soon as you please; maybe he'll have more to say than baa."

Ruby Amright bowed saucily and ran away. When she had gone a few yards she turned and repeated baa. Then she ran on and reached her home. Her mother met her on the stairs and asked what ailed her, but she pushed by and flung herself into her own room, banging the door behind her and locking it. Then she fell upon her bed, and burying her face in the pillow burst into a wild paroxysm of crying.

"It's all over," she sobbed; "I've done it—done it myself. He'll never forgive me, never; how could he? I shouldn't like him if he did. I'm a little beast; a bad-tempered, rude, sharp-tongued beast, and a fool besides, worse than he."

"Why couldn't he speak out and give me a chance?" she continued after a while. "Who'd 'ave supposed he'd behave as he did and talk as if he didn't care whether I wanted Dick or him!"

"I'll teach him to care, I will yet," she added, after another quarter of an hour. "When Dick comes, I'll——"

Ruby did not put into words what she would do or say when Dick came.

When she next spoke she merely said: "That'll teach him whether he cares or not."

When Dick did come, next day, he was gratified and somewhat surprised by her reception of him. He had supposed that Keith's chances were the better, but Keith had admitted this morning that his interview with the girl had been an utter failure. "I was a fool ever to try; she doesn't care a damn for me," he said bitterly, "and hadn't a civil word to give me. I hope you'll have better luck, old man; it's hit me pretty hard and that's the truth."

Dick Robinson's manner had nothing of the shyness and diffidence of Keith. He approached the girl with confidence, being persuaded that "maids" preferred this attitude from their admirers.

Famous For Repartee.

Of all the brilliant preachers of modern times, no one shone more resplendently in conversation than the eloquent Baptist minister, Robert Hall. It is remarkable that, while in his writings hardly a gleam of wit or humor is to be found, yet in the social circle he was distinguished by his terse and pungent sayings. All his life he was a martyr to an excruciating disease, and his wittiest sayings were uttered when he was writhing with sharp pain. A lady at a friend's house found him so lost in thought that she vainly essayed to engage him in conversation. At length, impatient of his reveries, she said flippantly, in allusion to a Miss Steel whom he was engaged to be married:

"Ah, sir, if we had but polished steel here, we might secure some of your attention; but——"

"Madam," interrupted the now roused preacher, "make yourself quite easy; if you are not polished steel, you are at least polished brass."

Hall had an intense abhorrence of religious cant, to which he gave expression sometimes in the most searching terms. A young minister, who was visiting him, spent a day in sighing, ever and anon begging pardon for his suspirations, and saying that they were caused by grief that he had so hard a heart. When the lamentations, which Hall had borne patiently the first day, were resumed at breakfast on the second, he said:

"Why, sir, don't be so cast down; remember the compensating principle, and be thankful and still."

"Compensating principle!" exclaimed the young man; "what can compensate for a hard heart?"

"Why, a soft head, to be sure," replied Hall, who, if rude, had certainly great provocation.

The Railway Trackmen

The rumor that the trackmen on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway are likely to go on strike is said to be quite unfounded. Superintendent Jones, of Toronto, states that there is no trouble of any kind on his division. It is understood in railway circles that the reports are not justified by the facts.

MICHAEL DAVITT ON TAE LAND BILL

Irish Leader Discusses the Action of the National League

THE SPIRIT OF UNITY

Shown in Convention Declared to Have Proven Disappointing to Enemies of Ireland

Dublin, April 23—There can be no two opinions of the question of great success of the Irish national convention in session here the past week. It may not have accomplished all that could have been done, but that is a failing common to sovereign legislatures as well as mere Irish political failures. It is commented on freely that in the orderly proceedings and great debating power the convention has given an object lesson in home rule, which may make some impression on the average English mind. In any case it has been in its spirit of unity a great disappointment to the enemies of Ireland's cause, and this will probably be the best testimony that can be recorded in its favor and praise for the satisfaction of Ireland's friends beyond the Atlantic. One of the amendments to the bill most welcome at Friday's session was the demanded homestead law for Ireland. The purpose of this motion was to shield as far as could be done by unsympathetic English law, in Ireland.

The homes of the Irish peasantry have been the special object of landlord oppression in the present Irish land war. The home next to the faith is the most devoutly cherished object in life. Home, no matter how poor and squalid, appeals to the best instincts of our race. The Irish peasant yields his cottage only when irresistible power compels him. This fierce love for home has given Irish landlords and the English government a strong hold on the obedience of the tenants. It was the means of wringing unconscionable rent out of him before land league times and of making him more or less subservient to alien law. The land purchase acts have supplied to a large extent the best protection against this social tyranny, by enabling the peasant to become the owner of his home. Eviction in the old evil way with all its attendant suffering, passions and frequently with the "lex taliona" of the wild justice of revenge, is no longer the dread, or dream of possible horror to peasant homes where purchase has freed them from landlordism, but its recurrence is not impossible even under new conditions which the coming bill may create.

There are village extortioners called go-betweens men or usurers in Ireland, as there will be land jobbers, spring up as the number of small land proprietors increase. Improvident money borrowing is a peculiar habit among peasant proprietors in Ireland and a dangerous element of social discord in many other countries. We want, if possible, to safeguard the future domestic relations of the Irish peasant home from this. Hence the instruction given Friday to Redmond and his party to press for a homestead law as part of the government bill.

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;

Two partially developed quartz claims;

One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;

All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

CHAPTER I.

A Misunderstanding.

About seven in the evening and a beautiful May day. The lazy wavelets—tired with the exertion of going through their perfunctory duty of accompanying the tide throughout a six hours' rise from low to high, uphill work every inch of it—scarcely had the energy to flop one after the other exhausted upon the sand. Few people were to be seen about the streets of Seadown, though in the small harbor at the end of the beach there were still busy sounds to be heard. The prevailing impression was one of peace and rest.

From an upper window of the little terrace overlooking the harbor from the hill beyond, a pretty girl leaned and gazed down the street, anxious to discover whose footsteps were to be heard breaking the silence of the thoroughfare. Whether she wished or expected to see anyone in particular is a debatable question; we have to deal with facts only. When she had ascertained to her satisfaction the owner of the feet which tramped noisily towards the house, she drew quickly within; but, though she concealed herself behind the muslin window curtain, she continued to watch the approaching pedestrian.

"I thought he'd come to-day," she reflected—and the observant spectator, had there been one, might have observed a deepening in the tint of her very pretty complexion—"from the way he looked at me at church yesterday."

But to her chagrin, the youth, a good-looking fellow of twenty-five, with the cut of a sailor, and a frank, honest face—though he slowed down as he reached the door of No. 8, her door, and seemed to hesitate as he glanced up at the windows—passed along the street without stopping.

But at the end of the terrace he paused, turned, and came back. This time he went by so slowly that Ruby Amright made sure he would stop and knock. But he passed for the second time, walked up as far as No. 1 and turned upon his heel again.

Still he hesitated to enter, though at his third passing he actually stopped for an instant at No. 8 and went on again. The fourth time he had, it appeared, made up his mind to a dash, for he came slowly down the terrace, stopped outside No. 8, blew his nose several times, carefully scraped his boots, which had neither mud nor dust upon them, and knocked at the door.

Now Ruby Amright had watched the whole of this comedy from behind the muslin curtain of her bedroom window. With delight she had seen Keith Adams approach for the first time. With disappointment and surprise she had observed him pass the door. With renewed satisfaction she had watched him return, and with rising anger she had noted the following foolish acts of the farce, until by the time Keith had at length taken heart of grace and knocked at the door, she was a very angry maiden, and showed it.

Now this Keith Adams was a noteworthy person in the little town of Seadown; an eminent footballer, when ashore; one of the smartest of sailors when at sea; a prominent member of the lifeboat crew of the place, and the hero of many episodes in which the quality of pluck in those taking part would seem to be obviously a sine qua non. Yet at sight of the angry face of a pretty girl this same Keith Adams became so embarrassed that he was unable to utter a word for the first moment or two.

"She's sorry to see me—she hoped it was someone else—it's all up with me then." These were the thoughts that passed through his brain and prevented him from uttering the commonest greetings.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" Ruby had said, as she opened the door. Her tone suggested indifference, if not displeasure; she was obviously in bad temper. "And what may I do for Mr. Keith Adams this evening?"

"I came," Keith stammered, "to know if you'd walk out with me a little; I've ——"

"Oh, and shall I be expected to do all the talking, as I did t'other night?" Ruby interrupted cruelly; "if so maybe it'd be better for my throat if I walked out with someone else."

Keith blushed.

"I know I'm not much of a talker," he said; "but I've something rather particular to say to-night."

Ruby's heart bounded within her, but she kept a tight hold upon herself lest eye or cheek should tell a tale against her.

"Oh," she said, indifferently, "indeed! —well, I suppose I must come then, though it can't be for long, for I ought to be better employed at home."

In spite of Keith's assertion that he had a particular subject to speak of, the young man and young woman paced the deserted beach in silence. Ruby's anger did not subside under this treatment. It passed through all the phases of simmering, boiling, seething and gradual cooling as the humor of the situation made its inevitable appeal to her laughter-loving soul.

Right up to the rocks that limit the beach at the down end they walked, and not a word had yet been said. They were half-way back to the harbor when Ruby suddenly burst into a loud and uncontrollable fit of laughter. Keith, embarrassed yet relieved that the tension was at last broken, smiled somewhat inanely.

"I'm sorry to put an end to so interestin' a conversation, Mr. Adams," said Ruby, when she could speak, "but they'll be wantin' me at home." Keith blushed and cleared his throat.

"I'm no better than a fool with maids," he said, "and that's a fact!"

"At any rate one hears the truth when your lips do open!" replied Ruby. "Is that the particular thing you had to say? I'd rather hear something fresh."

"No, there's more behind," said Keith, gathering heart now his tongue was loosened. "Me and Dick Robinson are both of us sailing in the 'Hecuba' on Saturday, as p'r'aps you may be aware; well, me and him——"

"What have I to do with Dick Robinson?" asked Ruby, flushing; "what have you brought him in for?"

"I'll tell you in a minute; let me speak now I've begun. Me and Dick are pals, that's known to most in this place; well, it came out in talking that him and me are steerin' for the same moorings, in a manner of speaking; that is, we've both fallen in love with the same maid. If I'd known which way he was heading maybe I'd have altered my course a point or two, or he might've; as it is we're too late and we've done it."

"How very interesting," said Ruby, affecting indifference. The affectation was very moderately done, but apparently it was sufficiently well assumed to depress and discomfort the embarrassed young man at her side.

"I thought I'd tell you all about it anyhow," he said; "though I'm the one as isn't going to have a look in with the maid—I can see that. Well, I'd rather it was Dick if it can't be me."

"There now, isn't that grand and noble! That's true friendship, that is!" said Ruby, flashing her dark eyes at him. "The maid'll thank you if you tell her that. She'll like to be told it's the same to you whether you get her or t'other chap."

"You're the maid yourself, you know that well enough; and there's a thing you know still better maybe, and that is that it's not the same to me, not by any means. I only said I'd rather it was Dick than anyone else if it can't be me. Dick'll come and talk to you himself; it was my turn first or he'd have come tonight instead of me; I wish he had. We agreed I was to speak first; he's a better maid's man than I am, Dick is, and I'm not surprised maids like him better. It wasn't because I thought I'd the best chance that I came first, mind you; that wasn't it at all; we tossed up who should have first say, and——"

Ruby stamped her foot upon the sand; then for the second time she burst into uncontrollable laughter.

"Well, of all the fools that ever I did see, you two are the very biggest," she cried; "you may go home and tell Dick so from me. So you and he made sure one of the two'd get me, did you! I'd as soon marry a sheep as one that can't say more than baa, and vows it's all the same to him whether the other has the maid or he does! A likely pair, indeed, oh, dear me! A pretty fool you've made of me to-night, Mr. Adams, first tossing up for me as if I was a drink at the public, and then baa-baaing to me like any sheep——"

"We didn't toss up for you," said Keith hotly; he felt nettled and distressed. "We tossed up for first say and I won it. If you don't want a man you needn't speak insulting to him because he happens to like you, and you don't feel the same to him; no more you needn't put words in his mouth that he didn't say——"

"What, baa, for instance? Well, good night to you, Mr. Sheep. I'm afraid I must be going; send Mr. Dick Robinson along as soon as you please; maybe he'll have more to say than baa."

Ruby Amright bowed saucily and ran away. When she had gone a few yards she turned and repeated baa. Then she ran on and reached her home. Her mother met her on the stairs and asked what ailed her, but she pushed by and flung herself into her own room, banging the door behind her and locking it. Then she fell upon her bed, and burying her face in the pillow burst into a wild paroxysm of crying.

"It's all over," she sobbed; "I've done it—done it myself. He'll never forgive me, never; how could he? I shouldn't like him if he did. I'm a little beast; a bad-tempered, rude, sharp-tongued beast, and a fool besides, worse than he."

"Why couldn't he speak out and give me a chance?" she continued after a while. "Who'd 'ave supposed he'd behave as he did and talk as if he didn't care whether I wanted Dick or him?"

"I'll teach him to care, I will yet," she added, after another quarter of an hour. "When Dick comes, I'll——"

Ruby did not put into words what she would do or say when Dick came.

When she next spoke she merely said: "That'll teach him whether he cares or not."

When Dick did come, next day, he was gratified and somewhat surprised by her reception of him. He had supposed that Keith's chances were the better, but Keith had admitted this morning that his interview with the girl had been an utter failure. "I was a fool ever to try; she doesn't care a damn for me," he said bitterly, "and hadn't a civil word to give me. I hope you'll have better luck, old man; it's hit me pretty hard and that's the truth."

Dick Robinson's manner had nothing of the shyness and diffidence of Keith. He approached the girl with confidence, being persuaded that "maids" preferred this attitude from their admirers.

Famous For Repartee.

Of all the brilliant preachers of modern times, no one shone more resplendently in conversation than the eloquent Baptist minister, Robert Hall. It is remarkable that, while in his writings hardly a gleam of wit or humor is to be found, yet in the social circle he was distinguished by his terse and pungent sayings. All his life he was a martyr to an excruciating disease, and his wittiest sayings were uttered when he was writhing with sharp pain. A lady at a friend's house found him so lost in thought that she vainly essayed to engage him in conversation. At length, impatient of his reverie, she said flippantly, in allusion to a Miss Steel to whom he was engaged to be married:

"Ah, sir, if we had but polished steel here, we might secure some of your attention; but——"

"Madam," interrupted the now roused preacher, "make yourself quite easy; if you are not polished steel, you are at least polished brass!"

Hall had an intense abhorrence of religious cant, to which he gave expression sometimes in the most scorching terms. A young minister, who was visiting him, spent a day in sighing, ever and anon begging pardon for his suspirations, and saying that they were caused by grief that he had so hard a heart. When the lamentations, which Hall had borne patiently the first day, were resumed at breakfast on the second, he said:

"Why, sir, don't be so cast down; remember the compensating principle, and be thankful and still."

"Compensating principle!" exclaimed the young man; "what can compensate for a hard heart?"

"Why, a soft head, to be sure," replied Hall, who, if rude, had certainly great provocation.

The Railway Trackmen.

The rumor that the trackmen on the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway are likely to go on strike is said to be quite unfounded. Superintendent Jones, of Toronto, states that there is no trouble of any kind on his division. It is understood in railway circles that the reports are not justified by the facts.

MICHAEL DAVITT ON THE LAND BILL

Irish Leader Discusses the Action of the National League

THE SPIRIT OF UNITY

Shown in Convention Declared to Have Proven Disappointing to Enemies of Ireland

Dublin, April 23—There can be no two opinions of the question of great success of the Irish national convention in session here the past week. It may not have accomplished all that could have been done, but that is a failing common to sovereign legislatures as well as mere Irish political failures. It is commented on freely that in the orderly proceedings and great debating power the convention has given an object lesson in home rule, which may make some impression on the average English mind. In any case it has been in its spirit of unity a great disappointment to the enemies of Ireland's cause, and this will probably be the best testimony that can be recorded in its favor and praise for the satisfaction of Ireland's friends beyond the Atlantic. One of the amendments to the bill most welcome at Friday's session, was the demanded homestead law for Ireland. The purpose of this motion was to shield as far as could be done by unsympathetic English law, in Ireland.

The homes of the Irish peasantry have been the special object of landlord oppression in this present Irish land war. The home next to the faith is the most devoutly cherished object in life. Home, no matter how poor and squalid, appeals to the best instincts of our race. The Irish peasant yields his cottage only when irresistible power compels him. This fierce love for home has given Irish landlords and the English government a strong hold on the obedience of the tenants. It was the means of wringing unconscionable rent out of him before land league times and of making him more or less subservient to alien law. The land purchase acts have supplied to a large extent the best protection against this social tyranny, by enabling the peasant to become the owner of his home. Eviction in the old evil way with all its attendant sufferings, passions and frequently with the "lex talionis" of the wild justice of revenge, is no longer the dread, or dream of possible horror to peasant homes where purchase has freed them from landlordism, but its recurrence is not impossible even under new conditions which the coming bill may create.

There are village extortioners, called go-betweens men or usurers, in Ireland, as there will be land jobbers, springing up as the number of small land proprietors increase. Improvident money borrowing is a peculiar habit among peasant proprietors in Ireland and a dangerous element of social discord in many other countries. We want, if possible, to safeguard the future domestic relations of the Irish peasant home from this. Hence the instruction given Friday to Redmond and his party to press for a homestead law as part of the government bill.

THREE UNDOUBTED BARGAINS

A placer and two quartz claims;

Two partially developed quartz claims;

One-quarter section patented land adjoining above;

All located in the Susanville Mining District, Eastern Oregon. Will be sold together or separately. Total price, $9,000.

We consider this group of properties to be unusually promising as a heavy producing mine joins a portion of the land, and near-by placer grounds are showing up very rich.

Act quickly, if at all interested.

of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE, BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY,
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralised gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralised, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

STOCK MARKETS

OVERSHADOWING BULLISH CONDITIONS

New York, April 23—There is not a shadow of doubt but what the great underlying conditions having a bearing upon the stock prices lean in preponderance greatly to the bull side at the present time. The past few days in the market make plain the fact that they are again assuming the ascendency. Bull pools are rapidly forming in several issues and their work has already commenced. It is quite plain to be seen in Manhattan, B. & O., R. I., A C P, Mo P and several other issues; even the severely pounded Penna. and N.Y.C are presenting most stubborn resistance to the efforts of the bears and they have to bid for it in most lively manner at present in order to purchase any amount of either stock. Their prices have declined to such figures as to greatly increase investment demand. Small amounts are taken daily. The fractional lot of people of the stock exchange who handle these two issues report a greatly increased inquiry. Think of the enormous earnings being reported by the subsidiary lines belonging to the Penna., such as B & O. C. O, and others. Consider the fact that the equity of the N.Y.C. in the earnings of the Lake Shore, B. & A., and of the other magnificent properties which it controls more than suffices to pay its own dividends. Then consider the price at which these two great issues can be purchased at present, comparing them with the prices ruling for them four, or even two months ago. How can one fail to consider them good to buy. Ill Central, M. R., Mo P, and many others are also worthy of consideration. S. P. and U P. are also upon the bargain counter. The work of restoration of values upon Wall Street has already commenced. Why not fall in with the procession and buy something; do so upon the reactions; they will not be great in dimensions but, for the time being, probably quite frequent. It is far better to come in at the conception of a market movement than to get aboard when it is approaching a culminating point. The general out-look for the future is at present most excellent, prices are low, earnings large and plenty of room for considerable improvement exists.

HAIGHT & FREESE.

While farm laborers are going out of Ontario to the west still there are many newcomers to take their place, men, however, who have mostly to be broken into farm work. Mr. Perace the Ontario Government emigration agent at the Union Station, Toronto states that since March the first he has handled some 1,452 emigrants, of whom over 300 were Barnardo boys. Yesterday forty mechanics arrived in Toronto, and some of them secured positions, others being picked up by farmers, who are in want of hands. Peterborough farmers are fairly well supplied at present.

Just a Slip.

Miss De Courcy is musical, and when Harold Tompkins called round the other evening she asked him to sing. The poor fellow is bashful but obliging and he attempted to give her his favorite:

"Thou art so near and yet so far,
Beautiful star, beautiful star."

But she stood by the piano just where he could look into her face, and it must have embarrassed him, for he forgot the words, and this is how he rendered it:

"Thou art so far, and yet so near," Beautiful steer, beautiful steer."

She won't speak to him now, and he vows to devote himself hereafter to songs without words.

What Really Happens.

A new definition of absent-mindedness, which is humor if not psychology, appears in the Indianapolis "News" in this dialogue:

"Pa, what does 'absent-minded' mean?"

"My boy, that's easy. Did you ever stop to think?"

"Yes."

"And your thoughts ran on?"

"Yes."

"Well, that's it."

JAPAN TEA DRINKERS APPRECIATE THE UNCOLORED GREEN CEYLON

RED ROSE TEA

BODILY WEAKNESS

A DISTRACTING CONDITION THAT IS PERMANENTLY CURED BY FERROZONE. A PLEASANT REMEDY IN TABLET FORM TO BE TAKEN AFTER EACH MEAL.

All fagged out ideas come as slow as molasses in January. You think of things just a minute or so too late. Snap is gone and the bouyancy and strength that makes life a pleasure, that's gone too.

The doctor would say that you are run down, and you don't eat or digest enough. Your stomach requires some aid, and probably your digestion needs a bracer. The blood should have phosphorus and iron to strengthen and purify it.

Now Ferrozone is a wonderful blood maker and nerve stimulant. It is really a food for the blood, nerves and vital energies and will improve your run down condition in a very short time.

Ferrozone will make you strong and capable of doing a heavy day's work without fatigue. It is a marvellous remedy and does marvellous things as the following testimonial proves.

"After my baby was born I was left in a weak, sickly condition, totally unfit for a mother's household duties. I was excitable and nervous, and trifling things bothered me very much. I somehow would not gain strength, although I took malt extracts and tonics all the time. A lady friend recommended Ferrozone which I used with splendid results. The first box helped quite a little, and when I had taken six boxes my former health, ruddy cheeks and good spirits were fully restored."

You can't spend 50c. to a better advantage than on a box of Ferrozone and the sooner you get Ferrozone the sooner you will get well. Don't accept a substitute, but insist on your druggist supplying the genuine Ferrozone which sells for 50c. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont

The Late Mrs. Meldrum

The many friends of Mr. W. H. Meldrum will learn with regret of the sad death of his mother, Mrs. John Meldrum, of Hamilton, which sad event occurred on Tuesday last at the very advanced age of 84. The body arrived in town last evening, and was conveyed to Mr. Meldrum's home on MacDonnell street. The funeral (private) takes place this morning to the Little Lake cemetery.

A Sure Cure for Constipation

Some remedies cure this distressing complaint in a day, some in a month, but Nerviline never fails to cure in a few minutes. Just ten drops of Nerviline in sweetened water—that's enough, and away goes the dysentery cured to stay cured. Nerviline also cures Cramps, Colic, Pain in the Stomach and Sick Headache. It has five times the strength and curative properties of ordinary remedies, and should be in every household. Better buy a 25c. bottle and try it. Nerviline is all right.

Scarcity of Farm Labor

Great is the hired man. He can dictate his own terms this summer and demand pie three times a day, and a holiday just when he wants it. In the mechanical world the same state of affairs prevails. This expansion has created a demand for mechanics and laborers, and the exodus to the West this year will leave the Ontario farmers in a bad plight for farm hands. Just how long this state of affairs will last is hard to say, but the reaction is bound to come, and then, in the words of the cobbler, the boot will be on the other foot.

SHOT TO KILL

Pete Johnston, the Patent Medicine Man, in Trouble

Peter Johnston, the patent medicine man, who will be remembered by many in connection with his bag punching exhibitions on the market square here on market days, has got himself into trouble. He resides with his mother on a farm near Coboconk. Yesterday Johnston shot at Frank Burden four times, with intent to kill. Two balls entered left shoulder, one grazing right shoulder. When contents of revolver had been fired he fiercely jabbed and struck him about the head with a pitchfork. Burden is in a critical condition.

Two constables were despatched from Lindsay to arrest Johnston.

INDIANS IN COUNCIL

They Are Making Claim for an Immense Area of Land

A grand council meeting of the Indians of the Hiawatha, Rosneath, Chemong, Scugog, Alderville and Lake Simcoe Reserves was held at Hiawatha on Monday last. Amongst the delegates in attendance was Chief Big Canoe, of the Lake Simcoe and Huron Indians, Chief Johnston, of Scugog, Chief Joseph Irons of Hiawatha. Professor Crowe represented the Rosneath Indians.

The chief matter that came up for discussion was that of the Indian claims on certain lands in Ontario covering ten square miles and stretching from Lake Simcoe to the Ottawa River. The Indians claim that these lands were never legally taken over by the Government.

WILL BEGIN AT ONCE

Work on the New Buildings for the Electric Company

Work on the new buildings for the Canadian General Electric Company will begin at once. The contract for the foundation has been awarded to Mr. J. L. Wood, who did some work for the company at Nassau last year.

The stores building is to be 450 feet by 80 feet, two storeys high.

A second building will be 325 feet by 80 feet.

An addition 140 feet by 40 feet is also to be made to the new building erected last year. The company had also contemplated putting up another building 200 feet by 50 feet, and two storeys high, but this is being deferred for the present.

The new buildings will occupy the large plot of ground to the northeast of the C.G.E. Co's premises

PURCHASED A SITE

Sugar Company Have Selected the Howden Property

The Times is informed that the Peterborough Sugar Company have purchased from Messrs. J. J. and W. G. Howden 34 acres of land, south of the Little Lake, on which they propose to build their factory. The price was $11,000, one thousand of which is to be in stock of the company and the balance in cash. The property is very advantageously situated for the purpose intended. By the acquirement of two small parcels of land to the north, owned by Mrs. Hartley and Mr. Edward Phelan, it will be possible to run a siding from the Belleville line of the Grand Trunk into the company's premises, and thus will be solved one important part of the shipping problem.

In addition water can be obtained from the Little Lake by gravitation, which is a very important feature.

A NEW INDUSTRY

Peterborough Secures Another New Factory

The Colonial Weaving Company, which was organized over a year ago, having sold sufficient stock, are about to commence operations. The machinery has nearly all been arranged for, and work will, in all probability, begin about the first of June next. The new concern propose to manufacture all kinds of cotton, linen, and silk badges and labels.

The capital of the company is $60,000.00, divided into 2,400 shares of $25.00 each.

When it is considered how many of these labels and badges are in daily use, and in view of the fact that there is no factory of this kind on the continent, it will be surprising indeed if it does not prove to be a very prosperous institution.

The new company is expected to commence operations in the building lately occupied by the Peterborough Knitting Works, on the west side of the river, opposite the Auburn Woolen mills. The Times wishes the company every kind of prosperity.

IT'S BREATH

Came Stealing in the Doorway

The aroma from a neighbor's kitchen was the curious starting point for a great change in the life of a woman in Kansas City, whom coffee kept in bed for days at a time with stomach trouble and severe headaches

She says, "One day I was attracted to a fragrance from a kitchen of a neighbor who told me that it was postum Food Coffee and asked me why I did not quit coffee and use Postum to see if it would not benefit my health.

"I made the change recommended and in a few days my headaches disappeared, stomach got better and I began to get well. That was about nine months ago.

"I have steadily used Postum since and am now so well that I can eat practically anything, but I absolutely cannot drink coffee without getting right back into the old trouble. I wish I had known of Postum years ago." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

MARRIED AT SELWYN

Nuptials of Rev. Wm. T. Lorymer and Miss Mary Nichols

The Rev William Tymial Lorymer, graduate of McMaster University, and now pastor of the Sawyerville, (Que.), Baptist church, was married on Tuesday, April 21st, to Miss Mary Nicholls, of Selwyn, daughter of the late Benjamin Nicholls. The wedding took place in the Baptist church, Selwyn, at 3.30 p.m., Rev. J. Barlow officiating. The groomsman was Mr. Charles F. Lorymer, brother of the groom, and Miss Elizabeth Alberta [illegible] was the bridesmaid. The reception was at the home of the bride, where many relations and friends sat down to a sumptuous dinner. The home was beautifully and suitably decorated. A large number of beautiful, costly and useful presents were made. Rev. and Mrs. Lorymer left on the midnight train for Sawyerville, with the most sincere good wishes of a large number of relatives and friends.

THE NEW MANAGER

Mr. Alex. L. Sykes Has Been Appointed Manager of the Cordage Works

The Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company have engaged the services of Mr. Alexander L. Sykes as manager. Mr. Sykes is an Englishman by birth, and is thirty-eight years of age, married, and has been in the cordage business since 1880, during which time he has been in the employ of Messrs. Waterbury and Co., Samuel Cupples W. W. Co., the Western Twine Co., and the Standard Rope and Twine Company. He is now, and has been for seven years, manager and agent of the Cincinnati and Indianapolis branches of the Standard Rope and Twine Company and the Union Selling Company for the states of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia.

Mr. Sykes was in Peterborough yesterday, and made a thorough inspection of the Cordage Works. He was particularly pleased with the convenient arrangement of the building and the excellent equipment of the factory. He claims that this company has advantages over any cordage works in the United States on account of its having such cheap electrical power.

Mr. Sykes came to Peterborough very highly recommended by leading bankers and merchants in Indianapolis and other places. The shareholders of the company are to be congratulated upon securing the services of an industrious, enterprising and experienced manufacturer to take the management of their extensive works.

Mr. Sykes returned to Indianapolis to wind up his affairs and to move over with his family at an early date.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Mrs. S. Sherin, of Lakefield, accompanied by her little daughter, Allie, were in town yesterday on a visit to relatives.

—Mr. Evans, head master of the Lakefield school, has accepted a similar position in Barrie. His duties commence at once.

—Mrs. (Dr.) Counts of Toronto, passed through town yesterday on her way home, after a visit to relatives in Warsaw.

—Lindsay Post: Mr. Geo. Sharpe left to-day for Peterborough, where he has accepted a position with the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co.

Should be Stopped

"Now is the time when the boy with the toy rifle gets in his deadly work, killing and scaring away our song birds," said a man to The Times yesterday, as one of a group of boys grasped a Flobert with the air of a Nimrod. "There ought to be some way to enforce the law against shooting birds. It is not a harmless amusement, but highly dangerous, for accidents have frequently resulted from careless or mischievous shooting. If anybody is hit, of course it is an accident, and the case is generally dropped. But the way to prevent our song birds from being molested and people from being maimed is to jail the youngsters and confiscate the rifles, every time."

A Nightmare

Gives point to the fact that excessive or irregular eating disturbs the digestion. Nightmare or night hag has it's day time correspondence in the undue fullness after eating, with the belchings and sour or bitter rising so often experienced after too hasty or too hearty eating.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. When these diseases are cured, the whole body shares in the increased strength derived from food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have been of great benefit to me," writes (Prof.) Pleasant A. Oliver, of Viola, Fulton Co., Ark. "Before I used the above mentioned remedies my sleep was not sound; digestion bad; a continued feeling of misery. I now feel like a new man. Any one in need of medical treatment for nasal catarrh could do no better than to take treatment of Dr. R. V. Pierce. I know his medicines are all right in this class of diseases."

Sometimes a dealer tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery." It is better for him because it pays better, but it is not as good for you, if you want the medicine that has cured others, and which you believe will cure you.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from accumulated impurities.

Sullivan Sticks to Story After Examination of Six Hours

JOHNSTON'S CROSS-EXAMINATION

Commission Examines Ontario Bank Books to Trace Any Payment of $3,000 Last September

Toronto, April 23.—Mr. Gamey took a seat in the court room at the resumption of the enquiry into his charges this afternoon.

Sullivan continued his testimony as to the conspiracy he charged.

The interview at the piano warerooms was, he swore, arranged for the purpose of concocting the story that Mr. Gamey was to tell.

He swore that the reason that he said he saw Stratton every day and denounced the conference was to give Gamey the impression that he was a big man at the buildings who had all the Ministers in his pockets. All this was false.

"What was the object of—I would say, lying—but of being economical of the truth?" asked Mr. Blake.

"Because I wanted to prevent him from going ahead with his scheme, and show how foolish his story was!"

"When you said that it was Clune that brought the money into the smoking room, and not Myers, and added, 'We must have the story right,' what did you mean?"

"I was alluding to what he had told me on the previous day, and meant that if he could not remember a thing from day to day, there was no use telling his story."

"What did you mean when you said, 'If Stratton kicks we'll hand him back the money and say it was security?'" was asked.

The witness swore that he did not mention Mr. Stratton's name and what he meant was that they could hand back the money that Gamey was going to get from his friends to carry out the scheme. Asked what evidence he had that Gamey had such money, Sullivan said that his only proof was that Gamey had on the previous day offered him $2,000.

"You stated this morning that you were out of money?"

"Yes, I was just like Mr. Gamey."

"We will let it stand at that," said Mr. Blake.

"What made you refuse the offer of $2,000?" he continued.

"Because it was not a legitimate deal," answered Sullivan.

"But taking the $2,000 would simply have been robbing the Philistines for the benefit of the Israelites!" persisted Mr. Blake.

[illegible] ed to swear a lie!" declared Sullivan.

"You drew the line at that money?"

"Yes."

"Did you know that the Cabinet was trying to sit on Mr. Stratton?"

"I may have. I said a lot of stuff in the factory that I would not have said at ordinary times," declared the witness.

Pressed for an explanation, Sullivan said he had to lead Gamey on to show that he stood in very good grace with the Government.

"That was true, was it not?" suggested Mr. Blake.

Sullivan said it was, so far as his office work was concerned.

He further swore that he did not say that he would get the balance of the money all right, but did say that he would get the balance of the patronage.

He declared, further, that he had said, "the Government have got to act right if you support them," but he denied that he had said, "We've got them where we want them."

He did not know of any expression that might have been misunderstood for "we've got them where we want them." He said a lot in the conversation that he didn't believe. He never had a deal with a man like Gamey before, and was perhaps a little raw in the art of dealing with a man like him. It was true he saw a good deal of his father. He might have stated that "they were using Mr. Evanturel nice, and were giving him a room in the Parliament Buildings." He did not use the expression "If the Opposition get on to these things we would never be able to hold the three Norths were spoken of, but not in that way. They may have mentioned about the prospects of the elections in the North. He was positive Gamey never said that if he were made Minister of Mines in the Conservative regime he (the witness) could give him lots of information. Gamey mentioned about Myers fetching in the money, and he said it was not Myers, that it was Clune, and he made not of it. The reason why he registered the letters at Yorkville was because it was convenient at the time he wanted to post them. He did say that he could have headlines put in The World. These were words along the line of their conversation. He did not attempt the scare line, and did not know the power of it.

Q.—Did you say that you were sorry Davis was not defeated?

A.—I may have said that, because Lennox is a friend of mine.

Q.—Do you admit that Mr. Stratton said "Can that man, Gamey, be trusted?"

A.—I may have said that.

Toronto, April 24.—The testimony of Frank Sullivan was concluded before the Gamey Commission this morning, he having spent in all upwards of six hours in the witness box. He did not waver from his extraordinary narrative, and affirmed emphatically that he had told the absolute truth. Some misapprehension as to the nature of the enquiry is evident from the comments made upon the action of Mr. Blake in calling Sullivan. It would appear that many regard it as a trial, whereas, in reality, it is an inquest, in which all persons who can give testimony relevant to the issue are to be called. Therefore, Mr. Blake's position is precisely that of an officer of the Crown, who may summon all the evidence procurable as to a mysterious death, and may call suspected persons if he chooses. The other important witness of the morning was Mr. Frank Ford, K.C., who succeeded Mr. Alfred McDougall in the Succession Dues branch, and who, though a legal officer and not a clerk, was asked to copy some of the important documents in the case. Mr. Geo. L. Bartlett, teller of the Onatrio Bank, is on the stand, and the Commission is going through the books to ascertain whether $3,000 was paid out during the second week of September. There were several items of that amount on the books, chiefly in connection with notes; but the specific payment to one individual had not been traced at one o'clock.

Frank Sullivan was again on the stand this morning. Mr. Blake's first question was:

"When did you resign from the service of the Government?"

"On the night of March 11, the day Gamey made his statement in the House."

Mr. Blake also asked him why [illegible]

he signed on Sept. 10 to Mr. Aylesworth. Sullivan did not know. Mr. Blake wanted to know whether Gamey's refusal to do so had anything to do with his request for a "loan."

"Do you know what occurred subsequently to remove the obstacle which prevented Gamey from giving up the letter?"

Sullivan could not throw any light on the subject either.

Mr. Blake then prosecuted some enquiries as to The Globe interview. Mr. Gamey had told him he was going to give him one, and asked him to wait for him that night until it was given.

"Why did you wait so late?"

"Because I promised Mr. Gamey that I would."

"Did you telephone to him that day that Mr. Stratton would see him at 2.15 p.m.?"

"Yes."

Pressed for an explanation he said that at Mr. Gamey's request he had found out at the Provincial Secretary's Department when Mr. Stratton would be in.

"I need scarcely ask you the question in closing, if all that you have told me is absolutely true?" was Mr. Blake's final question.

"Yes, sir, absolutely true."

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston then took the witness, who told him that he had been a temporary clerk at $2 per day, and did not think much of the position. He has resigned because he was charged with wrongdoing. He reiterated that between August 7 and 10 Gamey had told him that the needs of the riding compelled him to support the Government. He denied that he had told Gamey that the protest could be got rid of; or that he had any authority to make such a statement.

Sullivan declared that until the day before the House met Gamey had persisted in his intention of supporting the Government. Sullivan also testified that there had been another deal between Gamey and himself, not specially relevant to the enquiry, to procure pulpwood for an Indiana firm. In the autumn also, during the wood famine, he had interviewed Mayor Howland as to bringing wood from Manitoulin. Gamey was to have been in with him on that trial.

He denied that there was any idea of deception on his part in twice registering letters at Yorkville in the fictitious name of "A. B. Crossin."

The judges insisted that the witness be questioned very searchingly, and with great care on the matter of the alleged payment of $3,000 in the smoking room. Sullivan denied in toto the whole affair, and said he was never even in the smoking room with Gamey.

Taking up his money affairs, Frank stated that his father often assisted him in his household expenses.

He admitted that when he took Gamey to see Mr. Stratton on Sept. 9, all that the latter said about "consideration" was that he would receive the same consideration as any other supporter of the Government. In fact, the witness gave a "blanket" denial to all the references to money in Gamey's account of the negotiations with the Provincial Secretary.

"What do you say about the division of the money?" asked Mr. Johnston.

"That's a lie."

"Well, that's a good name to give it if it is so!" commented the counsel.

As emphatically Sullivan denied that money was paid on the night of The Globe interview.

Mr. Johnston asked if he had ever neglected to put his signature to a letter before. Sullivan said he had done so in a letter enclosing a cheque to the North American Life.

The Chancellor took the witness and wanted to know what had been

PRINCE OF WALES TO ACT

At King's Request He Head St. Louis Fair Commission

London, April 25—The appointment of the Prince of Wales as president of the Royal commission which is to represent Great Britain at the St. Louis Exposition will be made at the special request of King Edward, who thought he could thus best demonstrate his personal interests in the exhibition and his cordiality toward America generally. John Redmond was invited to be one of the two Irish members of the commission, but his many engagements necessitated a declination.

HE TORTURED TWO CHILDREN

Brutal Showman Fined $1,000 and Sent to the Workhouse

St. Louis, Mo., April 25—John Earl, who was arrested for torturing two children whom he had adopted, has been fined $1,000 and in default has been sent to the workhouse. Testimony showed that Earl, who is a showman, beat with sticks and straps and burned with a hot iron, a boy and girl whom he attempted to train for an acrobatic show. The children were in a horrible condition when rescued by the police.

IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT

May Revolutionize the Iron and Steel Industry

St. Paul, April 25—An experiment that may revolutionize the iron and steel industry of the country was successfully made this afternoon at the plant of the Valley Iron Works in this city. Titanic ore, of which there are billions of tons in Northern Minnesota, was smeltered in an ordinary cupola and turned into pig iron which polished up like steel, and which, according to those interested in the experiment, is better than the finest Bessemer steel.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

Two Young Boys Step in Front of a Railway Train

Brockville, April 25—Two boys named Fred. and Roland Lane, 12 and 15 years, respectively, sons of Wm. Lane, residing five miles from Prescott, on the Front road, were struck about 11.15 this morning by the Grand Trunk limited train three miles west of Prescott.

They were walking home from Prescott and stepped out of the way of an east bound freight in front of the limited. The engineer of the latter was unable to stop to avoid the accident. Roland was killed outright while his brother Fred sustained serious injuries. His recovery is doubtful. Both were brought to Brockville Fred being removed to the hospital for treatment. An inquest will be held over the body of the deceased brother.

C.P.R. TRACKMEN

A New Agreement Between the Company and Men

Montreal, April 25—Mr. John T. Wilson, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way men, had an interview with Mr. D. McNicoll, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway at which was discussed matter relating to the C.P.R. trackmen.

It is understood that a new agreement is shortly to be drawn up between the men and the company, and that the men wish the new agreement to contain certain features which were not embodied in that which is about to expire. It is probably the company will meet a committee representing the trackmen, when matters will be thoroughly discussed.

UNION AGAINST UNION

Not a Very Favorable Outlook for Montreal Strikers

Montreal, April 25—A mass meeting of dock workers connected with the Canadian Independent Labor Bureau was held last evening, when the following resolution, being proposed by Joseph Beaudry and seconded by Alex. Coghlin, was carried unanimously:

"That we, the workmen connected Bureau deprecate and protest against with the Canadian Independent Labor the organised attacks made on us while peacably at work by the members of the 'Longshoremen's Union, with the intention of frightening us into becoming members of their union;

"We claim that we are entitled to protection while at work, and have no intention of being compelled to join a United States organization, or any other union, against our will."

Gamey Offers Sulivan Five Thousand Dollars to Stick by Him

WAS KEEPING GAMEY THINKING

Sullivan Suspicious During the Interview with y in the Piano Factory

said about the petition against Mr. W. R. Smyth, M.P.P., of Algoma. Sullivan declared that nothing had ever been said. Sir John also interrogated him as to whether he had ever said anything about Hon. Mr Davis, being willing to give anything for a saw-off in North York. Sullivan denied having said such a thing.

The witness also testified to having been slightly suspicious during the interview in the piano warerooms on account of a wet umbrella he saw coming up. Gamey explained that the "old man" has probably left it for him. When they left the warerooms Sullivan advised Gamey not to carry out his intention of 'exploding' in the House, and said "You stick to our original scheme, and we can make $100,000 out of the Government." He left Gamey under the impression that he had dissuaded him from his purpose.

The Chancellor asked Sullivan, in connection with his remarks in the piano warerooms, if he had any reason for saying that all the Ministers knew of the "deal." Sullivan said he had not.

Mr. Blake then took the witness again. Sullivan admitted that he had kept hotel for his uncle at Palmerston for upwards of five weeks last summer, and had only been docked two weeks' pay. He stated that anyone with his eyes open knew there were pickings around the Parliament buildings.

"Your remuneration was $2 per day and pickings!" suggested Mr. Blake.

"My salary was $2 per day," said Sullivan angrily.

Mr Blake then asked how it was that a man who had not had a bank account for two years could send a cheque to the North American Life.

Sullivan declared that this was a slip, that he was sure it was cash.

"You are sure it was cash, because you said it was a cheque?" commented Mr. Blake.

MR. FRANK FORD CALLED.

Mr. Frank Ford, K.C., solicitor to the Treasury, and formerly private secretary to the Attorney-General, was then called. He admitted having written on the typewriter the enclosure sent to Mr. Gamey with the "X.Y.Z." letter in February. Although he had a stenographer under him, he went downstairs to the Attorney-General's Department and did it himself.

He stated that Sullivan, whom [illegible] came to him late one afternoon and asked him to copy on the typewiter an article in lead pencil. Ford demurred and said he was not typewriting. Sullivan was urgent and said he wanted it to catch the mail. His own stenographer being busy, he took it himself to the Attorney-General's Department and copied it out. After he had finished it the matter struck him as singular, and he asked Sullivan what it meant. The latter told him it was for use at the opening convention in Manitoulin. "If I had known known previously the purpose of it I'd have refused to do it," said Mr. Ford.

He also testified that some days previously he had copied on the same the original draft of the now famous Globe interview. He had been asked to do so by Hon. Mr. Stratton, whom he met by chance as he (Mr. Stratton) was coming out of the Premier's room. Mr. Stratton asked him to do it as a favor because his own stenographer was busy. Naturally, he had connected the two incidents.

Miss Sarah Dobson, the postmistress at Yorkville, swore to the fact that a letter was registered to R. R. Gamey at Gore Bay as being from "J. B. Crossin" and not "A. B Crossin," in line with the A. B. C arrangement, as Frank Sullivan deposed. She admitted that her assistant, in making the entry, might have mistaken "A" for "J." Other letters were sent to Mr. Gamey and registered on February 29 and 27, as being from F. J. Sullivan.

Mr. George L. Bartlett explained at some length the methods of bookkeeping at the Onatrio Bank. He said the amounts of checks on other banks cashed for the convenience of customers were not recorded in the regular books, but in one specially for the purpose. Generally speaking, all amounts paid out appeared in the teller's cash book. He did not know whether the branch office at the southwest corner of Yonge and Carlton streets was doing business in September.

"Will you please make a note of that, and find out for me?" said Mr Riddell.

Witness said the Peterborough branch did not often handle large bills, in answer to numerous questions which were put to him with a view of getting some trace of the source of the Ontario Bank bills, said to have been received by Gamey. He pointed out that no discount appeared in any of the books under his charge.

THE PROPOSED REFORMS IN IN THE BRITISH ARMY

Some Startling Innovations Under Consideration

OLD JOHN BULL READY TO FIGHT

Improvements in the Pecuniary Social Standing of London, April 25—The Government as we learn, has been seriously considering not only the lack of men, but the question of the increase of the army, and before any consideration is given to a form of ballot the voluntary system will be given another trial on lines which will vastly improve the soldiers' condition, and result, it is hoped, in the bringing in of recruits not now attracted by the terms offered.

A large committee, in conjunction with the Army Board, is to consider by what means a sufficiency of men can be attracted to military service.

The latest reports from recruiting centers are discouraging, and as it is intended to increase the cavalry by larger squadrons and new regiments, it is considered necessary for the army to enter into active competition in the labor market.

It is proposed to "catch the soldier young," or in other words to undertake the training of boys for the army from the day they leave school, feeding and clothing them, and passing them into the ranks, ready trained at eighteen, for home service.

Another proposal is to abolish that heavy taxation on the soldier's pay—stoppages; and that the private's pay shall be 7s. a week clear, with food, clothing, lodging, fuel light, repairs, boot-mending, etc. to be paid for by the State.

Every class of unnecessary and irksome parade is to be swept away, and soldiers are to have the privilege of sleeping out of barracks, coming in to parade and duty like workmen in a factory.

The opening of the barrack gate and relaxation from the stringent rules which were devised for the rough, scratched-up armies of long ago should prove a material factor in recruiting, as the army system and some of its punishments are out of touch with the new century.

Opinion is expressed that the absurd, belted, red dress of the infantryman should also give place to a costume of some dignity.

The scale of pensions will also be extended so that a man discharged after twelve years' service, who joins the militia and completes 21 years' total service, will draw a pension.

The new committee will deal with every manner and form of bettering the lot of the soldier. The voluntary system is to be tested thoroughly, and if the new plans fail, the question of limited compulsory service may be seriously considered.

The name Militia is to be abolished. In order to popularise that branch of the service, the new name being "The Imperial Defence Infantry," and as Militia and Volunteers are to be bracketed in work to some extent, the Volunteer battalions will become "The Imperial Defence (Volunteer) Infantry."

Each of the new army corps is to have an Army Board, on the lines of that at the War Office, with the general commanding as president. The members will be the deputy and assistant officers corresponding in relative positions to the head officials comprising the Army Board.

The question of contracts is also to be investigated. Some further frauds have been brought to light, in which the War Department is a heavy loser.

A Popular American Consul in Canada Says He Knows of Remarkable Cures Wrought by Paine's Celery Compound
The Great Spring Medicine

The claim that Paine's Celery Compound is the only honest medicine in the world for the cure of rheumatism neuralgia, nervous and blood diseases, is fully borne out by the strong and convincing letters of testimony received constantly by the proprietors of the popular medicine. Nothing else has ever possessed anything like the power of Paine's Celery Compound to restore a healthy nervous tone to the entire body and to thoroughly cleanse the blood., making it impossible for rheumatism, neuralgia and other troubles to find a lodgement in the system. Ministers, professional men generally, newspaper men, public officials and all brain workers, men whose daily outlay of vitality, because of hard, trying, anxious work, is excessive, find renewed nerve strength and vitality in Paine's Celery Compound. General Wm. W. Henry, American Consul in the city of Quebec, says:

"It gives me great pleasure to indorse Paine's Celery Compound, both on account of the results obtained from personal use of the remedy, and knowledge of the remarkable cures it has performed. I believe it has no equal in curing diseases of the nervous system and building up those who are weak and out of health. It has cured several friends of mine of rheumatism in its worst forms, and I have no hesitancy in recommending it to all afflicted with that disease."

A HOSTILE DEMONSTRATION AGAINST KING EDWARD

Plan to Greet Him Coolly Wnen in Paris

Paris, April 25—Deroulede has placed his national conference on the Anglophobe party in a very embarrassing position by refusing to agree with the plan arranged by the opponents of Great Britain for a hostile demonstration when King Edward arrives in the city. The Exite justifies his position by saying that a cold reception to the British Sovereign would greatly please the Kaiser, to annoy whom should ought to be every patriotic Frenchman's chief aim in life. Although absent, Deroulede's word carries great weight with the turbulent class of parisians, and there is little doubt that his decision will ruin the Nationalist programme, which included Boer flags flying from stores with closed shutters, and anti-English cries in the streets. The Nationalists promise to reply to Deroulede within twenty-four hours.

Another Cure for Consumption

Berlin, April 25—What is claimed by the inventor, Robert Schneider, a druggist of Berlin, as an entirely new remedial treatment for consumption is attracting the attention of lung specialists and the medical profession generally. It consists of the inhalation of a vapor produced by heating a mixture of eucalyptus oil, sulphur and charcoal, and it is stated that it is more effective than any serum or other remedy hitherto tried

Bobrikoff's Promotion

Stockholm, April 23— Correspondence from Helsingfors states that Governor-General Bobrikoff's Russification of Finland is now so complete and effectual that the Czar purposes promoting that official to the Governorship of Riff. His successor will be Prince O. Balenski, the notorious Governor of Kharkoff, whose flogging of students and peasants won for him a Privy Councillorship.

Foundation of Roman Empire

Rome, April 22—According to tradition yesterday was the 2,656th anniversary of the foundation of Rome, termed here Rome's birthday. Prince Colonna, the Mayor of Rome, received thousands of telegrams, wishing the eternal city a glorious future. These came mainly from the many foreigners who are in Italy, and who came here for the purpose of attending the historical, agricultural or Latin congresses.

Drowned near Scotstown

Sherbrooke, April 25—S. McDonald an employe at Gould Mills near Scotstown, was drowned Tuesday. He slipped from a log and was carried to the flume, where the body was recovered, but life was extinct.

A PHOENIX

Head of a Colorado School System at 29

A strong, healthy, hungry farmer's boy will eat pretty near anything he can get his teeth into. He is very apt in this way to lay the foundation for future ill health, particularly if he takes up a sedentary occupation in later life.

A prominent young man of a city of Colorado who was born on a farm in Eastern Illinois says:—"All through my youth I had an abnormally developed appetite which I was allowed to gratify freely. During the winter months, especially, I consumed great quantities of sorghum molasses, pancakes and biscuits.

"When at the age of 19 I left the farm and entered the school room as a teacher I had become a confirmed suffering dyspeptic. Constant laxatives were necessary, and only the very simplest foods would digest at all. For several years I carried no other dinner to school but oatmeal and crackers.

"Life dragged wearily along in this manner. Six years ago I went to college and two years were spent there, but all the time my mental work was seriously injured by headaches and drowsiness caused by my indigestion. Leaving college I taught school again a year, in the midst of which I suffered an attack of brain fever. Three years ago I came to Colorado and took charge of the grammar department of the schools here until February, 1901 when my poorly nourished body could no longer stand the strain upon it and I completely collapsed in both body and mind. For two weeks I lay at the point of death, unconscious most of the time. Then Grape-Nuts was fed to me as a steady diet and the change began. It seemed a miracle.

"To cut the tale short I am now principal of our school system here, at 29 years of age, and am doing double the amount of brain work I ever did before and am in better health than at any time since I can remember. I eat and digest all kinds of food, no laxatives are used, and headaches are almost unknown and Grape-Nuts has made this change for me. You can understand why I must heartily recommend Grape-Nuts which is now a regular dish at morning and evening meals in my family." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CAPTAIN BRADSHAW IS DEAD

Was Killed While Riding on a Hand Car in South Africa

Kingston, April 25—The death of Captain Bradshaw, in South Africa, is confirmed by letters sent to Picton friends. It appears that Captain Bradshaw was proceeding on one of the railways on a handcar, and a stone on the track caused the car to upset, and in the crash that followed the Captain lost his life.

KILLED A BEAR

A C. P. Train Runs Down Bruin on North Bay Line

North Bay, April 25—A Canadian Pacific train on Tuesday afternoon struck and killed a large black bear near Missisagua a point on the main line about 350 miles west of North Bay. The engineer noticed Bruin on the track as he rounded a curve, but was too late to avoid a collision. This is probably the first case on record of a train killing one of these animals [illegible] Office, 30 Fleet St., London, E.C.

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 25, 1903.

ARE WE PROGRESSING?

The world has never yet been blessed with a real Christian city,' said Dr. Lorimer, of the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York, in last Sunday's sermon. "In Greater New York 656,000 out-of-church Protestants are practically opposing the faith they profess; and in the recent censuses taken in New York and Liverpool and London of church attendance reveal a woful indifference to the ministrations of the sanctuary. The disregard of the Sabbath, the tricks, frauds and schemes in business and the ebb in public conscience all demonstrates clearly that our centres of population are far from being Christian in deed and thought. When large corporations are being almost daily brought into the courts for fraud, when prominent citizens are arrayed in court for trickery and fraud how can we expect the lower classes to learn honor and honesty?"

THE DEMANDS FOR LABOR

When, some time ago, a number of the manufacturers of Canada met in Ottawa, and intimated to the department of immigration that there was a shortage of skilled labor in the country, great fault was found. It was intimated that the movement was unwise and impolitic, and the labor organizations attacked it. Later a deputation from the Trades and Labor Council, addressing the Government, protested against the principle of assisted passages to any but pro[illegible] foresta

The Montreal Star has been making independent inquiries on its own account and in the Saturday issue of that paper the results were summed up. From Winnipeg the information comes that "The West's greatest need is for competent workmen," from Toronto it is announced that "farm laborers receive the highest wages in Ontario;" a St. John correspondent reported that "skilled workmen are scarce in the Maritime Provinces;" it is stated that "Brockville could use many more laborers;" that "Hamilton could use more skilled mechanics;" that "British Columbia needs more skilled men," and that "it is difficult to get the skilled labor required in Quebec."

It is not that the man have gone out of the country, but that there is an abundance of work in it, more than can be performed by the mechanics who are available. Objection has been taken to the remark of Mr Preston, the immigration commissioner in London, to the effect that he can find service at once in Canada for 40,000 men. But the Toronto Telegram holds that it is his duty to talk that way, "not to maintain that Canada is a close preserve for workers who are already here." Canada needs men, says our contemporary, artisans as well as agricultural laborers. Admitting that it does, care must be taken not to overdo the immigration business, so that when a lull in work presently occurs there will not be suffering to an immoderate degree.

The centre of the universe has been removed from Buffalo.

Gamey's friends claim that he was a fugitive from injustice.

SEEDING IN MANITOBA

Fifty Per Cent. of the Seed has Been Sown

Winnipeg, Man., April 24—Throughout the whole of the agricultural area of Manitoba farmers are busy with their seeding, and never before in the history of the province have the weather conditions been more favorable. In many parts fully fifty per cent. of the seed for next year's crop is in the ground, while in Southern Manitoba the average runs higher. The acreage under crop this year will be the largest on record.

LOST $30,000 ON THEIR FUEL

Ottawa Also Spends Too Much on Entertainment—Some Figures

Ottawa, April 30—Auditor Cluff has completed his annual report for 1902, giving full details of all civic expenditures for the year. The auditor calls attention to the fact that, although under the Municipal Act the city expenditure for entertainment of distinguished visitors is limited to $1,000 that amount was greatly exceeded last year, and promises to be again this year. Mr. Clubb objects to the charging of the waterworks debenture of $4,635 spent on repairs to the old pumps, particularly when there were funds enough in the current revenue to meet the charges.

Detailed statements of the different accounts are supplied, the revenue accounts have been verified and found correct, and all balances properly carried forward. In reference to the civic fuel purchase, an expenditure of $59,458.86 and a receipt of $21,809.05 are shown, but that is only up to the end of the year covered by the report.

SOLD BOER CATTLE AND POCKETED THE MONEY

Two Canadian Officers Disgraced in South Africa

Kingston, Ont., April 23 — Two young Canadian officers, one well known in Kingston, are in disgrace in South Africa. They accepted positions under the Imperial Government after the Canadian troops had left the Dark Continent, and it was part of their duty to handle the cattle which the Imperial Government sent out to restock Boer farms. The excessive mortality among the shipments, as shown by the returns made by these officers, led to an investigation, when it was discovered that the officers in question were falsifying the returns, and selling cattle, the proceeds of which they pocketed. One of the pair fled to Portuguese territory, and the other succeeded in escaping arrest. The second one who was for a time stationed in Kingston, was caught at Delagoa Bay, and imprisoned.

Duel with Pistols

Berlin, April 23—Two medical students, Boehm and Witt, have been sentenced by the Criminal Court to four months' imprisonment for fighting a bloodless duel with pistols. Boehm averred that Witt purposely jostled him in the street, but a Court of Honor of university students decided that a challenge was not necessary, as Witt was lame, and probably did not mean to touch Boehm's person. Boehm, then, in the Court of Honor, slapped Witt, who struck him on the chin. The Court of Honor then decided that they must fight a duel with pistols, as Boehm's right arm was weak from a recent sabre affray. Three shots were exchanged at 15 paces in the Grunewald Forest. Neither of the duellists was touched.

BRAIN POWER

HOW IT MAY BE STRENGTHENED AND INCREASED

The brain is a great nerve battery that presides over all the powers and impulses of the human body.

Very frequently as a result of poor blood, it becomes enfeebled, and a general weakness of the entire system follows.

No remedy possesses the marvelous brain strengthening power that Ferrozone has demonstrated in thousands of cases.

It contains an abundance of phosphates and iron which are essential in the formation of red, vitalizing blood, and in this way supplies the brain with extra power to perform its numerous and important duties.

Ferrozone is the best preparation for brain workers, and those inclined to a sedentary life. It improves the appetite, insures good digestion, regulates the bowels, and helps the stomach to do its work.

Lawyers, ministers, and those whose occupation entails much thinking and brain labor, will find Ferrozone of immense value, because of its power to stimulate mental activity. Students who take Ferrozone regularly, find it not only clears the brain and makes it more receptive, but makes them strong in body as well as mind.

A medical student of Toronto University, who has proved the good qualities of Ferrozone says: "On my study table there is always a place for Ferrozone. I find by keeping my digestion in perfect order, and maintaining a splendid appetite, it enables me to accomplish a great deal of hard work. I consider Ferrozone at the same time food for the brain, the blood and the nerves and can highly recommend it."

Very few are so strong and healthy that a course of Ferrozone would not benefit. It is good for the young and old alike, and is prepared in convenient tablet form, price per box 50cts., sold by all druggists and N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ON THE FARM.

There's many a successful business man who sits in his city office and lets his mind slip back to his boyhood days on the farm. How good it felt to live! What an appetite he had! How good everything tasted! How sound his sleep was! How eagerly he rose with the sun and raced with him through the long day. And now he's a successful man. But he can't sleep. He doesn't enjoy his food. His stomach is weak, his nerves are shaken, and he no more rises with the sun to race eagerly against him. His vitality is low and now and again his heart seems to plunge in his breast as if it would break loose. That's the price he has paid for success.

The mischief of the whole business is that he buys "tablets" of one sort or another to "aid" his digestion, and indulges in bromides and other nerve stimulants, just to hold himself together, and wonders why he seems to be getting worse.

The whole trouble with such a man generally lies in what is called a "weak" stomach. The food he eats does not nourish him because it is only partially digested and assimilated. No man can be stronger than his stomach, because it is in the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition that strength is made from the food which is eaten.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the strength of the body in the only way strength can be restored, by food which is perfectly digested and assimilated, when the diseased stomach (with its allied organs) is cured of disease. It is a blood-making, body-building medicine, inasmuch as blood is made from food and the body is built up by blood. It is not a stimulant, containing neither alcohol or any other narcotic.

NO OTHER DOCTOR FOR ME.

"Last spring, early, I wrote you my feelings and condition," says Mr. A. J. Vanderwater, 873 West Division Street, Chicago, Ill., "and you advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (a few bottles), and then write you how I felt. I am happy to say I am getting to feel fine. In all I have taken six bottles of the 'Discovery' and four or five vials of the little 'Pellets.' They have done me worlds of good. All my friends say: 'Vanderwater, how well you are looking. What in the world have you been doing?' I tell them I have been doctoring with Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. 'Why,' they say, 'you haven't been there!' No, I say, but I took his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little 'Pellets.' These medicines have wrought the great change in me. From a slow mope of a man that could hardly crawl, tired and sick all the time, and could do no work, to a man who can work, sleep, eat, and feel fine, and that tired feeling is all going away. I am very thankful that I wrote to Dr. Pierce. His 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little liver 'Pellets' have almost made a new man of me. I feel young as I did at thirty years. No other doctor for me, only Dr. Pierce."

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

"I will express my thanks to you for the kindly advice you have given me in regard to my case," writes Miss Carrie J. Wharton, of Dunavant, Spottsylvania Co., Virginia. "When I wrote to you last spring I was in a terrible state of health. Had given up all hope of ever being better. I spit up my food all the time and it seemed sour as vinegar. I would have a bad sick headache every other week; in fact, my head never felt clear, and I was perfectly broken down under the strain of losing my food constantly. I had read a great deal in your books of what your medicine had done for others, so I wrote you and got your advice. Bought two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the first dose I took I felt better. When I had finished taking the two bottles the spitting up had entirely stopped and my head was much better. I believe your medicines are just what you have said of them.

"I carefully read the books you sent me and shall always speak a good word for the 'Golden Medical Discovery' [illegible]

"You can publish this if you think it worth while. It might induce some one else to try your medicine who was suffering as I did. It was by the testimonials of others that I was induced to try it. I shall always rely upon your advice and feel safe to do as you tell me."

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress this Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Hastam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country, we have the right to select 200,000 acres of specially chosen lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land [illegible] Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 100 London Street.

Let Us Tell You More About It.

Malt Breakfast Food is the only cereal food that gives in fulness the benefits and virtues of pure malt, that help to enrich the blood and build up the system.

If you are a user of oatmeal preparations and troubled with indigestion, waterbrash or sour stomach, you are building a foundation of dangers that you may never get rid of. Give up the use of oatmeal at once and use Malt Breakfast Food which guarantees perfect digestion, new energy for body and brain, pure blood, and a complexion with the blush of health. Malt Breakfast Food is always relished because of its delicious flavor and taste; it satisfies the hungry, and furnishes a true and sustaining vitality. All Grocers.

Actress and Tom Cat.

In her book, "Stage Confidences," the veteran actress, Clara Morris, relates this amusing incident from her experience:

"It was in 'Camille,' one Friday night, in Baltimore, that for the only time in my life I wished to wipe an animal out of existence. I love four-footed creatures with extravagant devotion, not merely the finely bred and beautiful ones, but the poor, the sick, the halt, the maimed, the half-breeds, or the no breeds at all; and almost all animals quickly make friends with me, divining my love for them. But on this one night—well! it was this way. In the last act, as Camille, I had staggered from the window to the bureau and was nearing that dread moment when in the looking-glass I was to see the reflection of my wrecked and ruined self. The house was giving strained attention, watching dim-eyed the piteous, weak movements of the dying woman; and right there I heard that (——h!) quick indrawing of the breath startled womanhood always indulges in before either a scream or a laugh. My heart gave a plunge, and I thought: What is it? Oh, what is wrong? and I glanced down at myself anxiously, for really I wore so very little in that scene that if anything should slip off—gracious! I did not know but what, in the interest of public propriety, the law might interfere. But that one swift glance told me that the few garments I had assumed in the dressing-room still faithfully clung to me. But alas! there was the dreaded titter, and it was unmistakably growing. What was it about? They could only laugh at me, for there was no one else on the stage. Was there not indeed? In an agony of humiliation I turned half about and found myself facing an absolutely monstrous cat. Starlike he held the very center of the stage, his two great topaz eyes were fixed roundly and unflinchingly upon my face. On his body and torn ears he carried the marks of many battles. His brindled tail stood straightly and aggressively in the air, and twitched with short, quick twitches, at its very tip, truly as burly an old buccaneer as ever I saw.

"No wonder they giggled! But how to save the approaching death-scene from total ruin? All was done in a mere moment or two; but several plans were made and rejected during these few moments. Naturally my first thought, and the correct one, was to call back 'Nannine,' my faithful maid, and tell her to remove the cat. But alas! my Nannine was an unusually dull-witted girl, and she would never be able to do a thing she had not rehearsed. My next impulse was to pick up the creature and carry it myself; but I was playing a dying girl, and the people had just seen me, after only three steps, reel helplessly into a chair; and this cat might easily weigh twelve pounds or more; and then at last my plan was formed. I had been clinging all the time to the bureau for support, now I [illegible] and a prayer in my heart that this fierce old Thomas might not decline my acquaintance, I held out my hand, and in a faint voice called: 'Puss—Puss—Puss! come here, Puss!'

"It was an awful moment; if he refused to come, if he turned tail and ran, all was over; the audience would roar.

"'Puss—Puss!' I pleaded. Thomas looked hard at me, hesitated, stretched out his neck, and, working his whiskers nervously, sniffed at my hand.

"'Puss—Puss!' I gasped out once more, and lo! he gave a little 'meow,' and, walking over to me, arched his back amicably, and rubbed his dingy old body against my knee. In a moment my arms were about him, my cheek on his wicked old head, and the applause that broke forth from the audience was a balm of Gilead to my distress and mortification. Then I called for Nannine, and when she came on I said to her: 'Take him downstairs, Nannine, he grows too heavy a pet for me these days,' and she lifted and carried Sir Thomas from the stage, and so I got out of the scrape without sacrificing my character as a sick woman."

Hon. Mr. Fielding Says that it is to be Used to Obtain British Concessions

London, April 24—The references in the budget speech by Hon. Mr. Fielding to Britain and the preferential tariff is provoking a good deal of acrid comment here, wherever Canadian topics are discussed. "Why," one hears it said, "bring upon Canada this disrepute, just when the country has so much to gain from strengthening her good name in the old country. John Bull did not ask for the preference from Canada. Though the speeches of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other ministers scorned the idea of bargaining and presented the preference with both hands, as a free gift, as a small expression of Canada's gratitude for England's past protection, now the Canadian ministers have turned around, and with a spirit of petty hucksters seem to practically put the pistol at England's head. But an action of this kind never yet budged John Bull one inch. He is a warmhearted old gentleman when fairly approached, but a very devil for stubbornness when threatened."

This is a fair summary of the widespread feeling here, though the newspapers do not care to frankly express it upon the soil thus prepared by the Cobden Club, through the secretary Harold Cox, jeers at what he calls in the Westminster Gazette, "Pseudo preferential tariff."

"I assert," he says, "without fear of contradiction, that the main Canadian tariff is deliberately framed to shut out manufactures principally from Britain, while admitting free raw materials from the United States. Only a few British manufacturers have been able to take advantage of the preference. It is not surprising that the percentage of imports from Britain is now less than any previous period. I fail to see the reason for British gratitude. The boot ought to be put on the other leg for we admit everything Canada has sent free without tax at all."

THE TEST CASE AT WINDIPEG

Trouble Between the C.P.R. and the Men is Settled

Winnipeg, Man., April 24—The case of the Canadian Pacific Railway against the striking freight clerks for desertion of their employment was settled at the Police Court, the company not appearing to prosecute. Counter charges preferred against the company by the men for non-payment of salary for February, was also settled, the men receiving pay for that month and signing a release of all claims. They will not get pay for the nine days they worked in March. The strike still drags on, the company operating freight business with a big staff of new men.

A Domestic Incident.

Everybody said he was a darling for the first year, and according to all accounts he was. Mrs. Podgers used to swing him over and demand my adoration, but finally, when I got out of patience and told her that I had been the father of thousands of just as handsome and cunning little cherubs, she became indignant and refused to enter my house or let their kitten play with my rooster.

I suppose the child was up to the average. It was their first, and Podgers wasn't so much to blame for making a fool of himself. The child wasn't three days old before its father purchased it a pair of boots, a straw hat, a drum, a ping-pong bat, and other things, and he carried a grin on his face that would have made the fortune of a circus clown.

I knew he'd catch it, but I said nothing. It wasn't many days before we used to hear him up at midnight ramping around and butting his nose against the doors, and his eyes began to have a solemn look. Then his mother-in-law, two brothers and their families, two or three uncles and aunts, and a few acquaintances paid Podgers a visit to see the baby, and when they filed in to meals it was like a circus procession.

The colic season came on after the baby was two months old, and then didn't Podgers catch it! The baby would be sleeping as sweetly as a dormouse in winter, when all of a sudden the colic would strike him, and he'd yell:

"Whoop! Who-o-o-o! I-h-o-o-o!"

They'd turn him on his little stomach, loosen his hands, rub his back and give him peppermint, but he'd kick and claw, and they'd have to send for Podgers and the doctor, and raise as much excitement as a fire alarm. If it was night, Podgers would have to leap out of bed, build a fire, look for ointment and liniments and soothing syrups, and perhaps it was hours before he got to bed again.

This thing went on until everybody in the neighborhood got heartily sick of the Podgers' angel, and didn't care whether he was an angel or not. When he was a year old, and could sit alone, he one day got hold of his father's jack-knife. They saw him biting the end of it, but they didn't see him push it under the sideboard. He was hunting around for something else when a fly swooped down upon his poor head, and gave him a bite which raised him a foot high. He yelled out and clawed and kicked, and Mrs. Podgers jumped for him and cried out:

"He's been and swallowed that 'ere jack-knife."

Podgers looked round, failed to see the knife, noted the red face and flying legs of the child, and he clapped on his hat and ran for the doctor. The servant girl made a dash among the neighbors, and in a while they had gathered to the number of forty. The child had got hysterics by this time, and as he kicked and howled and grew red, Mrs. Podgers clasped her hands and wailed:

"That dreadful jack-knife is working among his blessed vitals!"

Podgers sat down in a tremble, some of the women cried, and a fat man went out on the back door step and wiped the tears away with a new Panama hat, regardless of expense.

"Hold the young 'un up!" yelled one.

"Pat him on the back!" screamed another.

"Turn him over!" squealed old Mrs. Johnson.

And they held that boy up by one leg and swung him this way and that. They flung him on the sofa and rolled him over and over, mauling him in the back with their fists, till he made the neighborhood ring with his howls.

Finally the doctor arrived and he put the boy on the table and pinched his ribs and rubbed his stomach and tried to count his pulse.

"I think the knife rests about here," he said, placing his hand on the baby's stomach.

"Spose'n it should open and commence to whittle away his vitals!" wailed Mrs. Podgers.

"Hand me mustard and tepid water, and salt and some pills and strong coffee, and chloroform!" answered the doctor.

Then they held that boy and filled him up with stuff, and rubbed and pounded [illegible] and as he clawed and kicked old Mrs. Fraser in the nose they said it was convulsions, contortions, and that kind of thing. They wore the hair off his head before they got through with him, and the doctor said he would either have to cut him open and take the jack-knife out with a pair of tongs, or use the innocent die, when Mrs. Gregory's tow-headed boy, who was prowling round, discovered the jack-knife under the sideboard. Then the doctor got red in the face, Podgers jumped over the table, and the old women wiped their eyes and remarked:

"It didn't seem possible that he could have swallowed a great knife like that. I knew it all along!"

A Full-size Bottle Free

Powley's Liquified Ozone—The Only Internal Germ Killer

If you suffer from a germ trouble and will try Powley's Liquified Ozone we will furnish the first bottle free. We do this to save delay—to convince you at once and forever that Ozone does kill germs. We do it to help you who need help, and then to induce you to tell your friends about it.

Just Oxygen

Powley's Liquified Ozone is nothing but oxygen—not a drug of any kind in it. It is the discovery of a chemist who spent 20 years in learning how to get oxygen, in staple form, into the blood. The process of making requires immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid which charges the blood with such an excess of oxygen that no germ can live where that blood goes.

Ozone solves the great problem of killing germs in the body without killing the tissues too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine can never reach the cause of a germ trouble. Ozone kills them with oxygen—a tonic to you—the very source of vitality. But germs are vegetable and this excess of oxygen, while the very life of an animal, is deadly to vegetable matter. This fact seems a provision of nature to protect man against germs.

Kills all Germs

We offer $1,000 to the physician or scientist who discovers a disease germ that Ozone cannot kill. Such a germ has never yet been discovered. Powley's Liquified Ozone is certain destruction to germs, and the result is inevitable. A germ disease must end and forever when the cause is killed. And all the skill in the world cannot cure a germ trouble while the germs still live.

Germ Diseases.

Every disease in this list is a known germ disease. Ozone has cured each of these diseases at least several hundred times—some of them thousands of times. We know from this vast experience that Ozone can be relied on in all of them. Medicine cures some of them sometimes, by aiding nature to overcome the germs, but those results are indirect and uncertain. Ozone attacks the disease directly and the results are inevitable.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock at 15 cents per share, for that purpose.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

BURIED GOLD

BY

FRED WHISHAW

Author of "A Boyar of the Terrible," etc.

Whether for this, or other reasons, Ruby was amiable towards him, or, at any rate, more so than she had ever been up to this. She gave him no decided answer, true; neither did she respond to or permit any demonstrations of affection. She would give him neither yea nor nay. She required time, she declared, before she could be certain of her own mind. Maybe she cared for him and maybe she did not. At any rate she was sorry he was going away so far. Perhaps when he returned from California she would know her own mind and be able to give him a decided answer. Dick Robinson was quite serious in his affection for Ruby Amright. He was, in fact, very much in love. He begged for more definite encouragement to his suit, but begged in vain.

"I won't take on with any other chap till the 'Hecuba' returns," she said, "and that's the most I'll say now. Maybe I'll like you better when you come back and maybe not; don't blame me if I don't, for I tell you straight it may go either way."

Dick felt justified—on the strength of this interview—in telling Keith presently that his suit had been successful. This was true in so far that his success had been greater than he expected. Keith sighed and gave his rival joy.

"I said you were handier with the womenfolk," he sighed. "You've got the hang of the thing and I haven't, and that's the truth. Well, you've won, old man, and I've lost, and she's a rare and fine maid—there ain't another for me in this darned world."

"She won't speak to another bloke while I'm away," said Dick. "Her very words!"

"If she's given you her word she'll stick to it, be sure of that," Keith replied.

He went away very heartsick, for though he had protested that he never believed in his own chance of winning the girl's affections he was, as a matter of fact, disappointed; for something in her manner towards him of late had occasionally given him hope that he might, after all, come out top among the half-dozen or so of Seadown youths who had lost their hearts to pretty little Ruby. She was something of a flirt, no doubt, though Keith was far too loyal, even in this dark hour, to admit the fact. She liked men and their attentions, and the compliments they paid her. "I was a fool," thought poor Keith, "to suppose she favored me because she was amiable and kind; she'd be that to anyone she met—she can't help it, and I oughtn't to have built on it. I don't suppose I'll ever marry now," was the conclusion at which Keith arrived in his meditations, "and p'r'aps that's the best way for a sailor."

CHAPTER II.

Overdue.

Nevertheless, in spite of his determination to make the best of a bad job, Keith Adams went very heavily during the next few days, and when a large French schooner went ashore on the reef in the great gale that blew throughout that week and the lifeboat went out to rescue the crew, he could not help feeling that it would be a good thing if this should prove the end of him. As a matter of fact, the enterprise was within measurable distance of achieving this, for Keith—after an exposure of twelve hours—landed in a condition of collapse, and was taken with the rescued Frenchmen and several of his mates to the local hospital, where he lay for a week or two prostrate with fever.

This was a serious matter for Keith, for the good ship "Hecuba" sailed, as advertised, on the Saturday, and sailed without him. Keith had signed on as third mate, and the loss of the engagement was a calamity to him.

There were several Seadown men engaged, as Keith had been, to sail in the "Hecuba." The first mate, Jake Foster, was one of these; another was Dick Robinson, and a third was young Denys Drake, a likely lad of twenty summers, whose departure caused the heart of one Jessie Foster, old Jake's daughter, to beat heavily enough.

Jessie went with her brother to Southampton to speed the "Hecuba" away on her long voyage; she lost a father and a lover from their place when the big ship spread her canvas and hauled out to sea, taking the sunlight with her and all the joy and satisfaction of life as well.

Jessie was quite inconsolable. She went like a ghost hither and thither, and presently it occurred to her to visit Ruby Amright, who, folks said, had given God-speed to a lover on board the "Hecuba" no less sadly than Jessie herself. It would comfort both, Jessie thought, to compare notes and talk things over a bit.

"I thought I'd just drop in and talk things over," she said, and was somewhat surprised when Ruby asked, "What about?" For Jessie there was at present only one subject in this world, and that was the "Hecuba."

"Why, about them as is gone to California and left us behind; there's enough in that to keep me thinkin' and worryin' for a year to come," said Jessie; "and I suppose it's much the same with you."

"Don't tell me he sailed after all," cried Ruby, rising from her seat and flashing her eyes at her visitor; "they said——"

"Who sailed?" asked Jessie in surprise—"Dick Robinson? Why, of course he did, you know that well enough."

Ruby started and changed color. "Oh, he's sailed, I know that well enough," she said, smiling feebly; "I mean, they told me young Drake was ill and couldn't go—was it him or another? Maybe I'm mixing them up."

"I reckon you are—why, it's young Adams you're thinking of, him as was in the lifeboat and got half frozen to death; it's he that stayed behind, not my Denys. I only wish it had been! Maybe the trouble's mixed you up a bit or you'd have known who went and who stayed."

"What trouble?" asked Ruby, dreamily.

"Why, your losing Dick Robinson for Lord knows how long; I know the trouble it is if anyone does. I could sit and cry all day."

"Do folks say I'm promised to Dick?" asked Ruby.

"Do they? Well, what do you think? Of course they do—it's all over the town. It was a toss-up between this Robinson and young Adams, and you took Dick, so they say. There's many that wonder you didn't choose the other. Lucky one can choose for oneself, and don't have to wait for other folks to do it for one, ain't it?"

"People don't know what they're talking about," said Ruby wearily, staring out to sea. "What do I care what they say? It doesn't matter to me."

When Jessie went home to her mother presently, she said that Ruby [illegible] was as funny as they make 'em to-night; the trouble seemed to have dazed her. Who'd have thought she'd have cared so much for Dick Robinson!

Meanwhile Keith recovered and went about as usual, walking over to Southampton every day to look for a berth in place of the excellent one he had lost through sickness.

On Sunday he remained at Seadown. Once or twice it occurred to him that he would walk towards the harbor on the chance of meeting Ruby, but he resisted the almost overwhelming desire to do so.

"What's the use?" he asked himself. "That's all over; she's Dick's. I'd be a bigger fool than I am already if I made it worse for myself; it's bad enough now, Lord knows!"

Ruby went to church in the evening and caught sight of Keith in a corner; he looked pale and sick, and her heart went out to him. Throughout the service she sat with her eyes fixed upon his face, but either he failed to notice her or preferred to look elsewhere. Ruby was not much the better this day for her devotions; she left the church angry and miserable.

When Keith obtained a berth a few weeks later and left Seadown upon a voyage of unknown duration, he had not once met or spoken to Ruby since the evening of their foolish quarrel. He had wisely avoided renewing the pain which the girl's presence now caused him. She did not need him or desire his society. Why should he run his head against a wall? And Ruby, who had been so confident in her scheme for "teaching him to care," began to feel that she had made a complete failure of it. He had accepted his dismissal as final. She had been too rude, and he could not forgive her. He would take no further notice of her, and she deserved it.

"The worst is that I love him all the better for it!" she told herself.

So the weeks went by and the months, and Lloyds reported the "Hecuba" as having safely reached San Francisco and as having sailed for home again. Then followed the long blank that must follow before she should be heard of again; sailing ships disappear for months into the Ewigkeit, and some—too many—never again take up their home moorings.

Jessie began to count the days for her lover's return. The "Hecuba" was due at Southampton any day—then overdue—then seriously overdue.

Jessie went about with a white face. "You can never reckon on a sailing vessel keeping time," they told her, "not even a big ship like the 'Hecuba.' A hundred things may detain her; contrary winds, gales that blow her out of her course, quarantine at some port at which she was obliged to call—there's nothing to worry about."

Jessie did worry, however. She went to Ruby among others for sympathy, and found it. Ruby had scarcely realized that the "Hecuba" was overdue; but Keith's ship had been a long while

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

STOCK MARKETS

ALL VISIBLE FACTORS ARE BULLISH

New York, April 24—The advent of a long promised bull market seems near at hand in view of present easy money conditions based on the flow of funds towards the east, and the ease in all the money centres of the world. With 3 to 4 per cent. money it is impossible for any clique to keep prices depressed and there is no stronger incentive to public buyer than the knowledge that his broker has no difficulty in borrowing money freely. Consequently it is logic to expect the speculative tendency to broaden. Attractive prices are not confined to one section of the list; the entire stock arena offers chance of conquest to the investor. To confine ourselves to a few particular stocks we could not do better than to point out the possibilities in such issues as Mo. P., R. I., and Atchison. The condition of affairs in Kansas alone is making new financial successes for these roads. They operate over 6,000 miles or fully two-thirds of their entire mileage, in that state, and the advantages that will accrue from the unprecedented wheat crop of the state can be imagined. Immense earnings are before them and they will be deriving the benefit at a time when they are less likely to have extraordinary expenses than ever before. It is understood that all our great railroad systems have for five years past diverted a large proportion of their earnings to improvements and additional equipment and have now reached such a point of physical perfection that further disbursements for betterments are not essential. If there should be such an improbability as a lean year all of the great roads are in a position to maintain dividend payment, with decreased earnings from the surplus which is accumulating from now on. The basis of all values is the interest that is produced and with the certainty that none of our important systems will reduce dividend rates, but if anything, issue an occasional extra one, can feel confident that a general return to high quotations is not remote, barring national calamities, which always have their transient effect on values. The purchaser of stocks under conditions as they exist today need have no fear of his committments dwindling away, but may expect a marked appreciation before many months. At the present time the market displays all the elements required to advance prices. Values have shrunk tremendously in the past 6 months and while the advance from the low level of last week may naturally bring about moderate reactions, through the profit-taking of those who bought at the bottom prices, the present level is a safe one on which to absorb stocks and should not test margins to any great degree.

Summary—A reactionary opening was followed by extreme listlessness with selling on the recessions of merely a trifling nature. Throughout the session the buying of Manhattan, Reading and B. O. was of the best. During a good part of the day the market was of the most quiet character, but in the afternoon a better feeling developed with strength in Mex. Centl., and Mex. N due to the more hopeful outlook for silver. Prices for nearly all the standard issues closed above the figures of last night and we are inclined to regard the present as a sneaking bull market. Money closed 3 per cent.

THEY PROCLAIM THE MERITS

To the World of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—That the world may know of the merits of Dr. Clarke's wonderful Little Red Pills, I ask the newspapers to publish the following: I was, for years, a martyr to stomach trouble, and had no hope whatever of being cured; but on seeing a testimonial from a friend in Ontario, in one of the Toronto papers, I resolved to write to her and found that she had actually been cured of the same trouble by Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I at once bought three boxes and took them according to directions, and they almost cured me. I purchased three more boxes, and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured. I have no splitting headaches now, no burning pain in my stomach; in fact, have a new lease of life.

MRS. JAMES HUNTER,
Miami, Man.

A Remarkable Offer.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to the readers of the (fill in name of paper.) To any one who is a subject of rheumatism, (no matter how long standing), or any blood disease, enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial, and are not fully and completely cured, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no good results follow, we will forfeit $10 cash.

We have yet to know of a single case where this wonderful medicine has not been almost entirely successful in its work of relieving suffering humanity.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

Slowly Dying

Thousands are Slowly dying from catarrh, but don't know their danger

A CASE IN POINT

Mr. Ulric Berault, a young gentleman who lived for years in Sweetsburg, Quebec, inherited Catarrh from his mother. The disease spread through his system till he was a physical wreck.

"As a child," said Mr. Berault, "I was prone to an ulceration of the mucous lining of the throat and nasal passages.

"I grew pale and emaciated, lost all desire for food, and got into such a dreadful condition that my friends said that Catarrh was fairly eating me up.

Every organ of my body seemed affected and the doctor said it was the first stage of consumption. He advised Catarrhozone, and I inhaled it ten minutes at a time every few hours, and was rewarded in a few days by a wonderful improvement.

Catarrhozone pleased me and the doctor so well that I used it continually, and took Ferrozone Tablets after each meal to build up my strength. In about three weeks I was quite recovered, and the doctor says no remedy but Catarrhozone could work such a miracle.

"Every one in town knows I was just about dead with Catarrh, and my cure is an evidence of what Catarrhozone can do. It is a pleasure to recommend Catarrhozone."

(Signed) Ulric Berault."

Catarrhozone beyond question is the proper remedy for catarrhal and bronchial troubles. The medicated air goes all through the air passages of the head, throat and lungs. It kills the germs, heals the sore spots, allays irritation and keeps the breath pure.

Headache, tired feelings across the eyes, nausea, all these well-known disagreeable symptoms are overcome by the medicated air of Catarrhozone.

Ferrozone Tablets which are used in conjunction with Catarrhozone Inhaler drive all the poisonous secretions of catarrh from the blood. One taken after each meal creates new appetite and digestion, strengthens the stomach, revitalizes and invigorates the entire system.

Catarrhozone is quite unsurpassed as a cure for Catarrh in any part of the system. It is highly recommended for Bronchitis and Asthma.

Complete outfit, sufficient for two months' treatment, price $1.00; trial size 25 cts. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont

The company intends to rush forward so as to be able to be in active operation next fall.

HE HAD TO SHOOT

Pete Johnston the Medicine Man is a Dangerous Customer

Chief Newson, of Lindsay, assisted by County Constable Nelson, arrested Pete Johnston, for shooting with intent to kill. The particulars of the affair have already appeared in these columns.

On their way down from Coboconk, where the arrest was made Johnston in the course of conversation, admitted that Burden had not given any provocation. "A thought came into my mind and I had to shoot," said the prisoner, whose trial will come off next week.

THIRTY ACRES OF BEETS

Mr. H. P. Kennedy to Go Into Beet Raising Extensively

Mr. H. P. Kennedy, with his usual enterprise, has undertaken to grow thirty acres of beets for the Peterborough Sugar Company. This shows that Mr. Kennedy, who is one of our most wide-awake business men, sees money in the growing of beets. His example will doubtless speedily be followed by others, and a big boom in growing beets may be looked for.

The company is now securing acreage very fast, and expect to have all they require for next season's operations in a few days. Mr. G. W. Bennett, who has charge of this department of the work, informed The Times yesterday that contracts are coming in rapidly now from farmers for the growing of beets. With plenty of beets the success of the local sugar industry is assured.

A SAD EVENT

A Young Mother and a Loving Wife Called Away

It is with deep sorrow that the death of Mrs. H. Morgan is recorded, which melancholy event took place on Thursday evening at her late home on Water street, surrounded by her sorrowing husband and parents.

She was the only child of Mrs. and Mr. Henry Owens, 381 Water street, where she has lived nearly all her life.

She leaves a sweet little babe only 13 months old, who, fortunately, does not realize the great loss it has sustained.

The deceased lady was born in Rochester 33 years ago, and was educated at the town school and Collegiate Institute, and was well known and highly respected in every circle of good society.

Mr. Morgan as well as her parents, have the great sympathy of the entire community.

The funeral takes place from her late home on Water street this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery at 3 p.m.

A True Nerve Tonic

Will act not so much directly upon the nerves as upon the digestive functions and the abundant formation of red, vitalizing blood. Nerves can't be fed on medicine. They can, however, be restored and strengthened by assimilated food. The marvelous action of Ferrozone arises from its action over the digestive and assimilative processes. When you take Ferrozone the blood is purified, strengthened and grows rich and red. Then you grow vigorous, healthy and beautiful, ready for work, because you have the strength to do it. No tonic for the brain, blood or nerves compares with Ferrozone Price 50c at Druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Obituary

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Barrie, of Douro, will deeply sympathize with them in the great loss which they have sustained in the death of their darling little daughter, who passed away on Wednesday. The child was stricken with diphtheria, to which she succumbed after a brave but futile battle with the dread disease. The Times also extends its sincere sympathy.

New Moulding Shop

Mr. J. J. Hartley, the well known contractor, whose reputation for first class work is known far and near, has been awarded the contract for the erection of a moulding shop for the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company. The dimensions of the new building are 40 x 70 feet, with a twenty four brick wall. The work is being rapidly pushed forward, so that the building will soon be ready for occupation.

A House Famine

A house famine of alarming proportions, says the Toronto World, confronts this section of Ontario. It is not confined to Toronto. For a radius of sixty miles the aspect of the case is similar. From Galt on the west, Whitby on the east, Peterborough on the northeast and north to Barrie, there are no vacant habitable houses. At Peterborough the demand for houses is so much in excess of the supply that a plan is maturing for the use of tents to house the homeless temporarily. In many of the towns many structures are being erected, but in nearly every case they have been rented in advance.

—The Girls' Guild of George street church intend to hold a grand concert in the opera house some evening next month.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—An automobile service between Cobourg and Rice Lake is talked of.

—The smallpox outbreak in Harvey is serious. About a dozen houses are placarded.

—George Robinson, a vagrant, was in police court yesterday. The case was enlarged for a week.

—The Ladies' Literary Circle of the T.A.S. enjoyed "An Evening with Moore," last night. Miss L. Coleman read a paper upon "Moore," which was well received.

—Mr. Jos. H. Cobb has charge of the landscape gardening and floral decorating of the fine large lawn in front of St. Joseph's Hospital. The work is on quite an extensive scale, and will greatly enhance the appearance of this elegantly situated property.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. G. B. Stevenson was in town yesterday.

—Dr. and Mrs. F. Willis and maid, of Otonabee, were in town yesterday.

Mrs. W. G. Yelland and daughter, of town, have been visiting friends in Campbellford this week.

—Mrs. A. Coxon, of Bridgeburg, Ont., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Vass, Chamberlain street.

—Dr Beauchamp Boucher, of Phoenix, B.C., is home on a visit to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Boucher.

—Mrs. Jas. George, of Brockville, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Jas. Higgins, is the guest of Mrs. John O'Toole, town.

—Mrs. Hill, of Pittsburg, and Mrs. Culverwell, of Peterborough, are at Penryn, the residence of Mrs. H. B King.—Port Hope Times.

—Mr. Dave Houston, of Queen's College, is a guest at St. Andrew's Manse. He is on his way home to St. Andrew's Manse, Nebraska.

—Miss M. Mitchell, saleslady at Sutcliffe & Sons, received a telegram yesterday from Innerkip, stating that her father was dangerously ill. She left yesterday for Innerkip. Her many friends in Peterborough will sympathize with her, and will hope for her father's speedy recovery.

—Mr. A. Wilson, of Hastings, who has been attending the Spring Assizes at Cobourg during the past few days, is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. B. Harper, Stewart street.

—Mr. Herbert Wood, son of Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, leaves today for Winnipeg, where he will join a survey party in connection with the Canadian Northern Railroad. Mr. Wood will return in time to resume his studies at Queen's University in the fall. Mr. Reginald Blomfield, formerly of the local staff of the Ontario Bank, will also join the same party.

GENERAL SPORTS

BASEBALL.

The Young Shamrocks won their first game from the Victorias on the Murray street school grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 16 to 12. The following represented the teams:

Shamrocks—McFadden, c.; Cahill and Quinlan, p.; Cahill, 1b.; Clancy, 2b. Conroy, 3b.; E. Coughlin, r.f.; L Coughlin, c.f.; MacGuarin, l.f.

Victorias—W. O'Brien, c.; M. O'Brien and Hickey, p.; Lang, 1b.; Cressman, 2b.; M. O'Brien, 3b.; McKnight, r.f.; Daw, c.f.; Giroux, l.f.

Mr. Sorondell officiated as umpire.

THE TURF.

The big race meet of the Peterborough Turf Club, to be held on August 5 and 6, promises to be the best ever held in Peterborough, judging from the program of each day's races, and the purse offered for each race.

Following is the program:

First day—2.50 pace, 2.47 trot, $500; 2.19 pace, 2.16 trot for "Old Abe" purse by Havana Cigar Co., Toronto, $500; 3-4 mile running race in heats, $150

Second day—2.30 pace and 2.27 trot, $500; 2.14 pace, open trotters, $500; 1 1-2 mile hurdle race, over 6 hurdles, $300.

The above prizes total up to $2,150, and are the highest purses ever offered here.

Improvements in the Cemetery

The Little Lake cemetery is being greatly improved this year. On the lower plot, on the east of the cemetery the whole top has been taken off, the ground resodded and the graves, which are mostly single ones, remarked. Mr. Wise, the superintendent, has eight men at work this year, which is three above the regular number. The new residence for the superintendent will be built outside the cemetery grounds.

TIRED OUT.

There's many a farmer's wife sits on the porch in the growing shadows of a summer evening, knowing to the full what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. That's the tiredness of a healthy woman. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. Just as in profound silence a discord jars the ear more forcibly, so now that she has stopped moving about, this tired woman feels more acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves.

Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Words cannot tell what I suffered for thirteen years with uterine trouble and dragging-down pains through my hips and back," writes Mrs. John Dickson, of Grenfell, Assiniboia Dist., N. W. Ter. "I can't describe the misery it was to be on my feet long at a time. I could not eat nor sleep. Often I wished to die. Then I saw Dr. Pierce's medicines advertised and thought I would try them. Had not taken one bottle till I was feeling well. After I had taken five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was like a new woman. Could eat and sleep and do all my own work."

The Medical Adviser, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 50 stamps for the volume bound in cloth. Address Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

Flirting.

The dictionary offers several definitions of the verb "to flirt," as descriptive of the chief amusement of women. One is "to be perpetually running about." It is not a very elegant definition, but it will serve. In one sense or another, the flirt is perpetually running about. Her pretty feet may be still, but her eyes, her hands, or her lips are not. And as for her thoughts, why she herself can hardly follow them, so quickly do they leap from Reginald to Arthur, from Arthur to George, and from George back to Reginald. Even in her dreams she is out on active service conquering with smiles, slaying with frowns, and burying with scorn.

It is good to know a flirt of parts. You may suffer sometimes, but, if you are possessed of a little philosophy, a little of the spirit of adventure, and a little of that of self-sacrifice, there are delightful compensations. Will she give me three dances, two, one, or none at all? Will she go to the picnic with me or with him? Did she sing that song because it was the one I said I liked? The compensations are not simply in the favorable answers to the questions, but in the very questions themselves. You love her both for the dangers you have passed, and for those you hope to pass.

What a wealth of talent, even of genius, is devoted to the art of flirting! What original conceptions and brilliant successes in it might be told to the world! Might be; but are not. The triumphs in other arts are proclaimed in every market-place. Those in the art of flirting are merely whispered in two or three parlors. It is a pity; for they also are worthy of general rejoicing and admiration.

You, reader, have your own experiences. One morning, let us suppose, you call on a flirt with whom you are privileged to be acquainted. You met her at a dance on the previous evening. She was kinder to you than usual. The flowers she wore were some you had sent her. In short, it was a happy evening. How does she receive you now? Coldly, distantly. You try to begin where you left off at the dance, but she insists on talking about the weather and other impersonal subjects. The minutes pass slowly and dully. At last you rise to go. As you do so, she directs your attention to a large jar on the sideboard. "It is a sort of funeral urn," she says, "full of memorials of the past."

You lift the lid and see a heap of dead roses and lilies. "I always keep the flowers fellows give me," she explains; "directly they fade, I drop them in here." You wince at the thought of the bouquet you selected so carefully mouldering with a dozen more in this common grave. With a forced laugh, you mention the thought. Her eyes sparkle. "Your flowers," she says reproachfully, "do not go with those of the other fellows. See, there is a second jar which I reserve for you." You look. There is, indeed, a second jar; and your bouquet indeed, lies in it.

If that, or anything like it, be one of your experiences, you have reason to be glad. An artist has planned and wrought for you alone. The two jars, the flowers, and the speeches were all prepared in anticipation of your call. Be grateful Admire the artist, and let her perceive the admiration. This is the least, and the most, that you can do.

Is it love of power, desire for change, or original sin, that makes a woman flirt? Or is there such a thing as the Quest of the Golden Youth? It does not matter. Some emotions occasionally far outweigh a moral. If the woman flirts well, that is sufficient. As has been said, you may suffer sometimes, but there are delightful compensations. To know her is, if not of itself a liberal education, at any rate an assistance to one.—Edgar Turner in "To-day."

"You sell ladies' hats here?" began the sour-looking man. "Certainly," replied the milliner, repressing a smile. "You want to buy one for your wife?" "No, I don't, but it looks as if I'd have to."—Philadelphia "Press."

MISS DELLA-JANVEAU

Miss Della Janveau, Globe Hotel, Ottawa, Ont., is from one of the oldest and best known French Canadian families in Canada. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, she says:

"Last spring my blood seemed clogged up, my digestion poor, my head ached and I felt languid and tired all the time. My physician prescribed for me, but a friend advised me to try Peruna. I tried it and am pleased to state that I found it a wonderful cleanser and purifier of the system. In three weeks I was like a new woman, my appetite had increased, I felt buoyant, light and happy and without an ache or pain. Peruna is a reliable family medicine."

Adia Brittain, of Sekitan, O., writes:

"After using your wonderful Peruna three months I have had great relief. I had continual heaviness in my stomach, was bilious, and had fainting spells, but they all have left me since using Peruna."

-Adia Brittain.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

$3,000 CHECK WAS USED FOR GENERAL BUSINESS

INSINUATION BY MAIL & EMPIRE AND WORLD DENIED

EDITOR OF MAIL & EMPIRE ASKED TO APPEAR IN COURT

The One Thousand and Seven Hundred Dollars In One Hundred Dollar Ontario Bank Bills Traced to the Merchants' Bank

Toronto, April 25.—A few minutes after the Gamey investigation opened this morning, Mr. E. F. B. Johnston called the attention of the court to an article which appeared in the Mail and Empire to-day, making grave insinuations regarding a $3,000 check which it was said was drawn by the Trusts and Guarantee Company, of which Hon. J. R. Stratton is president, in the early days of September last. The insinuation was that it might turn out that this $3,000 was paid to Mr. Stratton, in which case the inference would be a sinister one. The Chancellor said that the same trouble had happened with the newspapers in the Parnell case. Mr. Coffee, the manager of the company, was called, and it transpired that the $3,000 item was an ordinary business transaction on a mortgage.

It is stated that the counsel for the prosecution made their examination of the books last night, and that at the time the Mail and Empire and the World were given their information, Mr. W. D. McPherson knew of the entire innocence of the item in question, which was made the excuse for scare headlines.

Mr. Charles McGill, general manager of the Ontario Bank, was the first witness.

Q.—Who is the local manager of the bank. A.—W. H. Smith.

Q.—Do you recall in September last initialing a check for $3,000 or a sum in that neighborhood? A.—I do not.

Being asked several times if he could remember initialing any check in September last for a thousand or more, Mr. McGill replied positively that he could not. It was not his custom to initial checks; it was Mr. Smith's.

Q.—Do you recall any payment out in the first half of September last of a sum of $3,000? A.—I don't remember anything about it.

Q.—Did you have any conversation directly or indirectly, about such an amount? A.—No, it would not come in my department.

Q.—Then you pledge your oath you know nothing of it at all? A.—Yes.

Examined by Mr. Riddell: You have made a most careful search Mr. McGill, of the business in the bank, and you have no knowledge of such a payment? A.—No.

Mr. McGill then explained the en[illegible] ducted by the tellers and other clerks to no avail.

Q.—You have an agency in Sudbury? A.—Yes.

Q.—The bank has a large circulation in that district? A.—Yes.

Q.—You say that as the result of enquiries made you could not find the sum of $2,000 made up in $100, $50, etc., paid out in September? A.—No.

Mr. T. P. Coffee, manager of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, was the next witness. As he took the box Mr. Riddell said: "There was a scandalous article in this morning's paper referring to the company in which Mr. Coffee is interested, and it is time the attention of the court was brought to the matter."

Mr. Johnston—Yes, that is so.

Mr. Blake.—My learned friends know we have nothing to do with it.

The Court—Most certainly.

Mr. Blake—I have not read the article.

Chancellor Boyd—There was the same difficulty before in the Parnell commission.

Mr. Riddell—The article was in the Mail and Empire.

Mr. Riddell asked—Mr. Stratton is your president? A.—Yes.

Q.—And Mr. Kloepfer of Guelph your vice-president? A.—Yes.

Q.—A transaction of three thousand dollars has been mentioned more than once. A certain company issued bonds, of which the Trusts and Guarantee Company were trustees. The other company drew for an amount? A.—Yes.

Q.—All legitimate business? A.—Yes.

Q.—Nothing to do with this case? A.—Nothing.

Q.—And the $1,600 was paid by the Trust and Guarantee Company to the vice-president? A.—Yes.

Q.—Legitimate business? A.—Yes.

Mr. Ritchie—We have nothing to do with that.

Mr. Riddell—Mr. Stratton had nothing to do with any transaction? A.—Nothing.

John McGill, manager of the Queen street branch of the Ontario Bank, produced two tellers' blotters of his bank in which are entered all checks issued on other banks and received from them, and these were gone over in the usual way.

The search concluded, Mr. Riddell asked: Mr. McGill, you were instructed to make a thorough search of the books of your bank? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you done so? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you been able to find anything touching on the matters before the court? A.—I have not.

Q.—You cannot assist us in any way? A.—I cannot.

Thomas E. B. Yates, discount clerk, and George R. Bartlett, teller, in the Ontario Bank, who appeared in the box yesterday afternoon, were again called. The scrutiny of the books took place privately, with counsel for both sides crowding about the witness in the box. Various items were read off in a low tone to the official stenographer, but the public were not permitted to hear what they were, as they related to private accounts. The examination showed that he had not discounted any note the proceeds of which could have been applied to the purpose in question.

Mr. Bartlett informed Mr. Ritchie that he had traced back the seventeen one-hundred-dollar bills spoken of yesterday, and had found that they had come from the Merchants' Bank on the 15th.

Later in the day Mr. Johnston read to the court an affidavit signed by Mr. McEvoy, as junior counsel for the defence, setting out in formal language that in yesterday's evidence there was no reference to the Trusts and Guarantee Company and the $3,000 check.

"Of course," said Mr. Johnston, after he had read the affidavit to the court, and also portions of the article complained of, "this matter is in the hands of your Lordships, and you may or may not ask for further action. Whatever you direct will be carried out."

The Chancellor and Chief Justice consulted the bench, and the Chancellor announced that the proper course to take would be to ask the Mail and Empire to show cause why it should not be reported for contempt of c

Mr. Riddell then rose with a copy of the World in his hand, and asked to be allowed to take similar action in regard to the World newspaper. He will produce a similar affidavit to Mr. McEvoy's in due course.

The affidavit read to the court by Mr. Johnston was as follows:

"In the matter of a Royal Commission, dated the 28th day of March, 1903, directed to the Hon. Sir John Alexander Boyd, Knight, and the Hon. William Glenholme Falconbridge [illegible] into certain charges of bribery or attempts to bribe:

"I, John Millar McEvoy, of the City of London, make oath and say:

"1. I am acting as solicitor for the parties charged herein, and also acting as junior counsel in the same interest.

"2. On this 25th day of April, 1903, and whilst the proceedings before the said Royal Commissioners were and are in progress, the Daily Mail and Empire of date 25th of April, 1903, a newspaper published at the City of Toronto, unfairly, untruthfully and improperly published certain comments and certain alleged evidence touching and concerning the matters therein.

"3. The evidence given by the said newspaper as evidence before the said Royal Commission was not, so far as I am able to discover, in fact so given, and there is no reference on the notes of evidence taken by the official stenographers, to any company of which James Robert Stratton is President.

"4. I believe that the publication of said comments and alleged evidence was made for the purpose of injuring the said Stratton, and interfering with and prejudicing his position in the estimation of the public in this investigation.

"5. The said newspaper is now produced and shown to me and marked Exhibit A, and the comments and alleged evidence are set forth in the first columns on the first page, being the title page of said newspaper, and continued on the second column thereof, and headed, 'Startling discoveries made by lawyers in Gamey case.'"

"P. M. McEvoy."

Sworn before me at the City of Toronto, in the County of York, this 25th day of April, 1903.

George O. Campbell,
A Commissioner, H.C.J.

Harry M. Passmore, Telegram reporter, was the next witness. To Mr. Ritchie he said that on 21st April last Frank Sullivan had told him in front of the Walker House that the $[illegible] came from the same place as the $3,000, and had volunteered the information, "I got $1,500 out of it up to to-day."

Mr. Johnston then took the witness in hand. To him Passmore said that he had been writing for his paper in connection with the Gamey case, but he denied that his articles had been adverse to the defence. He reaffirmed that although Frank Sullivan knew very little of him, he had made the statement to him that he got $1,500. "I swear that," said the witness, "without reservation, hesitation, or equivocation of any kind." He admitted going to see Mr. McEvoy, junior counsel for the defence, on the suggestion of Mr. Burlman, editor of the Telegram, to see if the libel suit could not be stopped, and had expressed his willingness to report Frank Sullivan as having denied making the statement about receiving the money.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

TO FREE POLAND FROM HER EUROPEAN OPPRESSORS

A Mighty and World Wide Movement with This Object in View

Washington, April 25.—Since the Emperor of Germany began to direct his attention to measures aimed against his Polish subjects in Prussia the Polish national movement in the United States, and indeed all over the world, has taken an increased activity. The movement has never entirely died out in this country.

Chicago, Baltimore and Washington have always been active centres for Polish agitation, and the large Polish population of New York is now taking a new interest in the movement. The gathering of funds for the furtherance of Polish national resurrection has gone on steadily even during long periods when the Polish movement attracted no special attention.

An active supporter of the movement says his people have learned the futility of insurrections under ordinary conditions and have determined to await the opportunity that a general European war, or some special conditions in the States that have partitioned Poland will afford. While awaiting this movement the Poles are preparing for it. They know that when the opportunity comes it will be too late to prepare.

A singular accompaniment of the Polish movement is the assessment laid on every Pole in whatever part of the world. The assessment is only one cent a month, but it falls upon every man, woman and child of the Polish race, and very few refuse to pay it, while many contribute more than the regular assessment.

It is held that the movement will profit most from an assessment so low that even the poorest can pay it for then the largest possible number of Poles can be kept interested. The money thus collected is forwarded through secret channels to Switzerland, where the treasurer resides, and is used as seems best to the managers of the movement.

Probably some of it has been used to enable Poles to buy back the estates in Prussia bought by the German Government some years ago and sold to German colonists. Other appropriations are made for various objects bearing directly or indirectly upon the national movement.

Money for these purposes flows in freely, and if there seemed an early prospect of special activity the subscriptions would be enormously increased. The obtaining of money is the easiest part of the propaganda, for the Polish national movement is furthered by a great variety of organizations.

Scouting societies, athletic societies, beneficial societies of various sorts, all have some relation to the national movement. At the same time the Polish Catholic priests in this country and throughout the world zealously foster the national spirit in their congregations. No people are truer to the Catholic church than the Poles, and the priests respond by being peculiarly sympathetic with the national aspirations of their people.

There are some very successful Poles in this city and elsewhere in the country and the solidarity of the resident Poles is remarkable. Noble and peasant come together in pleasant social intercourse, and are all one in their desire for the furtherance of the national movement.

National customs and the national dress are preserved as far as possible, and in their interest in these things poor and rich are alike. A lecturer who was seeking to borrow for purposes of illustration a woman's cloak of the Polish national pattern, asked for such a garment at a Polish shoemaker's shop which she visited, and soon afterwards received an inquiry on the subject from a Polish nobleman living in this country.

The Polish nobles, indeed, are often engaged in the hardest kind of labor in the land of their adoption. A few are employed as linguists in this city and in the departments at Washington.

Ottawa, April 25—Mr. Justice Armour will leave for England the first week in May to enter upon his duties as a member of the Alaska tribunal.

Dying by Slow Degrees

Although not always aware of it, thousands die by slow degrees of catarrh. It first attacks the nose or throat, then the lungs, and finally spreads all through the system. Catarrhozone is the only remedy that will immediately prevent the spread of this awful disease. Every breath from the inhaler kills thousands of germs, clears the throat and nose, aids expectoration, and relieves the pain across the eyes. Catarrhozone eradicates every vestige of catarrh from the system, and is highly recommended also for Bronchitis, Asthma, Deafness and Lung Trouble. Price $1.00; trial size 25cts., all druggists. THE IRISH PARTY

Its Strength Lies in Unity and the Government's Weakness

Dublin, April 27—Under more auspicious circumstances than at any time in former years, the Irish party meets for organization in London. Its strength lies not only in its own unity, but also in the weakened condition of the Ministerial party. There is almost no doubt that the Government could not withstand an attack from the Nationalists.

EXPELLED FROM GERMANY

Their Religion is Incompatible with the Laws of the Country

Berlin, April 27—The Governments of Prussia and the Grand Duchy of Mecklinburg have decided to expel the Mormon missionaries, of whom there are 145 in Germany and 90 in Prussia, on the ground that they are propagating a form of religious incompatible with the laws of the State and public morals, and because polygamy is not excluded from their doctrines. The missionaries, who are all Americans, will be allowed sufficent time to settle up their personal affairs.

AUSTRIA GROWING NERVOUS

Urged to Obtain a Colony in Which Her Sons May Settle

London, April 27—The officials of Austria are growing nervous over the increased emigration from Austria-especially to Canada. Last year 48,000 Austrians emigrated and a large proportion went to the Dominion. The Social Economic Committee of the Austrian Reichrath presented a report to the Government, urging that Austria acquire, by treaty, territories to which emigrants can be diverted and still be kept by Austria.

LION AND THE BEAR ARE NOT FRIENDLY

Russia Looks Askance on Britain's Efforts to Keep Her in Bounds

SHE WANTS AN EXPANSION

This Britain will not Allow—The Action of the Balfour Ministry

St. Petersburg, April 27—Russian opinion is intensely irritated by England's patent policy of preparation to resist the expansion of the Czar's Empire. This feeling is fully shared in official quarters, where it has become especially acute, as the result of the attitude of the Balfour Cabinet with regard to the Bagdad Railway. England's first deep offence against Russian susceptibilities was the recent conclusion of the war alliance with Japan, plainly aimed at Russian ambitions in China. This was followed immediately afterward by extraordinary measures on the part of Great Britain to erect barriers against Rus[illegible] Persia.

Now comes the third distinct offence of the same kind—England's undisguised attempt either to prevent the construction of the Bagdad Railway or so to lodge the enterprise about that Russian participation will be rendered impossible.

In this manner the British Ministry is all the time crying "Halt" to Russia on the far east, the middle east and the near east. The Muscovite naturally considers this policy an audacious project to stereotype his Empire within its present limits.

That the British really believe such an undertaking feasible is regarded in St. Petersburg as an established fact, and the Government is planning naval and military arrangements on an unprecedented scale. This policy is an official secret hermetically sealed, but it is easy to surmise that its attitude is not one of acquiescence. The least apprehensive observers, therefore, cannot pretend that the relations of the two countries are on a safe footing.

PROF. GOLDWIN SMITH ON INDEPENDENCE

Canada Would be Safe Enough as an Independent Nation

U.S. WOULD PROTECT US

The Letter an Answer to British Critics Who Say Canada Should Contribute to Empire

London, April 27—Mr. Golwin Smith in writing to the Manchester Guardian, helps to put a damper on the outcry against Canada, in which both the Radical and the Conservative press seem inclined to join, because of the refusal of Canada to contribute to the Imperial armament.

Golwin Smith says: "By herself Canada would be safe enough not only because America herself would never aggress upon Canadian independence, but also because she would not permit a European invasion. It has been shown the sacrifices Canada has made for the Imperial connection. If more are wanted let the British Government say plainly how much, and on what terms. Is she to be a mere military Satrap or have a voice in the councils of peace and war?"

These plain questions from a friend of annexation is calculated to make English critics pause.

NO PREFERENCE NOW

Abolition of British Grain Tax Shuts the Door

London, April 27—The British budget speech has passed without a sign from the British Ministers, in response to Hon. Mr. Fielding's threat to withdraw the Canadian preference. Instead, the Rt. Hon. Mr. Ritchie deliberately abolishes the wheat and flour tax, the exemption of the colonies from which, was in the Canadian Minister's mind at the colonial conference. Mr. Ritchie's only thought is for the British consumer, who is most jealous of any taxation on the necessaries of life. The colonies never, seemingly, enter his mind in this connection.

This reversion of a pure free-trade in cereals, seems to shut the door of hope for a preferential inter-Imperial tariff, as the outcome of the commission on the food supply of Britain.

Carriers Wanted

On account of the rapidly growing circulation of The Times, we are in need of three additional carriers (men preferred). We pay liberal salaries, and require steady and trustworthy help in this department.

CANADIAN SURTAX IS HURTING GERMANY

It Seriously Affects Beet Root Sugar Industry

ADVICE OF GERMAN PRESS

A Radical Leader Advises Moderation to the German Government in Reprisals

London, April 25. Berlin telegrams say that the best producing Agrarians in East German industrial circles are very uneasy at the prospect of a German Canadian tariff war. Only a few days ago says one Dantzig firm, the steamer Theodorville left Dantzig for Canada, with 4400 tons of sugar. This was to have been followed shortly by two additional cargoes of the same amount. In fact, if the Canadian surtax is enforced, it will inflict incalculable damage on the German sugar industry.

Herr Eugen Richter, the Radical [illegible] the German Government to abstain from doubling the general tariff against Canada, and enforcing a 20 per cent. ad valorem duty on non-dutiable articles, against countries subjecting German goods to a differential treatment.

On the other hand protectionist corporations of German industry advocate the utmost rigor, in the hope of blocking British Imperial tariff co-operation.

ABOLITION OF THE DUTY ON CORN

Some Ministerials are Not Pleased with Action of Imperial Government

LIBERALS PLEASED

Graphic Says England Will not Impose Fresh Taxation for Benefit of Colonies

London, April 27—Many Ministerialists are angry with the Government for the abolition of the corn duty, seeing it promised a broadening basis for taxation upon inter-Imperial lines.

The Times suggests that it is a mere electioneering move, designed to appease the electorate in view of the Government's by-election defeats.

Liberal journals welcome the abolition of the tax as taking the country away from what the Chronicle calls "a slippery slope which might have led to protection."

The Graphic suggests that the abolition is partly due to the refusal of the colonies to look at Mr. Chamberlain's proposal of free trade within the Empire, and adds: "This will destroy the dangerous colonial illusion that England will impose fresh taxation upon the home people in order to give special advantages to colonial producers."

Prohibition in Ontario

The Pioneer, edited by Ald. F. S. Spence, contains an interesting article this week, dealing with the question of prohibition in Ontario. The article is in part: "For many years temperance legislation in Ontario has been at a standstill. Our license law has been patched and varied, sometimes in the interests of the temperance cause, and sometimes in the interests of the liquor traffic, until it has become a mass of inconsistency and redundancy, that, as a piece of legislation, is defective and absurd."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Japan and Russia Must Figh

Tokio, Japan, April 27—Russia's manifest determination to convert its temporary hold on Manchuria into permanent possession is the subject of excited comment in the Japanese press. The active preparations for hostilities that are openly going on in the Muscovite centres have convinced the countries that if Japan wishes to stay Russian absorption of Chinese territory, it must be prepared to fight.

IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT

May Revolutionize the Iron and Steel Industry

St. Paul, April 25—An experiment that may revolutionize the iron and steel industry of the country was successfully made this afternoon at the plant of the Valley Iron Works in this city. Titanic ore, of which there are billions of tons in Northern Minnesota, was smeltered in an ordinary cupola and turned into pig iron which polished up like steel, and which, according to those interested in the experiment, is better than the finest Bessemer steel.

The Evils of Constipation

This dangerous condition causes sick headache, abdominal pains, piles, and in severe cases insanity and apoplexy. The most agreeable and satisfactory remedy is Ferrozone, which makes the bowels so well ordered that natural and unassisted action is established. It is mild and certain in action and never causes distress or inconvenience, and may be taken as long as required. Pains in the stomach and intestines, piles, biliousness and headache disappear at once when Ferrozone is used. Recommended and sold by Druggists, price 50c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

AT ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

A Happy Couple Start Married Life with Bright Prospects

It is with the utmost pleasure that we announce to our readers of the marriage of Miss Lillie Conroy, daughter of Mr. Patrick Conroy, to Mr. T. Garvey, of Douro, at St. Peter's cathedral at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning.

The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Eva Conroy, while Mr. John Garvey attended upon the groom.

The Rev. Dr. O'Brien performed the ceremony, after which the wedding party breakfasted at the home of the bride, amid much joy and congratulations.

Very many beautiful and costly presents decked the tables of the bride's home.

The young couple will reside in Douro, and if they have as much prosperity and happiness as The Times wishes, they will have no reason to complain in the evening of life.

ODDFELLOWS AT CHURCH

Annual Sermon Preached at St. Paul's Church by Rev. J. A. Wilson

The Oddfellows of Peterborough and vicinity attended divine service yesterday evening at St. Paul's church, in a body, to commemorate the eighty-fourth anniversary of the institution of the Order on this continent. The brethren met at the lodge rooms at 6.15 p.m., and marched to the church. Rev. J. A. Wilson, B.A., preached an interesting and eloquent sermon.

PRINCE OF WALES TO ACT

London, April 25—The appointment of the Prince of Wales as president of the royal commission which is to represent Great Britain at the St. Louis Exposition will be made at the special request of King Edward, who thought he could thus best demonstrate his personal interests in the exhibition and his cordiality toward America generally. John Redmond was invited to be one of the two Irish members of the commission, but his many engagements necessitated a declination.

ANOTHER EUROPEAN WAR CLOUD RISES IN THE HORIZON

Russia will Fight to Hold Manchuria

JAPANESE WAR SHIPS ORDERED OUT

Japan Confident that Britain will Help Her

London, April 27—The action of Russia in demanding that China sign an agreement, practically ceding to her the sovereignty of Manchuria, and excluding other nations from that country is causing considerable uneasiness throughout Europe. Under the treaty recently made between Great Britain and Japan, the integrity of China is guaranteed, and it is therefore apparent that no such condition of affairs as now proposed can be permitted.

Yokohama, April 27—Three Japanese warships have been ordered to New Chwang. Marquis Ito had held a secret conference of the leading Japanese statesmen. The Russian demands for privileges in Manchuria have excited the Japanese press, which insists on vigorous action, confident that the United States as well as Great Britain will support Japan. An arrangement has been reached by which the political crisis has been averted, but the Government's naval increment proposals remain unchanged.

JAPAN WANTS WAR.

London, April 27—A London Daily Mail despatch from Tokio says that Russia is asking for privileges in Manchuria as a reward for the evacuation of a section of the country. The Japanese press is insisting on vigorous action, expressing the opinion that Japan could be confident of the support of Britain. A secret conference of statesmen, including Marquis Ito, was held yesterday. Three more warships have been ordered to New Chwang.

MIKADO'S EMPIRE AROUED.

Tokio, April 24. Russia's demand that China practically cede to it the sovereignty of Manchuria has roused all Japan. The insincerity of the statement made by Plancon, Russian Charge d'Affaires, to the effect that no further steps will be taken for the evacuation of Manchuria until the new agreement is signed, has exasperated the Imperial statesmen. Russia, after various excuses for retaining possession of New Chwang according to its treaty agreements, now throws off all disguise and boldly announces its intention to hold Manchuria at all hazards.

Vigorous action is urged on the Imperial Government by a large section of the press. It is pointed out that the Russian demand that no new ports or towns be opened in Manchuria is a direct hit at United States, that country having proposed the opening of Mukden and Taku Shan.

It is significant of the feeling with which Japanese statesmen regard the action of the Russian Government that a secret conference of the leading statesmen of the country, irrespective of political creed, was held this morning at Kyoto. Marquis Ito the former head of the Government, was present. It is confidently expected that Great Britain and the United States will support Japan in any well considered action calculated to put an end to Muscovite designs on Manchuria. In navy circles there is great rejoicing over the fact that three warships have been despatched to New Chwang. It is thought that the Government will now experience little opposition to its plans for the increase of the navy.

London, April 25—Berlin telegrams say that the best producing Agrarians in East German industrial circles are very uneasy at the prospect of a German Canadian tariff war. Only a few days ago says one Dantzig firm, the steamer Theodorville left Dantzig for Canada, with 4400 tons of sugar. This was to have been followed shortly by two additional cargoes of the same amount. In fact, if the Canadian surtax is enforced, it will inflict incalculable damage on the German sugar industry.

Herr Eugen Richter, the Radical leader, gravely admonishes the German government to abstain from doubling the general tariff against Canada and enforcing a 20 per cent. ad valorem duty on non-dutiable articles, against countries subjecting German goods to differential treatment.

On the other hand protectionist corporations of German industry advocate the utmost rigor, in the hope of blocking British Imperial tariff co-operation.

OUR GERMAN TRADE

In view of the fact that the Government has increased the duty on goods from Germany, these figures will be read with interest:

Imports from Germany into Canada for home consumption for the fiscal year ending June 30:

1896	$5,931,459
1897	6,493,368
1898	5,584,014
1899	7,393,456
1900	8,383,498
1901	7,021,405

These imports it is believed have been substantially all of German origin.

Total exports of Canada to Germany during the fiscal year ending June 30:

1896	$757,531
1897	1,054,432
1898	1,837,448
1899	2,219,569
1900	1,715,903
1901	2,141,552

A portion of these exports was not Canadian, but merely passed through Canada in transit. The following extent shows more accurately to what extent Germany is a buyer of Canadian goods:

Exports of the products of Canada to Germany during the fiscal years ending June 30:

1896	$606,919
1897	764,589
1898	1,419,098
1899	1,210,373
1900	1,128,163
1901	1,274,616

This evidence shows that the trade [illegible] is very largely in favor of Germany, the purchases from that country being more than five times greater than Germany's purchase from Canada.

NEW CURE FOR HAY FEVER

A remedy for "hay fever" is announced from Hamburg, the discovery of Prof. W. Dunbar, native of St. Paul, Minn., now head of a hospital in Germany. Prof. Dunbar says that the disease is caused by the pollens of gramineae (grasses). Rye pollens for example, contain a substance which dissolves in the blood and acts on hay fever patients as a specific violent poison. Dr. Dunbar's cure is a toxine, made of serum taken from rabbits. It is obtained by innoculating these animals with poison extracted from pollens of various kinds of grasses. The method of using the cure is a simple one. The patient remains indoors from six to eight weeks, with closed windows, during which he is treated with the serum.

Prof. Dunbar, who is himself a hay fever victim, made his discovery while travelling from Hamburg to Berlin on a railway train with open windows. Passing through a rye field he was attacked by the disease, but when he closed the windows the irritation at once decreased. Following up this chance discovery further he found that by keeping his windows closed his sickness gradually disappeared.

Prof. Dunbar now says that the hay fever bacillus does not multiply in the body of the patient. The serum also has no effect on the healthy body, but only on those who are afflicted with hay fever.

The bacteriologist of the New York Health Department, Dr. Biggs, when apprised of Prof. Dunbar's discovery, said that the method of treatment proposed was entirely new to him, and he thought, to the majority of scientists on this side of the water. He did not know of any experiments of the kind being carried on in America.

PROGRESS IN MEDICINE

Sir James Grant, banqueted by the Ottawa doctors on the completion of fifty years in the practice of medicine, referred to the great advances in medical science during his lifetime, including the discoveries of Bright and Addison, the improvement of surgery by Syme and Schopert, the introduction of the principle of anæsthesia by Simpson, the germ theory as advanced by Pasteur and worked up by Lister, etc. Sir William Jenner established an almost world-wide reputation by his investigations with reference to typhoid, supposing that fever sprang from ulceration of the bowels. But Prof. Osler, of John Hopkins University, and a Canadian, has thrown great light upon the whole subject, and his researches show that Jenner's idea is not tenable, and that typhoid fever, as regards its origin, rests on a much wider basis. A most important advance is that with regard to X-rays and its utilization not only in the investigation and advance of surgical conditions and diseases of the system, but also its application in the treatment of cancer. Dr. Grant anticipates that other important discoveries will be made during the next quarter of a century, which will prove of vast service to humanity and add to the term of human life.

A FATAL ACCIDENT

Two Young Boys Step in Front of a Railway Train

Brockville, April 25—Two boys named Fred. and Roland Lane, 12 and 15 years, respectively, sons of Wm. Lane, residing five miles from Prescott, on the Front road, were struck about 11.15 this morning by the Grand Trunk limited train three miles west of [illegible]

They were walking home from Prescott and stepped out of the way of an east bound freight in front of the limited. The engineer of the latter was unable to stop to avoid the accident. Roland was killed outright while his brother Fred sustained serious injuries. His recovery is doubtful. Both were brought to Brockville Fred being removed to the hospital for treatment. An inquest will be held over the body of the deceased brother.

A Woman's Friend

It's Because Ferrozone Brings Good Health That It Brings Good Looks and is Counted an Invaluable Friend by Millions of Women on this Account

Many women look old and lose their beauty, not through age, but through disease, ill health and suffering.

If you don't feel your best, of course you won't look your best and as long as your blood remains impure, your nerves unsteady, don't expect to feel tip-top.

If you have no appetite, poor digestion, are bilious and constipated, your skin will be sallow and pimply with an unnatural pallor about the cheeks.

Women without number who have suffered the mortification of this run down condition, have made themselves healthy and well by taking Ferrozone. It is a wonderful remedy for the blood and nerves and brings good looks because it brings good health.

Take Ferrozone for your beauty. It is a wonderful restorative, and strengthener for weak women, purifies and enriches the blood, and sends it circulating to all parts of the body. Then it builds up muscle and tissue puts on fat and makes the action of the heart regular and strong.

Nothing can possibly do you so much lasting good as Ferrozone. It will enable you to go through life with pleasure and assurance, free from sickness and worry. We are quite sure you need Ferrozone, and know it will do you immeasurable good.

DIVISION COURT CLERK'S AND BAILIFF'S FEES

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The division court is sometimes misnamed as the poor man's court; but those who are compelled to resort thereto to collect small claims often find that it is a most expensive court, the fees therein being much larger in the aggregate than the county court. One of the blights that affect the division and some of the other courts of the province is the fee system, whereby clerks and bailiffs, instead of being paid a fixed salary, are paid by fees, and they themselves are the judge and jury of what their fees should be; the result of which is that though tariffs are fixed by the high court judges to govern fees in these courts, the clerks and bailiffs who live up to this code are the exceptions and not the rule. The legal profession knows that such a state of extortion exists, and they have tried and tried again to have the jurisdiction of the police magistrate extended to such matters as may be disposed of in a division court, but without effect. In England you can summon a debtor before a magistrate and it only costs you a shilling and you can get judgment, etc. the same as you can in the division court here. I have had occasion to ascertain lately just what fees clerks and bailiffs are entitled to, and for the information of any of your readers who may have suffered as I did, I subjoin the following as the results of my searches.

Clerks fees—Receiving claim, 15 cents; issuing summons, where claim does not exceed $20, 40 cents, exceeds $20 but does not exceed $60, 50 cents, exceeds $60 but does not exceed $100 60 cents, exceeds $100, $1; each copy of summons, 25 cents; receiving and entering bailiff's return, 15 cents; jury fee, 3 cents; affidavit of service 20 cents; notice of defence, 15 cents, postage additional; subpoena, 25 cents; copies, 5 cents each; taxation fee, 25 cents; judgment, 50 cents; affidavit of disbursements, 25 cents; taking confession of judgment, 10 cents; entering final judgment, where claim not disputed, 60 cents, summons for jury, $1.25; calling jury, etc., 25 cents; every order of judge, 25 cents; transcript of judgment, 25 cents; writ of execution, 50 cents. These are the common ordinary fees in every day suits. In attachments, etc., the clerk is allowed additional fees.

Bailiff's fees—Service of summons, where claim does not exceed $20, 30 cents, over $20 and under $60, 40 cents over $60 and under $100, 50 cents, over $100 75 cents, return 15 cents; mileage 12 cents a mile; calling parties at trial 15 cents; service of summons on witness or juryman 15 cents; enforcing every warrant of execution or attachment or against the body or summons in replevin, each 50 cents, where claim does not exceed $20, exceeds $20 but does not exceed $60 75 cents, exceeds $60, $1, mileage thereon 12 cents a mile; every schedule of property seized, attached or replevied, not exceeding $60 50 cents, exceeding $60, 75 cents, also reasonable allowances and disbursements necessarily incurred removing property, etc. If execution or attachment be satisfied after seizure, whether by action of parties or otherwise the bailiff gets 5 per cent. of the amount levied or value of property seized.

[illegible] charges of a certain division court sold an unfortunate debtor's household furniture, which cost him $150, for the paltry sum of $44, he had charged for his services as such bailiff $15.45. I had him brought before the police magistrate, who found that the bailiff had charged $9.75 too much, and, as provided by the Ontario statutes, the magistrates fined the bailiff $29.25, being three times the amount of overcharges, which amount was payable to the debtor. I have no doubt that many more unfortunate debtors have suffered in a similar way; to all such I would say you have your remedy in the police court, or by laying a complaint before the division court judge.

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Now in Eastern Canada realize the great progress this Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Hastam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over [illegible] acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advance this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the [illegible] cially chosen lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees, and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto' Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 109 London Street.

STOCK MARKETS

CLOSING WEEK'S OCCURRENCES PROMISE WELL FOR FUTURE

New York, April 25—The second week of recovery in the stock market today draws to a close. The dogged strength pervading the entire security list and the manner in which profit-taking sales of courageous buyers at low prices have been absorbed promises well for the future. A sustained advance averaging five points and in isolated instances equalling ten points after the long and tedious liquidation period is a fair showing. It is self evident that the small volume of stock offering at the advanced figures, that the vast bulk of stock sold at low figures, found lodgment with investors and people willing to hand on to it. Comparatively but a small amount was evidently taken by speculators for a turn. Like most commission houses, at the low prices we found the stocks we were carrying for clients greatly reduced in volume. This is a most excellent indication as a rule, when, after a long period of continuous decline, the sales of commission houses for clients are greatly in preponderance of their purchases. The market has made bottom prices when clients hold what they have and continue to buy in excess of their sales the market usually goes lower. The former condition of affairs was the case two weeks ago, at the low prices. We anticipate continued improvement in prices, inasmuch as on the advance of the past two weeks customers have not added to their holdings, but if anything, decreased them furthermore. Orders to buy stocks outright by investors continue in good volume, which is a most favorable indication. We have no doubt but what recessions will be comparatively frequent, yet we believe the trend of prices will be upwards. We consequently advise buying whenever prices are inclined to be the least bit spotty and heavy. Money is rapidly relaxing; outside business indications are at present of the very best; the great Wall Street interests are committed to the side of advancing prices. We see no reason at the moment to change our views of the situation expressed daily the past two weeks in these letters.

Summary—Irregularity characterized today's opening prices, which were lower as a rule, and while activity was general there was no inclination to start a selling movement. Pressure was brought to bear against Metropolitan and its course undoubtedly had an unsettling effect upon the entire list. The trading in Mex. issues was as prominent as yesterday, and was the chief feature of the day. Closing prices averaged lower than last night, and in view of the fact that the financial sky is absolutely without a cloud. We fail to see why stocks should not be bought on present concessions without hesitation. Money closed 3 per cent. Total sales, 224,100.

THEY PROCLAIM THE MERITS

To the World of Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—That the world may know of the merits of Dr. Clarke's wonderful Little Red Pills, I ask the newspapers to publish the following: I was, for years, a martyr to stomach trouble, and had no hope whatever of being cured; but on seeing a testimonial from a friend in Ontario, in one of the Toronto papers, I resolved to write to her and found that she had actually been cured of the same trouble by Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills. I at once bought three boxes and took them according to directions, and they almost cured me. I purchased three more boxes, and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured. I have no splitting headaches now, no burning pain in my stomach; in fact, have a new lease of life.

MRS. JAMES HUNTER,
Miami, Man.

A Remarkable Offer.

Sir,—We make the following proposal to readers of The Times. To any one who is a subject of rheumatism, (no matter how long standing), or any blood disease, enumerated below, and will give Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills a fair trial, and are not fully and completely cured, we will refund the money paid for the pills. If no good results follow, we will forfeit $10 cash.

We have yet to know of a single case where this wonderful medicine has not been almost entirely successful in the work of relieving suffering humanity.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $500 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

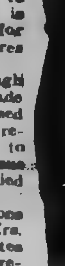
Lung Trouble

Promptly relieved and permanently cured by inhaling Catarrhozone

Mrs. Bay Brown of Tenecape, N.S., was cured by Catarrhozone of lung trouble and eats as after hundreds of other remedies failed



If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Coughs, Catarrh and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but after resorting without benefit to ~~[illegible]~~ other remedies, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler the local symptoms such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets which are taken after each meal, purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

A local branch of the International Builders Laborers' Union has been organized, with the following officers:

President—Thos. Golden.
Vice-President—J. W. Thorndyke.
Treasurer—Geo. Powell.
Secretary—Wm. Curtis.
Sergeant at arms—Robt. Drury.

Changed Hands

The photograph studio formerly belonging to Mr. Byres has been purchased by Mr. L. A. Turner, of Uxbridge, who has had the premises renovated, remodelled and equipped with all the instruments, scenery and accessories known to the trade. The operating room, especially, has been enlarged and rearranged so as to better meet the requirements of an up-to-date studio. The Times is glad to welcome Mr. Turner to town, and bespeaks for him a liberal share of patronage.

—Mr. Comstock, our enterprising furniture dealer, is erecting a new storehouse, 24 feet by 40 feet, two storeys high, also a drive house, 20 feet by 26 feet, on his lot near the creek, on King street.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

Will Open at the Court House To-morrow Morning

Hon. Mr. Justice Street will Preside—There are Four Cases to be Heard

The spring sittings of the High Court of Justice will open to-morrow before the Hon. Mr. Justice Street. There are four civil cases, Webb vs. C.G.E., Co, Jory vs Wilson, Christie vs. Christie and Webb vs. Langford. Synopses of the statements of claim are given below:

WEBB VS. C.G.E. CO.

The above case comes for re-trial. The plaintiff is Andrew Henry Webb, who claims $2,000 damages on account of an accident on the defendant Co's premises, and which was caused, he alleges, by the negligence of defendants; J. Green, plaintiff's solicitor; Dennistoun, Peck & Stevenson, defendant's solicitor.

JORY VS. WILSON.

Plaintiff, Thomas Edward Jory is a farmer residing on the west half of lot 21, con. 5, Douro, and the defendant is John Wilson, a farmer on an adjacent lot. The case arises out of an alleged alienation of affections of plaintiff's wife by defendant and damages for $4,500 are claimed, as well as $200 for trespass. This case was adjourned from last assizes. O. A. Langley, Lakefield, solicitor for plaintiff; Stratton & Hall for defendants.

CHRISTIE VS. CHRISTIE.

Plaintiff, Wm. Christie is an Asphodel farmer and the co-plaintiff, Margaret Christie, is his wife, while the defendant, William Christie, is plaintiff's son. The claim is for a declaration that a deed and lease of property in the second concession of Asphodel, alleged to have been fraudulently obtained by defendant in November and December last is improvident and void and to have it delivered up to be cancelled.

Defendant denies allegations of fraudulent action on his part and sets forth that the deed and lease referred to were both read over and explained to said plaintiffs before execution and delivery of same, in the presence of witnesses, and plaintiffs both stated that they were well aware of what they were doing, and also stated that defendants should have the farm after their death and that he was best entitled to it.

Daniel O'Connor, solicitor for plaintiffs; L. F. Clarry, Hastings, solicitor for defendant.

WEBB VS. LANGFORD.

The plaintiff, Edward Webb, is a workman residing in Peterborough, the defendant, Wm. Langford, is a contractor of the same town, the plaintiff claims $500 damages as the result of injuries received in an accident while working for defendant on Brock st. rink last November. Plaintiff sets forth that the accident was the result of negligence of defendant and the foremen and superintendent.

Defendant sets forth that the accident was caused by plaintiff's negligence and that he might have avoided it by the exercise of reasonable care. In the alternative defendant says injury to plaintiff was caused by unavoidable accident, and not by negligence of either plaintiff or defendant and submits that the action be dismissed with costs.

D. O'Connell, plaintiffs' solicitor; DrVernet, Ferguson & Jones, defendants' solicitor.

A Good Life Ended

Again it is our sad duty to chronicle the death of one of Otonabee's best residents, in the person of Miss Jane C. Short, of Allandale, which sad event occurred at her late home on Friday afternoon. The deceased was a daughter of the late Richard Short, so long and favorably known to the oldest residents of East Peterborough. Miss Short was in her 63rd year, and was much respected by a large circle of friends. She leaves behind her three sisters at the old homestead, and one brother in Keene. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 3 p.m. to the Keene cemetery.

FLASH OF LIGHT

The Coffee Facts Came to Her

Coffee is so often unsuspected in the work it does in the human body that illustrations of this kind are interesting.

A lady in West Townsend, Mass., says; I did not begin drinking coffee until I was an adult. Not very long after I commenced I began to to have headaches and a dull, heavy, stupid feeling. These symptoms grew worse until I was ill, but I had no suspicion that coffee was the cause of the trouble.

"I could not get up any strength, and after dragging around half sick for some time I was sent off on a visit to see if the change would do me good. I soon began to feel better and at the end of three weeks was perfectly well again.

"Before leaving I had a long talk with my friend as to the cause of my getting better. I had taken no medicine of any kind and the food was about the same as at home, the coffee was particularly rich, strong and palatable. I complimented her on the coffee and asked what kind she used. She told me 'Postum,' which I absolutely could not believe. I had enjoyed it so much, and it agreed with me so perfectly, but I always had an idea that Postum Food Coffee was a flat-tasting, insipid drink and was only used by people who could not drink the old fashioned coffee.

"My friend said she had been using it for two years because when she drank the old fashioned coffee it kept her sick half the time. Then it dawned on me like a flash of light that the old fashioned coffee was the cause of my trouble and sickness and that leaving it off and using Postum for three weeks had made me well.

"When I went home I told mother of the change. She saw how round and fat I had grown, and said 'You can have Postum at home, we have a package in the house that I tried once but it tasted so flat that I went back to the ordinary coffee.' So I said "Let me make it; [illegible] said it must be boiled at least 15 or 20 minutes after the boiling begins and if we can make it as good as she does you will be astonished at it.'

"Well she was astonished and from that time to this we have left the old fashioned coffee off the table and used Postum altogether. Mother is better, my headaches and sick feelings have never returned. There is no doubt but that coffee is a poison to us and that Postum is the cause of our comfort and health." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

A SAD DEATH

A Young Bride Called Away Sunday Afternoon

It seldom falls to the lot of The Times to record so sad an occurence as that which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hamilton, 495 Aylmer street, at five o'clock last evening, when their only child, Pearl, was called away, death being due to heart failure, which was the result of an attack of la grippe, contracted about a week ago.

The deceased was born in Fenelon Falls 20 years ago, but has resided in Peterborough nearly all her life, where she was well known and highly respected by every one who had the privilege to make her acquaintance. She was united in marriage to Mr. James Hards, of town, only twenty days ago.

The husband and parents are naturally overwhelmed with grief over the untimely death of a beautiful, accomplished young wife and a dearly beloved daughter. We join with very many warm friends in kindest sympathy.

Rev. J. C. Spear and Mr. Edwin Spear, of Toronto, uncles of the deceased, arrived on the mid-night train last night to attend the obsequies.

Fenelon Falls Owns a Water Power

The corporation of Fenelon Falls is now owner, of a water power, a roller flour mill and electric light plant, the citizens on Monday last having carried a by-law to raise $75,000 for the purchase of Brandon & McDougall's interests in the mill and power. The firm controlled 140 h.p., and will receive $30,000 for their possessions. Under the agreement they will pay the village $1,200 per annum rent for the flour mill while they occupy it, the Council being at liberty to secure a better paying tenant if possible. It is proposed to erect a power station at an estimated cost of $25,000 and offer electrical energy at a cheap rate in order to induce outside industries to locate there. The vote shows that citizens were eager supporters of the ambitious proposition, the tally being 121 yeas to 30 nays.

"Love lightens labor," the saying runs, and in a sense it is true. But even love cannot lighten labor or make it easy for the woman who is in constant suffering from inflammation, bearing-down pains or other womanly diseases. The one thing that can make work easy for women is sound health, and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the thing that will give sound health to sick women. It cures womanly diseases which cause weakness, and cures the backache, sideache, nervousness and other ills which are the result of womanly diseases.

"I suffered from female weakness for five months," writes Miss Belle Hedrick, of Nye, Putnam Co., W. Va. "I was treated by a good physician but he never seemed to do me any good. I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which I received, telling me to take his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' When I had used the medicines a month, my health was much improved. It has continued to improve until now I can work at almost all kinds of housework. I had scarcely any appetite, but it is all right now. Have gained several pounds in weight. Dr. Pierce's medicines have done wonderfully well here. I would advise all who suffer from chronic diseases to write to Dr. Pierce."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Fine Hackney Horse

The handsome and typical hackney stallion, whose beautiful form and high stepping exhibitions have been frequently noticed on our streets the past two weeks, has been purchased by Messrs. J. F. Stapler & Co., Cavan. We bespeak for these gentleman a liberal patronage, as we think there has been a longfelt want in this district for a horse of this class. THE GAMEY PROSECUTION HAS CONCLUDED INVESTIGATION OF CASE

THE DEFENCE WILL GO INTO THE DEPOSIT SLIP QUESTION—MRS. FRANK SULLIVAN CALLED BY THE PROSECUTION YESTERDAY

Attempt to Show That Geo. B. Wilson was Sent Out of the Country by the Defence.

LEAVITT READY TO GO INTO BOX, EVIDENCE EXCLUDED

Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Frank Sullivan Give Their Evidence—Testimony of Davis was Not Admissible

Toronto, April 27.—The prosecution in the Gamey case concluded before three o'clock this afternoon with the evidence of Mrs. Frank Sullivan, the last witness to be called by Mr. Blake and his colleagues. On account of the noontide funeral of Mr. Justice Lount, this morning's session was a short one, and was entirely devoted to an effort to show that George B. Wilson, father of Mrs. Frank Sullivan was sent out of the country on Good Friday by the accused parties in the case. The judges excluded the evidence of a Rochester witness, who, Mr. Ritchie intimated, was prepared to swear that Wilson confessed to him that he was to receive $500 for staying in the United States, and Frank Sullivan $5,000 for swearing the matter through. Beyond some exceptional circumstances, nothing was elicited on this count.

Mr. Johnston announced that no efforts had as yet been made to serve the editors of the Mail and Empire, and the World, but they would be summoned to appear later.

The prosecution have not yet abandoned the hope that something may be found in the Ontario Bank books bearing on the case. With the bank's consent, and to save the time of counsel, an expert appointed by the court will go through the books and report on any item which requires explanation.

George B. Wilson, Frank Sullivan's father-in-law, was recalled at the opening of the court this morning. He admitted that he was in Rochester on Friday, April 10, and met a stranger on Main street, whom he asked to direct him to the National Hotel. He denied having said to the stranger, (Mr. Davis) that they were having a big time in Ontario; that a member of the Government named Stratton had bought a Tory named Gamey, and that his son-in-law, Frank Sullivan, had had a share in it.

"Did you tell him that your son-in-law was to get $5,000 for swearing the thing through, and that you were to get $500 for keeping out of the way?"

"Never."

"Did you say that your wife had the agreement that you were to get $500 and that if you did not get it you would expose the whole conspiracy?"

"Never."

Witness denied having made similar remarks to a Rochester man named Palmer, who was staying at the same hotel.

Confronted with Archie C. Davis, of Rochester, Mr. Wilson admitted having met him in Rochester, but denied having talked with him on the subject of this case.

Mr. Ritchie, K.C., called Mr. Davis, but the Chancellor excluded the testimony on the ground that Mr. Wilson having been called for the prosecution, and having given entirely negative testimony, could not be discredited. Mr. Ritchie pointed out that the chief object in calling Wilson had been to show that he had been spirited away by interested parties.

Mrs. Geo. B. Wilson, a pretty old lady of kindly appearance, was next called. She stated that she had gone as far as Buffalo with her husband on the day before Good Friday. On the evening of Wednesday, April 8th, her daughter, Mrs Sullivan, arrived, and announced "We'll take a trip to Buffalo," and that she had arranged for a conveyance to take them to the cars next day. Her visit was unexpected, but sometime previously she had talked about having a trip on Good Friday. She swore that she also gave her daughter the money to buy her ticket. She spent but four hours in Buffalo, coming home on the next train, leaving her daughter and Mr. Wilson there. She had not the slightest idea when they would return. She received a letter from her husband a few days later.

"Where is it?" said Mr. Ritchie.

"I guess it was burned; we always burn our letters," said Mrs. Wilson.

During her brief stay in Buffalo Frank Sullivan unexpectedly turned up at the Arlington Hotel in that city. She had not heard he was coming, and did not know why he came. This makes three trips within ten days Sullivan made to the United States to see his wife's relations.

Asked why there had been so much difficulty in serving her with a subpoena, she said she had of late been visiting from place to place. She stated that when she left her husband at Buffalo she gave him $15, agreed to supply him with what other money he needed, and told him to stay away a month if he liked. She gave her son-in-law $25 to send to her husband. Counsel pointed out that her husband had sworn he only got $5, and Mrs. Wilson testified that as her husband was nervous by nature, she told Frank to let him have it in small instalments.

Mrs. Wilson denied that she had been given an agreement at Buffalo that her husband was to get $500 for staying out of the way, and also that in the letter her husband wrote he threatened to come home and expose the whole conspiracy if he did not get some more money. Asked again about the letter, she said that after her fifteen-year-old daughter, Libby, had read it, she put it in the stove.

"She always burns letters," added Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Frank Sullivan, the youthful stylish wife of one of the principals in the case, was the next witness. Her husband stood steadily looking her in the eye for the first few moments until ordered by the Chancellor to take a seat over at the other side of the court room. She said that her mother was mistaken in stating that the trip to Buffalo was unexpected; it had been discussed many times previously. Her testimony was not concluded when the judges rose at 11.30 a.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon's session of the Gamey Commission, Mrs. Frank Sullivan was again on the stand, and swore that she was to see her mother on Sunday, April 5, and came down

Mrs. Sullivan Admits That She Went to Newmarket Several Times During Holy Week to See Her Mother

DENIES THAT SHE RECEIVED $500 FOR A CHRISTMAS BOX

Mrs. Sullivan Says Her Mother's Memory was Bad, and That Frank Knew Nothing of Buffalo Trip to Toronto on Wednesday, April 8, and went back the same night to make arrangements for the visit to Buffalo.

Mr. Ritchie had pointed out that her mother had sworn that she had not seen her daughter for ten days, or two weeks, when she came on April 8 with the announcement of the trip.

Mrs. Sullivan said her mother's memory was bad. She admitted she had made three trips to Newmarket during Holy Week. She testified also that the Buffalo journey had been a constant subject of conversation.

At this time Frank Sullivan was in Sudbury or North Bay, and was in complete ignorance of the project to go to Buffalo. She thought he spent Sunday, April 5 with her at Newmarket, and on Monday went to North Bay. So far as she remembered, no discussion took place about the Buffalo trip while he was there, and he went away in blissful ignorance of it.

It was the original intention that both her moter and herself should come back from Buffalo on the same day, but she decided to stay over night. Frank arrived at Buffalo about 3 o'clock Good Friday afternoon and it was a great surprise to her. She was looking out of the parlor window of the Arlington Hotel, and saw him boarding a car. She opened the window and called to him. He told her he had arrived in Toronto from North Bay that morning; had seen his brother, Charles Sullivan, learned that they had gone to Buffalo, and had gone straight thither.

She denied that she had received $500 from Frank as a Christmas gift and said her bank account was too small to talk about. She admitted that the name she went by with the family was Hattie, but denied having sent the following telegram, the original copy of which was produced:

Toronto, April 18.
Geo. B. Wilson, National Hotel, Rochester;
Will be to see you to-night.
Hattie.

Mr. Ritchie asked her to write out the same message in her own writing as an exhibit. The text was not similar. She admitted that Frank went to Rochester that day. This closed the case for the prosecution.

The defence first wanted the Ontario Bank officials in connection with the disappearance of the deposit slip, which entailed delay.

A SAD ACCIDENT

Wm. Bell Had His Skull Fractured While Working at Cereal Co's Dam

Shortly after one o'clock yesterday a very serious accident occurred at the Cereal Company's new dam. Mr. Wm. Bell, a married man, 38 years of age, who resides on Water street, was engaged in shovelling under the derrick which is used for the purpose of hoisting stones, when, in some manner the hook was wrenched from the arm, and the unsupported arm fell, striking Mr. Bell just above the forehead and fracturing his skull.

Drs. Gray and Young were summoned and the unfortunate man was removed to the Nicholls Hospital in the ambulance. Grave hopes of his recovery are entertained by his physicians.

Paine's Celery Compound

The Life Saving Spring Medicine.

Paine's Celery Compound is more talked of in the springtime in each province, city and town of our Dominion, than any other medicine now before the public. It has a place in the homes of the wealthy, influential and intellectual; it is the disease banisher that has the entire confidence of our men and women who toil daily in workshops, stores, offices and homes. When the first warning symptoms of physical weakness and disease are experienced, wise and prudent men and women invariably seek vitality, health and strength in nature's health builder. If the reader of this article finds it difficult to obtain restful sleep, if nervousness and weakness cause alarm, if the blood is impure and sluggish, if rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney and liver troubles are commencing to annoy, follow the examples of thousands who have made themselves well by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. G. W. Parks, of Inglisville, N.S., writes thus:

"I was taken sick, which compelled me to abandon my work and seek home and rest. I consulted the doctors, who said I was suffering from typhoid or slow fever. I suffered severely from night sweats, and cold chills during the day. I was nervous, weak, and reduced in flesh until I was a mere skeleton. My wife and friends began to despair of my recovery, as the medicines I took produced no good, and I was gradually growing worse. Through the influence of Rev. Mr. Tyler I was induced to give Paine's Celery Compound a trial, and it truly worked wonders. Five bottles completely cured me, I gained 32 pounds in weeks, and am now strong and healthy."

THE IMMIGRATION PROBLEM

The Bishop of Saskatchewan Talks to the Press in Toronto

Toronto, Ont., April 27—The Bishop of Saskatchewan, in an interview here, commented upon the great wave of immigration that is sweeping into the west. His Lordship was most emphatic in his protest against settlements being founded which were confined to the people of only one nationality.

"No matter what the race or class of people is," were his words, "I don't think it is good for Canada that particular places should be alloted to them. When people of any race are kept together, they cannot do otherwise than perpetuate their language customs and national features. And that is not good for Canada. What we want rather, is for the national feelings and characteristics of all immigrants into the Dominion to be dissipated and a strong Canadian national settlement to take their places and in my opinion the policy at present pursued in settling immigrants is most antagonistic to that."

London, April 28—It is said here that the visit to London of President Loubet, of France, has been fixed for July.

IRISH IMMIGRATION STILL KEEPING UP IN HIGH FIGURES

Over Forty Thousand Leave in 1902

RUSH CONTINUES

Canada Now Getting Her Share of These People

London, April 28—A Government paper has just been issued containing the Irish immigration returns for 1902. The number of natives who left the island last year shows an increase of 577 on the previous year; and their total, 40,190, is very nearly 1 per cent. of the Irish population. If Englishmen emigrated in a similar proportion Great Britain would have lost about 300,000 in the 12 months, but the parallel is not adequate because it leaves out of account the maintenance of the rate annually for over half a century. In the past fifty years the annual figure has only seven times been below that of last year, and more than once it has been over four times as high. The enormous mass of the emigrants still go to the United States; beside the 36,623 bound thither, and 732 for Canada, the 406 for Australia, and the 74 for New Zealand, look insignificant. Indeed the only important destination besides the United States is Great Britain herself, who, besides attracting seasonal laborers, harvesters and similar birds of passage, received nearly five thousand Irishmen last year as permanent settlers — about half of them in Scotland. Connaught's percentage of exile is thrice that of Ulster, and between five and six times that of Leinster; Munster's is between four and five times that of Leinster. The counties with the worst rates are Mayo, Roscommon, Kerry, Galway and Cork. Among the emigrants over fifteen years of age 82 per cent. of the men were classed as "laborers," and 80 per cent of the women as "servants."

Completely Fagged Out

The world is full of sickly, despondent, tired, enervated people, all hoping to be well some day. The surest road to health isn't long, the way of taking Ferrozone after meals. Ferrozone is a great appetizer and enables one to eat plenty of wholesome food without fear of indigestion or dyspepsia. This results in the rapid formation of an abundance of red, vitalizing blood, which will restore the nerves, increase flesh and vigor, and nourish and feed every organ of the body. Ferrozone is an ideal restorative and invigorant. It is a tonic of unequalled merit that any one can use with benefit. Price 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50 at Druggists, or N. C. HE TRUSTED HIS FRIEND

Romantic Story, a Venture and an Immense Fortune

Chicago, April 28— A remarkable story concerning the fortunes of two Ontario boys, both formerly of Collingwood, on Georgian Bay, but one of them now a successful contractor in Chicago, and the other a mining man in British Columbia, has come to light. Last August Mark F. Madden, Marquette Building, received a telegram from Charles J. McArthur, of Greenwood, B.C., requesting the immediate loan of $5,000 with no security but his friend's word of honor. Mr. Madden recalled that as a boy McArthur had been a stickler for honor, and he resolved to take the chance.

He sent his friend the money, and in answer to requests went to British Columbia, where he found McArthur had a chance of some mining property which promised to lead to fortune. A company was organized. Madden elected president and the mine secured. The mine paid 10 per cent. dividend last month and Madden has seen his $5,000 grow into $100,000. Thus boyhood's friendship and faith in a friend's honor has had a big reward. Though they had early separated, McArthur to follow mining wherein he made and lost several fortunes, and Madden to come to Chicago, they had not forgotten one another, and now they are united in a venture which is making their fortune.

THE DISASTER IN SOMALILAND

Thousands of Wavering Tribesmen May Gather Around Mad Mullah's Standard

EFFECT WILL BE BAD

Further News Anxiously Awaited in England

London, April 27.—Further news from Somaliland is awaited with considerable anxiety. There appears to be little doubt that the remainder of Col. Cobbe's column will be rescued, but it is evident on the other hand, that the British advance is, for the moment, at a standstill. The news of the Mad Mullah's exploit will travel far and wide, and no doubt thousands of hesitating clansmen will be attracted to his standard. The invaders will once more be supposed to have been forced to retreat before the arms of this Somali Kalifa, and much of the work of the past few months will have to be done over again, with the result that the end of this arduous campaign is still postponed to a somewhat distant date.

IT WAS IN AMBUSH.

The official despatch from Aden describes the British disaster as an ambush, and represents the Mullah's army as being 10,000 strong. Col. Plunkett's men, with the exception of the officers and two orderlies, were all Sikhs, Yaos, and Somalis. Col. Plunkett had an intimate acquaintance with the country and its inhabitants, having been in Somaliland since the operations began in 1901. He trained the Yaos and Somalis who formed the King's African Rifles, and brought them to a high state of efficiency. The Yaos and Somalis, like most North Africans, are fine fighters, and the manner in which they acquitted themselves at Cumburru was what was to have been expected from their their own grit and Col. Plunkett's discipline.

The fight occurred in Italian Somaliland, not a great distance from the Abyssinian border. An Abyssinian force of from 5,000 to 10,000 men, to which two British officers are attached, lately occupied a position southwest of the scene of the operations to cut off a possible retreat of the Mullah, but they were not supposed to be co-operating actively with the British expedition.

General Manning has advanced from Obbia, and the abandonment of that place as a base, precludes his retiring eastward if a retreat is necessary. He must, therefore, fight his way north, or the British co-operating column, whose base is at Berbera, and its advanced base, must force its way to support him in case of need. General Manning's column now numbers about 2,000 men. Nothing has been heard of it since it advanced to assist Colonel Cobbe, who is likely in a tight position.

Aden, Arabia, April 28.—Brigadier-General Manning, after an engagement with the Mad Mullah's forces, has relieved Colonel Cobbe, near Gumburru, Somaliland, 45 milesward from Galadi. About two thousand of the Mullah's men were killed. The British loss is not known.

Aden, April 28.—The few details obtainable of the reverse to Colonel Plunkett's detachment April 17 show that the Mullah's forces consisted of 2,000 horsemen and 10,000 spearmen. They surrounded Col. Plunkett's force in the open, and the Somalis, after a heavy rifle fire, charged repeatedly with their horsemen and spearmen on all sides.

The British detachment held out until its ammunition was exhausted, and then charged with the bayonet, but it was ultimately overwhelmed by weight of numbers. The British force fought until all its officers and 170 men were killed. Most of the handful of men who reached the camp were wounded. The Somalis' losses are reported to have been enormous. The Mullah's forces are reported to aggregate from 2,000 to 4,000 mounted men and about 80,000 spearmen.

NEW PIANO COMPANY

The Stanley Piano Company has Been Reorganized and Fully Equipped

The Martin & Stanley Piano Company, of Toronto, Limited, with a capital of $40,000, has received incorporation. The new company will take over from Mr. R. R. Hall, assignee of the Stanley Piano Company, of Peterborough, all the stock, assets and leasehold of the company, which carried on business here. The incorporators are Owain Martin, Edith Maud Stanley and Margaret Martin, C. B. Nasmith and R. E. Earl, all of Toronto.

It will be pleasing news to our many readers to know that the works here are again in partial operation, and will be going full blast as soon as help can be obtained.

ENGINEER WAS KILLED

Train Plows Into Debris on Track near Sudbury

Ottawa, April 27.—The Winnipeg east-bound train was delayed 12 hours by an accident about two miles east of Sudbury, at Markstay Station. A landslide piled debris on the track. The engine plowed into it, and was wrecked with two cars. Engineer Barnhart, of North Bay, was killed.

SMITH'S FALLS STRIKE

Frost and Wood Employes Return to Work on the Company's Terms

Smith's Falls, April 27—The strike of the Metal Workers in the Frost & Wood shops was declared off. The men went out a month ago on a demand of $1.44 per day, time and a half for piece work, a written agreement with the company and recognition of the union. The Frost & Wood Co. offered them $1.40 for day work, but refused any advance on piece work rates and also refused to sign an agreement or recognize the union. Last night the men decided to accept the company's offer and this morning the strike was declared off. The laborers struck for a twenty per cent. increase on $1.20 per day and recognition of the union. The company offered them $1.30 and $1.35 per day, but refused recognition of the union. They have also been out a month, but it is expected they will return on the company's terms, which are considered fair.

TURKEY HAS A POWERFUL ARMY

Preparing for the Great War which is Close at Hand

BEST FIGHTING MACHINE IN EUROPE

A Turkish Colonel says he could Put his Regiment on War Footing in 15 Minutes

London, April 28— The Pall Mall Gazette contains the following:— Discussing the other day with a cultured and well-informed Russian the possible outcome of an armed struggle in Eastern Europe, I listened with interest to a calm and dispassionate opinion as to the prospect of success awaiting his country in the event of a second war with the Turkish Empire. He did not hesitate to say that his recent experience of the Turkish, as well as his personal knowledge of the Russian army forced him to the conclusion that it would be a very grave question if the latter could hope to emerge with success from a struggle with the resuscitated military power of the Ottoman Empire in 1903.

Let it be remembered that in the war of '77 Russia only succeeded after tremendous exertions and would have been rolled back, broken and defeated, from Plevna had it not been for the timely assistance of Roumania, whom in certain eventualities she might not improbably find ranged against her today. For the shifting of international politics, and the birth of fresh interests in the East have brought unexpected support to the Sultan during the last twenty-five years. But politics apart, it is the intrinsic worth of the Turkish army itself as a fighting machine which might well give pause to thoughts of aggression. Perhaps the most noteworthy and interesting fact about the Turkish military power is that instead of declining after the war with Russia, which robbed the Empire of extensive provinces, the Ottoman military array has steadily increased in power and efficiency to an extent which few could ever have anticipated.

The Sick Man, in fact, is by no means as sick as he has been represented or, at any rate, is fast recovering of his malady. At the outbreak of the war with Greece, there was except in well-informed circles, a general but very mistaken impression that the Turkish army was antiquated in its methods and deficient in organising power. The fallacy of such a creed was speedily revealed when in the spring of 1897 the Sultan, without any effort, mobilized a large force of 60 000 men, with abundant supplies, stores, and munitions of war of every description from the high-power Krupp guns to small arms and ammunition, and well-equipped hospital arrangements.

The last available figures set the strength of the Turkish army in peace time at about [illegible] men, something like 25,000 of these being officers. On a war footing its numbers amount to 800,000. During the last five years fresh laws and reforms affecting the army have been introduced, which are adding enormously to its strength, and it is quite probable that in case of necessity the Sultan could at the present moment send into line of battle an armed strength of a million and a half of men.

Germany is perhaps, if anything, more nearly interested than any other power in the preservation of peace in the Near East at the present moment, and her influence at Constantinople will do much to secure the proper restraint of the Turkish soldiery, in spite of the provocation to which they are constantly exposed in the area of disaffection. But of war there need be no danger if Europe does its duty by convincing the Macedonian people that they have nothing to gain by deliberate rebellion in place of awaiting a peaceful and lawful reform. Nevertheless, the news form the East is serious, in view of what undoubtedly happened before the Armenian massacres.

A TEMPLE OF PEACE

The Latest Gift of Andrew Carnegie is an International Library

Washington, April 27—Andrew Carnegie has offered $1,500,000 to the Government of the Netherlands for the establishment at The Hague of an international library and Temple of Peace. The offer was made through Baron Grovers, the Minister from the Netherlands to the United States. It is Mr. Carnegie's idea to have erected a building in which will be maintained an international library, and in which the aribtration tribunal can hold its sessions.

All the diplomatic exchanges on the subject have taken place. Formal announcement of Mr. Carnegie's gift and its acceptance will be made in a few days.

A portion of the donation will be set apart for meeting the necessary expenses in keeping the Temple of Peace in repair.

Inflamed Nose and Throat

And such diseases of the respiratory organs as Bronchitis, Weak Lungs, Cold in the Head and Nasal Catarrh are treated with marvelous success on strictly scientific principles by Catarrhozone. The medicated vapor of Catarrhozone quickly traverses every air passage possible to be reached by any treatment. All soreness, pain, congestion and inflammation are at once dispelled, and by means of the healing powers of Catarrhozone the vitiated tissues are quickly restored. Where Catarrhozone is used colds only last ten minutes, coughs half an hour, and Catarrh, Consumption, Asthma and Bronchitis flee as from fire. A trial will convince anyone of the startling merit of Catarrhozone. Costs $1.00; small size 25c. At Druggists, or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ADJOURNED VESTRY MEETING

Of St. John's Church—Reports of the Several Societies—Affairs of the Church in a Very Satisfactory Condition

St. John's adjourned Vestry meeting was held in the school house last night, the Rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, in the chair.

Miss Mink reported a very successful year for the Mission Band, of which she is secretary. This society of little folk spent $19.21 in mission work during the year closing at Easter.

Mrs. P. Campbell, secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary, submitted a very satisfactory report. During the year just closed, the receipts for this organization were $262.19, against an expenditure of $245.43, leaving a balance on hand of $16.76.

Miss Rogers, secretary of the King's Daughters, reported the total receipts for the past year to have been $111.25, and the expenditure $78.45, leaving a balance on hand of $32.80.

The work of the Girls' Guild was reported on by Miss Dawson, its secretary. The total receipts were $284.13, and the expenditure $227.08, leaving a balance of $57.05. The Rector [illegible] having been the means of raising the money with which to pay for the splendid piano now in use in the school house. But $12 indebtedness remains on this instrument, which this Guild expects to raise in the very near future.

The Rector complimented the choir on its present high standard of efficiency, and especially Mr. Hollingshead for his indefatigable work in in this branch of the church work.

Mr. H. Rush reported that the Sunday school is in a very satisfactory condition, and has a balance in the bank of $190.

Mr. E. Brown submitted the financial statement of the Chancel Guild as follows: Balance from Easter, 1902, $26.04, receipts since that time $45.40. Total receipts $71.44, payments $27.44, balance on hand $27.44.

The following gentlemen were appointed sidesmen: Messrs. H. Rush, Dr. Burnham, H. D. Burnett, A. H. Stratton, Jas. Mills, R. H. Kells, E. M. Poussette, R. Fair.

The following gentlemen were appointed ushers: Messrs. Macfarlane Wilson, J. C. Johnston, C. H. J. Mitchell, J. Cocks, H. Rush, jr., E. Loeb, W. Salisbury, Jas. Ball, W. E. Conway, H. Long, W. H. Cavanagh, C. Graham, Jas. Ball, W. H. Walkey, jr.

Dr. Boucher submitted the report of the Finance committee, recommending that the salary of the choir master be increased $50, the organist's salary increased $50, and that $300 per annum, dating from May 1st, be allowed for the necessary expenses of the choir. Also that an increased allowance for rental of the Rector's residence be made from $120 to $200. The report was adopted as read.

Mr. H. Long moved, seconded by Mr. R. Fair,—That the corner of Sheridan and Brock streets be selected as the site on which to build the new rectory, subject to arrangements being made for payments of ground rent.—Carried.

Mr. W. H. Walkey was reappointed Vestry Clerk for the ensuing year.

On motion of Mr. Kerr, seconded by Mr. Rush a vote of warm appreciation of the highly satisfactory work done by the sexton, Mr. Butcher was unanimously carried.

Messrs. Elliott, Rush, Long, Dennistoun, Hughes-Charles, Conway and Fair were appointed an Advisory committee.

Messrs. Hollingshead, Morphet, Lount, Cluxton, and Kerr were appointed an Envelope committee.

Messrs. Lount and Hollingshead were reappointed auditors.

THE GAMEY TRIAL

The people of Ontario have themselves to blame in a large measure for the peculiar condition of electoral corruption into which a large portion of the electorate has fallen.

"If righteousness exalteth a nation," as our good friends are so fond of preaching, then unrighteousness disgraces a nation, and this has not been taken sufficiently to heart.

That sterling manliness and proud spiritedness, which characterizes the usually upright man, has gradually died away and left the sensibilities of the people dulled, as if by absinthe or some other deleterious mixture. If, however, the virus of partyism is in- [illegible] with it. Perhaps, after all, we people of Ontario are not really above the condition into which we have fallen, for it is a well known fact that a candidate whose stock-in-trade is uprighteous would have no chance against a candidate whose stock-in-trade was at its last, check. After all, it may be truly said that the non-voting class are the real authors of our present infirmities.

GERMANY'S NEXT MOVE

Germany, in searching about for some retaliation against Canada's surtax, is gradually arriving at an appreciation of her helplessness. There is no effective counterstroke that can be aimed at Canada, consequently the German papers are commencing to discuss the advisability of abrogating the favored nation clause as against Great Britain itself. Some such action was to be expected, and, if it is taken, Great Britain will be put on the defensive. As already pointed out, it will then be a question to decide whether Great Britain considers the Canadian preference of sufficient value to warrant her in entering upon a retaliatory fight with Germany, or if she will back down and ask Canada to rescind the preference, and so get rid of the whole trouble. If, on the contrary, Britain resents German interference in the trade relations with the colonies, it will be in order to proceed with the strengthening of these relations as a means of counteracting Germany's retaliatory measures. And Chamberlain is more likely to adopt the latter course than to advise any submission to German trade aggression.

THE IRISH PARTY

Its Strength Lies in Unity and the Government's Weakness

Dublin, April 27—Under more auspicious circumstances than at any time in former years, the Irish party meets for organization in London. Its strength lies not only in its own unity, but also in the weakened condition of the Ministerial party. There is almost no doubt that the Government could not withstand an attack from the Nationalists.

OUR LETTER-BOX

NOTE—The Times does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.

NAMES SINGLE TAX VIRTUES

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The single tax would remove taxation entirely and forever from all labor, and from all products and processes of labor, such taxation being morally wrong, and economically unwise. It is wrong and unwise in that the state forcibly takes from a man that which is rightfully his own—an act which, when perpetrated by an individual is punished either as larceny or robbery. It is wrong and unwise because it cannot possibly be maintained without the greatest discriminations, falsehoods, deceptions, and the corruption of public morals. I have at hand a mass of facts and figures going to prove this proposition but cannot use them in this article for lack of space.

The single tax would, without ejecting anybody from the ground already owned, or disturbing existing titles, raise the necessary public revenue by the only proper, natural and just process thus far known to the world, which is by taxing land values irrespective of improvements. With the single tax in practical operation men would no longer be fined because they are not lazy, punished because they are not vagabonds, poll-taxed because they are not dead, nor robbed because they are not robbers.

Under the single tax, the man with the key to nature's storehouse in his pocket would be compelled to either unlock the storehouse and give the locked-out people access to natural resources, or pay the community for the privilege of keeping the storehouse closed.

Under the single tax monopoly could never again snatch the last loaf of hard-earned bread from the skeleton hand of poverty. Nor would the "half-a-loaf-is-better-than-no-bread" insult be flaunted in the face of labor by monopoly's well paid agents and subsidized political tools. The fact would ere long become apparent that if the "half-loaf" policy must be kept up, as a reminiscence of industrial slavery, monopoly itself must learn the noble art of nibbling a divided crust, while honest industry, three times a day, can have a chance to eat a good, square meal.

Under the single tax, competition would no longer be a bugbear in the eyes of anybody, but would be a producer of wealth, a promoter of prosperity, a source of individual happiness.

Under the single tax all would have equally free access to nature's opportunities, class legislation would become obsolete and special privileges be wiped out.

"Owners" of land would either become land users or cease to be land owners, for the holding of land out of use being no longer profitable, nobody would care to hold it as an elephant. Improvements would multiply, labor be in better demand, wages increased and an era of prosperity, such as was never before witnessed, would bless and cheer the toiling millions, who are now in the clutches of monopoly.

The necessary public revenue in every state, county and municipality would be drawn from those who use natural opportunities for private gain while no needless burden would be placed on industry and no man discouraged by law from doing good to himself and to the world.

These things we claim, and we will never relinquish our demand for a practical test until such a test has been made and the theory proved to be a failure.

VERITAS.

Hobbled Six Years

Cured in Six Weeks of Chronic Rheumatism By Ferrozone

Hundreds, aye, thousands of cures have been put on the market for Rheumatism during the past few years, but a remedy with power to cure Chronic Rheumatism, Ferrozone excepted, in the estimation of Mr. Cullen, of Sturgeon Bay, does not exist.

Mr. Cullen says: "As everyone knows I have been simply tortured for years with Muscular Rheumatism, not the ordinary kind that bothers most people, but the kind that ties one up so that they can't move.

"For six years I hobbled about like a cripple, unable to move without crutches and canes. I used quantities of medicines, special baths and so forth, but they didn't help me very much.

"On the advice of a Presbyterian minister I used Ferrozone, gave it a good trial at first, and when I saw it was helping, I bought six boxes and took one tablet at the close of each meal. I am perfectly cured and am today as spry as a youngster of ten. I am convinced that my recovery is entirely due to the marvellous action of Ferrozone."

Mr. Cullen's case is a fair example of the kind of cures that Ferrozone is effecting every day. In severe cases of Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, and Lumbago, it acts with surprising alacrity, and no case is recorded where it failed.

Ferrozone cures these diseases because it is a solvent for uric acid in the blood. It removes all traces of it and other poisons from the blood in from two to ten days. Then it builds up and invigorates the system, and makes weak, sickly people strong and well enough to resist and ward off disease.

The best Rheumatism remedy that one can buy is Ferrozone. It relieves quickly and cures so perfectly that the disease never again returns. After all other remedies fail, it cures, and that is the sort of medicine you want. Ferrozone price 50c. per box, or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to you address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

And of Interest to the Ladies of Peterboro and Elsewhere

An interesting case on the division Court involving the nice point whether a silk dress was a good fit, was decided by Judge Morson, says the Montreal Star. Miss Kennedy, a milliner, bought a dress from Mrs. Rae, a Yonge street dressmaker, for $40 but refused to pay for it, claiming many defects in the workmanship. His Honor listened to the opinions of many witnesses on both sides of the dispute, but at length adjourned the case to have the dress tried on before a disinterested dressmaker. This was done, and the last witness in the case reported to the judge that the dress was a good fit, and a remarkably good piece of work at the price. Judge Morson gave judgment against Miss Kennedy for $49 and costs.

NO PREFERENCE NOW

Abolition of British Grain Tax Shuts the Door

London, April 27—The British budget speech has passed without a sign from the British Ministers, in response to Hon. Mr. Fielding's threat to withdraw the Canadian preference. Instead, the Rt. Hon. Mr. Ritchie deliberately abolishes the wheat and flour tax, the exemption of the colonies from which, was in the Canadian Minister's mind at the colonial conferences. Mr. Ritchie's only thought is for the British consumer, who is most jealous of any taxation on the necessaries of life. The colonies never, seemingly, enter his mind in this connection.

This reversion of a pure free-trade in cereals, seems to shut the door of hope for a preferential inter-Imperial tariff, as the outcome of the commission on the food supply of Britain.

IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT

May Revolutionize the Iron and Steel Industry

St. Paul, April 25—An experiment that may revolutionize the iron and steel industry of the country was successfully made this afternoon at the plant of the Valley Iron Works in this city. Titanic ore, of which there are billions of tons in Northern Minnesota, was smeltered in an ordinary cupola and turned into pig iron which polished up like steel, and which, according to those interested in the experiment, is better than the finest Bessemer steel.

An Unintentional Pun

The difficulties of learning and using a new language are many, and the unfortunate Norwegian in this story from Kansas must have felt that his own efforts were particularly unsuccessful.

A druggist was obliged to be absent from his store one day, and his wife took his place. A large Norwegian, who spoke English with difficulty, entered and said:

"Hi owe de firm fifty cents."

"Very well," replied the druggist's wife; "just pay it to me and it will be all right."

"Hi owe da firm fifty cents."

"Yes, I understand. If you are afraid, I will give you a receipt for it."

The man looked at her in astonishment, and walked out without a word. Pretty soon he returned with a fellow-countryman, whose command of English was a little better, and who interpreted his friend's remark by explaining, "He wants fifty cents' worth of iodoform."

Never Finished.

A certain lady, who has the reputation of being anything but good tempered, recently said to her husband: "Well, I'll own I'm cross occasionally, and you often upset me; but if I had to live my life over again I'm quite sure I should marry you just the same, dear." "Humph!" responded her husband, in an absent-minded manner, "I'm not quite so sure about that——" But the rest of the speech was lost to the world.

MALT BREAKFAST FOOD

A Banisher of Indigestion

Malt Breakfast Food possesses special and very important advantages over all other breakfast foods. While it has become the chosen breakfast dish of hale and strong people, keeping digestion perfect and brain clear, it has become the popular food with the thousands who suffer from dyspepsia and indigestion. Dyspeptic subjects find Malt Breakfast Food an infallible cure for their stomach troubles. Weak stomachs relish the popular health food; it is easily digested; soothes the weary, and inflamed organs, and furnishes true nourishment for the building of flesh, bone, and muscle. Malt Breakfast Food is a true banisher of all digestive troubles. Dyspeptics are urged to give Malt Breakfast Food a month's trial; it will give them happy and lasting results. All Grocers sell Malt Breakfast Food.

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress this Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 616,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Haslam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 3.0,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 5.0 000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the [illegible] Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 300,000 acres of specially chosen lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of its risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto' Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 209 London Street.

AUSTRIA GROWING NERVOUS

Urged to Obtain a Colony in Which Her Sons May Settle

London, April 27—The officials of Austria are growing nervous over the increased emigration from Austria-especially to Canada. Last year 46,000 Austrians emigrated and a large proportion went to the Dominion. The Social Economic Committee of the Austrian Reichrath presented a report to the Government, urging that Austria acquire, by treaty, territories to which emigrants can be diverted and still be kept by Austria.

BURIED GOLD

BY

FRED WHISHAW

Author of "A Boyar of the Terrible," etc.

"This 'ere business comes out better nor what we expected a day or two ago, don't it," murmured the other. "Half a dozen boxes of it, and hid in the skipper's cabin! This is a bit of hi-diddle-y-i, this is."

The boxes were brought safely ashore and piled together under tarpaulin.

Foster noted the fact that his crew took much interest in the pile. The stores and water barrels were carefully put out of harm's way and a survey of the island was forthwith made by the captain and crew en masse.

Here again Providence was kind indeed. The island was without population, somewhat hilly, but thickly wooded; the soil apparently fertile. Cocoanuts and bananas grew in plenty. There was fresh water in abundance—the place seemed a little Paradise—and the men, coming as they did out of a five days' sojourn in the valley of the shadow, fell now into the wildest spirits.

Skipper Jake Foster called a council of his mates and three or four of the foremost men. He pointed out—what was obvious to all—that Providence had treated them well indeed. "Think what might have been and what is," he said. "Here we are on dry land and with stores enough to last us a year or near; more, we've soil here, hundreds of acres, which we can plant with Indian corn and wheat from the ship's cargo; we've the poultry, what's left of the stock, which can be penned and left to breed; and there's fish in the creeks and seabirds and their eggs for the asking. They may not find us here for a year or two, for we're well out of the beaten track: but damme if I care whether they find us or no, for if you want my opinion we're not so badly off here but what we might be very much worse."

This seemed to be the general opinion of those consulted.

"We can't get away whether we'd like to or no," said Dick Robinson, "so we've got to stay. As for me, I'd rather go home if I could. However, we sha'n't starve here, and if we don't quarrel I suppose we shall be all right for a bit."

"The rifles and ammunition are in my keeping and will remain so," said Jake Foster. "I suppose I shall remain boss, being skipper; if so, I shall expect you all to support me and be a kind of parliament to keep order, and so on."

It was obvious that some kind of government of this sort would be necessary, and it was agreed that the captain and mates retaining their positions, the rest of the crew should elect a parliament of six among themselves to support the officers. This must be done as soon as comfortable arrangements should have been made for the temporary sheltering of the party.

With this object all hands were presently busily engaged in running up tents and sheds, using woodwork from the ship, broken spars, torn sailcloth and tarpaulin.

By nighttime things looked shipshape; there was shelter for all; the poultry were clucking and digging in their own allotment, delighted with the immense change for the better in their fortunes. The skipper and his two mates were accommodated with a tent to themselves, and within this sanctuary were piled the six boxes, the entire crew watching the process with an interest which they desired to make as obvious as possible. There was another long case containing rifles and a couple of chests of ammunition. These were placed, like the others, in the skipper's tent.

A few days later, when matters were looking more settled, and the men had had time to think things out a little, a deputation from the crew waited upon the skipper and requested a conversation on matters of business. Foster received them in his tent.

Bob Evans, the bosun, led the deputation, which came in a perfectly friendly spirit, as he assured the skipper, and with the object of rendering matters easier for him, rather than hindering him in any way.

"Some of us," said Evans, "have an idea as to things which we wish to place before you. We seem to be pretty well off, sir, in this 'ere island, and there don't seem to any of us to be any call to be in a particular hurry to leave it."

"That's just as well, bosun," said Foster, laughing; "since we are likely to stay, and it wouldn't make much difference even if we was in a tearin' hurry to go."

"That's true, sir; but it's best to have a regular scheme or plan, if I may say so, as to what we're going to do even if someone was to come and offer to take us off."

"Why, in that case I suppose we should go, naturally, shouldn't we?" said Foster, somewhat surprised.

The bosun's reply astonished him still more.

"That would depend, sir," said Evans, "very considerable upon those there boxes in the corner what you've got covered up with tarpaulin. The crew wishes to know, in the first place, what you've got stowed away there, having formed their own opinion by your leave, sir, in the matter."

The skipper flushed a little. "I don't see what harm it can do to tell you, my men," he said. "It's bar gold, and belongs to a bank in London—leastways, it's consigned to them. There's enough there to buy up a small kingdom. What do the men want to know for?"

"Well, sir, it's like this. Not knowing the exact law, we ain't certain, so to say, where we are. But it seems to us that being cast away as we are, in other words wrecked, this 'ere gold—we guessed it was treasure of sorts, or you wouldn't have been so darned careful of it—is found-money, having been wrecked as well as us, and the ship gone to the bottom or goin' there in an hour or so. It don't belong to no bank nor yet to anybody else but ourselves—fair divide accordin' to rank. That may not be law, but it's good enough law for us. What we want to know first and foremost is whether you agree that the stuff hasn't got to go back to no banks, always supposing that we go back ourselves when the proper time comes—the rest of the plan hinges on this."

Jake Foster had not looked at the matter in this light, and the proposition startled him.

"Tell me a little more of your plan," he said. "I don't see daylight."

"Well, in two words, sir, it's like this. We don't want to be taken off this island, not for some time to come; it's good enough for us for a year or two. If a ship was to pass to-morrow and offer to take us off, why we wouldn't go. We want to be forgotten a bit. The ship's going to break up—she won't give us away. We didn't sail in the 'Hecuba,' not we. The ship we were wrecked in went by another name, and didn't carry [illegible]. In three years, if someone comes along, we might agree to go, and when we do go each man has his share of the stuff to keep him company; meanwhile it can be buried; and it's to be death to touch it or to leave the island under three years, or to mention the name of that there ship. That's the plan, sir, made short, and we hope you'll help us all to profit by our luck, and that you'll profit yourself like the rest, according to rank."

"Why, man, there's enough of the stuff to make ten crews rich!" said Foster. "Why shouldn't we take the first opportunity to get home, either taking the swag with us or leaving it buried, and make an arrangement with the owners to go halves supposing we produce the money. Half this little lot would give us each more'n we could spend in six lives."

The bosun scratched his head and then solemnly shook it. "Too much risk," he said. "They might refuse to divide. I reckon we should prefer the other way; what d'you say, mates?"

"I say," said one of the men with an oath, "that when the skipper talks of owners he's talking of what don't exist. Soon as the stuff's wrecked there ain't no owners; it's the property of them as finds it, and that's us. If that ain't law it ought to be, and it's good enough law for us."

"That's how we intend to work it, skipper," said another man. "We wish to deal fair and pleasant with you, mind you; but we ain't under your orders, you'll remember, now we're wrecked; our contracts being null and void. Howsomdever, when you're agreed to this 'ere little matter what the bosun has explained and the main point settled between us, you'll find there won't be no friction, and you shall boss the show as before."

The skipper reflected.

"Well, it isn't a matter for us two or three to decide," he said, after a pause. "We must hold a council of all hands

Mont Pelee.

Mr. George Keenan, who went to Martinique on the "Dixie" as correspondent for the "Outlook," has gathered in his book, "The Tragedy of Pelee," the results of his observations in May last. He takes issue in his conclusions with most of the geologists as to the nature and causes of the catastrophe that swept St. Pierre out of existence on May 8. Considerable space is given to an argument to show that the theory of a cloud of inflammable gas issuing from the volcano is unsupported and that what actually occurred was more probably a scorching of the mountainside by a "red-hot hurricane" of superheated steam. The position of the vent that discharged the hot blast could not be definitely determined at the time of this expedition, because the disturbed state of the volcano and the heat of the slope made proper observations out of the question. But from a study of such facts as Mr. Kennan was able to assemble, and from a comparison with descriptions of other volcanic explosions, notably that of the Japanese volcano Bandai-san, in 1888, and that of Tarawera in 1886, he concludes that the discharge which destroyed St. Pierre and its thirty thousand people in less than three minutes had its origin at or near the summit and not from the lower crater where the disturbance began; that the blast was composed of steam and lava dust disintegrated by exploding steam and had practically no inflammable or asphyxiating gases in it; that the inhabitants of St. Pierre and the men killed in the roadstead came to their death by means of the overpowering heat of the onrushing steam and the still hotter dust particles carried in it, or, after being stunned, were burned to death by the fires started in inflammable objects by the volcanic dust.

The growth of dread of the devastating volcano in the minds of the visiting observers makes an interesting record. They arrived on the scene with apparently little other emotion than a lively interest and curiosity. On one occasion when Mr. Kennan and his party were driving toward the smoking Pelee, from which the natives were fleeing in panic-struck silence, carrying their chattels and their little children, one woman exclaimed, "Look at the poor unfortunates—going toward the mountain!" This was the attitude of the native negro. The cultivated residents, like Mr. Clerc who accompanied the party, showed great courage. But their more personal relation to the catastrophe exposed them to greater strain. Mr. Clerc insisted on retreating from low-lying, unprotected spots when an eruption was beginning; and once, while they were prowling among the unrecognizable dead of the country villas in the Roxelane Valley "he broke down in a fit of sobbing and walked away from the party until he could regain his self-control." The visitors caught some of this nervousness before they were done with their work. After this day among the dead, Mr Kennan spent a most uneasy night. The second night after, Pelee broke into an eruption, and the party left Vive for a safer spot, but returned later in the night in their scientific enthusiasm and would not be rescued by their distracted host. The next day Pelee was still violent. Mr. Kennan's fellow-naturalist, overcome with the work of the night, lay ill abed and left him to brood over the yellow mud clouds and black showers of falling dust. He describes his growing anxiety in this manner:

"Before noon I had become so wrought up by anxiety and nervous strain that my imagination began to run away with me, and I suddenly felt a vague but overwhelming premonition of some impending catastrophe. Going to Mr. Jaccaci's bedside, I said to him: 'If you feel able to get up, I wish you would come and look at this volcano.' He walked feebly to the side window in the upper story of the house, gazed fixedly at the volcano for fully a minute, and then said: 'It looks as Vesuvius must have looked five minutes before the destruction of Pompeii. If you want to get out of this, I'm ready to go.' 'I've been wanting to get out of this,' I said, 'for the last four hours. The thing is getting on my nerves. If you and Varian are able to ride I'm in favor of leaving here at once.' We summoned Mr. Chancel, held a volcano council, . . . and started for Acier, leaving Vive to its fate."

The book is a record of perhaps the most appalling disaster, directly referable to a volcano, that has been observed in historic times. The tone is unassuming. Conditions as seen are set down openmindedly and plainly, and the testimony taken from witnesses is carefully analyzed.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralised gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

EXPELLED FROM GERMANY

Their Religion is Incompatible with the Laws of the Country

Berlin, April 27—The Governments of Prussia and the Grand Duchy of Mecklinburg have decided to expel the Mormon missionaries, of whom there are 145 in Germany and 90 in Prussia, on the ground that they are propagating a form of religious incompatible with the laws of the State and public morals, and because polygamy is not excluded from their doctrines. The missionaries, who are all Americans, will be allowed sufficient time to settle up their personal affairs.

THE DOMINION OF WHEAT AND WHEAT CARRIERS

New York, April 26—No class of stocks at present writing have a brighter immediate future than the wheat carriers, the eastern connections running all the way to the Atlantic seaboard will also fill the great impetus given traffic through the overflowing granaries of the west. We are about to harvest the greatest wheat crop on record. Prices for wheat are excellent also and the demand constant and urgent.. The great lines running through Kansas and other great wheat states of the west and northwest will be literally submerged with business.. The trunk lines will have the tonnage to the east and the export trade. R.I., Atch., N.P., U.P., St Paul and kindred lines will be the reapers of the harvest cerated through the movement of this vast crop. They are all doing magnificently at present. This vast crop insures a continuance of these conditions, and will as well enrich the territory served by these roads. This down power wealth will greatly stimulate west bound traffic also, increasing, as it will, the consumption to a remarkable degree affording as it does the wherewithal and ability to pay for the additional goods purchased and consumed. All the stocks we have enumerated are coming far below their recent high water marks. They should all come pretty close to equaling same again this summer.. If they do they splendid purchases at present. During the present week these roads will be more or less the topic of these letters inasmuch as we deem them excellent to buy. Today we append a few remarks appertaining to Missouri Pacific.. The favorable agricultural outlook in its territory directs attention to the companies earning also.. Though primarily a corn carrier it handles an immense quantity of wheat, cotton and oats.. It will this year, more than make up the loss sustained one year ago through corn shortage.. Both road bed and equipment have improved to a remarkable degree. As a result operative cost was temporarily increased.. The work has been finished; now operative cost will decrease enormously.. The road at present ratio of earnings, which are more likely, by the way, to be greater than less, will show net earnings of over $14,000,000 for the entire year.. Net earnings of $12,560.00 were the results of the year 1902. After dividends were paid in 1902 surplus net earnings remaining were over $6,500,000. [illegible] as probable for 1903, net earnings will equal almost 12 per cent. upon the $66,802,875 outstanding stock.. These figures fixed charges same as in 1902 also.. Other income to be received will be the full amount of interest from the Texas Pacific bond allowed by the company.. Only few roads in the country can show equivalent progress with the Mo. P. It sold last summer at 125. it should equal if not excel that price this coming summer..

HAIGHT & FREESE.

Poetic Justice.

A gentleman of an economical turn of mind wished to make a present to a lady. He went into a china shop, says an English exchange, where he happened to notice a valuable vase, which had just been smashed into a dozen pieces. "How much for that?" he enquired of the shopman. "Those pieces, sir?" said the shopman, in surprise. "You can have them for a shilling. It's quite past mending." He paid another sixpence for a box to pack it in, and told the man to send it to the lady's address, hoping that she would take for granted that it had been broken in transit. Unfortunately, however, when the lady came to unpack the box it transpired that the shopman had wrapped each fragment in a separate piece of paper!

Sir Henry Irving's Speeches.

Sir Henry Irving has won a great reputation as an after dinner speaker, but, according to Harry Furniss, his speeches are carefully prepared and printed in very large block type, easily read at a distance. Herein lies the triumph of the actor. These slips are artfully placed on the table, out of sight of the audience; and while one of the speaker's hands rests artistically on his hip, the other toys with a fruit-knife, and with it pages of the speech are turned over as they are read. So perfectly is this acted, so gracefully does the body sway, and so well-timed are the pauses in the speech, that only those seated in close proximity to Sir Henry are aware he is reading his speech.

of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE: BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock for the next 30 days at 10 Cents per Share, after that price will be advanced.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

FIRE IN HAVELOCK

TWO STORES AND A BLACKSMITH SHOP TOTALLY DESTROYED

The Fire Looked as Though It Would Sweep the Village at One Time—But Was Got Under Control

Yesterday afternoon about six o'clock a fire broke out in the dwelling of Mrs. Boyce, grocer, Havelock, who lives over her store. The flames rapidly spread, and the store was soon enveloped. The harness shop of Mr. S. S. Joyce, next door, was also destroyed, as well as the blacksmith shop of Mr. Herb. Williams. The flames became so threatening that it was decided to send for the Peterborough steam engine, but this order was cancelled in half an hour, as the fire was got under control.

The buildings were of wood, and made a hot fire. They were, we learn, partially insured. Mrs. Boyce lost a valuable piano and all her furniture, besides most of her store stock, on which there was no insurance. Mr. Joyce's loss is partially covered by insurance, to the extent of $400. Most of his stock, and also the contents of the blacksmith shop was removed.

The fire was caused by a coal oil can in Mrs. Boyce's dwelling—the oil not being completely turned off. In some way the oil, which was dripping on the floor, ignited from the kitchen fire.

GROGAN AND BARBERS

He Contradicts 'Clancy' on Several Important Points

Why He was Not Competent to Judge in the Matter—Mary Ellen a Success as a Compounder of Pies

"I see by The Toimes," I says to Clancy th' other day, "that th' barbers have bin raisin' th' proice iv hair-cuttin' to twenty cints."

"It's an outrage," says Clancy. 'Not that it'll make anny differince to me' he says. "I niver inther a barber shop unless to burry a match, or mebby take a luk at th' great family journal. No man but me missus has cut me hair iver since we wint into partnership forty-two years ago last Fibry.

"It's not nicissary to tell annywan that yer woife cuts yer hair," I says. "I can tell a wumman's hair cut th' momint I clap me eyes on it. It has certain dishtinctive fatiures that a barber can't approximate.

"Did yer woife niver cut yer hair, Grogan?" he says.

"She did." I says, "wance. Only wance. Wan was a dose. "Mary Ellen." I says, whin I viewed the remains uv me auburn locks in th' lukin'-glass, "Mary Ellen," I says, "as a compounder iv limon poys ye're a pronounced success, and no wan cud foind fault wid th' way ye construct yer doughnuts, but as a tonsorial artist ye're not in it."

"An' from that day to this, whinniver me hair requoires amputatin', I've pathrynoised th' barbers. There was a toime whin me hair was more copious, so to sphake, than it is at prisint. As it kapes on forsakin' me th' way it has bin doin' lately 'twill go hard wid me to whack up twinty cints to have it raymoved. I tink they shud charge accordin' to quantity. 'No hair, no pay.' shud be th' rule.'"

"I tink th' barbers has a snap," says Clancy.

"Oh! I dinnaw." I says. "It's not all gold that glitthers. I had a long talk wid a barber [illegible]

"He was a foine, tall, sad-lukin' chap, wid iron gray hair and short cuffs. He said there was toimes whin he'd jist about as soon be a railroad magnate as a capillary abreviator."

"Us profissional gentlemin has our throubles as well as common payple," he says. "Our office hours is too long to sthart wid. Thin some of our cushtomers has got into th' habit iv jabberin' an' talkin' till th' poor barber hasn't a chance to git a word in idgeways. Now, this is not as it shud be. From toime immimorial th' barbers wur supposed to do all th' talkin', an' it's not just th' square ting that they shud be dayproived iv that privilege. An' another objectionable failture," he says, "is that some iv our patrons will persist in bringin' their breaths wid them. 'Tis a hard troial to operate on a man wid a defunct breath. I don't moind onions. An onion breath may be somewhat vigorous, but ye know what it is. An' even a whiff from a distillery is on th' free list. But th' pinnytratin', dark yellow breath iv th' average cushtomer has no friends among th' barbers. An' that's wan raison we raised th' price."

"Cudn't he shtand back far enough to dodge it?" says Clancy.

"Av he did he cudn't rache his man." I says.

Well, he blathered away about wan t'ing an' another, an' this t'ing an' that, till finally he wanted to sell me a bottle of porcypoine brand formaldehoyde to raymove th' smut from me whiskers. That made me a bit roily, so I borryed a poipeful ov tobaccy from him, an' lift. I'll allow no man to poke fun at me always. GROGAN.

TO-NIGHT'S PARADE

The 57th Regiment to Make Its First March Out from the Drill Shed To-Night

The 57th Regiment, headed by both bands, will parade to-night in full strength. The following will be the route of march: From drill shed to George street, south to Charlotte, west to Aylmer, north to Hunter, east to George, south to Simcoe, east to Water, north to Brock, west to George, north to Murray street, and to drill shed.

No doubt hundreds of our citizens will turn out to witness the parade.

Suing Smallpox Patient for $1,200

Orillia Council has a somewhat peculiar lawsuit on hand just now. Two years ago, during an outbreak of smallpox in that town, a patient named Colin McArthur, while delirious, cut his throat with a razor, and being in danger of bleeding to death, Dr. McDonnell, now deceased, was sent to sew up the wound and care for him. The doctor's fee was $500, and in all a bill of $1200 was charged up against McArthur by the town. This he refused to pay, claiming that had he been properly looked after the accident would not have occurred. In settlement of the town's claim he agreed to pay $120, but this the Council refused, offering to accept $[illegible]. Mr. McArthur said nay, and the case will now go to trial at Barrie.

BIG DRIVE OF LOGS.

The Rathbun Company will Have an Enormous Drive This Year

Mr. Thos. Callahan, of the Rathbun Company, was in town yesterday, and dropped in to see the Times. Mr. Callahan says that his company cut more timber than usual last winter, but are experiencing some difficulty in floating it down the various creeks to deep water.

The largest drive probably in years will pass through Peterborough in August, and will consist of over 100,000 logs. These will be taken to Campbellford and to Deseronto.

RICE LAKE RESORTS

Jubilee Point and Idyl-Wild to be Opened Very Soon

Mr. Dan Foley, the popular manager of Jubilee Point summer hotel, is putting the house and grounds in shape for the coming season, which, it is expected, will be a very brisk one. The [illegible] being re-painted and greatly improved.

Idyl-Wild is also to be put in first class shape. This hotel will be in charge of Mr. W. Hutchinson of town, who will shortly take possession. It is expected that the Rice Lake traffic will boom this year as it never boomed before.

LAID AT REST

A Former Resident of Peterborough Is Brought Back for Burial

The older residents of town will regret to hear of the death of Mrs. George Mills, which occurred on Thursday last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Menzies, of Lindsay.

The deceased lady was in her 68th year, and was at one time well and favorably known in Peterborough. She was on a visit to her daughter when sickness and death overtook her. The remains were brought to town yesterday and interred in the Little Lake cemetery.

She leaves behind two sons, William, of Quincy, Ill., and Isaac, of Pittsburg, and one daughter, Mrs. R. Menzies, of Lindsay.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. C. W. Routley, of Toronto, spent Sunday in town visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Routley.

—Miss Ethel Turner, who has been visiting her mother lately, left for Toronto yesterday morning, on her way to New York.

—Rev. Wm. M. Kannawin, M.A., B.D., late of Omemee, will be inducted into his new charge at Woodville to-day.

—Cobourg Post: Miss Emma Bumbelow has accepted a position in Peterborough, and left for that town on Saturday.

—Alderman Best leaves for the "Soo" to-day to visit his sister, Mrs. Porter, and see after his restaurant. Mr. Best expects to be absent for some weeks.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. LeBrun left for Montreal on Sunday night, where they were called by the serious illness of Mr. LeBrun's father.

—The many friends of Mr. Fred Howson, of the Canadian General Electric Works, will regret to learn that he is confined to his home with an attack of appendicitis.

—Mr. C. B. Stone, who has just completed his final examinations in medicine, and who will get his degree of M.D. next month, is on a flying visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Stone. Mr. Stone leaves for Minnesota to-day, where he will remain one year.

—Mr. Olliver Earle, late manager of Mr. T. [illegible] department, has accepted a responsible position in Mr. J. T. Fairweather's store, in Toronto. He leaves town to-day to assume his new responsibilities, and will be greatly missed by a host of companions and friends, whose good wishes follow him to his new sphere of labors.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Mr. J. T. O'Connell, the reliable real estate man, is doing a rushing business this spring.

—The action of the government in making all canals free, is being hailed with delight by all steamboat men here and elsewhere.

—Mr. R. A. Dutton's new grocery store window is attracting considerable attention on account of its tasty appearance.

—It is probable that several acreage companies will be formed in this vicinity for the purpose of growing sugar beets.

—The steam tug Marie Louise, belonging to the Rathbun Company, was beached at Sturgeon Point on Friday. She is lying in shallow water and will be easily raised.

—Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, yesterday received a large order from a firm in London, England. The Old Country firm is one of the largest of its kind in Great Britain.

—We would like to call the attention of our readers to the splendid display of ready to wear clothing which Mr. Creamman's window contains, being not only a credit to the proprietor but to the town.

—Mr. R. C. Braund's new house on Rubidge street is nearing completion. Mr. Parks is to occupy the west end as a grocery store in a few days.

—Last week Mr. John Boyd, of lot No. 6, concession 9, North Monaghan, lost two valuable sheep and two valuable lambs by being worried by dogs. The dogs were caught in the act and were shot. The owner of the dogs quite readily made good the value of the lambs and sheep.

—Toronto Globe: The C. P. R. train from the east Saturday brought in two badly injured young men. John Hepner, aged 22, fell from a train at Tweed on Thursday and the car wheels passed over his right arm. The other young man was Arthur Watts, a C. P. R. brakeman, whose home is at Pontypool. Watts was coupling cars, when he was jolted by the train moving. This caused a torpedo he had in his hip pocket to explode, causing serious injuries to the hip. Both men were taken to the Western Hospital, and were attended to by Dr. Beattie, the C. P. R. surgeon. Both are progressing favorably.

Carriers Wanted

On account of the rapidly growing circulation of The Times, we are in need of three additional carriers (men preferred). We pay liberal salaries, and require steady and trustworthy help in this department.

A Sudden Twinge

Of pain is generally the first warning of an attack of rheumatism. It feels as if the disease were in the bones or muscles, but the real cause of rheumatism is found in impure blood. In order to cure rheumatism the blood must be cleansed of the poisonous impurities which are the cause of the disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very successful in the cure of rheumatism, because it entirely cleanses the blood from the poisonous substances which are the cause of the disease. It not only purifies the blood but by increasing the activity of the blood-making glands, it increases the supply of pure, rich blood which adds to the vigor of every physical organ.

Mr. R. A. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C., writes: "I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

The sole motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little more profit paid by the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains; you lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

BANK CLERKS ON THE STAND AGAIN,

EDITORS QUESTION JURISDICTION OF COMMISSION TO SUMMON THEM—CASES ENLARGED UNTIL TO-DAY. AND THURSDAY

MR. GAMEY GOT LIBERAL VOTES

By Running as an Independent and Promised to Support the Government in Power on all Good Measures

HIS QUEER DOINGS WITH THE DEPOSIT SLIP TOLD

Toronto, April 28.—Three different phases of the Gamey enquiry were taken up this morning. First came the case of the editors of The Mail and Empire and The World, who stand in peril of the court. As they intend to contest the jurisdiction of the Commission, their cases were enlarged, the one until to-morrow, and the other until Thursday. The evidence was concluded as to the missing Ontario Bank slip, although the Chancellor expressed doubts as to its relevancy. It is stated that on rebuttal Mr. Gamey will take stand and explain the matter.

The balance of the morning session was taken up with the large group of Manitoulin witnesses, more of whom will be called this afternoon. Their evidence is all tendered with a view of getting at the political situation on the island. It was apparent that, whatever his faults, Gamey made a wonderfully persuasive candidate, and that his phrase, "Manitoulin is my politics," was no jest. It does not seem likely that Mr. Stratton will be heard until to-morrow morning.

Mr. W. J. Douglas, of The Mail and Empire, with his counsel, Mr. J. B. Clarke, K.C., and Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., with his legal representative, Mr James Baird, were on hand when court opened this morning, but the matter still stands.

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., wanted it made clear that he and his colleague, Mr. Riddell, had simply brought the matter of the articles in these newspapers to the attention of the court, and their duty ended there.

Mr. Clarke, on behalf of The Mail and Empire, announced that he intended to contest the jurisdiction of the Commission in the matter. He would be prepared to argue the matter in the morning.

The Chancellor, in granting the enlargement, said that the Commission would rigorously follow the course taken by the Parnell Commission, which had refused to take notice of what appeared in the newspapers, unless brought to its attention by affidavit. Some of these comments might be untrue, some in bad taste, some actuated by spite, but the Commission did not propose to take notice of them. The matter at [illegible] properly be called contempt of court, but rather an invasion of the duties of the Commission. It was for the Commission to decide whether Mr. Gamey had been bribed, and if the newspapers were to pre-judge the matter it might as well cease from its labors. The other point was that Mr. Ritchie had purposely observed secrecy in the matter of the Ontario Bank accounts which were examined. The names had not been included on the court record, and it had never been intended that they should be evidence unless shown to be relevant to the issue. In the publication of details of one of these accounts, the directions of the court had clearly been violated.

Mr. Clarke, K.C., intimated that he would argue that it had been disclosed in evidence by the mention in the official report of a $3,000 cheque.

Mr. Baird and Mr. Maclean spoke briefly for The World, and were granted an enlargement until Thursday morning, on account of the latter's compulsory absence to-morrow.

Mr. Johnston asked permission to say something to the court "in justice to Mr. Gamey." He declared that he had from the outset refused to be interviewed by newspapers, and had never uttered to them his conviction of Mr. Gamey's guilt; nothing had been further from his thoughts than to say such a thing.

What he had done was to intimate that if the charges turned out on investigation to be true, it would be his duty when the Commission concluded its labors, to bring the matter to the attention of the Crown authorities.

In the event of the editors of the Mail and Empire and of the World being committed for prejudicing any phase of the issues before the Commission, they have no recourse in the way of appeal to any other tribunal, and consequently, would have to abide by the ruling of the Commission.

Mr. Howarth, the receiving teller of the Ontario Bank, was recalled for cross examination by Mr. Ritchie this morning. It elicited nothing new beyond what Mr. Howarth testified to yesterday. The alleged forgery of his initial "H" he admitted might be an "N" or a "U."

Witness went on to say voluntarily that if Mr. Gamey handed him the slip he might have accepted it as the original, whereupon Mr. Blake remarked to him that it was not good policy to deprecate his intelligence.

Mr. Brown, the accountant, the next witness, threw some more light on the missing $960 deposit slip. When Gamey was sent for and told that the untotalled copy in mixed denominations of bills was not the slip he had gotten from the bank, he persisted for a moment that it must be, and afterward agreed that Mr. Howarth should accompany him to the Crown office to make a search. Subsequently, he came to the bank with the crumpled copy, showing nine $100 bills (Exhibit 66), which he said had slipped into his glove while in his pocket. Brown at once saw it was not the original.

Mr. Gamey subsequently came back to the bank with Mr. J. M. Might to see the manager, Mr. Smith, but could not see him. This made four visits on April 18. Mr. Ritchie in cross-examination, elicited the fact that neither copy could be mistaken for a copy of the original.

When Brown concluded his evidence the Chancellor remarked: "I rather think this is all unimportant for us sitting here on this enquiry; we are not sitting here on a criminal trial.'

Mr. Johnston, however, called Mr. Arthur W. Barton, the messenger of the bank.

Mr. Barton told of the journey to Gamey's office on the day in question, and generally confirmed the other witnesses. He testified that Gamey apologized for the trouble he had caused.

Mr. Walter Barwick, K.C., the solicitor for the bank, was the next witness. He testified that on the afternoon of April 18 the bank informed him of what Gamey had done, and on learning the details he had first informed Mr. McPherson, as Gamey had directed when he called with Mr. Might, and afterward told Mr. Johnston about it. Mr. Barwick also testified that the books of the bank had been refused for examination to both sides.

Mr. Johnston proposed to submit evidence as to Gamey's visit to Buffalo, but the Chancellor ruled it out as irrelevant.

The defence then called Neil McDougall, a hotel-keeper of Providence Bay, Manitoulin, who gave a novel line of testimony. McDougall swore that at a meeting Gamey addressed at Providence Bay in the general election campaign, of May last, he made that statement that he was not going down to Toronto with his hands tied behind his back, but would support the Government in power, with this important reservation, "on any measure for the benefit of his constituency." By that speech he won over forty Grit votes.

On February 11 last he saw Gamey, and asked him how much money he got for turning over. Gamey denied that he had got a cent, and witness urged him in that case not to let the Tories bluff him into resigning. He also tackled Gamey for a colonization road grant, which the member promised to obtain.

To Mr. Ritchie, McDougall admitted that it was nothing strange to hear a candidate say he would support good measures, and that at the same meeting Gamey had roundly denounced the mining and pulp wood policy of the Ross Government.

Asked as to the bribery rumors,

Power of the Court, It is Stated That the Commission Have no Power to Punish for Contempt

GAMEY GOING TO SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT IN POWER

McDougall said that in some quarters it was stated he got $5,000, in others $15,000, in still others $27,000 while there was also a rumor that he was to get the timber on McGregor Island.

W. J. Berry, contractor, of Providence Bay, gave similar testimony as to the public meeting of May last.

Mr. Berry further stated that he had not supported Gamey because "he was not carried away by wind." He swore that Gamey had said he would support the Government.

"With a qualification?" suggested Mr. Ritchie.

"I don't know what qualification means," frankly admitted the witness.

Sam Sinclair, of Providence Bay, who styled himself a Grit, stated that he had been influenced by Gamey's promise to support good measures to vote for him.

Sylvester Berry told of the same meeting, and stated that Gamey denounced the Government for giving lumber away, but denied he was going to Toronto to be a figurehead like Mr. Campbell, a former Conservative member for Algoma.

Lachlin McDougall, of Gordon Township, and his two sons, Malcolm and Lachlin, said that Gamey had called on them to canvass their votes, and had said he was more of an independent than a party man, and that he was paying his own way through.

Duncan Orr, of Gore Bay, testified that Gamey ran on a sort of "Manitoulin is my politics," platform.

Robert Thorburn, of Gore Bay, said that previous to the appearance of The Globe interview Gamey had been negotiating with him for a house in the town. Four or five days after it was issued he saw Gamey, who told him he did not think the Conservatives would let him live there, and said he proposed simply to carry out his platform of supporting good measures.

Mr. E. F. B. Johnston states that in court yesterday he did not intend to convey the idea that no efforts had been made on Saturday to serve the editors of The Mail and Empire and The World. What he said was that they could not be served, because one of the editors was out of town.

AFTERNOON SESSION

[illegible] Gamey Commission, John White, barber, of Gore Bay, testified that Mr. Gamey smiled broadly while several Conservatives were in his place. When the latter went out, he asked Gamey what he had been smiling at, and Mr. Gamey responded with the question as to what he thought of the political atmosphere. He told Gamey that he believed in putting district interests ahead of Provincial interests. He had been a Conservative, but now had withdrawn from politics altogether; he didn't vote at all. Mr. Gamey referred to Mr. Whitney's policy as lacking in construction.

Dr. Hogan, of Gore Bay, testified that just after the appearance of The Globe interview he overheard Dr. Fell, a prominent Algoma Conservative, in whose office he was assistant, giving Mr. Gamey a very stiff rebuke for turning over. He could not hear what Mr. Gamey said in reply. Fell said he took it as a personal insult that Gamey, who was elected as a Conservative, should desert the party.

Jesse Ielmann, of Kegawan, gave testimony similar to that of the earlier witnesses as to Mr. Gamey's platform last May. In his speech at Kegawan, he said; "Manitoulin is my politics."

Thomas Bowser, of Kegawan, gave testimony of a like kind, with regard to the campaign in his section.

Mr. Turner, of Gore Bay, produced the original text of the report sent to the Globe after the Manitoulin Conservative convention, of which Mr. Gamey is said to be the author.

W. J. Brooks, of Province Bay, testified in the same vein as the other witnesses.

Toronto, April 28.—Counsel for the newspapers summoned for contempt by the Gamey Commission have raised a question as to the power of the Commission to punish for contempt.

A prominent city lawyer, discussing the matter with a newspaper reporter this morning said; In a regularly-constituted court of justice this power is inherent, but the power is in the court, and not in the judges who compose it. This being the case, it is doubtful if the present Commission has power to commit for contempt, for the judges are not sitting as judges of the High Court, but as parties authorized by Act of the Legislature to do certain things. Their powers are limited by the terms of the Act, under which they were appointed, and in this Act there is no clause giving them the right to punish for contempt.

One similar case is to be found in the Ontario reports. In that case the judge of a County Court authorized by an Act of the Legislature to remove assignees of insolvent's estates, and appoint others, made such an order for the committal, but, on appeal, the Court of the Queen's Bench decided that, as the judge was not acting in his judicial capacity, but as "persona designata," a person appointed to fulfil a certain duty, he had no power to make the order.

It may be, however, that in the proceedings the Parnell Commission may furnish a precedent in the present case.

Liberals to Prepare for the Fray

Ottawa, April 29—A press representative was informed on good authority that this is the last session of the ninth Parliament and that a general election will certainly be held this fall. In well informed quarters the word has gone out to the faithful in Quebec to quietly prepare for the fray, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier will take an active part in the campaign, which will probably be his last. There is every color of probability to the report. The Redistribution Bill will be passed, so that after this session Parliament will no longer really be representative of the whole country. Then the Premier, although he is said to have recovered from his recent ill health, is far from being the Sir Wilfrid of 1896. The cares of office are undoubtedly weighing heavily upon him. It is scarcely probable that he will lead the party in more than the next election.

The course of the Government decidedly indicates an early appeal to the people. The careful arrangement of accounts so as to produce apparently the greatest surplus Canada has ever known, the stupendous efforts made by Sir William Mulock to make his Post-Office accounts appear to balance, the refusal to take any chances on the promised tariff revision, and the general flamboyant tone of the Ministeoratura all portend an early appeal to the country. The autumn would appear to be the proper psychological moment for this, when Canada is at the zenith of the present era of prosperity, and the most extensive season of immigration the country has ever known will be closing. The feeling is quite general in the House, as was pointed out by Mr. Bell, of Pictou, and when this session finally comes to an end Parliament will be prorogued.

PARIS WILL WELCOME BRITAIN'S RULER

Elaborate Preparations Being Made for the Great Event

TO REVIEW TROOPS

His Majesty will Arrive in France on Friday and Will Remain Several Days

Paris, April 29.—When King Edward arrives at three o'clock next Friday afternoon, President Loubet, the members of the Ministry and the staff of the British Embassy will proceed to the Bois de Boulonge station to meet him. The station will be hung with rich velvet and golden tapestry. The meeting between the President and King will occur under a silken canopy. After the greetings the King and the President will enter an elaborate state carriage, with postillions and outriders, and escorted by a regiment of cuirassiers, they will drive through the Bois and the Champs Elysees, to the British Embassy. Throughout the entire route the soldiers will be massed on either side of the thoroughfares.

King Edward will stay at the British Embassy, which, during his sojourn, will be regarded as a royal residence. He will occupy the apartments which have not been used since the last visit to Paris of Queen Victoria, but which have been sumptuously redecorated and equipped for this occasion.

President Loubet will leave King Edward at the Embassy, but the King will proceed later to the Elysee Palace, to pay a formal call upon the President, which will be returned by the President.

In the evening King Edward will be the guest of Mr. Loubet at the Comedie Francaise.

Saturday morning King Edward will witness a review of 12,000 troops at Vincennes. In the afternoon he will attend the races at Longchamps, the meeting being held especially in his honor. One of the prizes to be run for, the Royal Cup, is offered by His Majesty. Saturday night there will be a gala performance at the Opera. The royal box has been made of three boxes, and will be elaborately decorated with the flags of Great Britain and France. The performance at the opera will be attended by all high officials, the diplomatic representatives, members of the Senate, and the Chamber, and those socially prominent at Paris. Owing to the tremendous pressure for places, the American Embassy has been asked if it could possibly spare some of the seats assigned to it. This, however, was impossible.

Foreign Minister Delcasse will give a breakfast at the Foreign Office Sunday, and in the evening King Edward will give a dinner to President Loubet. Each of these events is being arranged upon a scale of lavish magnificence. The King leaves Paris Monday morning.

His Majesty will be attended throughout his stay here by a large staff of military and naval officers. A French squadron is gathering at Cherbourg to render farewell honours to the British Sovereign.

KING EDWAR'DS VISIT TO LAND OF HEATHER

Will Reside in Palace of Dalkeith while in Scotland

GREAT PREPARATIONS MADE

Loyal Scotland will Give His Majesty a Hearty Reception

London, April, 29—The approaching visit of King Edward to Scotland, which will take place next month is exciting a good deal of attention. Scotland will give His Majesty a right royal welcome.

The Duke of Buccleugh, one of the richest noblemen in Scotland, has loaned his palace Dalkeith to King Edward for the latter's occupancy during his visit. The duke of Buccleugh, like many other British dukes, is best known to fame as the husband of his wife.

The duchess of Buccleugh is mistress of the robes in the household of the queen.

She is a clever, ambitious woman, and overshadows the duke, despite his wealth.

The duchess is an intimate friend of Queen Alexandra, and, like the queen, condemns the rapid pace of the "smart set."

The duchess doesn't permit bridge gambling at her house parties and frowns upon the morals and mode of life of the women of her class, who furnish the grist for the divorce mill.

The duchess isn't beautiful, but she is clever and witty, and despite the fact that she doesn't permit gambling, invitations to her house parties are always in demand.

The duke owns six residences, all of which he maintains himself, declining to rent any of them. The duchess is the most influential woman in the queen's set.

SEES HAND OF CZAR IN THE FAR EAST

An American Senator Says Russia will Succeed in China

IF FORCE IS NOT USED AGAINST HER

The Situation for Peace is Exceedingly Gloomy

Indianapolis, April [illegible] Albert J. Beveridge, who visited Manchuria, foreshadowed a series of articles that he wrote on his return to his country, almost exactly such a situation as now prevails. In an interview today, Senator Beveridge said:

"Russia's latest move should surprise nobody. For three years and more nothing has been clearer to the careful student than that Russia intends to occupy Manchuria permanently. Of course Russia is not going to give up this dominion, which her money, soldiers and blood has transformed from a region of savagery to a region of law and order. From personal observation, and from conversations with those I know, I estimated in 1901 that Russia had in Manchuria, and in the southeast corner of Siberia about Vladivostock, and generally within three weeks' striking distance of Japan, not less than 150,000 troops. I should imagine that if this estimate is correct it has since then swelled to perhaps 175,000 men. If Russia permanently maintains Manchuria and it becomes a part of the Russian empire, the czar is made the master of the whole far Eastern situation, and Japan thereby loses an advantage which will be hard, indeed impossible, for her ever, by any means to overcome. So this is the casus belli growing out of fundamental conditions.

"Our own interests in the matter consist in the fact that we are perhaps the largest shippers of cotton and other goods into Manchuria. It is a matter of perfect indifference who controls Manchuria as long as her ports are open to our goods.

"Should a conflict come, as in the long run it is bound to come, it is likely that France and Germany will be found allied with Russia. The whole movement involves the entire Chinese empire.

"Russia has merely taken another of her determined steps. Whether it will result in a serious conflict nobody can tell, but that it will result so in the course of a few years few who have seriously studied the question can doubt.

"In the meantime, on our part, a firm, but careful and Conservative statesmanship is required. The president, whose mastery in such cases is unusual, can be depended upon to do the right thing in safeguarding American interests without embroiling us in a conflict."

Permanent Cure for Neuralgia

Experienced sufferers state that no remedy relieves neuralgia so quickly as a hot application of Polson's Nerviline, the strongest liniment made. Nerviline is certainly very penetrating and has a powerful influence over neuralgic pains, which it destroys almost at once. Nerviline is highly recommended for Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica and Toothache. Better try a 25c. bottle, it's all right.

ENGLAND'S DRINK EVIL

Enormous Sum of Money Paid for Drink Exceeding National Revenue

London, April 29—England spends more money upon drink than any other nation in the world. [illegible] just published show that the drink bill of England in 1902 amounted to the appalling sum of $[illegible],000,000, or an average of about $[illegible] per capita.

The money England spends annually for drink is far in excess of the annual expenditure for all government purposes or for all the rents of all the houses and farms; or for all religious, educational and philanthropic objects combined; or for the purchase of more than any one kind of food or clothing considered to be articles of absolute necessity.

Considering the enormous sum spent for intoxicating liquor, it needs no argument to prove that England is not the soberest country in the world.

The distillers, brewers and saloon keepers wield enormous political power and all efforts to interfere with the liquor traffic legislatively fail.

The heads of all the great brewing firms, because of enormous contributions to the Tory campaign funds, have been elevated to the peerage, and as members of the house of lords vote against all radical temperance legislation.

THE EMPRESS EUGENIE

Her Majesty's Health Good Notwithstanding Reports to the Contrary

Paris, April 29—There is absolutely no ground for the rumors which have been circulating respecting the ill-health of ex-Empress Eugenie. So far from being ill, her majesty is in better health than she has been for some time, inasmuch as she suffers much less from rheumatism than formerly.

She may be seen any day driving about the beautiful neighborhood of Cap Martin, or walking in the grounds of the Villa Cyrnos. She is very cheerful and sees a great deal of those of her friends who are at present staying at the Cote d'Azur, especially Prince and Princess d'Essling of whom she is very fond.

London, April 29—The Berlin correspondent of The Times and the Chronicle say the Federal Council of Germany, as it is reported, has decided to impose on the imports from Canada a surtax equal to that levied by Canada on the German exports.

The Cologne Gazette says fortune has willed it that Germany be made the first victim of an experiment to weld the British colonies into a customs union of the empire.

The Pall Mall Gazette expresses Englishmen's sympathy with Canada in the tariff war, and says, "Canadians may feel a little hurt that this moment has been selected for the disappearance of the corn duty, in connection with which they entertained certain quiet hopes, but Canada need not fear that the Mother Country will remain unconcerned."

The Daily Mail, in a leader entitled "Fickle Minded Ministers" again deplores the removal of the cereal duty, and especially reminds Rt. Hon. Mr. Chamberlain of his appeal to the colonial governments, and to Canada in particular, to join England in fighting the hostile tariffs of Europe.

Nevertheless the abolition is certain to pass parliament.

War Operations Continue

War operations between the Somali Mullah, Mohammed Abdullah, and British forces have been carried on more or less continuously in the north-east corner of Africa for nearly four years. Last year an expedition under Colonel Swayne was organized, but after a certain measure of success received a serious check at Erego. It was then determined by the British authorities to undertake an elaborate campaign against the Mullah.

Many New Settlers

Halifax, April 29—The C. P. R. steamer Lake Champlain, docked on Sunday, and the work of landing her passengers was at once commenced and they were sent west during the day. Over 2,700 passengers, all but about 400 of them for Canada, landed here from the Lake Champlain and Hamburg-American liner, Assyria. The latter, which arrived Saturday night from Hamburg and Cologne had 1,442 immigrants, and the Champlain had 1,300. There was one death on the voyage, a child named Martha Lulowako.

Excepting 300 Italians for Montreal, the immigrants by the Champlain are all British, bound for Winnipeg and the West. The Assyria's passengers consisted mostly of Hungarians, Russians and Syrians. Two births occurred during the voyage and one child died. The Lake Champlain sailed last evening to make another attempt to get up the Gulf.

Grape-Nuts

Doctor Talks About Food

It is often the case that doctors themselves drift into bad habits of food and drink, although they know better. But doctors are human, you know, like the rest of us; but when they get into trouble they generally know better how to get out of it, and the "food route" is a common one among them.

A doctor of Laurel, Ind., concluded that coffee and badly selected food were the cause of his stomach trouble and his loss in weight from 184 pounds to 153 pounds, with nerves impaired and general nervous break-down.

He did not give up coffee at once, but began the use of Grape-Nuts, and says: "Within a month I could see a wonderful change had taken place, due to the use of the new food. I decided to give up coffee and use Postum in its place; so regularly for a time I have been on a breakfast made up of Grape-Nuts, a little graham bread and Postum Food Coffee. My weight has increased to 174 pounds, my stomach trouble has entirely gone and my mind is clear and vigorous as ever. Wishing you every success, I beg to assure you of my warm appreciation of Grape-Nuts and Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

OTONABEE TOWNSHIP COUNCIL

The Sum of $2,000 Appropriated for Road Improvement—Board of Health Met

At a recent meeting of the Otonabee Council all the members were present. The committee appointed to investigate the Hayes and Duffus road allowance case reported that it would recommend to let the road remain as it is, as Mr. Duffus requires an outlet from his west farm and the road allowance would not be of much benefit to Mr. Hayes as there would be a great many trees to remove. Mr. Hayes was present, requesting the council to have it surveyed. This it refused to do, and adopted the committee's recommendation by taking no action.

The committee appointed to examine and report re digging a ditch on the road to enable Mr. Fitzgerald to drain his land, reported and recommended that the council do not excavate a ditch as it would be of no benefit to the road, but to allow Mr. Fitzgerald at his own expense to excavate a ditch close to his fence, so as not to endanger the travelling public. The report was received and adopted.

A petition was received from road Division No. 26, Roger Devlin's division, asking to have their statute labor commuted. Petition granted, and the clerk was instructed to prepare a by-law.

The Court of Revision was fixed for the 28th of May to be advertised in the Review and Examiner.

On motion Mrs. McDermott is to be allowed for charity $5 per month. Campbelltown woods being sold she will now have to buy wood.

The sum of $2,000 was appropriated for the improvement of the roads. The clerk was instructed to order two large drag scrapers, one blade for the grader and spring for driver's seat.

The following accounts were passed:—D. McFarlane and Jas. Dickson, jr., each 75 cents for shovelling snow on the gravel yard hill; D. McCarthy gravel, $6; John Anderson, $7.44; R. J. H. Short, $5.64; J. Borland, $2.36; J. T. Knox, tile for roads, 25 cents; G. Laing, cutting two cords wood for hall, $1; Ald. Woodhead, repairing drain at Castle's corner, $2.

Council adjourned to 28th May.

On the same day the Board of Health met and transacted the following business:—Dr. Harrison, M.H.O., was instructed to disinfect all houses where cases of scarlet fever diphtheria and smallpox occurred, at the expense of the occupant, according to the act. The treasurer was ordered to make the following payments, $15 to David Emmerson, half the cost of E. F. Grieves attendance during [illegible] Gainer for burying an animal on lot 11m concession 11, to be charged to Daniel Kelly, the owner.

THE ILLS OF WOMEN

A RELIABLE AND SAFE CURE FOR WOMANLY ILLS IS FOUND IN FERROZONE. A REMEDY THAT ALWAYS GIVES SATISFACTION AND NEVER DISAPPOINTS

If troubled with painful irregularities, dizziness, faintness, excitability, nervousness, remember there is a remedy that if regularly and persistently used, will cure all these ills. Its name is Ferrozone.

It is used by thousands of women who have experienced its great strengthening powers, and they would not be without it for ten times its price.

Ferrozone is primarily a blood maker. It drives all impurities from the crimson fluid, makes it strong and capable of supplying nourishment to the body. It quiets the nerves, banishes excitability and headache.

By taking Ferrozone regularly you can keep free from those dreadful backaches, and monthly sickness will pass off regularly and without pain or distress. Being prepared in tablet form, Ferrozone is both convenient and simple to use, and no uncertainty as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

A Montreal hospital nurse who has used Ferrozone herself, and has seen also the benefit that other suffering women have derived from it, writes: "I have nursed and treated all form of female disorders, and from my personal experience, must say that Ferrozone is a remedy about which all womankind should know. It is reliable and sure, and will give prompt and satisfactory results. As a builder of muscle and tissue, I know nothing to equal Ferrozone. I have found it good to build up a weak appetite, and consider it a splendid medicine for the blood and nerves. I have no hesitancy in endorsing Ferrozone."

Don't continue to exist in a state of misery and weakness any longer. Ferrozone will make you strong and well just as it has done for thousands before you. All druggists recommend and sell Ferrozone, at 50c. a box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. Get a box to day from your druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

IMPORTANT BILL ON MUNICIPAL TAXATION

The Long Expected New Ontario Assessment Measure

MANY RADICAL CHANGES

Premier Ross Introduces in the Legislature one of the Most Important Propositions of Recent Years

Toronto, April 28—Premier Ross's bill respecting municipal taxation, which has been introduced, is the exhaustive measure recommended by the assessment commission a year ago. The bill contains a large number of changes, but the principal amendments may be summarised as follows:

Personal property tax to be abolished including taxation of mercantile stock and manufacturing stock and machinery.

A tax to be substituted therefor for the personalty tax, based on the rental value of premises occupied by traders, manufacturers, financiers, and mercantile houses, private bankers and brokers excepted.

Taxation of all other persons than those above mentioned, including private bankers and brokers by indirect methods upon all income over $1,000 yearly. This taxation to be in proportion to the value of the premises occupied for the purpose for their business, with an exemption equivalent to income exemption of $1,000. Where income of such persons exceeds $4,000 a direct tax to be levied in excess.

Incomes from investment are taxed directly subject to exemptions.

A house tax is to be imposed upon all owners and occupiers of houses, used as dwellings, based upon the rental value of the premises. This system provides in effect for the levying in future of an income tax, not directly upon income, but upon the residence of persons so assessed.

Railway lands and buildings to be valued in the same fashion as those of private individuals.

Franchise holding corporations, such as street railways, telephone and telegraph companies, and others making use of the highways in their business, to be assessed for this right to use the public land. This tax to take the place of taxes on gross receipts. The right of use, as well as the structures on the public highways, that is poles, rails, wires, etc. to be assessed at the actual value.

Appointment of a provincial board of assessment for certain corporations, which shall collect the taxation and distribute it among the municipalities thus affected.

ISSUES STRIKE PASTORAL

Archbishop Bruchesi Condemns the International Unions and Defends Non-Unionists

Montreal, April 27.—Archbishop Bruchesi has written a pastoral letter on the labor situation, which was read in all the Roman Catholic churches yesterday, and which may go a long way towards preventing the crisis that for several weeks has threatened this city. It is important inasmuch as it strikes at the international part of labor organization and enjoins the workmen to beware of foreign leaders.

The Archbishop's letter reviews the situation and proceeds as follows: No human power on earth can lawfully prevent you from organizing separate unions; still this liberty does not give you the right to contend for ends which are in flagrant opposition with public welfare, justice, and charity. This freedom of association does not invest you, for instance, with any right to use violent measures and embarrass capitalists and manufacturers in their natural rights, to molest employes who refuse to join your leagues or who have freely pledged themselves by contract to work for those employers.

Would it be prudent in the hour of labor conflict to place in the hands of strangers the gravest interests that might be at stake? Have those men a thorough knowledge of our economical positions? Are they absolutely disinterested? Have we not among ourselves, among ourselves, among our fellow-countrymen and co-religionists, a sufficient abundance of resources, forethought and devotedness? With the greatest anxiety do we see the labor organizations of our city seeking for affiliation with foreign associations. The majority of the leaders and members of these international unions have nothing in common with our temperament, our customs or our faith.

Granted even that such unions were not imbued with anti-Christian principles or allied with secret societies which the sovereign Pontiff has so severely condemned, there would still be danger in this amalgamation. By means of a deeply-laid scheme they send abroad enormous sums of money belonging to our laboring classes. Would not such money, if deposited in the coffers of our national and Catholic societies, promote the best interests of our country, and could it not be had more readily here in case work was scarce or ceased altogether.

Your priests, your archbishop, dearly beloved brethren, will be always disposed to hear your grievances and use their influence in your behalf. Resort at once to measures of conciliation. Much useless annoyance and trouble will be thus avoided. Demand only what is just and reasonable. Beware of fomenters of discord. Do not become the preys of demagogy. Scrupulously respect all acquired rights. Capital not less than labor contributes to the happiness of individuals and nations.

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress this Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 800,962 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Eastern Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in the district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 200,000 acres of specially chosen lands [illegible] section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees, and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 300 London Street.

A TEMPLE OF PEACE

The Latest Gift of Andrew Carnegie Is an International Library

Washington, April 27—Andrew Carnegie has offered $1,500,000 to the Government of the Netherlands for the establishment at The Hague of an international library and Temple of Peace. The offer was made through Baron Grovers, the Minister from the Netherlands to the United States. It is Mr. Carnegie's idea to have erected a building in which will be maintained an international library, and in which the arbitration tribunal can hold its sessions.

All the diplomatic exchanges on the subject have taken place. Formal announcement of Mr. Carnegie's gift and its acceptance will be made in a few days.

A portion of the donation will be set apart for meeting the necessary expenses in keeping the Temple of Peace in repair.

BURIED GOLD

and see what the majority want. No use settlin' anything until we know that."

CHAPTER IV.

A Traitor.

A council was held forthwith, when it appeared that an overwhelming majority were in favor of the plan as propounded by the bosun. The men liked the island and the prospect of living here in absolute idleness for an indefinite period. When they should have begun to feel tired of the life they would take the first opportunity of leaving the island, each man carrying sufficient gold in his kit to keep him in idleness and plenty for the rest of his days. It was an alluring prospect. All that was required was that they should be forgotten for a while in order that they should not be associated with the loss of the 'Hecuba,' and the gold claimed at their hands.

"There was a ship called 'Three Brothers' lost somewhere in these seas two years ago," said Foster. "If we're to pretend we're some other crew and nothin' to do with the 'Hecuba,' we'd better give ourselves out as her crew, supposin' we're ever taken off."

"What about all the friends of those chaps?" said Dick Robinson, who was against the scheme and strongly in favor of a return to civilization the moment a chance of escape should offer itself. "Do you suppose we should be able to live in England as survivors of the 'Three Brothers' and not have all the wives and mothers of her crew buzzing about us—eh, and the owners, too? They'd soon see we weren't the men we pretended, and, what's more, the owners of the 'Hecuba' would smell us out and want to know more'n we'd care to tell them."

This was something of a stumper; but so determined were the men to have their own way that there was scarcely a vote in favor of Dick's alternative plan: to bury the gold, if so pleased them, but to return at the first opportunity and make a bargain with the consigners, who, having given up the stuff as lost, would be glad to pay half the value away if by doing so they might recover the other half.

"Not knowin' the law, we can't trust 'em, that's where it is," was the bosun's dictum, and the entire crew was of the same opinion.

Votes were taken, and though two or three abstained from voting altogether, only Dick and another were in favor of his amendment.

Then a parliament of six was elected, the skipper and mates to be extra members ex officio, and the following laws were drawn up:

1. The boxes of gold to be buried in sight of the whole ship's crew. Penalty for meddling with the stuff or for revealing its place of concealment to anyone not at this time on the island—death by shooting.

2. No man to leave the island without the rest, unless by permission of the entire community. Penalty for disobedience—death by shooting.

3. No man to reveal, at any future time, the name of the ship in which he had last served. Penalty for disobedience—death.

Old Jake Foster, realizing that the will of the people was the will of Providence, wisely fell in with the wishes of the majority and was the first to record his vote in favor of the bosun's scheme. Had he done otherwise he would, he knew, have forfeited the goodwill of the crew, without which he could not retain for long his present position as Head of the Community. Moreover, once he had brought himself to accede to the plan he soon became its most ardent advocate and most jealous upholder. Meanwhile a place was selected for the burial of the treasure, and this done the heavy boxes were solemnly conveyed to the spot agreed upon and there deposited before the eyes of the entire community. In strict accordance with the law bearing upon this matter, the president, late skipper, read aloud both the law and the statement of penalty to be enforced for disobedience to its injunctions.

All present then signed a copy of the statute, even Dick Robinson being obliged to append his signature, though he expressed formal dissent, after which the paper was nailed to one of the boxes and the place was filled in.

This matter satisfactorily settled, the community betook themselves to make things thoroughly comfortable for a prolonged stay upon the island. The unfortunate 'Hecuba' had by this time gone to pieces, and the wooden beams and planks came floating ashore in quantities, all ready to hand for building purposes. Houses were quickly knocked together, under the guidance of the carpenter, and before many days had passed a village had sprung up and the community began to settle down into the regular routine of insular life.

It was enacted by "parliament" that every man, unless incapacitated by illness or other cause, should do his daily share of such work as should be apportioned to him. Land must be reclaimed and sown with wheat and maize, of which quantities had been salvaged from the ship. Two men were told off as poultry hands: to see to the welfare of the cocks and hens, make hatching sheds, and so forth; others were detailed to catch fish; others to snare seafowl and collect eggs; there were cooks, scavengers, fuel men, water-carriers; not a hand but found himself well employed; even the president and parliament were not exempted by their position from doing their share of manual work when not actually engaged in duties of state.

Lastly, there was a "lookout" man, stationed upon the highest point in the island, where a shed was built for his protection from the weather; and here, in rotation, each man kept watch for a day and a night in order that the community might be duly warned in the undesired event of a sail appearing in sight.

The lookout man had his orders, which were on no account to make any kind of signal should a vessel pass the island. On the contrary, he must hasten down to the village, warn all hands of the "danger" and at once extinguish any fires that might there be burning for cooking purposes, lest the smoke should attract observation.

Life was not unpleasant upon the island; even Dick Robinson was obliged to admit this much when, in conversation with another Seadown man, Denys Drake, the subject came up for discussion.

"Then why were you so hot against the law enacting a minimum of three years' stay here?" asked Denys.

"For the same reason that one would have thought would make you a bit anxious to get back too," said Dick. "I want to see my girl. Yours wouldn't be particular pleased if she knew you'd voted against going back to her."

"Oh, blarney!" exclaimed Denys. "It ain't as if we had the chance to go. I don't know as I'd go if we had, mind you, though I daresay I'm as fond of my girl as you are of yours. Better to wait a few years and make sure of this swag—your share of it—than go home in a hurry and, perhaps, get nothing for your pains. Why, man, I shall be able to settle down comfortable straight away, once I do go home, and not another day's blasted work so long as I live. Go home now and tell that darned banker you've got his gold, and devil a pound you'll get. More likely you'll find yourself in jail for offering to hold it back from him!"

"What if your girl was to give you up for dead, as she may, and marry someone else?" asked Dick, but Denys roared with laughter.

"She ain't the kind," he said. "She won't be in such a bloomin' hurry; and if she couldn't wait a bit for me, let her go."

"What's the good of waitin' if you're dead? She's bound to think you're dead if neither you nor any of the others turn up, not in four years."

Mainly About People.

Here's a late story anent Christian Science. A Boston mother said to her little daughter: "If you had my faith, darling, you would have no toothache." The child replied: "Well, mother, if you had my toothache, you wouldn't have any faith."

When Major-General Samuel B. M. Young, a United States army officer, was presented to the Kaiser during a recent visit to Germany, Emperor William asked him if he had ever visited that country before. "Not this part," General Young is said to have replied. The Emperor then enquired what parts he had visited, whereupon General Young said: "I have visited St. Louis, Cincinnati and Milwaukee." The Emperor roared with laughter, and took General Young to the Empress, to whom he repeated the witticism.

Not long ago United States Senator William P. Frye of Maine was summoned to prepare a will for a man who was very ill. It was necessary, of course, to secure two witnesses, and they had to be sent for. While awaiting their arrival, the invalid seemed to get worse, and Senator Frye thought it his duty, no minister being present, to talk seriously to him. He told him that he was very ill, and that it was likely he would soon depart this life. "And are you ready to meet this great change?" Frye asked him. "I will be," was the reply, "as soon as those d—n witnesses get here."

The old story of the man who saw on the rail of the organ gallery in a little Western church a placard bearing the words, "Don't shoot the organist. He is doing the best he can," has lately been matched by another somewhat like it. A man recently returned from a mining region where, one Sunday, he attended a service in the only church for miles around. As he entered, the strains of an organ, apparently in great distress, reached his ears, and when he was seated he looked up to discover who the player was. On the back of the parlor organ which stood on the platform was a neatly lettered square of pasteboard which read, "Come up and try it yourself!"

Perhaps the best anecdote of Horace Greeley is that relating to Greeley's comment upon himself for a blunder he had made in an editorial by writing the word "Cattaraugus" when it should have been "Chautauqua." When the editorial appeared Greeley went up into the composing room in a great rage and called out, "Who put that Cattaraugus?" The printers all gathered around him, amused at his anger, until one of them, pulling down from the hook the original editorial, showed him the word "Cattaraugus" just as he had written it. When Greeley saw the situation he assumed an air of the greatest meekness and drawled out: "Will someone please kick me down those stairs?"

When you are with the scientists do as the scientists do, namely, repress ordinary emotions, if you are making a discovery or confirming a known fact. The experience may not always be agreeable. Witness the plight of a guest at a dinner given by a child-study specialist, whose note-book is always ready for use. Dissatisfied with a hot, buttered biscuit, a young child threw the despised article across the table, and hit the visitor. The father and mother took no notice of the incident, and naturally, the guest imitated their example. A second biscuit followed, and the guest was struck on the chin. He was about to make a remark, but the mother warned him to be quiet. "Sh-h-h!" she exclaimed. "The professor is observing him."

A lady's coachman—a crusty old fellow who had been in the service of the family in her father's time—gave her great trouble and annoyance on several occasions by not carrying out her instructions. At length his conduct became unbearable, and she determined to dismiss him. Calling him into her presence, she said with as much asperity as she could command: "I cannot stand this any longer, John. You must look out for another situation. You will leave my service at the end of the month." The old servant looked at her in amusement for a minute, and then the characteristic "loyalty" came to the surface. "Na, na, my lady," he said. "I drove you to the kirk to be baptized, I drove you to your marriage, and I'll stay to drive you to your funeral!"

Frederick of Prussia was an inveterate snuff-taker. There seems to have been some bad feeling between him and Count Schwerin. His Majesty presented the Count with a snuff-box, on the inside of which was painted a donkey's head. Next day the Count produced the box at dinner and showed it to the Duchess of Brunswick. "What an excellent portrait of his Majesty!" remarked the Duchess. The King looked somewhat annoyed. "Is it not a fine portrait?" said the lady, handing it to her neighbor. "Most excellent," was the reply; and the box began to travel round the table, when the King ordered it to be handed to him. His feeling can be imagined when he found that the wily Count had had the donkey's head removed, and a portrait of himself substituted, in order that he might teach the King a lesson.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Interesting Items.

The expression "watered stock," which describes so well the expansion of the stock of a company beyond the value of the property, originated, it is said, in connection with Daniel Drew, who was once the wealthiest and most unique manipulator in Wall street. Drew had been a drover in his younger days, and it was said of him that before selling his cattle in the market he would first give them large quantities of salt to make them thirsty and then provide them with all the water they could drink. In this way their weight was greatly increased, and the purchaser was buying "watered stock."

There are about 100,000,000 stars discernible through modern telescopes. In the mere matter of listing the stars there is an enormous amount of work. Four hundred thousand have been listed in the last half-century at the observatory at Bonn. Dr. Thorne, in the Argentine Republic, has listed a half-million. As to the stars which it is impossible to handle individually, there is an association of observatories engaged in making a photographic chart of the sky on the largest scale. When the observatories all over the world have handed in their work, we shall have a picture of the whole sky, the labor of an entire generation of astronomers.

A writer in the "Outlook" says of the Doukhobors settled in Western Canada: "One of the few English words they know is 'grease,' and upon my offering them any food, bread, for instance, they would look at it suspiciously and enquire, 'Grease?' They were afraid that lard or tallow might have been used in making the bread, and if so they would not eat it. Some of the Indians do not care to have the Doukhobors visit them, as they are regarded as 'queer,' and I have seen a Cree Indian wave an approaching Doukhobor away by holding up a piece of bannock in front of his tent, with a deprecating gesture and the word 'Grease!'"

The Government of British Columbia has established "traveling libraries" for the benefit of the numerous lumber and mining camps and townships in that province. After an extensive tour, the secretary of the "Canadian Reading Camp Movement" reports that these libraries are doing excellent work. Asked what class of books was most in demand, he replied that fiction undoubtedly was most acceptable. He thought that 85 per cent. of the books read in the camps came under that head. These men worked hard and needed mental recreation. They would read only a little biography, and less science and history. It was no use sending them books they would not read. "Even a good detective story is better than nothing."

A Parisian lady doctor of medicine has had a splendid idea. Her sister, not having gone in for the higher education, set up as a corsetiere (stay-maker). Now the two have joined forces, and are amassing a fortune. They have combined their different professional capacities in the following manner: Customers calling find themselves first ushered into the lady doctor's consulting-room. There they undergo a regular medical examination. They have to answer the usual practitioner's questions, the pulse is felt, lungs sounded, heart listened to, and so on. The doctor then draws up a diagnosis—in other words, an exact description of the kind of corset which the build or state of health of each customer requires that she shall wear. They are then ushered into the room where the sister presides over her branch of the business, and takes the measurements in strict accordance with the medical instructions. The partnership of stay-maker and physician has proved so successful that, although the charges made are on the highest scale of the corset trade, consulting-room and fitting-shop are always crowded.

A Message From the Pulpit.

In the old days—and probably to some extent at the present day—the Scotch clergyman was very much the pastor of his flock. He looked out for the bodily and spiritual needs of his people, and also of their bodies. Dean Ramsay, in his good old book, "Scottish Life and Character," tells a story vouched for by one of his correspondents as authentic.

John Brown, Burgher minister at Whitburn, grandfather of the author of "Rab and His Friends," was traveling in the early part of this century on a small Shetland pony to attend the summer sacrament at Haddington. Between Musselburgh and Tranent he overtook one of his own people.

"What are ye dain' here, Janet, and whaur ye gaun this warm wather?"

"'Deed, sir," replied Janet, "I'm gaun to Haddington for the occasion, an' expeck to hear ye preach this efternoon."

"Vera weel, Janet, but whaur ye gaun to sleep?"

"I dinna ken, sir, but Providence is aye kind, an' 'll provide a bed."

Mr. Brown jogged on to Haddington.

After service in the afternoon, before he pronounced a blessing, he said from the pulpit:

"Whaur's the auld wifie that followed me frae Whitburn?"

"Here I am, sir!" piped a shrill voice from a back seat.

"Aweel," said Mr. Brown, "I have fand ye a bed; ye're to sleep wi' Jennie Fife."

"Scare Heads."

In the hands of the modern newspaper man an ordinary incident receives a melodramatic flavor, while a tragic episode is made trebly thrilling by sensational headlines. Were Hamlet described in a press telegram, the message would be headed something like this, in large letters: "Appalling Tragedy in Denmark; King Murdered By His Brother; Young Court Lady Goes Mad and Drowns Herself; Four Royal Personages Slaughtered!"

"The Merchant of Venice," instead of appearing under that modest and commonplace title, would have been heralded by the liner as "Extraordinary Venetian Trial: A Jew Money-lender Claims a Pound of Human Flesh!"

In like manner, "Romeo and Juliet" would have become—"Deplorable and Pathetic Tragedy in High Life. Two Lovers Commit Suicide!" or something of that sort. These examples indicate how Shakespeare's terse titles would have shot out if handled by the modern journalist.

ORO RICO MINES

These three groups of big gold mines located in San Bernardino County, California, are well known for the great ledges of high-grade ores from which shipments have been made to various reduction works, demonstrating absolutely their great value. The area of these mines is 50% greater than that of all the producing field at Butte, Montana. Confidence ledge averaging $43.38 per ton. One shipment from "Last Chance" mine returned $822, per ton. Stamp Mill and machinery now being built and will be producing gold bullion immediately upon erection.

A limited number of shares now offered at 20 cents. Price will advance when mill is in operation. Write me reserving some of these shares subject to further investigation. You are not obliged to take them. Orders booked in sums of $10, and upwards. Reserve them now and then you will be able to get them at present price. Send for full particulars and printed matter.

The Florence Oil Co.

has just been incorporated and organized by New York business men to operate on their property in the celebrated Green River District of Utah. By all reports this is the coming Oil Territory. The quality of the oil is of the very highest grade and experts say the Green River District gives evidence of being the greatest oil field in the United States,

The unsold part of the first allotment of Treasury Stock will be sold at 20c per share, par value $1.00 Purchasers of this allotment are in on the "ground floor" and are almost sure to get returns of $5.00 for $1,00 within a reasonable time. The management is honest and competent.

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock for the next 30 days at 10 Cents per Share, after that price will be advanced.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

STOCK MARKETS

SOME STRONG REASON FOR PRESENT BULLISHNESS

New York, April 28—Present market is behaving splendidly; profit-taking from last week seems to be pretty well finished. The doctrine of chance clearly calls for a further advance in values. Money, owing return funds from interior, is rapidly becoming easier; it will become still more so. Money for lesser periods can be secured in abundance at from 4 to 4 1-2 per cent. On or before July 1st, as we have stated in these letters, large railway loans will be paid off; treasury funds will also be released in large quantities during the same period. Money is not only working easier here, but all over the world. British taxation has just been reduced some $50,000,000 annually by a reduction of four pence income tax and by abolition of the duty on grain. This makes just that much more money available in the security markets.

Rising bond prices are forerunners of a rising stock market; the American bond market is hardening and enquiry growing. People are becoming interested, as uses for money at good rates are lessening. It is the first time in eight months that we have had a sustained strong bond market. The refunding of the high priced government bonds in two per cents has already resulted in the turning in of half of the $1000,000,000 millions bonds called for by the secretary of the treasury. Banks have already made requisition for over $11,000,000 of circulating notes as a result, and there is more to hear from. The issue of new securities has come to a termination. Wall street for some time to come will only have to look after those already existing. Railway earnings are looming up most magnificiently. The Wall Street Journals compilation for March show a much larger net gain than for similar period in any other year. Complete returns for March will show an improvement in net of from eight to ten per cent. The net gain for February was a trifle less than four and one half per cent. Investors should appreciate that railway values are on the up grade for this spring and summer.

HAIGHT & FREESE.

New Limbs For Old Ones.

It might reasonably have been supposed that artificial limbs, like the bicycle and the telephone, were refinements of modern civilization. As a matter of fact, however, they illustrate the truth of the wise man's saying that "there is nothing new under the sun." The College of Surgeons owns among its curios the skeleton of a man with a wooden (or rather bronze-cum-wooden) leg. It was found in a tomb at Capua, the contents of which were known to date back to 300 B.C. Coming to a somewhat later date, Pliny tells us that Marcus Sergius, Consul of Rome in 167 B.C., lost his right hand in his second campaign, besides receiving over a score of other wounds. Under such circumstances most men would have had enough of fighting. Not so the gallant Sergius. After taking part in four more battles single-handed (in a literal sense), he had an artificial hand made for him, and then repaired, fought with undiminished valor and success throughout the Second Punic War.

Passing to more modern times, the "iron hand" worn by Gotz von Berlichingen, one of the robber knights of the sixteenth century, may still be seen by the curious at Jagstfeld. It was so contrived as to grip sword or lance with equal facility, which in those days was no doubt the first consideration, though the weight (over three pounds), must have made it a trifle unwieldy for more peaceful purposes.

These, however, are isolated instances, and from Gotz's time artificial limbs seem to have been neglected for about three centuries. Nelson lived for eight years after he lost his arm at Santa Cruz; but no attempt was made to replace it, and for the rest of his days he wore an empty coat-sleeve. About the beginning of the last century, however, Baillif, a mechanician of Berlin, succeeded in constructing a hand weighing only a pound or thereabouts (in itself a great advance), and capable of picking up any light object.

These matters rested till 1845, which may be regarded as the real starting-point of the limb-making industry. In that year a celebrated French tenor, M. Roger, had the misfortune to lose his right arm. At first it appeared as if his artistic career was at an end; but an ingenious Prussian mechanician, Herr Petersen, constructed for him an arm with which he was able not only to use appropriate gesture in his performances, but to draw and wield a sword, use a pen and pick up a piece of paper. The French Academy of Sciences appointed a committee to report on the achievement, and since that date the art of artificial limb-making has made rapid strides.—"Chambers' Journal."

Madrid, April 28—According to advices received here from Malilla it is the intention of the Moroccan rebels to attack Fez.

Oil Worth $5.00 PER BARREL

Now being brought from the shale in the well now being drilled by the

ACTONOMA OIL AND D.VELOPMENT COMPANY

in the famous NEWHALL WHITE OIL field of California, the oldest producing field in the State.

The Company owns 10,000 Acres of Oil Territory

lying between the Kern River District on the north and the valuable Newhall holdings of the Standard Oil Company on the south and joins both these fields. It is considered the most VALUABLE PIECE OF OIL TERRITORY IN CALIFORNIA. The value of our holdings may be estimated by the fact that an offer of $27,500 has been made for the ground on which our well is located, showing the confidence oil men have in our prospects.

To push their well and complete the development of this vast property, the company offers 40,000 shares of treasury stock at 65 cents per share This low offer is but for a short time and may be withdrawn without notice, as a strike would advance the stock to par at once and probably far beyond that.

It is expected that five or six additional wells will be put down during the coming summer.

This company has no high salaried officers, no preferred stock, and economy and integrity are exercised by its managers, and the interest of the smallest stockholder is protected.

Should you desire stock you must act promptly, as such opportunities never go begging nor remain long in sight. Orders filled as received.

If shares are exhausted when your application is received we will return your money. Make checks payable to the order of the Actonoma Oil and Development Company, P. H. Enright, Secretary and Treasurer, 218 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY,
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralised gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

RED ROSE TEA IS PACKED EITHER BLACK, GREEN —OR MIXED—

Successfully Rescued

Mr. Harry Gibson of Kingston, was rescued from an enemy that relentlessly pursued him for years

Mr. Gibson was born and brought up in Kingston. By profession he is a school teacher. He received his training in Queen's University, where he took a course in arts and medicine that well befits him to talk on almost any subject.

The enemy that for 25 years relentlessly pursued Mr. Gibson is a menace to our entire population—it is the demon, Catarrh.

Mr. Gibson says:—"For years I was never free from Catarrh of the nose and throat. It bothered me winter and summer and kept me so continually coughing and hawking that I found it a great impediment to the proper performance of my duties at school. I used every available means of obtaining a cure, took bottle after bottle of medicine prescribed by local doctors, but never got more than temporary relief. I consulted a well-known specialist in the States, but after spending a considerable amount of money with him to no advantage, was forced to look elsewhere for relief, which I first received from Catarrhozone.

I consider Catarrhozone a genuine cure for Catarrh. It drove the loathsome disease completely out of my system, and to-day I am as well as if I never knew what the word Catarrh implied."

A straightforward proof of cure, coming from a well known gentleman like Mr. Gibson carries conviction of the fact with it that Catarrhozone does all that is claimed for it. As a cure for Catarrh and Bronchitis it positively has no equal. All druggists, price $1.00; small size, 25 cents. By mail from Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Coming to Peterborough

S. Homer Eaton, of Boston, the best of all Impersonators and W. Francis the eminent Baritone and Song Writer, assisted by Miss Adra M. Luton, Soprano, and Mr. Wilbur G. Grant, Accompanist. Friday May 1st. 97td

Is Getting Better

Mr. Wm. Hall, who was so severely injured at the Cereal Company's dam on Monday, is doing as well as can be expected. Yesterday he was able to talk, and Dr. Young has hopes of his recovery. Should no unfavorable symptoms set in he will be on the fair way to health in a short time.

Spring Lamb

H. P. Kennedy, having buyers in almost every district between Tweed and Toronto, is able to place before his customers the very best spring lamb that Canada produces. He also has the facilities for keeping all meats in cold storage long enough to drive out all objectionable qualities and present his patrons with only the very best meat; a full supply of which is always kept on hand.

The Meeting Postponed

The open meeting of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association and their friends, which was to have taken place last night at the Opera House, has been postponed. It was found that the Grand President, Hon. E. Hackett, the Grand Solicitor, Hon. F. R. Latchford, the Grand Medical Advisor, Dr. Ryan, of Kingston, and Mr. Behan, Trustee, Kingston, were unable to be present, hence the postponement.

A Great Impersonator

What the press has to say of Mr. S. Homer Eaton, who is to appear in Peterborough Friday, May 1st, at the Opera House: "The impersonations of Mr. Eaton are of a very unusual type, since there is not a touch of caricature in costume, make-up or in voice. He carries his audience with him to tears or laughter and with a finished and dramatic skill that one seldom finds, unless it be in Sol Smith Russell or a Willard." —Albany Argus.

Death of Mr. LeBrun

A letter was received yesterday from Mr. H. LeBrun, who is in Montreal, that his father had passed away on Sunday evening in that city. Mr. LeBrun received a despatch on Sunday stating that his father was very low, and he and Mrs. LeBrun started at once for Montreal. They evidently did not arrive in time to see the deceased alive. Mr. LeBrun was an old and highly esteemed resident of the Canadian metropolis.

—All Saints' vestry meeting has been adjourned till next Monday evening.

THE MARCH-OUT

The 57th Regiment Makes Its First Appearance for the Season

The 57th Regiment paraded last night in full strength, headed by the Regimental bands. The men looked fine, and the marching was excellent, notwithstanding the fact that the regiment was largely made up of recruits.

Col. Millen and officers have reason to feel proud of the force, which will compare favorably with any in the country.

The streets were lined with citizens, who came out to see the boys in red.

NEARLY STAMPED OUT

Only Two Houses in Town Now Placarded for Contagious Diseases

We congratulate Dr. Young, the Acting Medical Health Officer, and the Board of Health on the fact that contagious diseases have been practically stamped out in town. Only two houses are now placarded, one of these being scarlet fever and the other diphtheria.

At one time scarlet fever threatened to become epidemic in town, while diphtheria was also very prevalent. Thanks to the efforts of Dr. Bingham and those who assisted him, the town has been freed from all contagious diseases.

We understand a few cases exist at the hospitals, but these are all doing well.

AN OPERA HOUSE

Time Something was being Done to Provide one for Peterborough

That the one great need of Peterborough is an Opera House is now apparent. It is nothing short of a disgrace that no such institution is in existence here. Would it not be a good idea for the Board of Trade to take the matter up and endeavor to have a company organized from amongst the members to build an Opera House? The town, might, we think, provide a free site and exemption, and take as an offset the free use of the library for public meetings, &c.

With a free site and tax exemption there should be little difficulty in selling enough stock to put up and furnish the building.

It is not necessary for the building to be on George street, or in fact in the business portion of the town. So that providing a site need not be a serious matter. We commend this matter to the attention of President Hughes-Charles of the Board of Trade.

THE SPRING ASSIZES

Court Adjourned on Account of the Absence Justice Street

The spring sittings of the High Court of Justice opened yesterday, but on account of the absence of Justice Street, adjourned after the Grand Jury had been called.

The following is the Grand Jury: C. A. Alexander, merchant, Peterborough; J. J. Bennett, farmer Monaghan; Wm. M. Bell, farmer, Smith; Robert Clinkscale, carpenter, Peterborough; A. W. Cressman merchant, Peterborough; R. J. Frost, jeweller, Peterborough; J. W. Garvin, agent, Ashburnham; William Garbutt, farmer, Douro; W. Rae, farmer, Otonabee; Samuel Stenson, farmer, Smith; Geo Tovey, farmer, Peterborough, Zaccheus Tucker, farmer, Anstruther.

The Jury were informed that the court would open to-day at one o'clock.

There were no representatives of the bar present.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Officers Elected for the George Street Methodist Church League

At the annual business meeting of George street Epworth League very encouraging reports were received from the various committees showing that the work of the different departments during the year had been most satisfactory. The election of officers for the ensuing year was held and resulted as follows:

Hon.-President—Rev. J. P. Wilson.
President—Mr. E. H. Doidge.
1st Vice-President, (C. E. Dept.)—Miss B. Fries.
2nd Vice-President, (Missionary Department)—Mrs. Lewis.
3rd Vice-President, (Literary Department)—Miss Maude Detchler.
4th Vice-President, (Social Department)—Mr. G. Galley.

A Handsome Carriage

Mr. R. H. Leary, the well known liveryman, never tires of improving his splendid livery plant. He has just added a beautiful pneumatic tired two seated carriage to his well-equipped barns. This rig is a beauty having been a prize winner at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition last year. We congratulate Mr. Leary on his enterprise.

Revolution in Newfoundland

Since the introduction into Newfoundland of the new Inhaler Remedy "Catarrhozone," the treatment of catarrhal diseases has been entirely revolutionized. The old-time snuff and internal medicines has been cast aside and everyone is inhaling Catarrhozone; it clears the head and throat in two minutes, and is very agreeable and pleasant to use. Catarrhozone is a wonderful cure for Coughs Colds, Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis Lung Troubles and Deafness. It relieves quickly and cures permanently. We advise our readers to try Catarrhozone. Price $1.00; trial size, 25 cts. Druggists or Polson & Co, Kingston, Ont.

A NEW PHASE OF THE STRIKE QUESTION

How a 'Walking Delegate Had the Matter Brought Home

A Tie Up That Came Totally Unexpected—The Striker in This Case Won Out in a Walk

A local trades unionist, who is never tired of talking "strike," had an experience of his own a few days ago. He believes in strikes as a settler of all disputes between employer and employee, and so did his wife.

The other night, when he returned from work he found the table was not set.

"I want a new dress," she said, when he asked what the trouble was.

"I know. You've been bothering me for that dress for a month," he said, "but how about supper?"

"There isn't any," she replied. "This is a strike."

"A strike?"

"Yes, a general tie-up. I've been trying to secure a peaceable settlement of the trouble for some time; now I've struck."

"Mary, do you dare—?"

"Oh, don't talk to me that way! If I can't get you to arbitrate, why I've got to strike. I don't care if it does block the wheels of trade."

"But, Mary, you don't understand."

"Oh, yes, I do. I've made my demands and they've been refused. I've asked for a compromise, and that has also been refused. A strike is all there is left, and I've struck."

"But your demands are unreasonable."

"I don't think they are."

"You're no judge."

"You're the judge of your own demands when you strike, and I'm as good a judge as you are when I want something. It's no use talking. The strike is on."

She folded her arms in a determined way, and he subsided. It was perhaps half an hour later when he looked up again and said:

"Mary, is the strike still on?"

"It is still on," she returned.

"Aren't you hungry?"

"No. I saw I had something in the treasury before the strike was ordered."

"Meaning the pantry?" he remarked.

"Meaning the pantry," she returned.

"I believe I'll get a bite," he said.

"It's locked," she replied. "The reserve is to be used simply to keep the strike going. You can't touch the striker's resources."

"Be careful Mary," he said, warningly. "If I shut off the cash—" She nodded toward the locked pantry.

"I can stick it out a week, she returned.

Five or 10 minutes later he proposed that they compromise on the basis of $5.

"Ten," she replied, firmly.

"But I can't afford it," he protested.

"That's your business," she answered. "I offered to arbitrate once."

It was 10 o'clock that night when he finally gave in; and somehow he felt he had experienced a new phase of the strike business. It looked different from the other side of the fence.

A Good Investment

We again call the attention of investors to the opportunity offered for a safe and profitable investment by the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, of which Mr. J. M. Might is the agent. Mr. Might will remain a few days in town and will be pleased to call on any who may desire information regarding the Company's property. He can be found at the Oriental Hotel, or at The Times office.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Suckers are now being bagged in large quantities.

—Complaints have reached this office regarding the dust.

—The Albany Club has passed the century mark in point of membership.

—A citizen asked The Times yesterday what becomes of all the old plank and scantlin which is being taken up to make room for concrete pavements. We give it up; ask us something easy.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. Ed. Brown is laid up with a slight attack of la grippe.

—Dr. C. B. Stone left yesterday for Minnesota, where he will remain a year.

—Mr. James Hards leaves for Toronto this morning, where he will remain for a few weeks.

—Mr. Geo. H. Watson, K.C., of Toronto, is here for the High Court Sittings.

—Miss Louie Scott, Ashburnham, left last week to enter as a nurse the hospital at Yonkers, N. Y.

—Mr. L. F. Clarry, of Hastings, counsel for the defence in the case Christie vs. Christie, to be tried before the High Court, is in town.

—Mr. Hugh O'Leary, K.C., of Lindsay, is in town to attend the High Court Sittings. He is accompanied by Miss O'Leary.

—The many friends of Miss Mary Stratton will join in extending to her their hearty congratulations on the occasion of her graduating as a nurse at the Kingston General Hospital.

Laid at Rest

The funeral of the late Mrs. Hards, (nee Pearl Hamilton) took place yesterday afternoon, and was very largely attended. The services at the grave were conducted by Rev. J. G. Potter. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents, who are thus bereft of an only child.

Provincial Appointments

The official appointment is announced of John Argue of the Township of Argyle, R. H. Parmenter of Toronto, Frank Hornsby of Gravenhurst, and A. E. Cole of Hespeler, to be notaries public; T. Graham of Fenelon Falls to be bailiff of the Second Division Court of the County of Victoria. Edward Harkness of Corunna to be bailiff of the Seventh Division Court of the County of Lambton; Levi Bawtinheimer of Galt to be bailiff of the Third Division Court of the County of Waterloo.

"I do not look as though I ever was sick."

When a woman is sick she falls off in looks. This is particularly the case when she suffers from diseases peculiar to her sex. Not only is her strength undermined, but she loses beauty of face and grace of form.

It is characteristic of the cures of womanly diseases effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that with restored health there is a restoration of good looks.

"Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicines have done me," writes Mrs. Mae Brown, of Canton, Fulton Co., Ills. "I was troubled with female weakness and doctored with several different doctors. They did not seem to help me; indeed I got worse all the time. I had ulceration and displacement of the uterus. What I suffered no tongue can tell. I had heavy bearing-down pains and thought my back would kill me. I also had a very bad drain, but after taking five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' I am feeling as well as ever. It has been almost two years and I have had no return of the trouble. My friends tell me I don't look as though I ever was sick."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MR. STRATTON SAID TO BE ABSENT FROM THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS ON SEPTEMBER 10

Gamey Said to Have Been Sore on His Party---Boyd Swears That Member for Manitoulin Told Him, as Early as Aug. 16, He Intended to Support Government.

THE JUDGES VINDICATE THEIR POWERS BUT ACCEPT EDITOR'S APOLOGY.

Mail and Empire Submits to the Inevitable, Colonization Road Agent on the Stand Yesterday

Gamey Told Him the Department Understood How Matters Stood—Returning Officer Explains Delay of Election Returns for Manitoulin

Toronto, April 29.—The proceedings at the Gamey investigation this morning were of a rather uninteresting character. The charge of contempt against the Mail and Empire ended with an apology. Mr. Boyd, the colonization road agent at Sault Ste. Marie, threw some further light on New Ontario politics, and some alibi testimony of a not very significant character was taken.

The Mail and Empire case occupied the attention of the judges at the opening of the court this morning. On behalf of the newspaper, Mr. J. B. Clarke, K.C., submitted an affidavit by the general manager, Mr. W. J. Douglas, who stated that some time ago he held a conference with the various heads of departments, and had impressed on them that absolute fairness was to be the policy of the Mail and Empire, and that every man was to be regarded as innocent until proven guilty.

Continuing, the affidavit introduced a tu quoque argument, and brought to the attention of the court extracts from the Globe, the Star, the London Advertiser, and the Toronto Telegram, of various dates showing that much latitude has been exercised in this case by the press, and that therefore it was quite possible that less care had been exercised than in an ordinary trial.

The Chancellor said that they could not try the whole press of this country. If Mr. Douglas was willing to admit that the item was improperly published, and express regret at the use of the phrase, "the cheque was cashed two days before Gamey was bribed," with an undertaking that the offence would not be repeated, the matter could end there.

Mr. Clarke, K.C., said that course was unquestionably the correct one; nevertheless, in justice to his clients, he desired to point out that the item was already in evidence in part at least. The Chancellor would not entertain this argument, stating that the matter was only disclosed in evidence because of the intervention of the reporter.

Mr. Clarke then expressed regret for publication on behalf of Mr. Douglas, and this was placed on the court record.

The Chancellor and Chief Justice Falconbridge then desired to clear up all misapprehension as to their jurisdiction in the matter. A clause of the Commission was read, which bestowed on them all the powers, rights and privileges of a judge of the High Court of Justice in all matters relating thereto. The Chancellor pointed out that the case was precisely similar to that which had arisen with regard to the newspaper United Ireland during the sitting of the Parnell Commission. In that case, the plea of latitude was also raised, and the tu quoque argument also with special reference to the London Times. There the rule was laid down that the line must be drawn between discussion of the political phases of the case and deliberate interference in the matter of evidence. He hoped that hereafter they would be allowed to pursue their investigation unimpeded by these collateral issues.

The evidence of the numerous constituents of Mr. Gamey was then resumed. Registrar Avery, who was returning officer at the last general election, swore that the reason that the return of the election in Manitoulin was delayed was because his bicycle broke down. In the Legislature Mr. Gamey said it was because the Government wanted plenty of time in which to fix a protest.

A rather important witness was Mr. John Boyd, of Sault Ste. Marie, Colonization Road Agent for Manitoulin, Algoma and Sault Ste. Marie Division. Boyd related a conversation which he had with Gamey at the latter's farm on August 16, four days after his interview with Mr. R. A. Grant in the Walker House, Toronto. Boyd was driving past and Gamey invited him in to dinner. During the morning Gamey told him that he was going to support the Government.

Mr. Ritchie, in cross-examination, tried to show that the visit to Gamey's farm was deliberate, but the witness claimed that it was accidental. Boyd admitted that when he left Providence Bay on the morning of August 16, he intended to go to Silver Water, and afterward changed his mind and took the road to Gore Bay, going two miles and a-half out of his way to drive by Gamey's farm at Drowned Bay. He denied that he drove into the yard and tied up his horse, and declared that Gamey was at the gate, and asked him in.

Asked when he disclosed this conversation, Boyd said it was after the appearance. Mr. Ritchie was urgent to know why, being aware that the Government's majority was only one, and that its fortunes were precarious, he had concealed this information so long. Boyd's only answer was that it was none of his business.

Correspondence was produced showing negotiations between Boyd and Gamey with regard to the colonisation road grants. On January 24 Gamey wrote him two letters, one official, containing petitions for grants; the other, private, including his recommendations, and stating: "You will find that the Department, saying that the Government was running the risk of demoralizing the party by giving Gamey the patronage, since he was favoring the sections which had supported him last May.

Asked why he discussed the matter of the grants at all with Mr. Gamey, Boyd said it was because a certain amount of deference was due to the member for the riding.

"And more deference when he supports the Government?" suggested Mr. Ritchie.

"Possibly!" said Mr. Boyd.

Counsel dwelt on Mr. Boyd's concern for party advantage in connection with the road grants, and the Chancellor uttered a cynicism:

"Isn't that what parties are for in this country?" he said.

Mr. Ritchie read further from the correspondence, showing that Boyd had written to the Hon. F. R. Latchford, "Possibly I know this man more thoroughly than his political friends." Boyd swore that he meant Gamey's Conservative friends.

Boyd also admitted having tried to get Mr. McMillan, the Socialist candidate out of the field last May, but denied that he was authorized by the Government to take such steps.

Mr. Thomas Bayne, the dapper and widely known manager of the Walker House, was put in the box and produced the books of the hotel to show that Gamey was there from Sept. 1 to 11, and, it being Exhibition time, on various occasions S. J. Martin, of Ottawa, and A. A. Bowen of Kempville, were doubled with him. Presumably the defence is paving the way for evidence as conversations.

Joseph Doan, livery stable keeper, showed that Hon. J. R. Stratton drove to Osgoode Hall on Sept. 10, between 12.25 and 1.25 noon, as testified to by Mr. Aylesworth. The object of this is to prove an alibi for Mr. Stratton, so far as the noon hour on Sept. 10 is concerned. Baird, the driver, and Arthur Crysdale, the bookkeeper, gave similar testimony. Gamey said that at 12.30 on either Sept. 10 or 11 he got the money.

Arthur J. Crysdale was recalled by Mr. McPherson at the opening of the afternoon session, and produced his daybook. The blotter produced this morning did not show where the hack charged for from 7.20 to 12 p.m. on the 10th of September went to. The day book showed the hack took two persons to the Union Station; three back to the west wing; then two to 11 Elm avenue, and two back to the Parliament Buildings.

Charles Winfield said he was a wholesale coke salesman now, but driving a hack for Mr. Doan in September last. On the tenth of that month he drove Mr. Stratton to the Exhibition in the afternoon.

Aubrey Timbrel, clerk in the Walker House, testified to Mr. Gamey having registered at the Walker on September 10.

S. J. Martin, of Kempville, being sworn, recognized Mr. Gamey in the court room, and said he met him on September 1 coming to Toronto. Witness said he had written ahead for a room in the Walker, and afterwards the clerk asked him if he would mind another man rooming with him. This man turned out to be Mr. Gamey, and said he had no objection. He and Mr. Gamey went to the theatre together that night, and during the evening they got talking politics. Mr. Gamey said if Whitney was not in power in six months he would not be in power at all, and in that event he (Gamey) would support the Ross Government, because it gave good laws for Manitoulin. Mr. Gamey's talk was along the same lines as appeared in the Globe interview later on.

Cross-examined by Mr. McPherson, he said his means of support came from his connection with the Maccabees, in which Order he was deputy supreme commander for the Province of Ontario.

Q.—What income? A.—That is a question I cannot answer—you will have to ask the supreme commander.

The Chancellor advised that it was not pertinent to press the question.

Q.—Have you any tangible means of support other than politics? A.—I have no monetary interests in politics.

Q.—Have you taken an active interest in politics? A.—Yes, in my own riding—the County of Dundas.

Q.—Do you mean to say you are on oath not to disclose his salary? A.—Yes.

Q.—To whom? A.—The supreme commander.

Q.—Does that outweigh your obligation to give it as evidence? A.—I think so.

Q.—What monies has passed through your hands other than what you got from the Maccabees? A.—None.

Witness then told about relating his experience with Gamey, to several persons around Kempville, and was subjected further to a close and severe examination by Mr. McPherson.

S. B. Grant, assistant to the King's Printer, testified that the "Stock Broker's Bond," "C. and Co." and "Earnscliffe Bond" brands of paper were supplied to all departments of the Ontario Government.

The Situation in the Far East Becoming Intolerable

London, April 30—The purpose of the insurgent party in Macedonia is to attack Turkey secure the support of Russia, and force a European war if necessary, to secure their own liberties. Russia and Austria-Hungary, however, united in telling them they must keep quiet, not yet being ready for a final readjustment of the balance of power, but they at the same time told the Sultan very firmly that he must at once institute sweeping reforms in Macedonia. This he began to do and began in apparently good faith to do, to some extent, when the Albanians, who have always furnished his best soldiers, and of whom his bodyguard is made up, demanded that the reforms be given up, threatening revolt if they were not. Meanwhile Germany, who has been friendly to Turkey of late, seems disposed to join the other powers in insisting on reforms, and the Sultan, who has called out a large army, is literally between the devil and the deep sea, confronted with a question almost as difficult to solve as what would happen if an irresistible force came in contact with an immovable body. Whatever the outcome, he is sure to be the loser to some extent and trouble in his dominions is on the increase. In the interest of humanity and good government the Powers should agree to terms of division, conceding Constantinople to Russia and expelling the Turk forever from the lands he has so long harried and oppressed.

GERMANY WILL BE THE GREATEST LOSER

Lord Strathcona on the Anti-German Tariff

HE FAVORS THIS COUNTRY

The Views of England's Greatest Financial Paper on the Subject

London, April 30—Lord Strathcona, interviewed regarding the tariff war between Canada and Germany, says: "Germany has taken the first step by not according to Canada the most favored nation treatment." He added: "Germany in the long run will be the greatest sufferer, as Canada imports more German goods than Germany Canadian goods."

The Financial Times, commenting upon German attitude, which is actuated by the desire to deter other colonies following Canada's example, says: "So Germany is to bully us into domestic disunion, so she may get more plunder, and Right Hon. Mr. Ritchie does what he can to help Germany in her amiable purpose."

THE GLITTER THAT GREETS THE KING

It Has Its Place in the Great International Politics

POWERS DRAW TOGETHER

England, France and Italy's Friendship and Its Significance to Europe Generally

Rome, April 30—Why is Rome ablaze with color on account of the visit of King Edward? Why is Paris assuming a similar aspect for the same reason? And what is the meaning of the elaborate program of festivals planned for the near future, in honor of the British sovereign? These are questions with regard to which a correspondent found the leading officials of the foreign office reticent. They defined the impending courtesies as naturally important, and said that it could not be denied that English and French relations with Italy had undergone a striking improvement during the administration of Premier Zanardelli.

On the other hand, an independent senator was more outspoken. "Recent political evolution," he stated, "has thrown the interests of Italy, France and Great Britain into a group by themselves. They are all Mediterranean powers in a sense, and that cannot be applied to any other nations. They are all concerned in the maintenance of the Balkan status. Italy welcomes the eternal symbolism of this alignment with ardour, because Russia and Austria excluded her from participation in the recent important developments in the near East. Nobody should be surprised to see us leaning toward these western powers, whose interests are not antagonistic to our own. Readjustment of the map of Eastern Europe is bound to come, but it will not necessarily take place with Italy, as heretofore solidly for a central empire. France also wishes to intimate to Russia that she must not presume too far on the dual alliance. England is seeking moral strength to resist the general southward movement of the Slav. That is that symbol underlying the magnificent display that is passing before the eyes of southern Europe today."

THE WAR CLOUD IN THE EAST GROWS MORE OMINOUS

Naval Strength of Powers.

In view of the latest developments in Manchuria, the naval strength of the various powers in China waters becomes interesting. The Russian fleet has been increased until it now numbers 42 vessels. France has 31 ships and twenty others in India and Cochin China waters. Great Britain counts her thirty-warships in Chinese waters and Germany seventeen.

The Kentucky and Oregon are the only American battleships on the Asiatic Station, but there are twenty-four other smaller warships, including two monitors, and some small gunboats in Philippine waters. Japan has a strong naval force on the coast.

Russia Massing Her Troops on Chinese Border

BELIEVED SHE WILL HOLD MANCHURIA

And will Defy Japan and the Powers

London, April 30—The latest news from China is not at all assuring. It is semi-officially announced that Russia is massing troops along the Chinese border, and in Manchuria, notwithstanding the fact that she has been notified to get out of the country. The refusal of China to agree to Russia's terms regarding the Province of Manchuria, is having the effect of precipitating matters. If a conflict is to take place, it will be on at once, as it is up to Japan to take action. That country is terribly in earnest in its efforts to force Russia to carry out her promises.

The Daily Chronicle says: Public interest will be diverted from the threatening condition of affairs in the East, by the latest dispatches from Peking which are of so definite a character, as to indicate serious trouble in that quarter. As the time the time approached for Russia to comply with the stipulations she had agreed to in regard to the evacuation of Manchuria it has grown more and more doubtful whether she intended to do so. Now, although the limit does not expire till September, she appears to have dropped the mask and to stand revealed as the determined and permanent occupant and sovereign of that province, with fortifications, a considerable land force and a large fleet at hand to back her pretensions. Her European ally, with a view to possibilities in the way of increased possessions in case of trouble, has also a number of effective ships of war within easy call, and the attitude assumed says to all the world, What are you going to do about it? A question which, like Hamlet's "To be or not to be," must give us pause." What are we going to do about it?

The demand made by Russia on China would compel the Peking Government to violate long standing treaties with us, would abrogate the principle of the open door, to which Russia has explicitly assented, and would prevent the opening of additional ports contemplated by the treaty with the United States, which is now negotiating with China and which that country has much at heart. The interests involved are far-reaching and vital, now and in the fu- England and Japan stand ready to second any positive or even aggressive position the United States may assume. China, of course, looks to these countries for hold. If it was a small nation they were dealing with they should unquestionably insist on strict adherence to the treaty. Shall these countries give up their rights because it is a large and powerful one? Such a course would hardly seem to become the great nations, unless there are better reasons for doing so than the mere dread of consequences. Underlying the entire controversy in regard to the possession or control of China is the necessity, which all commercial and manufacturing countries realise fully, for new markets, and those of China promise, as she emerges, as Japan did, from her condition of coma into the ranks of civilized nations, to be the most greatest and most lucrative in the world.

Washington, April 29—The Post says: Our position on the Pacific entitled us, more than any other country, to a large share in the trade of China, and China is disposed to give it to us. Shall we allow Russia to make Manchuria a province of her own, closing ports already open, and refusing to open others which are now within our reach?

It is said that she will develop the country so much more rapidly than China would that even with her tariff against us we should secure more trade than though she fulfilled her obligations and permitted China to do so. If it is a mere matter of dollars and cents, with no question of right, or of future influence and advantage in the East, that view of the situation might be worth considering, but that is not the case. It is possible and yet to be hoped for that Russia will yield to determined representations on the part of the Powers with tions on the part of the Powers with adverse interests, and we look for such to be made promptly, and if not, what then?

President Roosevelt is a mighty hunter. Has he the stomach to tackle the great Bear of the North in his new made lair on the Pacific?

VOLCANIC EXPLOSION AT FRANK, N.W.T.

Seventy Persons Killed--Ground Covered 50 Feet Deep a Mile Away

Winnipeg, Man., April 29.—There was a volcanic explosion at Frank, N.W.T., about four o'clock this morning. It is reported 75 people were killed. The wires are down east of Frank, and the line is reported to be covered for a mile and a half east from ten to fifty feet in depth.

Frank is a new mining town in Alberta, near Lethbridge, and about on the boundary line between British Columbia and the Territories.

Victoria, B.C., April 29.—Private advices from Frank state that the loss of life owing to the eruption there this morning will reach a hundred. Meterological and Mining Department officials here discredit the story of an eruption, stating that the formation and history of the country makes it very improbable.

Reports from there, however, state that lava and ash from the outbreak is choking up Old Man's River, which runs through the center of the town, and threatening even further destruction of property.

MARRIED AN EARL

A Charming American Girl Becomes Countess of Yarmouth

Pittsburg, Pa., April 30—The wedding of Miss Alice Thaw, of this city, to the Earl of Yarmouth, took place in Calvary Episcopal Church at 4.30, Monday afternoon, before one of the most brilliant assemblages ever seen at a wedding in Pittsburg. Henry Kendall Thaw gave the bride away, and the officiating clergymen were the Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan and the Rev. Dr. Holm H. McIlvaine.

A reception followed at the Thaw residence. Lord and Lady Yarmouth have left for a brief honeymoon trip in America before sailing for England.

AFTER THE GAMBLERS

Sequel to the Raid on the Winnipeg Gambling Dens

Winnipeg, April 30—Eighteen prominent young men of the city, summoned to the police court yesterday as the result of a raid at Hotel du Canada, Saturday night, failed to appear and warrants were issued for their arrest. Twenty-four more are summoned for Thursday.

The raid has caused great excitement. It was made by the liquor license department on account of numerous complaints from the heads of families. Two young men who played the game, recently defrauded their employes out of large sums of money to make up their losses.

AFTER 57 DAYS

Bessie Knecht Thought to Be Suffering from an Abscess on the Brain

Chicago, April 27—A dispatch from Salt Lake City says:

Bessie Knecht awoke yesterday from her 57 days' sleep. A part of her treatment has been a cold bath every morning. Yesterday when about to be immersed, she broke away from her nurse and ran unassisted to her cot. A short time afterward, when her medicine was about to be administered, she spoke for the second time since the beginning of her sleep. Then she opened her eyes. The doctors attribute her trouble to an abscess on the brain. When she went to sleep she weighed 127 pounds. Now she only weighs 76.

FRANCHISE TAX LAW

In New York State Sustained—Its Effects are Far Reaching

Albany, N.Y., April 29—The Court of Appeals unanimously sustains the special franchise tax law, which amended the general tax law so as to include as taxable real property, the rights of street, railroad, gas, pipe line, telegraph, telephone and similar public service companies in the public streets and places. Taxes assessed during the three years since the passage of the law amount to $18,412,584 upon an assessed valuation in 1902, for instance, of $282,017,770.

The court holds that the legislature in creating a new system of taxation, embracing "a new kind of property, never taxed before, had the right to entrust to state officers the power of making the assessment and that tangible property, such as rails and poles, which had been formerly taxed by local assessors is merely incidental to the special franchises and hence, that there was no infringement upon local self-government.

The many franchise companies affected will take the matter to the Supreme Court.

BOYS THREW STONES

At a Nitroglycerin Can and Both of the Boys are Dead

Zanesville, Ohio, April 30—Two boys, named Baker and Schai, of Train Run, Monroe County, threw stones at a supposed empty nitroglycerin can yesterday. The can exploded, killing the Schai boy instantly. The Baker boy's arms were torn off and both eyes blown out. He died today. The Schai boy's head was split open from the chin up.

The Chinese Minister Will Provide Schools for His Countrymen

New York, April 30—The Chinese, Minister to the United States, Sir Chen Tung Liang Cheng, in an interview published today, said that he intended to take steps some time during the present year to establish schools for teaching the English language to Chinamen in sections of this country where the Chinese are congregated most.

"I believe," said the Minister, "that this is the best way to elevate the general condition of the majority of the Chinamen." California, he said, had been suggested as the best place for the first school.

Germany and Mormonism

Berlin, April 30 —The statement that the Government is determined not to allow the preaching of Mormonism in Germany is confirmed. No general decree of expulsion will be issued, and no steps will be taken to interfere with the existing settlements. No new preachers will be tolerated, however, and it is more than probable that the leaders of the existing Mormon communities will be quietly ordered to desist from preaching their doctrines.

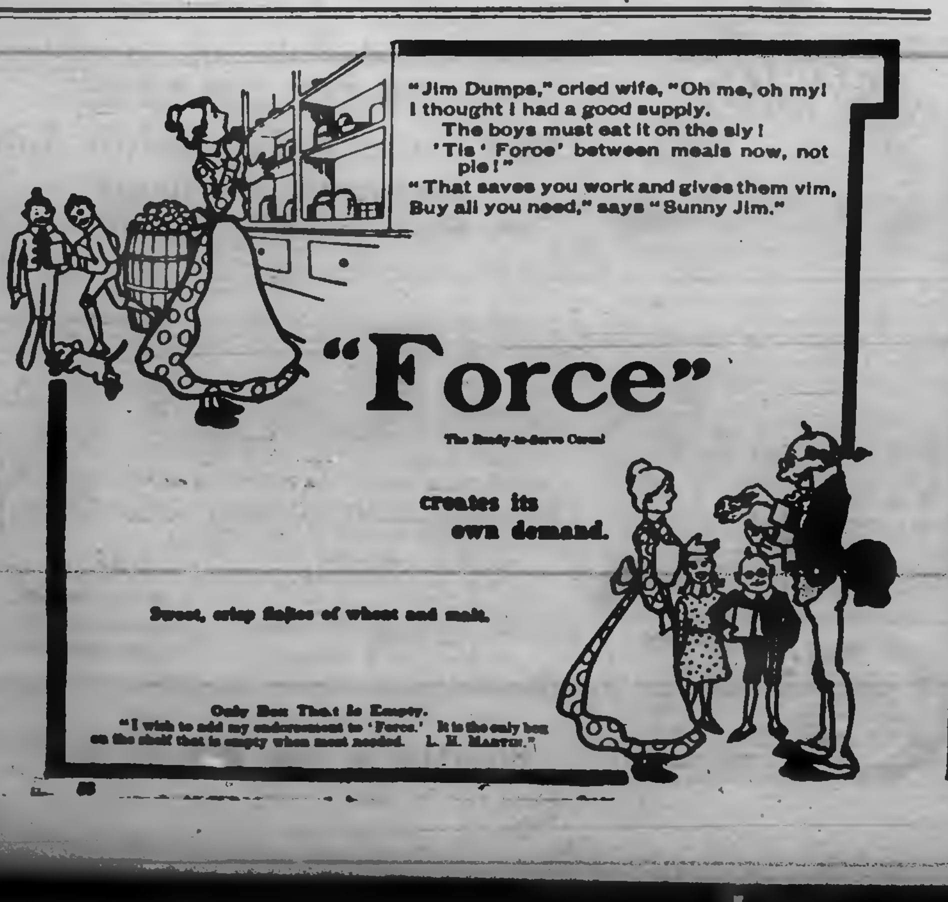
DAVITT STILL A KICKER

He Deplores the Denationalizing of the Irish People

London, April 30—The Times, Dublin, correspondent says Davitt has written as follows to the secretary of the committee established in Cork for the purpose of erecting a monument to commemorate the events of 1798: "It is a little humiliating to think that the year which ought to have witnessed the inauguration of a suitable memorial to the men of 1798, in the two chief Nationalist cities of Ireland, is likely to witness in both places a slavish and sordid exhibition of denationalizing flunkeyism and mercenary loyalty. One is puzzled to know whether grovelling nationalism or municipal flunkeyism is most deserving of honest Irish contempt."

Drowned in British Columbia

Vancouver, B.C., April [illegible]—Norman Davis, whose mother lives at Bristol Mines, Quebec, was drowned in Emily Lake, Texada Island, Saturday. He upset in a canoe 45 yards from shore. He swam nearly the distance, sinking 25 yards from shore.



"Jim Dumps," cried wife, "Oh me, oh my!

PETERBOROUGH, APRIL 27, 1903.

A SOMBRE SYMPOSIUM

Not long ago a literary man in gay, frivolous, pleasure-loving Paris, requested a number of celebrated Frenchmen to define something of their feelings in view of death. The results of his inquiry have appeared in a Parisian review.

"Why shall I regret to die?" asks M. Brieux, the poet, "for so long as I am alive, I shall hope to live. And when I am dead, I shall not know that I am dead." M. Anatole France, the famous author, answers with a quotation from Euripides: "We cling to this life because we know no better. Let us not be vainly agitated by lies." M. Paul Adam, the critic and novelist, declares that he would not regret to die, if it were only a question of relinquishing the good things of life. But he has no more confidence in death than he has in life. He says, "On earth I realise that I have to expect material trouble, incessant work, the hostility of friends, the calculations of those around me." He fears that it may be even worse than death. M. Berthelot, the chemist, thinks the greatest pang in death is its summoning us from unfinished work. "What poet, painter or sculptor would not grieve to die before his work was completed?" he asks. The same question applies to our work on earth, whether high or low.

Some of the answers have real French flippancy. A famous Paris musician says he does not want to die, because in the other world he will have to meet people whom he has carefully avoided in this world. A popular French author would like to live for centuries, so that he may watch mundane developments. Another thinks that the great bliss of dying would be to escape the interviewers. Still another says that if he could only reconcile the differences between the Book of Budda and the Koran, between the utterances of St. Paul and of Pascal, he might be able to say whether he should wish to die.

The Journal des Debats observes that the thought of death seems to be as full of terrors to the free-thinkers of the Twentieth century as it was to the devout souls of past generations. Alphonse Daudet acknowledged that this thought poisoned his life. The works of Pierre Loti and Maupassant seem constantly possessed by this horror. It can scarcely be regretted that Zola, whose life was haunted by the fear of death, passed painlessly, suddenly and unconsciously into the other world.

Some of Tolstoi's most despairing pages are dominated by the fear of death—a fear that constantly haunted his youth. His later writing shows that this fear has vanished, as it often does when one nears the goal of life. An American naval surgeon of long experience, who did hospital service through the American civil war, testifies that though he has seen thousands die, he has never witnessed one of those terror-stricken deathbeds of which we read. Death, he says, is just as natural as life, and the "passing beyond the bar" into the great ocean of eternity has always seemed to him even more peaceful than the setting out on an earthly voyage. As the great poet has it, the uncertainty of what lies beyond this life, the mysteries of the undiscovered country, from whose bourne no traveller returns, make us choose rather to "endure the ills we have, than to fly to others, that we know not of."

INDIAN RIVER.

—Mr. Rancier is busy preparing for the milk season.

—Mr. Joseph Collins was visiting friends in Ashburnham on Sunday.

—Our village blacksmith says that "Jack" has not learned how to drive a colt yet.

—The roads are drying up nicely and the bicycles are getting more plentiful.

—Scarlet fever and diphtheria are still causing a lot of excitement around here.

—The boys from sunny Italy are working here now and "Gus" says they are real nice fellows.

—Messrs. P. Sweeney and J. Allen were seen making dust fly over the "hog's back" one evening last week.

—The Indian River boys have organized a football team with Wm. O'Leary as captain. They are doing a lot of practicing so as to be ready for a match on the 24th. Capt. O'Leary says if it was through seeding he could give the boys more instructions and they would soon be in A 1 shape.

—The bachelors are making strenuous efforts to have their next meeting a success. Many new members have been initiated, among whom is Maurice O'Brien, the hustling egg-buyer. Since Sunday James Foley has given up the notion of joining.

—A very pleasant evening was spent at the residence of Mr. Maurice Meid on Wednesday last. A number of young folks from Peterborough, together with the local sports, gathered there are tripped the light fantastic to their heart's content. Mr. John Smith furnished the music, while Mr. Arthur Flenders acted as floor manager. A very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of "The Old Arm Chair."

THE SESSION'S JOKE

The joke of the session at Ottawa is the vote by which the House Commons declared that the manufacture and sale of cigarettes should be absolutely prohibited. Afterwards when Mr. Fielding in his Budget speech spoke of the increase of the revenue from cigarettes (1901, $362,626; 1902, $400,085) the House broke into laughter. This is a notable characteristic of the House; it smiles when it is acting foolishly and when it votes for political or moral effect, rather than for the vindication of an earnestly-held principle. The cigarette and "Home Rule for Ireland" resolutions are examples of actions of which the House is modestly ashamed—May Canadian Magazine.

LABOR TROUBLES IN B. C.

Skilled Labor is Scarce but Non Union Men are Compelled to Leave

Vancouver, April 30—Owing to the great scarcity of skilled labor, the iron manufacturers are all far behind in their work. They claim that the Amalgamated Iron Workers' union compel all who do not carry cards, who come here from Eastern Canada and Europe, lured by the highest possible wages, to join the union or to leave the town. Some of the iron manufacturers are striving to organize all the manufacturers and industries into a guild for protection against the alleged conspiracy.

THE ANAEMIC YOUNG GIRL

Easily Noticed by Her Blanched Cheeks, Bloodless Lips and Dull Eye

Perhaps she is sixteen. Suddenly she seems to lose strength. Her beauty fades because her vitality is steadily decreasing. Dark circles appear under the eyes which become lustreless and dull. Her spirits droop, for no girl can be contented and happy in such condition.

This may be quickly corrected by taking Ferrozone. It supplies what is lacking in the blood, purifies and strengthens it, and keeps it in perfect order. Ferrozone makes plenty of red corpuscles that manifest themselves in a healthy ruddy complexion. It aids the stomach to do all its work, and creates a natural healthy relish for food.

Every organ of the body is benefited by Ferrozone. It rebuilds the entire system, makes new tissue, strengthens weak flabby muscles, makes thin people fat and sick people well.

No case of Anaemia is too chronic for Ferrozone. It may take time, but if persistently used will cure in the end. It will give you a well developed form, clear complexion, pure breath and will restore the bloom to faded cheeks and color to the lips more quickly than any other remedy.

Every woman who desire a vigorous constitution, and the good looks that come with good health, should take Ferrozone after each meal regularly. It is a wonderful tonic for the brain, the nerves and the blood, and acts also as an efficient but harmless regulator of the menstrual flow. In fact for all diseases peculiar to women and growing girls, Ferrozone has no equal as your druggist can tell you.

Three weeks treatment costs 50c., or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere, or sent by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

ELEVEN WERE KILLED

Result of Train Wreck Near Buffalo Kansas

Twenty-Five Men were Injured—All were Greek or Italian Workmen—Most Horrifying Scenes

Kansas City, Mo. April 28.—A special from Buffalo, Kansas, says: A northbound Missouri Pacific stock train crashed into the rear of a work train just north of Buffalo last night. Eleven men were killed and twenty-five injured, ten of the latter are seriously and four probably fatally hurt. All were Greeks and Italians except Peter Fry, boss on the work train. The wreck is said to have been caused by misreading of orders.

The work train consisted of flat cars and a caboose, all filled with laborers. The men on the flat cars escaped by jumping, but hardly a man in the caboose got out. The work train was backing into town for the night, and running at a good speed. The heavy freight engine did not leave the track, but plowed the work train off, leaving little of it except car wheels and kindling wood. Doctors of Buffalo, assisted by townspeople, did heroic work among the injured until the wrecking train with surgeons of Neodesha, and half a dozen physicians from Coffeyville and Independence arrived. The dead and injured were taken to Coffeyville. The scene of the wreck for several hours looked like a battlefield by the dazzling light of the burning debris, with the dead and injured strewn about the ground, where they had been left after being taken from the wreck.

LEGALLY HANGED

But the Man was Revived and is Expected to Recover

Anniston, Ala., April 30—It is learned today that the negro hanged in Wedowee two weeks is now able to sit up and may recover. After the negro was pronounced dead he was cut down, as is usual, and shortly afterwards began to show signs of life. A physician was summoned, and applied restoratives, and the man is now able to sit up. This was the first man ever hanged in Randolph County, and it is thought that the officials were excited and allowed him to be cut down before he was dead.

Mainly About People.

On one occasion, Sir John Avebury was showing the heavens through his telescope to some neighbors and servants, when one exclaimed: "I do not wonder, Sir John, that clever people find out the sizes and distances of the stars and how they move; but what beats me is how you ever could tell their names."

Not long ago a coroner's jury in Ireland delivered the following verdict on the sudden death of a merchant who had recently failed in business: "We, the jury, find from the new doctor's statement that the deceased came to his death from heart failure, superinduced by business failure, which was caused by speculation failure, which was the result of failure to see far enough ahead."

In his "Reminiscences," Frederick Goodall tells a story of Wellington as an art connoisseur. He paid Wilkie six hundred guineas for his "Chelsea Pensioners," and laboriously counted out the amount in cash. When the artist suggested that it would be less trouble to write a check, the great duke retorted that he would not let his bankers know "what a d—n fool I have been to spend six hundred guineas for a picture."

Here is one of the stories told by the late Dr. Whipple, Bishop of Minnesota, whose death took place the other day: "Many years ago," said the Bishop, "I was holding a service near an Indian village camp. My things were scattered about in a lodge, and when I was going out I asked the chief if it was safe to leave them there while I went to the village to hold a service. 'Yes,' he said, 'perfectly safe. There is not a white man within a hundred miles!'"

At the establishment of a certain hairdresser the following scene recently took place, to the joy of those awaiting their turn: Barber (inspecting the victim on the chair)—Your hair is getting very thin, sir. Victim—Yes! That's all right. I've been giving it anti-fat; I hate stout hair. "It's quite gray, sir." "Of course! I'm in half-mourning just now." "But you really should put something on it, sir." "So I do, every day." "Ah! May I ask what?" "My hat!" (Silence.)

A New York clubman, whose reputation as a conceited and insufferable bore was a byword, was once attempting to impress a group of men as being a society pet. "What a hospitable fellow Blank is," he said, naming one of New York's cleverest men; "I dropped in on him the other night, and he and his wife fairly insisted that I stay for dinner. Such a time as I had getting away! Why, when I started to leave, they came right out in the hall and backed up against the front door." "After you'd g-g-gone out?" sarcastically enquired one of his wearied listeners.

Colin Steyn, the fourteen-year-old son of ex-President Steyn of the Orange Free State, was told by some British officers on the ship that was carrying his father to England that he was now a British subject and should rejoice that he belonged to an empire upon which the sun never sets. On this Master Colin demanded if they knew what the Boers were in the habit of saying as to the cause of the sun never setting on the British Empire. At the reply "No," he answered: "It is because God Almighty could never trust the British alone in the dark!"

In a little schoolhouse in the north of Scotland the schoolmaster keeps his boys grinding steadily at their desks, but gives them permission to nibble from their lunch-baskets sometimes as they work. One day while the master was instructing a class in the rule of three he noticed that one of his pupils was paying more attention to a small tart than to his lesson. "Tom Bain," said the master, "listen to the lesson, will ye?" "I'm listening, sir," said the boy. "Listening, are ye?" exclaimed the master. "Then ye're listening wi' one ear an' eating pie wi' the other."

In Scotland, when an infant is to be baptized, the father is bound to show some kind of speaking acquaintance with the shorter catechism. One day a collier went to his minister to bespeak him for the christening of his child. "How many commandments hae ye?" asked the minister. "Twenty," rejoined the collier, who was forthwith sent back to pursue his studies in elementary theology. On his way he met a brother miner, who was going to the minister on a similar errand. "How many commandments have ye, Jock?" asked the first. "Ten." "Oh, you needn't trouble him wi' ten. I offered him twenty the while, but he wasna satisfied."

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress this Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,922 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Haslam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 300,000 acres of specially [illegible] section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees, and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 108 London Street.

Russian War Minister Goes to Manchuria —20 Gunboats Ordered

St. Petersburg, April 29.—The War Minister, General Kuropatkin, started on a special train to-day for Manchuria. Possibly he will go to Japan. A farewell breakfast was given yesterday in honor of the general at the Chinese Legation. Lieut.-Gen. Sakharoff has been appointed acting War Minister during the absence of Gen. Kuropatkin. The latter, who intends to make a thorough inspection of Manchuria, will be absent two months, and will visit Port Arthur Dalny and Vladivostock.

Although the general's intention to make the trip was announced publicly some weeks ago, his departure has elicited speculation in view of the recent news from Manchuria.

The Marine Minister has decided to order the construction of twenty gunboats, which will be furnished with turbine engines, for the protection of the Russian frontier at the Amoor River.

A Song Writer

Mr. W. Francis Firth, who is to appear here May 1st, is not only one of the first Baritones of the day, but is fast coming to the front as a song writer. Among his compositions are "O Father Hear Me," "As Violets," "The White Star of Heaven," "A Plea," and "Youth Lover's Heart." Some of these songs will be sung at his appearance here.

BURIED GOLD

BY

FRED WHISHAW

Author of "A Boyar of the Terrible," etc.

But Denys did not see it. "That'll be all right," he said. "She'll wait longer than four years."

Dick was not so confident. On the contrary, he was consumed with anxiety on Ruby's account, for he knew well enough that his position in that quarter was very far from secure. If Keith Adams had not remained behind it would not have mattered so much; but from certain words let fall by Ruby, Dick had rightly guessed that the girl was inclined to think kindly of Keith—too kindly to be pleasant. Dick Robinson was very much in love, far more than he had realized when he and Keith had tossed up for first say. He was consumed with jealousy of Keith and with the desire to get back in order to do his best for himself. As for this matter of the boxes of bar gold, it must not be supposed that Dick did not desire and did not intend to touch his share. He fully intended to profit by the good fortune which had cast him ashore in company with this treasure. Whether the community remained or sailed for home, some way would surely be devised by which each man should enjoy his full share of it. Armed with his portion of this wealth, indeed, he would be a far more dangerous rival to Keith than he had been without it. He would offer Ruby a fortune ready-made; a house rent free, with a garden, pigs, and so forth; and maybe a horse to drive and pretty dresses to wear—what wench could resist such things, even though she might once have felt some softness for another chap?

Dick Robinson was lookout man one morning, some two months after the arrival of the "Hecuba's" crew upon the island. As watchman he had plenty of time for indulging in reflections such as those just recorded, and he was in full cry after his favorite ideas of returning to claim Ruby with his pockets full of gold, when something brought his cogitations to a very sudden ending.

Far away on the horizon, seeming to ride in cloudland between sea and heaven, lay a ship. Dick stared, thinking he must be mistaken; the wish had been parent to the hallucination. He stared again. It was no fancy vessel, without doubt this was a ship, or rather—to judge by the trail of smoke that lay like a comet's tail behind her—a steamer, one of the wonderful vessels—both rare and strange at this time—propelled in some mysterious fashion by boiling water.

The sight caused Dick's heart to stop beating. He stood a moment or two thinking with all his might. Then he performed an illegal act. He fastened his blanket—signal-wise—to one of the trees that crowned the summit of Lookout Hill. Then he hastened down towards the village as though to give notice of the approach of the vessel.

This, however, was not Dick's intention. On the contrary, he turned aside at the foot of the hill and scudded towards the little creek, half a mile from the houses and hidden from them by a bend in the coast line where the two ship's boats were kept. There was no one about at this place. Dick acted in a curious way. He ran first to the little shed where oars, rudders and other gear were kept. Here he first seized the six oars belonging to the larger of the two boats, and carrying them among the rocks at the side of the creek, dropped them into a crevice. Then he returned to the shed and took the oars belonging to the smaller boat and laid them within the little craft, ready for use. Both boats lay at their moorings in deep water; he could step into either in a moment. But first he returned a short way up the hill, just [illegible] sel he had seen. It was not likely that it would pass the island without approaching it, in case there should be human beings requiring assistance. A glance sufficed to reassure Dick on this point. The steamer was much nearer than she had been a quarter of an hour ago, and seemed to be heading for the land.

In another moment he had bounded down the hillside and was in full dash for the creek, when a voice hailed him. A man was running towards him from the village.

"Hi, mate," cried the fellow, "you're lookout man to-day, aren't yer? Then what in thunder are you doin' not lookin' out—here's a blasted ship in sight and no warning given."

"I was just coming down," shouted Dick; but he ran on towards the creek, not towards the village.

"Where the thunder are you going to, then?" cried the other. "Skipper said I was to watch and see you don't play any darned tricks—come back," he yelled frantically, realizing that Dick was making for the boat, "come back and leave them boats alone."

It was a race for the creek. Dick arrived first by twenty seconds and jumped aboard. He was still busy with the moorings when, with a curse, the other man, Burge, reached the landing rock. Dick was ready for him.

"Set a finger on the boat," he cried, "and I'll smash your head in. I'm in earnest now; you'd best look out."

Burge, with a curse, tried to lay hold of the boat's side. In an instant Dick brought an oar crashing down upon his skull. Burge fell forward into the water. The next moment Dick had freed the craft from her moorings and shoved her off. The boat shot out into the open water. Presently a few vigorous strokes had propelled her beyond the shoulder of rocks which hid the creek from the village. At the same instant shouts of frenzied anger and alarm were raised. Dick saw a group of men rush madly towards the creek, and he thanked his stars that the oars of the second boat were hidden. At any rate he would have a good start before they were found. Then he saw old Foster come from his hut with a rifle and take steady aim. Dick crouched low till his face was between his knees. As he did so, a bullet whistled over his head. A second, following it, struck the stern of the boat.

CHAPTER V.

The Escape.

When John Foster had fired his two shots he was obliged to reload and this [illegible] some time. The interval [illegible] Robinson to gain fifty yards, and the next two shots fell short. The steamer was still a mile away. At sound of the shooting she had set up a strident whistling as though to warn all parties that she was coming and would expect an explanation of the affair.

Just as Dick reached the big vessel he caught sight of the "Hecuba's" second boat sweeping round into open water in pursuit of him. They had not been long in hunting up the oars, then.

A rope ladder was thrown over the side of the big ship and Dick climbed aboard. Someone in the small boat fired a shot at him as he climbed up. A voice from the deck of the steamer angrily bade the shooter "Stow that, or he'd blow the whole bally boat out of the water." "Take your guns, half a dozen of you," he added in a lower voice, "and if that idiot fires again, shoot him down—we can't have bullets flying about here promiscuously."

The shot was a fortunate thing for Dick, as it happened, for it put the steamer folk on his side from the first. One of the ship's officers greeted the refugee as he climbed panting on deck.

"Now, then, what's all this—who are you, and what the devil have you done to set those fellows firing?"

"For God's sake don't let them come aboard—don't let them nab me—they'll murder me if you do," Dick panted. "I've done no harm."

"Who are you then, man? Come—don't stand and shiver! Tell me what's up. They sha'n't touch you till we know the rights of it."

"We're a shipwrecked crew, and I'm the only one that wants to be taken off the island; they won't let me go for fear—for fear they're forced to go, too, and they want to stay," Dick explained, panting. "Why do they want to stay?" asked the officer, but his speech was interrupted.

The corner-stone of the new Campanile will be laid April 22, 1903, and the Venetian authorities are projecting much ceremony for the occasion. At present the courtyard of the Doge's palace is entirely occupied by fragments of statues and bas-reliefs saved from the ruins. Some of them will be employed in rebuilding the Campanile, while the others are destined for a museum. The subscriptions from all sources so far aggregate $295,000. The restoration will cost $500,000.

The new civilization of the plains is pictured by a recent incident ten miles from a Kansas town. A farmer, riding under an awning on a sulky plow, met, at the end of his furrow, the rural mail wagon. The driver tossed the farmer a bundle of mail, and as the team took up its steady course back across the half-mile field, the farmer unfolded the daily paper, printed that morning two hundred miles away, and read the happenings in China and the news of the political campaign.

Germany is reported to publish about 23,000 books in a year. Great Britain is credited with between 6,000 and 7,000 [illegible] editions. France turns out 13,000 new books and Italy 9,500 in the same time. The year's total new books is 70,000. Many of the modern books, the London "Express" reminds us, are written for the moment only. "They are merely enlarged magazine articles. If there is a revolution or a big disaster, or a war, the men on the spot promptly rush out a volume apiece. Of course, these works do not last; but they pay at the time. Not 10 per cent. of one year's books continue to sell or to be remembered a twelvemonth later."

Charles Fere calls attention, in the "Revue de Medecine," to the fact that the skin possesses a certain odor, which varies according to the individual, the age and the race. Says the "Medical Century," in an abstract of Fere's paper: "The nervous system seems to exert much influence over the odor of the cutaneous secretions. Hammond cites the case of a woman who always gave out an odor of pineapple when she was in a temper, and another who smelt of violets when suffering from an hysterical attack. The special point to which the writer desires to call attention is that certain odors are inherited, or may even extend to wide branches of the same family. Dogs are always able to recognize this odor even when it is so subtle as to escape the observation of man."

Two German aeronauts, Doctor Miethe and Lieutenant Hildebrandt, recently had a remarkable experience in the heart of a thunderstorm. They ascended from Tegel at three o'clock in the afternoon, and, passing through a mist, came suddenly into a thunder-cloud. From a height of 650 feet the balloon was shot a mile upwards, and then as suddenly it dropped half a mile. They made the curious statement that, although they did not see the lightning, they were deafened by the thunder, while pelted with rain, hail and sleet. The balloon leaped and plunged so swiftly that at times the car was on a level with the gas-bag, and the tow-rope was above their heads. After about half an hour of this experience the balloon fell from a height of 7,200 feet, descending upon a thick wood of beeches, branches of which broke the fall and saved the lives of the adventurers.

He—I think she wears a very short golfing skirt. She—Well, why shouldn't she? She has a perfect right. He—Her left looks all right, too.

He—Now look as if you were being kissed. She—Before or after?—"Life."

A Good Investment

We again call the attention of investors to the opportunity offered for a safe and profitable investment by the Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, of which Mr. J. M. Might is the agent. Mr. Might will remain a few days in town and will be pleased to call on any who may desire information regarding the Company's property. He can be found at the Oriental Hotel, or at The Times office.

Mainly About People.

In a rural justice court in Georgia, recently, an old negro, whose testimony had been questioned by a lawyer, said in his own defence: "Jedge, I'm a good man. I been a-livin' 'roun' heah ten years. I ain't never been lynched; en de only hoss I ever stoled th'owed me an broke my two legs!"

A writer in the "Nineteenth Century" gives an example of the camp gossip that is considered seriously by some and even serves as material for profound historians. After complete inaction for six weeks at Modder River, two men were overheard talking as they were taking an after-dinner smoke in the sun. "'Ave you written 'ome, Bill?" Bill had written "'ome." "An' 'ave you told 'em the truth, Bill? 'Ave you told 'em that we're up to our knees in blood?" Bill had.

Rowland Hill once read from his pulpit an anonymous letter reproaching him with driving to chapel in his carriage, and reminding him that this was not our blessed Lord's mode of traveling. He then said: "I must admit that it is not; but if the writer of this letter will come here next Sunday, bridled and saddled, I shall have great pleasure in following our blessed Lord's example in that as in all other matters within my power."

One of the best repartees of Dr. Richard Busby, from many points of view the greatest English schoolmaster that ever lived, was provoked by one of the perverts of the time of James II., the famous Father Petre, who had been under him at Westminster. Busby asked him why he had changed his faith. The quondam pupil replied that "the Lord had need of him." "I have read the Scriptures pretty diligently," said Busby, "and never read that the Lord had need of anything but once, and then it was of an ass."

Once, in the course of a speech which was punctuated by interruptions, in Parliament, John Bright was saying: "Personally, I do not feel disposed to wage war against these Philistines," when an unruly member of his audience shouted, "Hee-haw!" "If, however," Mr. Bright continued without pause, "my friend at the back of the hall will lend me one of his jaws I shall be encouraged to reconsider my attitude, in view of the historic success of Samson when provided with a similar weapon."

The Paris letter in the Philadelphia "Post" tells of two blessings of Western civilization it is the ambition of an educated Japanese girl to take home to her land. It was at one of M. Delcasse's receptions in the Ministry for Foreign Affairs. She came with the Japanese Ambassador's party, and she was winsome as a flower, this delicate Japanese girl—oh, an amber girl!—dressed in the silken splendor of her race. Therefore was it almost uncanny to hear her talk with a Down East accent. When you gasped she said, "Why, I'm a Wellesley girl, you know." "And you are going home?" "Yes, back to Japan." The small face grew very serious. "I want to teach my people two things when I get back," she said—"ice cream and the Gospel."

Rumors that the Archbishop of Canterbury, who made such a muddle of King Edward's coronation, is about to retire recalls stories of the aged prelate's brusqueness of manner. On one occasion he received a deputation of schoolmasters, who complained that an inspector did not treat them like gentlemen. "Well, what of that?" replied the courteous Temple, "you aren't gentlemen." One night he was dining with the late Queen Victoria at Windsor Castle. The conversation took a clerical turn, and Her Majesty recalled the rather unusual episode of two bishops of the Church of England being consecrated at the same time. "They were Lord Arthur Hervey, Bishop of Bath and Wells and—and—and—" she continued, the Archbishop having prompted her, "Dr. John Mackarness, Bishop of Oxford." "What a marvelous memory Your Majesty has!" exclaimed a courteous courtier, who was sitting at the table. "No, she hasn't," retorted the polite primate, "I've just told her."

When Browning was once asked for the explanation of an obscure passage in one of his poems, he is said to have referred the enquirer to the Browning Society, [illegible] Some Gottingen students who had a keen admiration for Klopstock—the "German Milton"—found one of his stanzas unintelligible, and begged him to explain its exact meaning to them. The poet read the stanza—then carefully reread it—then read it again, while all looked on with bated breath. At last he spoke: "I cannot recollect what I meant when I wrote it, but I do remember that it was one of the finest things I ever wrote, and you cannot do better than devote your lives to the discovery of its meaning." This was pretty good for a modest man, but the finest repartee of the kind is that attributed to old Jacob Boehme, the shoemaker and mystic. Certain disciples came to him on his deathbed, imploring him to expound a difficult passage of crucial importance in his philosophical system. "My dear children," began Boehme, after wrestling in spirit for a time, "when I wrote this I understood its meaning, and no doubt the omniscient God did. He may still remember its meaning, but I have forgotten."

Bird-Mad.

Many persons not "to the manner born" are embarking on nature study, to the weariness of their friends. They sit in parks and fields with opera glasses, and see birds that never were "on sea or land." And sometimes their bored friends rebel.

In a town where untrained observation rages an elderly lady met an acquaintance in a shady avenue, and asked her:

"Do you know anything about birds?"

"No," said the other. "I'm sorry, but I don't."

"Sorry! Oh, you're such a relief! I just met Mrs. C., and she grasped my hand, gazed upward, and said, 'Oh, did you hear that perfectly lovely spike-beaked, purple-breasted tickle-bird?'

"I hadn't gone a block before I met Mrs. K. 'Hush!' said she, ecstatically. 'Don't move a muscle! Right up there on that branch is one of those rare, exquisite, speckle-winged, ring-tailed screamers.'

"You and I seem to be the only sane people. Let us rejoice in chorus."

"How fast they build houses now," said Jones. "They began that residence over there only last week, now they are putting in the lights." "Yes," exclaimed Smith, "and next week they will put in the liver."

Provincial Appointments

The official appointment is announced of John Argue of the Township of Argus, R. H. Parmenter of Toronto, Frank Hornsby of Gravenhurst, and A. E. Cole of Hespeler, to be notaries public; T. Graham of Fenelon Falls to be bailiff of the Second Division Court of the County of Victoria, Edward Harkness of Corunna to be bailiff of the Seventh Division Court of the County of Lambton; Levi Bawtinheimer of Galt to be bailiff of the Third Division Court of the County of Waterloo.

ORO RICO MINES

These three groups of big gold mines located in San Bernardino County, California, are well known for the great ledges of high-grade ores from which shipments have been made to various reduction works, demonstrating absolutely their great value. The area of these mines is 50% greater than that of all the producing field at Butte, Montana. Confidence ledge averaging $43.38 per ton. One shipment from "Last Chance" mine returned $822, per ton. Stamp Mill and machinery now being built and will be producing gold bullion immediately upon erection

A limited number of shares now offered at 20 cents. Price will advance when mill is in operation. Write me reserving some of these shares subject to further investigation. You are not obliged to take them. Orders booked in sums of $10, and upwards. Reserve them now and then you will be able to get them at present price. Send for full particulars and printed matter.

(Organized under the laws of Oregon.)

Full Paid and Non-Assessable.

The property of this company consists of three full claims known as the "Fleur de lis," "Mayflower," and "Mistletoe" Group, embracing an area of sixty acres of highly mineralized ground, located in the famous Sumpter district, Baker county, Oregon, about 2½ miles from McEwen on the Sumpter Valley Railroad.

The best evidence we have to offer as to our "being in good company" is to mention a few of those who are our immediate neighbors, viz: the North Pole, Bonanza, Red Boy, Eureka Columbia, Golconda, Cracker, Oregon, Golden Wizard, all of which are in this same district, producing from [illegible] to [illegible] per month each.

From the preliminary amount of development work already done on our property and from the assays of ore which is entirely free milling, running [illegible] to [illegible] per ton, we are confident that with the installation of modern machinery we have a proposition worthy of the most searching enquiry by those seeking a high grade investment.

Our board of directors consists of men who have a practical knowledge of mining, well known and of high standing, who have invested every available dollar of their own to acquire this valuable property and put it on a dividend paying basis.

To accomplish this it has been decided to place a limited amount of the treasury stock on sale at 35c per share for development purposes only until such time as the condition of the mine will enable it to take care of itself, when the sale of stock will be withdrawn.

Our prospectus will give you all particulars. Let us send it to you. We shall also be pleased to answer all enquiries whether by mail or in person at our office.

THE
TWO-TEN OIL CO.
of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock for the next 30 days at 10 Cents per Share, after that price will be advanced.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

POSSIBILITIES IN ATCHISON WARRANT IMMEDIATE PRICE MOVEMENT

New York, April 29—We are inclined the certain pessimistic utterances made within a day or two relative to Atchison securities were not from bearish sources, which are designating a campaign for the decline, but rather from a combination who recognized what vast possibilities there are in store for this great wheat carrying road for one who desires to procure stock at as low a figure as possible. The decrease of net earnings for the road in March was due to an increase in expenditure, but remember that this expenditure increase was not in the operating expense department, but was for the permanent improvement of the road and the improvements are of a nature that can be discontinued at any time without material injury to the road.

The earning power of Atchison is phenomenal, is greater now than ever before in its existence, and with an enormous wheat crop in sight will surpass all its high records of previous years. It is worth noting that for eight months to Feb. 28th last year freight earnings were $1,500,000 larger than a year ago and all earnings were $1,870,000 larger. Of the total increased expenditure of $2,245,000, only $130,000 actually belonged to increased operating expenses. These figures show that the earning capacity of the Atchison system is greater than ever before, and it seems absolutely certain that with enormous increases in tonnage guaranteed that the price of its securities will advance handsomely.

Since the reorganized Company took possession of the road in 1896, gross earnings have not failed to increase in any one year, while the percentage of operating expenses has diminished in proportionate ratio. To show the vast progress of the company, compare the gross earnings of 1895-96 of $28,999,597 with the last fiscal year of $59,135,085, and of the net earnings in the former year of $6,928,322 with the last yearly net earnings of $21,983,511, and year by year a large surplus has been accumulated after enormous payments for improvements. The preferred stock to-day is intrinsically worth $110 per share while the common, through future dividend probabilities based on the immense tonnage in sight, should have a market value for it equal to the preferred. Atchison common sold as high as 109 in 1901 and 106 1-8 in 1902, and at its present selling price is one of the most magnificent opportunities in the security market. It is customary for Wall Street to discount a majority of the events identified with its markets, and it will undoubtedly so treat Atchison common, and the price of its shares will very soon reflect this condition. Ordinary common sense would warrant the purchase of the stock now, rather than at a period when its freight traffic is at its height and the cream of the advance has been secured by those on the ground floor.

HAIGHT & FREESE.

Individualities.

Justice Grantham is certainly making a record as the murder judge of England. In one day at Leeds recently he tried three murder cases—two before luncheon and one after.

King Edward's reconciliation with the Duc d'Orleans, in spite of the latter's gross insult to the late Queen Victoria, is said to have been due to the intervention of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria and of King Christian of Denmark out of regard to the Duchess of Orleans.

Once a fashionable woman of Newport expressed to the late Elizabeth Cady Stanton a fear that it was not entirely modest for a woman to speak in public. The dignified president of the suffragists looked at her with mild surprise. "Why," she said, "there are not so many people at our convention as there were at the ball last night, and surely it is more modest to make a sensible speech in quiet costume than to exhibit one's bare arms and shoulders at a public dance in the embrace of a strange gentleman."

Of his recent visit to the Empress Eugenie at Farnborough, General Corbin said: "She is now a woman seventy-six years old, but remarkably well preserved. She lives in a beautiful villa in that quiet suburb, about fifty miles from London, and maintains an extensive establishment. The Empress herself showed us the little chapel where the bodies of her husband and her son are lying, and how the trees had been cut away so as to afford a view of the chapel from the house. 'That is the destination for which I am bound,' she said, sadly, pointing to the chapel. 'They are both asleep there, and very soon I shall join them.'"

The Queen of Roumania is no longer the only crowned writer of poetry. A new royal author has appeared, in the person of Queen Helene of Italy, who has just published a striking little poem, entitled "A Crown of Thorns." The poem represents a woman seated on the steps of the throne, with her features transformed by grief; no one sees her but the king; her name is Care. Beneath the golden crown of the king there is another crown, which galls his brow; no one sees it; it is the Crown of Thorns. Queen Helene, who has, perhaps, drawn on her own experience in these lines, is one of a family possessed of literary talents. Her father, Prince Nicholas of Montenegro, has written two plays—"The Empress of the Balkans" and "Prince Arvanit"—many poems, and is now completing a new novel. Her second brother, Mirko, is also a poet.

Gordon Ralph Caine, the eighteen-year-old son of Hall Caine, is visiting America to get some advertising ideas for his magazine, "Household Words." This is his story of how he came to be an editor about a year ago: "I had just left King William's College, in the Isle of Man, and was about to go up to Cambridge University. But I was tired of school, and wanted to go into the newspaper business. I heard that the weekly was for sale, and I worried father until he bought it for me. No, I didn't buy 'Household Words' through any particular fondness for the memory of Charles Dickens, who established it in 1850. I simply saw in it a chance to do some good advertising. When I took the paper it had a circulation of twenty-five hundred, and now it has about one hundred thousand. I advertised it by going all over England with some news-agents, and putting sample copies in every house, and placing placards on old houses and fences. Then I organized the Dickens Fellowship Society, and got Percy Fitzgerald, who has written lots about Dickens, to go at the head of it."

Oil Worth $5.00
PER BARREL

ACTONOMA OIL AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY

in the famous NEWHALL WHITE OIL field of California, the oldest producing field in the State.

The Company owns 10,000 Acres of Oil Territory

lying between the Kern River District on the north and the valuable Newhall holdings of the Standard Oil Company on the south and joins both these fields. It is considered the most VALUABLE PIECE OF OIL TERRITORY IN CALIFORNIA. The value of our holdings may be estimated by the fact that an offer of $27,500 has been made for the ground on which our well is located, showing the confidence oil men have in our prospects.

To push their well and complete the development of this vast property, the company offers 40,000 shares of treasury stock at 55 cents per share This low offer is but for a short time and may be withdrawn without notice, as a strike would advance the stock to par at once and probably far beyond that.

It is expected that five or six additional wells will be put down during the coming summer.

This company has no high salaried officers, no preferred stock, and economy and integrity are exercised by its managers, and the interest of the smallest stockholder is protected.

Should you desire stock you must act promptly, as such opportunities never go begging nor remain long in sight. Orders filled as received.

If shares are exhausted when your application is received we will return your money. Make checks payable to the order of the Actonoma Oil and Development Company, P. H. Enright, Secretary and Treasurer, 218 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY,
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass-root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

CURED
In a Few Minutes

COLDS
That make you snuffle and sneeze

COUGHS
That inflame and irritate the bronchial tubes and the throat

CATARRH
That makes your head ache, causes deafness and dyspepsia

BY SIMPLY INHALING

CATARRHOZONE

This simple inhaler is a wonderful cure for coughs, cold in the head, catarrh and lung trouble. The agreeable penetrating vapor traverses every air cell and passage of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. In one breath it carries death to the million of germs infesting the respiratory organs, and breaks up a cold in ten minutes.

A trial will convince you that Catarrhozone is the most potent, pleasant and satisfactory remedy. The inhaler can be conveniently carried in the vest pocket and is suitable to use in church, in the street car, theatre, at work—any place—at any time of day or night.

Catarrhozone is a new scientific method of cure that is endorsed by ministers, doctors and thousands it has benefited. Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Small trial size 25c. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Manufacturing Chemists, Kingston, Ont.

Rochester N.Y. Canadians

Mr. Stewart Houston, Secretary of the Home-comers' Festival, yesterday received information from Rochester, N.Y., that a strong Canadian society had been formed there to come to Toronto in a body between July 1 and 4, the dates of the festival. The Rochester Express, in its notice of the meeting at the Osburn House for organization says:—"A conservative estimate has been placed upon the number of Canadians in Rochester. This gives the number as 20,000. There are those, however, who assert that there are at least 20,000 to 25,000 former citizens of Canada who are now residents of the Flower City. Among these are some of the prominent business men of the city. The present movement is a thoroughly democratic one, and its popularity is assured."

THE SUGAR FACTORY

Survey of the Lot Has Been Made And Sent To Detroit

A complete survey of the lot, recently purchased by the Peterborough Sugar Company, has been made and sent to the Chief Engineer of the Construction Company at Detroit, for approval.

It is expected that the plans will arrive in a few days, when the buildings will be rushed on to completion. The work will be pushed as fast as possible, so as to be ready for work next fall.

MISS REYNOLDS WELCOMED

The World's Secretary of the Y.W.C.A. in Town

Last night a hearty welcome was extended to Miss Reynolds, of London, England, who is visiting the branches of the Y.W.C.A., of which she is the World's Secretary. During the evening refreshments were served in the gymnasium room.

This evening Miss Reynolds will address a meeting in St. Paul's church, to which all are invited. She will also speak at three o'clock this afternoon to the ladies, at the residence of Mrs. H. P. Kennedy, 206 Aylmer street.

CHEMONG PARK HOTEL

A Bright Outlook for a Large Season's Business This Year

Mr. George H. Brown, proprietor of Chemong Park Hotel, was in town yesterday, and gave The Times a call. Mr. Brown says that the outlook is good this year for a large business at the Kawartha Lakes' summer resorts.

Already accomodation has been engaged at Chemong for several American families, who have been making this delightful spot their summer home for several years. Mr. Brown is putting the hotel and grounds in first class order, so as to be ready for the crush when it comes.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

The Court Opened Yesterday Afternoon Before Hon. Justice Street

The spring assizes of the High Court of Justice, of the County of Peterborough, opened yesterday afternoon before the Honorable Mr. Justice Street. The following members of the bar were present: Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, F. D. Kerr, L. F. Clarry, Hastings, R. E. Wood, J. Green, D. O'Connell, R. McKay, Toronto, O. A. Langley, Lakefield, and E. A. DuVernet, Toronto.

The Grand Jury, whose names were published in yesterday's issue of the Times, having been sworn, were addressed by the Honorable Mr. Justice Street, who after speaking of the pleasure it gave him to-day, referred to the fact that the strength of the Bench has been greatly reduced, owing to the death of the Honorable Mr. Justice Lount, and the retirement of Judge Robertson, and also because some of the members of the Bench have been called to preside on a case which necessitates immediate hearing. It was thus only natural that the remaining judges had been somewhat pressed. Referring to the functions of a Grand Jury, His Lordship said that their first duty was, he believed, to inspect the gaol. In particular he asked them to ascertain what prisoners there are in the gaol at the present time, and for what reasons they were there; also if there were any lunatics confined therein. Lunatics should not be lodged in the common gaol, which was for criminals only, but should be lodged in a proper house where they can receive the needful attention.

A CASE SETTLED

It was announced that a settlement had been arrived at in the case of Christie vs. Christie. This was an action brought by Mr. and Mrs. Christie, of Asphodel, against their son, William Christie, jr., to set aside the conveyance of certain lands made by the plaintiffs to defendant. It is understood that a settlement satisfactory to all parties was reached. D. O'Connell for plaintiffs; L. F. Clarry, Hastings, for the defendant.

JORY VS. WILSON.

The first case was that of Jory vs. Wilson. This is a case in which the plaintiff, Thomas Edward Jory, a farmer residing in the west half of lot No. 21, in the 5th concession of Douro, seeks to recover unstated damages from John Wilson, a farmer residing in the west half of lot No. 20 in the 5th concession of said township for the alienation of his wife's affections. He asked the court to grant him damages for the debauchment of his wife and the alienation of her affections, and for the loss of her society and assistance $4,500; damages for the trespass of the defendant upon the premises of the plaintiff, $200; an injunction restraining the defendant from further entering upon and trespassing upon the plaintiff's said premises; damages for assault $200; and such further other relief as the nature of the case may require.

The defendant in his statement of defence denies the allegations contained in the statement of claim and puts defendant to the proof thereof.

O. A. Langley, of Lakefield, for the plaintiff, and R. R. Hall for the defendant.

IMPORTANT MILITIA CHANGE

A Guide Corps is Soon to be Added to the Canadian Militia

An Order-in-Council has been passed, authorizing the organization of a corps of guides to form an intelligence branch of the militia system in Canada. Each military district will have an officer, to be known as the District Intelligence Officer. Every regimental district will be in charge of a sub-district intelligence officer. The sub-districts will be again divided into guide areas. In each men of good local knowledge will be appointed as guides. The guide will be a private or non-commissioned officer; the sub-district intelligence officer will be a subaltern; the district intelligence officer will hold a post equal in rank to that of captain. Ultimately, the corps of guides will be formed into a regiment, and, when on active service, will receive the same pay as active militia. This is the first of the new establishments of Lord Dundonald's projected organization. The headquarters of the guides will be in Ottawa. Lord Dundonald is being asked to make an extension of the guide idea, to give facility for newspaper men to get the training that will be necessary to make competent guides. He considers the idea favorably.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Yesterday's warmth made things grow.

—There are now four stock brokers doing business in town.

—The carpenters have made a demand for 22 1-2 cents per hour.

—A runaway yesterday morning caused some excitement on George street.

—Mr. Frank Mason has opened out a branch store on George street, opposite Adam Hall's.

—Mr. F. J. R. McPherson, the well known bicycle dealer, has purchased an automobile.

—The separate school grounds are being put in excellent shape. The steam roller is at work levelling the ground.

—Mr. Cooney, caretaker of Victoria Park, has already a lot of flowers in bloom. The park never looked better at this season

TO ENLARGE TRADE

Between Canada and British Centres

The Jury Tied

London, April 30—A Canadian experiment in working up trade with the United Kingdom by means of commercial use has been introduced in the Midland's. Agent Ball has opened headquarters at Birmingham, and he tells me that he is greatly encouraged by results since he has already succeeded in placing orders for Canadian wood manufactures and food products. He will not have routine work like United States Consuls, but will devote his attention to the business of enlarging trade between Canada and the industrial centres of the midlands.

Hearts that are Diseased will never be cured by the false, unnatural stimulation of liquor. First increase your vitality, build up your system, strengthen and purify the blood, then the heart will respond and grow strong.

Ferrozone is precisely what to take—it gives you an appetite and a digestion that will look after everything that is eaten. Ferrozone improves nutrition, makes rich vitalizing blood, and is positively the most powerful restorative and strengthener known to science; it improves the nerve tone, regulates the heart's action, makes the feeble strong and the sick well. Ferrozone will do you much good and costs only 50c. at druggists or Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Hamilton Woman in Trouble in Toronto for Child Desertion

Toronto, April 29—A colored woman 30 years of age, was arrested here last night on a charge of deserting her female infant, which was found on the steps of a house there about three weeks ago. She gave her name as Sarah Jane Thompson, and formerly lived in Hamilton, and it is said has friends living there now. Her child lived a few days after its desertion, but the doctors say that death was due to natural causes. Mrs. Thompson was in Hamilton about two weeks ago. Her husband, it is said, lives in Woodstock.

FORMER PRESIDENT EXECUTED

Sensational Climax to Revolution in Honduras Reported

New Orleans, April 30—The steamship Breakwater from Puerto Cortez, Honduras, brings news of a sensational climax to the revolution in that country. According to information received at Puerto Cortez, former President Sierra was captured by the revolutionists on the Salvador Frontier and summarily executed. General Arias, who was installed in the Presidential office by Sierra at the outbreak of the revolution, was pursued and captured by the insurgents and is now a prisoner at Tegucigalpa.

People with Bad Breath

Generally suffer from Catarrh, and should use Catarrhozone Inhaler four times daily, and be cured. The pleasant scented Catarrhozone vapor spreads through every air passage of the breathing organs, and reaches the very root of the disease at once; it kills the germs, purifies and cleanses the mucous surfaces, and eradicates every vestige of catarrh in a short time.

Pure, sweet breath free from headache sneezing and discharge are quickly derived from the use of Catarrhozone Inhaler. Complete outfit $1.00; trial size 25c. Druggists or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

BOYCOTTS ALL RESORTS

Liquor Men Urged to Retaliate for [illegible] and Licenses

New York, April 30—A campaign of retribution for the enactment of the new law increasing excise licenses is contemplated in a circular issued today to every member of the Wine, Liquor, and Beer Dealers' Central Association by President Lindinger. He says that "neither the Mayor nor the Governor has any use for you, except to burden you with taxes," and calls upon the liquor men to ally themselves with other trades, the interests of which are identical, and "strike a blow at our enemies." He suggests a movement to induce all dealers, including grocerymen, to refrain from the use of New York State products, including cheese and hops, and to stay away from New York State summer resorts.

Uncommon Colds.

"It is just a common cold," people say, "there's no danger in that." Admitting their statement, then there are uncommon colds, colds which are dangerous; for many a fatal sickness begins with a cold. If we could tell the common cold from the uncommon we could feel quite safe. But we can't. The uncommon variety is rarely recognized until it has fastened its hold on the lungs, and there are symptoms of consumption.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs, bronchitis, "weak" lungs and other diseases of the organs of respiration. It increases the supply of pure, rich blood and builds up the emaciated body.

"I took a severe cold which settled in the bronchial tubes," writes Rev. Frank Hay, of Nortonville, Jefferson Co., Kansas. After trying medicines labeled 'Sure Cure,' almost without number. I was led to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took two bottles and was cured, and have stayed cured. When I think of the great pain I had to endure, and the terrible cough I had, it seems almost a miracle that I was so soon relieved. That God may spare you many years and abundantly bless you is the prayer of your grateful friend."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

The World Tenders An Apology for the Article of That Appeared on Saturday Morning Last

Mr. Johnston Asks That Steps Be Taken to Enforce A. A. Bowen of Kemptville, to Attend

Toronto, April 30.—The two important witnesses at the Gamey enquiry this morning were Elgin C. Myers, Mr. Stratton's secretary, and Charles H. Chase, the Premier's messenger, both of whom are charged by Gamey with having handled the money packet on September 11. Both denied having anything to do with it.

At the opening of the court, Mr. James Baird, on behalf of The World, tendered an apology for the article of Saturday morning last, at the same time stating that it was not so strong as The Mail and Empire's statement.

The Chancellor thought "Tracing the Boodle Fund" came under the definition of a scare heading, but accepted the apology.

Reuben W. Hanlin, a well-known figure on the streets of Toronto, was the first witness. He said that on the Saturday after the announcement in the Legislature he was in conversation in the lobby of the Walker House with "Cap." Sullivan, Frank Sullivan, and Frank Wheelihan, when Gamey passed by. He characterized as unfair the description by Gamey of what took place in the Walker House, when he said that Frank Sullivan followed him (Gamey) up and asked to speak to him. Instead of it being that way, witness said that Gamey came in and beckoned to Frank Sullivan as though he wanted to speak to him.

Mr. Wheelihan, a middle-aged person, was called, but could throw no light on the matter.

Dr. Strouthers, of Sudbury, an old acquaintance of Mr. Gamey's, was called, and related a conversation at the Walker House on the night of September 9, when the member for Manitoulin asked his advice about supporting the Government. Strouthers, although a Liberal, advised him against such a course, and told Gamey everyone would say he was bought. The latter indignantly repudiated the idea of financial consideration. On the appearance of The Globe interview they discussed the matter on the train.

Cross-examined by Mr. W. D. McPherson, Dr. Strouthers was asked whether he had not stated to his partner, Dr. Arthurs, that Gamey has been bought. The witness could not remember. Questioned as to the [illegible] of the firm, he said that Dr. Arthurs was jail surgeon, physician to the Indians, and C.P.R. surgeon, while he himself was a coroner. He admitted that he knew Captain John Sullivan.

"Well and favorably?" queried Mr. McPherson.

"Neither!" said the witness.

The Chancellor interposed that this now famous naval officer was not on trial.

The doctor also testified that Gamey last September seemed to be worrying about the protest, saying he believed any person could be unseated if money enough were spent but that he knew of no reason why he should be disqualified. He said he couldn't afford to fight another election. The doctor advised him to resign, and run on an independent platform as the honorable course. In this conversation, the word "deal" was used. Gamey said that the patronage of the riding was to be given to him if he turned over.

Mr. Johnston asked that steps be taken to enforce the attendance of A. A. Bowen, of Kempville, who is wanted for conversation evidence.

Charles H. Chase, who has been messenger for three successive Ontario Premiers, was the next witness. He stated during recess it was his custom to go home to dinner every day at twelve o'clock, and denied absolutely having delivered any package or envelope in the smoking-room in September last.

"I understand that, for reasons I need not go into, there is no confidence between the Provincial Secretary and yourself?" queried Mr. Johnston.

"There is not," acknowledged Chase.

Q.—Rather the other way? A.—Yes; rather the other way.

"Well," said the counsel, "we need not go into that."

Mr. Johnston submitted a plan showing the locations of the various offices on the Premier's floor of the Parliament Buildings.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ritchie as to his relatoins with Mr. Stratton, Chase said: "I respect him as the head of the Department, nothing more or less." If he had been asked to deliver an envelope for Mr. Stratton he would have refused, since he was not employed to wo work for twenty departments, but only for the Premier, the Attorney-General, and the Cabinet in session.

Mr. Ritchie then asked whether he had told his landlord, Mr. Keenan, that he [illegible] the man who had carried the money. Mr. Chase stated that he was the person accused, and no more.

Elgin C. Myers, private secretary to Hon. J. R. Stratton, followed. He was able to fix the second week in September by the fact that it was the second week of the Exhibition, and he had just returned from his holidays. He recalled that at noon on September 9 Mr. Stratton dictated to him the letter subsequently signed by Gamey in Mr. Aylesworth's office. Mr. Walter Boland, barrister, was present when it was drafted. He absolutely denied having taken a parcel or envelope either to the smoking-room or to Chase's desk at anytime in that week.

Mr. Myers said that he did not even know Mr. Gamey by sight until the end of October, when one day the member for Manitoulin walked in and said: "How are you, Mr. Myers?" Witness was surprised, but supposed that Gamey knew his name from the fact that he had acknowledged a letter of his during the Minister's absence. On October 23 Myers' by direction, mailed a copy of the Aylesworth letter to Mr. Gamey. He also remembered another interview between Mr. Stratton and the Minister in January, when the matter of the lock up at Little Current was discussed, and Dr. Chamberlain was present. Mr. Myers in part confirmed Mr. Hammond's testimony about The Globe interview. The original version of it was written out by Mr. Stratton in lead pencil, and copied by Mr. Myers on the typewriter. The Minister told him he had not gotten it just right and carried it away. It will be remembered that Mr. Ford swore the copy given him was in typewriting. Myers denied that Sullivan was in the habit of seeing Hon. Mr. Stratton frequently, though in the autumn he had occasion to see him about the accounts for replacing the electric bells in the building.

In cross-examination Mr. Ritchie elicited the fact that persons sometimes used the door of the small lobby between Mr. Stratton's public and private office to slip in quietly and see the Minister.

A GREAT CONCERN

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited

The attention of our readers is called to the prospectus of this company which appears elsewhere in this issue. Mr. J. M. Migla, the company's representative is in town for a few days, so that those who desire a first class investment, have an opportunity to secure stock.

The company has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermilion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the west that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district, which lies along and between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country they have the right to select 300,000 acres of specially chosen land, and have selectors now in the district carefully examining the land by section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Trans-Continental line of the Canadian Northern railway thus assuring settlers the immense advantage of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. The land immediately adjoins the Barr settlement of British settlers and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value.

No lands are purchased by this corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the west, and thus practically every element of risk is eliminated from an investment in the shares of this company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns, without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future may make feeling that in doing so they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each for subscription at par, 20 per cent, to be paid on application, 10 per cent in thirty days thereafter, and 10 per cent, further in 60 days, and the balance as called by the directors, if deemed necessary.

FIRE AT THE "SOO"

The Farwell and Ganley Block Damaged to Extent of $130,000

Sault Ste. Marie Ont., April 30—At daybreak this morning, one of the largest fires that has ever visited the Soo occurred in the Farwell block, occupied by Hart Bros., general dry goods, and Marshall & McLeod, grocers. The building and contents are an entire loss.

The Ganley block, occupied by the the Imperial Bank, and J. M. Thompson, dry goods, was badly damaged by fire and water.

The total loss is estimated to be about $150,000. The insurance is from $75,000 to $100,000.

Nothing definite is known as to the origin of the fire.

A DEFENCE OF MR. BARR

Rev. Dr. Robbins Answers the Criticisms of the Newspapers

Winnipeg, April 29.—Rev. Dr. Robins, who has been associated with Rev. Mr. Barr in the Barr Colony movement, is in Winnipeg today, on his way home from Saskatoon to England. In speaking of the reports from Saskatoon describing the hardships and difficulties met with by the colonists in getting started on the march from Saskatoon to the point of settlement, Dr. Robins was emphatic in his protests against the manner in which the newspaper correspondents have reported the late developments in the situation. He was warm in his praises of the personal qualities of Rev. Mr. Barr, who, he said, was a warm-hearted Irishman of strict integrity, impulsive to a degree, and having the best interests of the colony at heart. Statements emanating from Battleford that Mr. Barr was making an immense profit from the proceeds of the sale of the necessaries of life to the members of the colony, Dr. Robins roundly repudiated.

He said the success of the colony was certain. In his opinion it was unfair to stamp the movement as a failure, merely because there were a few lackeys whom nothing would satisfy. Anyway, he said, it had not been the wish of Mr. Barr that all of the colonists should proceed to the settlement. There was an element among them who had been urged to leave the main body and hire with the farmers in Manitoba. After these had had some experience they would have found less difficulty and less cause for grumbling when they undertook to farm homesteads for themselves.

VARYING VIEWS AS TO THE CAUSE OF THE DISASTER AT FRANK, N.W.T.--LOSS WILL REACH A MILLION DOLLARS

At Least Seventy-Five Persons Lost Their Lives

A Graphic Story of the Sudden Visitation of Death--Waterway Being Cut

Deafening Tumult Awoke the Little Town About 4 O'clock

General Opinion Is That It Was Due to a Rock Slide Caused by the Thawing Snows

Calgary, N.W.T., April 30.—An appalling disaster nearly blotted out the town of Frank early Wednesday morning. As it is, there are between 60 and 100 killed and half a score injured. The cause of the disaster was a slide of cretaceous rocks. It was at first reported that there was an earthquake, and also that there had been an explosion of gas, but both statements were incorrect. There was no explosion and there was no earthquake.

The town of Frank is situated on the north side of the river and to the west of the mines, and between the mines and the town the river runs. It has much more right to be called a stream that the more ambitious name of river. It is about six feet wide. From the mountains to the railway, which is on the north of the river, there is a distance of two miles or more.

On Wednesday morning, without a warning sign, the drive of destroying rocks hurled themselves down the mountains. The avalanche did not pass over the main body of the coal mine, but passed east of it, closing up the mouth of the mine, or partly closing it up. It swept on across the river, blotting it out wherever it went. It was checked by that, and then the destroying monster tasted blood.

Like many western towns, Frank is long and lean. At the extreme east of it there is a small collection of seventeen or eighteen cottages where miners dwell. It was at that point that the deadly work began. That part of the town, with all the people who live there, was swept out of existence in a twinkling. The procession was almost in a straight line down the mountain, varying but little as it swept along. It went almost as direct as an express train. One cottage it struck fairly in the middle. A baby boy and his parents were sleeping in the most westerly cottage. The child was thrown right through the window, and escaped alive. The parents were both killed.

Seventeen miners were working in the mines. They began at once on a long and hard fight for life. The disaster occurred at 4 a.m. Fifteen of them, after a fearful struggle, crawled into the open air at 3 p.m. The other two fell victims to suffocation. One miner who fought his way up, and was the most exhausted of the surviving band, after a short rest, made his way with all speed to his home, only to find the place where it was covered with rocks, and his family lost.

ABOUT 60 PERISHED.

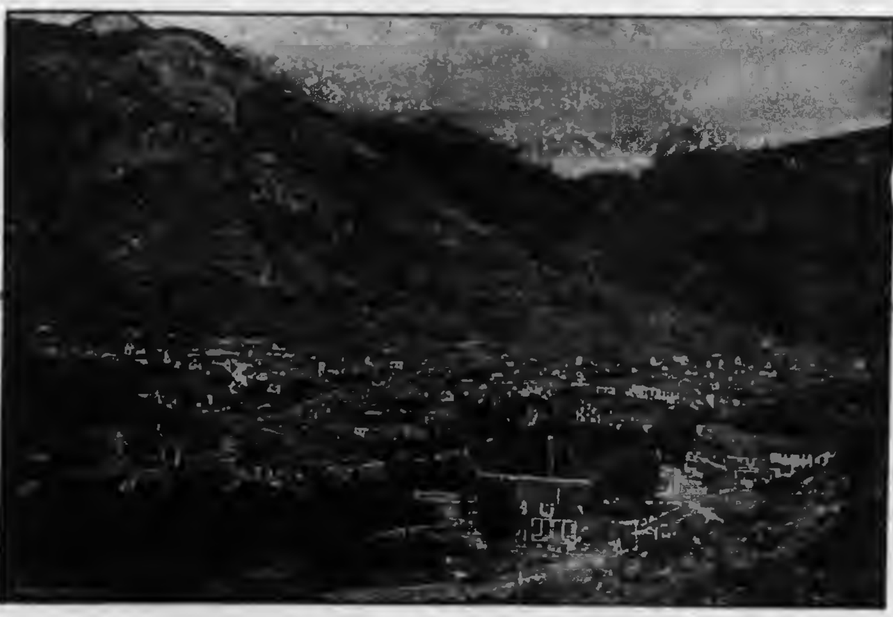
The wreck of rocks and boulders extended for 2 1-2 miles, and 1-2 mile in length. It covers about 800 acres. It was at first reported that 105 were missing. It is now estimated that the disaster meant death to about 60. A despatch to the Albertan from McLeod says Dr. Kennedy has just returned from Frank. He thinks that not more than 50 were killed, and five injured. Fifteen of the seventeen miners imprisoned in the mine came out by the air shaft. Two died from exhaustion.

The disaster was caused by cretaceous rocks sliding on the line. The railway track for two miles this side of Frank is gone, and one and a half miles west was destroyed by the upheaval of rocks caused by the slide. It is doubtful if there was any gas explosion.

BURIED A HUNDRED FEET.

The family of the two Grahams, whose homes were separated by a mile, and the employees of Poupore & McVeigh, whose cabin was a mile further east, was buried fully a hundred feet deep, and none of the bodies can ever be recovered. In fact, it is doubtful if many of the bodies of the dead are ever recovered.

A citizens' meeting was held early this morning, and steps were taken to search the ruins for bodies, but only eleven bodies had been found found this evening. Most of the bodies recovered were mangled so badly that identification was impossible.



The Town of Frank and Turtle Mountain

The Town on Frank, Alberta, was the scene of a terrible disaster at 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning, April 29.

The side of Turtle Mountain, 3,000 feet above the town, fell away and practically destroyed the greater part of the town.

The cause is as yet unknown, but the general opinion is that it was due to a rockslide precipitated by the thawing snows.

The volcanic theory is generally scouted.

The loss will probably reach 76. At least 37 are known to be dead; many others may have been buried forever under the debris.

The monetary loss will be about a million dollars.

Relief is being rushed from east and west.

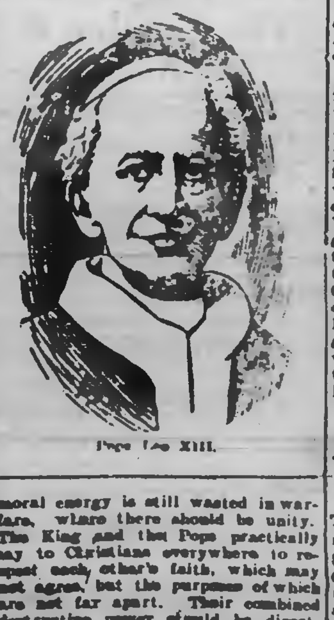
—The dust yesterday was abominable. The injury to the goods in the stores was very great. Surely on such occasions the watering carts should work incessantly.

REPRESENT GREAT FORCES OF EARTH

The Visit of the King to the Pope Yesterday

A BLOW TO BIGOTRY

Will Do Much to Lessen Friction in Ireland



Pope Leo XIII.

Rome, April 30—"King Edward's interview with Pope Leo XIII., which took place at the Vatican this afternoon, will probably be considered by some future writers as one of the greatest events in politico-ecclesiastical history of the first decade of the 20th century," said a prominent Italian to a correspondent.

The august parties to ceremony represent, respectively, temporal and spiritual empires of vast power and magnitude. The King is a Protestant and rules an intensely Protestant people. The Pope is the sovereign of the Catholic world.

These mighty personages come together on the common ground of courtesy, good will, and mutual respect. Their example will exert a powerful influence on the imaginations and hearts of men. It means a blow to bigotry that may precede the proclamation of peace among religious systems and sects.

"Nothing could be more important than this because much of the world's moral energy is still wasted in warfare, where there should be unity. The King and the Pope practically say to Christians everywhere to respect each other's faith, which may not agree, but the purposes of which are not far apart. Their combined destructive power should be directed to political peace, to render a great service to religious peace as well.

At the Vatican, the feeling with regard to the result of this afternoon's proceedings is one of the great expectations. It is declared that the King's visit shows that the royal declaration, in connection with the coronation oath, which brands Catholics as an idolatrous sect, is a mere legal anachronism. It is said that the Holy Father regards King Edward's sojourn in his apartments as an act of courtesy which will command Catholic appreciation throughout the world.

King Edward visited the Pope at half-past four o'clock this afternoon. No one was present at the interview.

At 4.20 King Edward went to the Vatican. Starting from the British Embassy he alighted at the Court of St. Damas, in the Vatican, where he was received by Mgr. Bisleti, master of the chamber, accompanied by the Vatican officials. The pontificial guards rendered Royal favors to the visitor. Mgr. Bisleti conducted the King to the stairway, where Mgr. Cagiano de Azevdo, the Pope's major-domo, surrounded by prelates and high dignitaries of the Holy See greeted the British Sovereign, who was then conducted by the major-domo to the private apartments of the Pope.

The Grand Trunk's Statement for March Before the English Board

London, April 30.—The Grand Trunk's March statement, showing a reduction in the net profit of only $4,500 dollars was well received. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson's recent speech regarding the coal contracts led to anticipations of a reduction of about $75,000.

The Canadian Pacific's March increase of $294,000 net earnings provokes interesting comparisons.

Generals Gomez and Ferrere Defeated at El Guapo—Large Numbers of Wounded are Recaptured

Willemstad, Island of Curacao, April 31—News has reached here that the the Venezuelan government generals, Gomez and Ferreoa have been defeated at El Guapo by revolutionists under the command of General Rolando. Gomez and Ferorre returned to Caracas with many wounded. Gomez owes his escape from capture only to the fact that he was well mounted.

Forces of the government have also, it is said, been defeated at Barquisimeto, San Felipe, and Moron. Large numbers of wounded government soldiers have reached Valencia, Puerto Cabello and La Guaira.

The revolutionary general, Riera, has evacuated La Vela De Coro and is now occupying a strong position near Coro, waiting for an opportunity to capture that town without bloodshed.

It is also reported here that the entire Andes district is in revolt.

THE PARLIAMENT OF MAN FEDERATION OF A WORLD

A Union That Would Put an End to All War

A WORLD'S TRIBUNAL

A Dream That May Yet Become a Reality

Paris, April 30—Bjornstjerne Bjornson has outlined his idea of the future grouping of nations in an interview letter to a friend in Paris, which has been communicated to the press by the American novelist, Vance Thompson, Bjornson, refers to "Germanic Union between Germany, England, Austria, the United States, Scandinavia, the Netherlands, and Luxemburg."

"In such a union," says Bjornson, "the little states would be free to renounce all idea of foreign policy. The announcement would enable them to release the military organizations and save enormous sums of money. The initial work in such a union would be colonial and also the concluding of treaties with other nations looking to the wholesale renunciation of war budgets.

"I am certain of the success of and proposals in the latter direction and the creation of a permanent supreme tribunal to decide international differences. What to my mind is essential is that the members of the national families should seriously face the question of union, the Germanic group being the one that should open the way."

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 1, 1903.

THE PHILIPPINE ATROCITIES

The story of the awful cruelties practiced by United States soldiers in the Philippines would be unbelievable if it were not reported by an officer of high rank in the U. S. army. General Miles evidently is satisfied that the reports are well founded and condemns the crimes as impairing the good name of American arms and bringing discredit to the service. Nowhere will these atrocities be more severely condemned than in the United States. The most humiliating feature of the whole affair is the disposition shown by some of the officers to justify the cruelties. The cause of the Spanish-American war was supposed to be the barbarism of Spanish rule in Cuba, which was very like Spanish rule in the Philippines. If Spain chastised its unfortunate subjects with whips their deliverer has chastised them with scorpions.

UNITED STATES TRADES UNIONISM

The dominant note struck at the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers, held in New Orleans a few days ago, was one of determined antagonism to the growing tyranny of trades unions. Little fault can be found with the principles from which trades unionism originally sprang, or with the methods which the most respected of its advocates are supposed to use. The trouble is however, that its manifestations are not always, nor even generally confined to such, and its demands have come to be made through the mouths of professional agitators, whose sole aim would appear to be to make the most noise possible, at the expense of either the employers or the employees they are supposed to represent, or oftener still, at the expense of both. There can be no doubt in the minds of fair-minded people, who have at heart the interests of both the employing and the employed classes, to say nothing of that third party, which suffers sometimes worst of all, namely, the general public that trades unions latterly have donned an altogether too dictatorial attitude towards manufacturers and other employing classes. In the words of Mr. David M. Parry, the president of the association, the union holds a bludgeon over the heads of the employer, laying down the terms upon which he shall be permitted to do business. It says to him that he must deal directly with the union; that while he shall pay the men who work in his factory, they shall be beholden more to the union than to him for their positions, that he cannot employ or discharge men without the endorsement and consent of the union and that he must pay them the wage gized by the union without regard to their individual worth or the economic ability of the employer to pay.

The growing power of the unions in the States together with this increasing tendency towards tyrannical action against employers —sometimes it may truthfully be said against employees also—was dwelt upon at length by the delegates to the convention, and the chief subject discussed was the formation of some sort of association which should stand out for the right of its members to employ whom they please and to conduct their businesses just as they should deem fit, without being trammeled by the petty exactions of the unions. The idea was not to make trades unions in themselves an object of attack, but rather to keep a solid front against the pernicious practices into which in too many cases the beneficent theories of unionism have degenerated.

The uniting of manufacturers along this line would do much to chrystalline public sentiment along certain lines in which it would appear from recent occurrences to be rather weak. Such a combination would help to educate the man on the street to detect the differences between Labor's rightful protest against injustice and Labor's oft-times dishonest attempt to wrest every cent possible at whomever's cost. Its danger might lie in the inherent tendency of all combinations of such a nature to forget their primarily protective character and develop into aggressive organizations. This is what the the trades unions have already done to everybody's cost. Let the manufacturers learn from their example an easy lesson as to what to avoid; and the proposed association is likely to prove of immense benefit to all concerned.

"The United States is the highest protected country," says Mr. Tarte, "and therefore prosperous." The United States is the largest free trade area on the globe.

GRAVES OF A HOUSEHOLD

(Published by Request.)

They grew in beauty side by side,
  They fill'd our home with glee;
Their graves are severed, far and wide,
  By mount and stream and sea.

The same fond mother bent at night
  O'er each fair sleeping brow;
She had each folded flower in sight—
  Where are those dreamers now?

One, 'midst the forests of the west
  By a dark stream is laid—
The Indian knows his place of rest,
  Far in the cedar shade.

The sea, the blue lone sea, hath one—
  He lies where pearls lie deep;
He was the loved of all, yet none
  O'er his low bed may weep.

One sleeps where southern vines are drest
  Above the noble slain,
He wrapt his colors round his breast
  On a blood-red field of Spain.

And one—o'er her the myrtle showers
  Its leaves by soft winds fann'd;
She faded midst Italian flowers—
  The last of that bright band.

And parted thus they rest who play'd
  Beneath the same green tree;
Whose voices mingled as they pray'd
  Around one parent knee!

They that with smiles lit up the hall
  And cheered with song the hearth!
Alas! for love, if thou were all,
  And naught beyond, O Earth!

A Startling Revelation

The Friends of Miss May McKenzie of London were Astonished to hear that she had gone into consumption

This sad intelligence came as a shock to Miss McKenzie's many friends. In the early fall she contracted a heavy cold which developed rapidly into Catarrh, and finally made such rapid advances that the bronchial tubes and lungs became affected.

Although the doctors said nothing short of a change of residence to the south would benefit, on the advice of a Dundas street druggist Miss McKenzie decided to thoroughly test Catarrhozone, which is warranted to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes.

Miss McKenzie says: "After my druggist had recommended Catarrhozone I spoke to my friends about it and they all said it was such a good remedy that I commenced forthwith to inhale it five or six times each day. I breathed it deeply into my lungs, and felt its beneficial action very quickly. It seemed to go where other remedies did not reach, and was so pleasant and convenient that I did not mind using it very frequently, which, probably, was the cause of it curing my obstinate case so quickly. Certainly no case of Catarrh or Bronchitis should go uncured if the sufferer can get Catarrhozone, which is a sovereign remedy, worthy of the highest recommendations."

Miss McKenzie's case needs no enlargement. She was in a critical condition, apparently beyond the aid of doctors' medicines.

Catarrhozone has cured her, and others in her condition should no longer experiment with uncertain, untried treatments, but should turn at once to Catarrhozone, and in it they will find relief and cure unobtainable by other means. Remember the name, Catarrhozone. Complete outfit guaranteed to cure, Price $1.00. Small size 25 cents. Druggists, or N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

—Mrs. Wm. Mein, of Ashburnham, is visiting her mother, Mrs. A. Campbell at present.

—Messrs. John Buttise and William Copperwaite, of Birdsall's, spent Sunday in the village.

—We are glad to learn that Mr. Archie McIntyre is progressing favorably towards recovery.

—The road gang started operations on Tuesday. Mr. D. McFarlane, our veteran road maker, is once more to the front.

—There is some talk of forming a company to utilize the power at Wedlock's dam to run an electric light and power plant.

—The Improvement Society held a meeting on Tuesday evening to arrange for cleaning up the streets on Arbor Day. It was also decided to form a public library and reading room in the village.

—Mr. Benjamin Kindred met with a painful accident on Friday last. His team which was hitched to a wagon, ran away, and he was thrown under the wheels. His head was cut and his leg bruised, but he is around again under Dr. Harrison's skillful treatment.

—The death occurred on Friday last of Miss Jane C. Short, at her home in Lang. The deceased was in her 63rd year, and was a daughter of the late Richard Short. She leaves three sisters and one brother to mourn her loss. The funeral on Monday afternoon to the Keene cemetery was largely attended. Rev. Mr. McDonald conducted the services.

SOLDIERS GUARD WHARVES

Ship-Owners Are Determined Not to Recognize Laborers' Union

Montreal, April 29.—The entire harbor front, for a space of possibly three miles, was last night turned into a military camping ground, about 800 volunteers sleeping beneath the stars.

In response to a call from Col. Gordon, the D.O.C., representatives of the Duke of York's Hussars, the 3rd Victoria Rifles, the 65th Mount Royal Rifles, the Field Hospital Corps and the Army Medical Corps turned out to preserve order in the harbor.

Both Mayor Cochrane and Col. Gordon are determined to curb the lawlessness which was prevalent yesterday morning, and which, about noon, assumed so threatening an aspect that the police were forced to acknowledge their inability to longer cope with the situation.

The picture created by the presence of the soldiers along the dyke is picturesque in the extreme, and a more formidable barrier than the granite walk could not be wished for. The strikers appear to have been completely cowed by the presence of the militia. Under the present arrangements they cannot get near the steamships which are discharging cargo, and must be content with watching the soldiers as they tread up and down. The leaders of the strikers now see that there is nothing to be gained by violence.

The steamship companies claim to be getting along very well with the men they have at work, now that they are not molested by the strikers, and are not in constant fear of being rushed, as were several gangs of men yesterday.

The three corps which were called out yesterday afternoon for duty on the wharves are being assisted today by companies of other city regiments which were held in reserve last night.

Chief of Police Legault reports that up to noon there has not been the slightest disturbance in connection with the strike. He has a force of men at work keeping the strikers and their friends from congregating in large bodies in the vicinity of the wharves.

Mayor Cochrane left this morning for Ottawa, where he will interview the Government respecting the strike.

THE POINT IN DISPUTE.

The present difficulty arises out of a demand on the part of the longshoremen (wharf laborers), served upon the stevedores (contractors for the loading and unloading of vessels), not for an increase of pay, but for the recognition of their union, recently formed. But this is just the concession which the stevedores, backed up by all the shipping concerns in the city, are unwilling to make. Hence the inception of a struggle which promises to culminate in a disastrous conflict.

A Song Writer

Mr. W. Francis Firth, who is to appear here May 1st, is not only one of the first Baritones of the day, but is fast coming to the front as a song writer. Among his compositions are "O Father Hear Me," "As Violets," "The White Star of Heaven," "A Plea," and "Your Lover's Heart." Some of these songs will be sung at his appearance here.

King Edward in Rome

Rome, April 29.—This afternoon, King Edward left the British Embassy for the Vatican in a closed carriage. He was accompanied by Col. Lambe, the British military attache, and was followed by another carriage, containing members of his suite. The King wore a field marshal's uniform. He had no escort except some policemen in plain clothes, and no troops lined the streets, in contrast with what was done at the time of Emperor William's visit to the Pope. People looked on with curiosity, but abstained from and demonstration. Contrary to the usual etiquette, King Edward did not lunch at the British Embassy, but had luncheon at the Quirinal, and, after a brief stop at the Embassy, drove to the Vatican. Thus far did King Edward give way to the Vatican desires. The carriage in which the King drove did not belong to the Quirinal, as a carriage of the King of Italy could not go within the precincts of the Apostolic Palace.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDRY

American Case is Completed and will be Handed Over on Saturday

Washington, April 29.—Hon. John W. Foster, who was selected by the United States Government to prepare the case of the United States in the Alaskan boundary dispute, has completed the first brief, which, under the terms of the treaty, is to be delivered to the members of the Alaskan Boundary Tribunal and to the British Embassy here on Saturday. The statement of the case makes a printed volume of about 600 pages and includes many maps of Alaska and the adjoining country. A new and interesting feature of the American brief relates to the occupancy by the United States of the disputed strip of territory. Heretofore little attention has been paid to this point, but in Mr. Foster's brief considerable importance is attached to the fact that from the period of purchase from Russia the United States Government held undisputed possession of the land, the title of which is now questioned. The statement contains extracts secured in the War Department from the reports of General Lovell H. Rousseau, who was the first military Governor of the newly-acquired purchase. He was stationed in 1867, and explorations were made by his direction along the line of the boundary. Other important facts are stated in this connection to show that the land claimed by the United States was always considered American territory, and was, in fact, never disputed by the officials of the adjoining British territory.

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands, at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress the Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and holding for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,922 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,600 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Haslam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 300,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 500,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land in Canada, and therefore in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 300,000 acres of specially chosen lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully examining the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. HIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 109 London Street.

BURIED GOLD

BY

FRED WHISHAW

Author of "A Boyar of the Terrible," etc.

At this moment a man in the bows of the small boat fired a second shot. The bullet grazed Robinson's forearm, but in an instant one of the steamer's crew shot the fellow dead, and he fell over into the water, rifle and all. The boat dashed up to the ship's side, but the officer bade the crew keep off. "We can't have a boatload of raving idiots let loose on deck," he said. "What do you want with this chap—what's he done, and who the devil are you?"

"He's violating his solemn oath to stay on the island like the rest of us until we give him leave to go," shouted the bosun from the stern sheets. "We have our laws in the island and he's broken them; we're a little republic here, and don't want no outside interference."

"That means you've been up to some infernal work, I'll be bound," said the ship's officer. "Mutinied, I suppose, and murdered your skipper, and so forth. This will have to be enquired into, my friend."

"The skipper's alive and well on the island, and so's the two mates. We aren't forced to be taken off the island, I suppose, if we prefer to stay; you can't force us."

"That depends, my friend. To start with, what's the name of your ship and where is she?"

"The 'Three Brothers,' and she's gone to the bottom this two years or more, with all she had on board except twenty-six chaps, officers and crew, what was saved in these two boats."

"How came you by the 'Hecuba's' boats, then, my man? Come, you're lying very stupidly. You should have scraped the names off. Go back to your island. We shall take this fellow with us, since he is anxious to go; but be sure there'll be enquiries."

"Well, I'll just tell that darned fool there before we go," shouted the bosun, "that if he gets telling any of his lies about us he won't get off scot-free. He won't, anyway, let him be sure of that, even though he may have escaped for now. You'll be big fools if you believe a word he says, for he's the greatest liar that ever chewed a quid. He was the only bad 'un in the ship, and we're d—n well rid of him, except that he'll tell you lies about us and try to get us into trouble."

With this fulmination the bosun addressed a string of unrecordable remarks to Dick Robinson, after which he bade his crew put the boat about and row back to the island. The officer laughed and waved his hand.

"They seem fond of you, those chaps," he said. "Come now, the truth, what have they been up to and what have you done?"

"They've done no harm that I know of," said Dick, "nor have I. They want a rest and made a law they wouldn't go back to work for three years. I disagreed and ran away at the first opportunity, and that's the truth as I live by bread."

"Lord, what an innocent lot you all are, if we're to believe you. You should call your island 'Innocence Island,' as it doesn't seem to have a name on the chart. Where did the 'Hecuba' go down?"

"She ran on the reef, disabled by the gale, and broke up. There wasn't any mutiny. All that can be proved, the skipper and mates are alive and well. It's perfectly true. I want to get home and they don't—there's nothing wrong, so help me."

"Well, that'll have to be enquired into. They may be another set of chaps like the Pitcairn fellows, anxious to form a colony of their own. Take the exact bearings of the island, Mr. Lewis, before we go on."

Thus Dick Robinson escaped and was carried back to San Francisco. Here the captain of the British steamer which had rescued him reported his strange discovery of an island inhabited by British sailors. According to this report the steamer was driven out of her course by a violent gale, when she sighted Innocence Island, as the captain had humorously called it, halfway between the Sandwich Isles and Marshall Island. These sailors appeared to be the crew of the British ship "Hecuba," reported lost. They had settled themselves comfortably upon the island, which was fertile and well supplied with water; and they desired to be left alone. The "Hecuba's" crew had re-signed at San Francisco, so that a list of men and officers was easily procurable, and the captain suggested that if skipper and mates were found to be alive and well, upon verification of this list, and no good reason were found for bringing the men away, they should be left in peace. A further suggestion was that goats and pigs, for breeding purposes, should be taken and left upon the island by the enquiring party.

It so happened that within a week a British gunboat would depart upon her annual visit to the Pitcairn islanders, carrying the yearly mail, together with stores and so forth, and it was arranged that she should also call upon the new colony, make enquiries on the spot, and act according to results.

Dick fell ill at San Francisco, partly the result of the excitement and terror experienced during his escape, and partly by reason of the slight wound in his arm, which festered and contributed not a little to the attack of fever which laid him low.

The gunboat sailed while he lay ill in hospital, and two months had passed before he was well enough to go about once again and think of returning to England. Another fortnight went by before he contrived to secure his passage by a British vessel bound for Southampton. Dick had very little left of his pay when he sailed, and this he saved for use in England, signing on as an extra hand and working his way home before the mast.

But as his ship hauled out of port another vessel passed close alongside, coming in. It was the British gunboat. And those of the crew of Dick's ship who happened to be standing near him at the moment were surprised to see the latter suddenly point with his finger towards the incoming vessel, and then fall flat upon the deck, foaming at the mouth and uttering unintelligible words.

"The fool thinks he's seen a ghost," said one of his companions, pulling the unconscious Dick out of the way and placing a coil of rope under his head. He was too busy to pay the poor fellow further attention at the moment, but Dick required none, for he recovered presently and went about his work, grim and silent and taciturn, indeed, but able to do his duty. He was a bad companion during the voyage, and the rest of his watch thought him a poor fool and a depressing comrade. What had so affected the man may best be explained by relating in a few words that which happened upon the island on the return of the bosun and subsequently.

The bosun held consultation with Foster and his parliament. At this meeting the first half of the hour spent in debate was devoted exclusively to the condemnation of Dick Robinson; to eager aspiration for his confusion in this and other worlds; to loud and violent abuse of the unfortunate man who had shot at and missed the offender and who had paid the penalty by his own death.

Next it was agreed that the six boxes of treasure should be dug up and reburied elsewhere, in case Dick should have it in his mind to give away the secret of its former hiding place.

Lastly it was enacted that in case an enquiring party should land upon the island two men, to be chosen by lot, but excluding the skipper and mates, should return with the enquirers, be landed wherever they could and take the first ship for Southampton. If Dick Robinson could be caught alive and brought back for trial and execution so much the better; if not, he must be dealt with in some quiet spot according to the discretion of the emissaries.

Continued

Insurance and Crime.

"There is a flavor of deviltry about insurance frauds that is peculiar, whether they are committed by insurer or insured," remarks Mr. Alexander Colin Campbell, in his new book on the above topic. And he goes on to prove his statement in four hundred pages of discussion of the ships sent down with all on board, the buildings burned, and the lives of relatives, benefactors and little children destroyed for insurance money, and the frauds practised by bogus concerns that have, in recent years and in States like Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, robbed poor people of millions of dollars, in the aggregate, by wild-cat insurance schemes. Mr. Campbell makes it clear that he is not attacking insurance itself, in which he firmly believes; but he is trying to rid it of its evil accompaniments. His is the first book on this topic, and it displays thoroughness, breadth and scholarly style in a remarkable degree. Many of the chapters read like a romance.

He says, by way of introduction:

"Here we have a fearful vista of evil opened to our sight. And, as we go on with our investigation, we shall find that occurring which we might expect. We shall find that not merely has insurance provoked people to fraud, forgery and misrepresentation and to conspiracies to carry on all these, but it has made barratry a trade, arson a business and murder a fine art; that there is hardly a crime in the calendar of which it has not been the prolific mother and the assiduous and successful nurse.

"But even this is not all. As frauds committed by the insurer are the worst possible frauds, so are crimes committed by the insured the worst possible crimes. Some of these crimes have become notorious throughout the world, and the perpetrators of them have attained the topmost height of that bad eminence upon which the world pillories the memory of the worst criminals of our race. In these more brutal acts of villainy, the treachery which gives to frauds committed by insurance companies and their employees so bad a character is to be traced. They indicate, moreover, the poisoning of the most sacred relations that exist between members of society. In thousands of cases the employer has sent his workmen to death in order to make sordid gain through an insurance contract. In thousands of cases the master of a ship, the man to whom the crew looked for guidance through the dangers of the deep, has given over all or part of his crew to Davy Jones that an insurance fraud might fructify in gold for himself and his accomplices. The cup has been poisoned, again and again by wife or child, so that the corpse of the husband or father might be presented to the insurance company as a voucher for the payment of money. Worse than that, if worse be possible, the golden bribe of insurance has caused the natural guardians of children to neglect their care; it has even caused the mother to smother the babe at her breast. There is no relation known in our social life too sacred to have been poisoned by insurance, and made the means of crimes so revolting that nothing but the hope of preventing, to some extent, their recurrence can so far overcome our horror and loathing as to enable us to contemplate them."

It is certainly a fearful panorama that is given in the succeeding chapters devoted to the crimes committed for insurance money and the gigantic frauds committed by dishonest insurance concerns. But no radical remedial legislation is proposed. Mr. Campbell would enforce the simple law that the insurance beneficiary must show an "insurable interest" in the person or object insured, and would leave the rest to an enlightened public sentiment."

An Unintentional Pun.

The difficulties of learning and using a new language are many, and the unfortunate Norwegian in this story from Kansas must have felt that his own efforts were particularly unsuccessful.

A druggist was obliged to be absent from his store one day, and his wife took his place. A large Norwegian, who spoke English with difficulty, entered and said:

"Hi owe de firm fifty cents."

"Very well," replied the druggist's wife; "just pay it to me and it will be all right."

"Hi owe de firm fifty cents."

"Yes, I understand. If you are afraid, I will give you a receipt for it."

The man looked at her in astonishment, and walked out without a word. Pretty soon he returned with a fellow-countryman, whose command of English was a little better, and who interpreted his friend's remark by explaining, "He wants fifty cents' worth of iodoform."

Never Finished.

A certain lady, who has the reputation of being anything but good-tempered, recently said to her husband: "Well, I'll own I'm cross occasionally, and you often upset me; but if I had to live my life over again I'm quite sure I should marry you just the same, dear." "Humph!" responded her husband, in an absent-minded manner, "I'm not quite so sure about that——" But the rest of the speech was lost to the world.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Hamilton Woman in Trouble in Toronto for Child Desertion.

Toronto. April 29—A colored woman 30 years of age, was arrested here last night on a charge of deserting her female infant, which was found on the steps of a house there about three weeks ago. She gave her name as Sarah Jane Thompson, and formerly lived in Hamilton, and it is said has friends living there now. Her child died a few days after its desertion, but the doctors say that death was due to natural causes. Mrs. Thompson was in Hamilton about two weeks ago. Her husband, it is said, lives in Woodstock.

MARRIED AN EARL

A Charming American Girl Becomes Countess of Yarmouth

Pittsburg, Pa., April 30—The wedding of Miss Alice Thaw, of this city, to the Earl of Yarmouth, took place in Calvary Episcopal Church at 4.30, Monday afternoon, before one of the most brilliant assemblages ever seen at a wedding in Pittsburg. Henry Kendall Thaw gave the bride away, and the officiating clergymen were the Rev. Dr. W. I. McEwan and the Rev. Dr. Hohn H. McIlvaine.

A reception followed at the Thaw residence. Lord and Lady Yarmouth have left for a brief honeymoon trip in America before sailing for England.

The Sayings of Children.

The children at a kindergarten in India were being asked the names of their favorite kings and queens. Akbar, William the Conqueror, Richard the Lion-hearted, were the answers of the mass. "King Edward the Seventh," said one small voice with a flourish. "What can you know about King Edward?" asked his teacher, to try him. The child drew himself up to the full height of his four years. "He is my King!" was his answer, and surely a conclusive one. The child who described Henry VIII. as a "professional widower" was an English production. Then there was "Jack," writing to his aunt in England his six-year-old impressions of India: "Here we have a larger moon, and we keep it better polished!" And N——, who upon being told he was getting quite old (he had had two birthdays), replied: "Indeed I am not; I am almost new!" When still "almost new" N—— was found one day sitting solemnly on a chair kicking his legs up and down. "What is it in me that wants to go for a walk?" he asked. "Not my legs, for I could move them here." Ethel and Marjory went with their mother to the stores to buy golf-clubs for their father, who was sweltering in the Indian plains. "Ethel," said Marjory, "are these for our Father which art in heaven, or our father which art in India?" "Hush, Marjory!" was the answer. "Don't you know that our Father which art in heaven only plays Sunday games!" (I cannot help inserting here the remark of one of my acquaintances to whom I take all my stories, because her absence of any sense of humor prompts her to inimitable comment. "Ah!" she said on being told the above, "I suppose, then, the mother was married twice!") Granville said his prayers at bedtime, but refused to do so in the morning. "A fellow must be a fool if he can't take care of himself in the day!" "Make Tom a good boy," said another five-year-old; adding, "Do you hear that, Tom?" And "Wait, Lord, while I kick Tom!" was another of his interjections. Elsie's sayings were numerous. "I wish I could bathe in chapters," was one extracted on a shivering winter's night. When she was about eight she hated being called of a morning, and thought of a way out of the necessity. "Trespissurs on my dreams shall be prosekuted!" was the announcement in her largest writing found pinned on to her coverlet. The spelling was what Elsie herself would have called "pathetic!" "Someone once told me I spelt on the pathetic system," she confided to me! It was very pathetic sometimes, as when she wrote of her sweet little "ginny-pigs!" "King of Kings and Lord of Lords," was in the Sunday hymn. "Do you know Whom that means, dear?" asked the mother. "Let me see; now, would it be hearts or clubs?"

Sometimes the comment on younger brothers and sisters is delicious. "Why does not baby speak?" puzzled one small girl. Later, dissatisfied with her mother's answer, she produced her own. "I know: the things that baby saw in God's house before she came to live with us were so wonderful that she cannot speak about them. She's got to be quiet—till she's forgotten!" "Baby's broken a hole in the sky and come through," was the explanation of another, aged three. Jack, rather older (aged eight), was a student of "ruling passions." "Oh! mother's been getting bargains again!" he said in all good faith upon being shown his twin baby sisters.

Enid and Edith were at a loss for a game. "Let's play at being at home," said Enid. "We'll have a day." "But what does that mean?" begged Edith. "What is a day?" "Oh! don't be stupid," said Enid. "All fashionable people have 'days.' God's day is Sunday, and mother's is Tuesday!" "Is the gentleman in the sailor hat an Apostle?" was the comment of another child on the saint in a church window.

From a bishop who had been preaching in his mitre I have my next story. It is the conversation of two small children, who sat just below the pulpit. The poor bishop could not help overhearing their little whisperings. "He's a king!" said one. "He isn't!" was the contemptuous reply. "He is a [illegible]." "No! he isn't!" "Well, then, he's a clown!" "I don't like Christian soldiers, I like barrat soldiers better," said Geoffrey, whose hero was Lord Roberts. His small brother's rendering of his nightly hymn was original:

May thine Angels spread,
Their white tails above me,
Over Ruby's bed!

A learned friend of mine sends me, as marginalia to the story, a photograph of the ancient "death-angel" from the Lycian Harpy tomb. The tails are beautifully marked; and I am sure Ruby was an archaeologist in some previous existence. "God would not send a flood now," said Frances comfortably, after hearing the Noah story. "And why?" asked her mother. "Oh! He knows that everyone can swim now; it would not be any good!" "Please let's re-range about Christmas presents," said Rosamond to me last December. "But don't you want a surprise?" I asked. "Oh no!" she replied, "I've tried surprises, and they're only disappointal!" (Seven seems too early to grow blasé, even in this century.) Joan is just nine years old. "What is she like?" she asked of her mother about an expected guest. "But really, Joan, I can't tell what you want to know." "Well! what does she look like? Is she old or young? What does she think about?" Her mother attempted a description. "I know," said Joan, summing her up, quite satisfied; "black net and sequins!" Another "summary" one retails with tears at one's heart, for it is many years now since Ralph, aged seven, was called to enter the mists of death. It was his last Easter, and he begged hard to be allowed to go to church as usual. He was taken home after the Passover lesson. "And you could not understand that, my boy; you might have come out before," said his mother. "Oh, no!" said Ralph, "I loved it; it was a beautiful story: the blood, and the Lamb—and, they were all safe!"—Cornelia Sorabji in the "Spectator."

Corrected.

Poetical and pedantic young lady walking in the wood with elderly and learned professor: "Oh, Mr. Bookworm, look at that magnificent oak! Let us stop one minute. I must tell him how the sight of such beautiful trees raises keen emotions in my soul; because, you know, I'm sure they can hear us and enjoy a compliment as well as you do. You superb oak, what would you say if you could talk?" "I believe I can be his interpreter, dear Miss Hopkins. He would most likely say: 'Beg your pardon, miss; I'm a beech!'"

A SHORTAGE OF CARS IN B. C.

Shingle Mills of British Columbia will Have to Close

Vancouver, April 30—Owing to the scarcity of cars and the heavy production, it is likely that the shingle mills of British Columbia will close down for the purpose of stopping the output. Owing to the wheat movement the cars are very scarce for shingles and lumber.

(Organized under the laws of Oregon.)

CAPITAL STOCK, - - $1,000,000.00
PAR VALUE SHARES, - - $1.00

Full Paid and Non-Assessable.

The property of this company consists of three full claims known as the "Fleur de lis," "Mayflower," and "Mistletoe" Group, embracing an area of sixty acres of highly mineralized ground, located in the famous Sumpter district, Baker county, Oregon, about [illegible] miles from McEwen on the Sumpter Valley Railroad.

The best evidence we have to offer as to our "being in good company" is to mention a few of those who are our immediate neighbors, viz: the North Pole, Bonanza, Red Boy, Eureka Columbia, Golconda, Cracker, Oregon, Golden Wizard, all of which are in this same district, producing from $40,000.00 to $100,000.00 per month each.

From the preliminary amount of development work already done on our property and from the assays of ore which is entirely free milling, running $[illegible] to $[illegible] per ton, we are confident that with the installation of modern machinery we have a proposition worthy of the most searching enquiry by those seeking a high grade investment.

Our board of directors consists of men who have a practical knowledge of mining, well known and of high standing, who have invested every available dollar of their own to acquire this valuable property and put it on a dividend paying basis.

To accomplish this it has been decided to place a limited amount of the treasury stock on sale at [illegible] per share for development purposes only until such time as the condition of the mine will enable it to take care of itself, when the sale of stock will be withdrawn.

Our prospectus will give you all particulars. Let us send it to you. We shall also be pleased to answer all enquiries whether by mail or in person at our office.

THE

TWO-TEN OIL CO.

of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock for the next 30 days at 10 Cents per Share, after that price will be advanced.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

PRACTICALLY REBUILT FROM ITS EARNINGS

New York, April 30—One of the most remarkable examples of the evolution and progress of American Railroads is the Baltimore and Ohio system under the splendid control and management of the Penna. railroad. The entire system has been practically rebuilt from its earnings. Its progenitors and former guardians, the Garrett people of Baltimore, would not today recognize the old system, were they here to view it. Its trackage has been rebuilt, depots improved, grades levelled and rolling stock replenished. Today it is in splendid physical condition and its stock, intrinsically, at present is ridiculously cheap. It ought to be selling nearer 120 dollars per share than near par, and must, and will, ultimately command such a price.

The March net increase of $704,000 in earnings out of $700,000 gross increase is most encouraging to holders. We doubt, however, any immediate increase individend rate; contemplated improvements already under way will be finished first. The shareholders will however reap the increased income later, in addition to the increase in the actual value of their property caused through these expenditures. Even should large losses in traffic occur the company could materially reduce the expenses without effecting safety or economy of operating and in this way produce sufficient revenues to pay reasonable dividends on the outstanding stocks. The percentage of operating expenses to gross earnings declined from 7 per cent. in '99 to 6 per cent. in 1892, yet but a vast amount has been expended on the road. Net earnings in '99 were $6,021,599; and in 1802 they were $18,-269,497, equivalent to 4 per cent. upon the preferred stock and nearly 9 per cent upon the common. Since Penna. secured control of the B. & O. they have acquired much more stock They evidently believe in its future and rightfully so. The increase in the company's earnings has largely been brought about by the Penna. Ry management. At the present rate of net earnings so far in 1903 the road will show for the year something like 13 per cent. for its common stock. Paying four and placing balance back in the property, is it a wonder that the Penna. Ry. continue to be heavy purchasers of B. & O? When sagacious people like the Penna. folks, buy in excess of control into a property under their management, it is a judicious thing to go in it with them.

HAIGHT & FREESE.

THE VIRGINIA BELL COMPANY

Important News from the Rincon District in Pima County Arizona

Messrs. Riggs and Doherty have just returned from the Rincon district. The following information comes from Mr. Riggs and is taken from the Bisbee Review:

Virginia Belle Gold & Copper Mining Company in the Rincon is working steadily. The Rincon Mining Company at a depth of about ninety feet have some fine carbonate ore in sight. Messrs. Riggs and Doherty located ten claims while up there. An elaborate display of the surface rock from these claims appears in Judge Brown's window. They represent some fine carbonates.

The boys think they have got the world by the tail, and we only hope they have, as they are eminently deserving. Moreover, they may be correct, as they are in one of the most promising districts of the territory, where the conditions improve with every foot of rock removed. Their location is north and east of the Rincon property and closer to the San Pedro River, being only about four and a-half miles from its historic banks. According to their statement, Mr. Westlidge has struck it rather plenty on one of his claims in the Rincon district. They say he has opened up some eight feet of fine carbonates, and as he joins the Rincon on the northwest it reflects favorably on the property. These gentlemen who claim great things for the Rincon District are unable to understand why Michigan and Colorado capital should overlook their district, when, as they claim, there are finer inducements on the surface in the Rincon district than there are at 1000 feet in the Bisbee district. They will endeavor to get some substantial expert into this district. The Dragoons in Cochise County and the Rincons in Pima County, Arizona, are now attracting much Michigan and Pennsylvania capital.

The Eastern National Copper Company, Limited, Halifax, is actively employed at its mining property, at Cheticamp, Eastern Harbor. The ore is said to be enormous in extent and to promise rich returns.

Jury Fled

New York, April [illegible]—Fear of violence at the hands of the Mafia caused a general disappearance of the coroner's jury, which was to hold an inquest yesterday into the death of Madonia, whose body was found stuffed in a barrel on the east side, and for whose murder thirteen Italian suspects were taken into custody.

Oil Worth $5.00

ACTONOMA OIL AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY

in the famous NEWHALL WHITE OIL field of California, the oldest producing field in the State.

The Company owns 10,000 Acres of Oil Territory

lying between the Kern River District on the north and the valuable Newhall holdings of the Standard Oil company on the south and joins both these fields. It is considered the most VALUABLE PIECE OF OIL TERRITORY IN CALIFORNIA. The value of our holdings may be estimated by the fact that an offer of $27,500 has been made for the ground on which our well is located, showing the confidence oil men have in our prospects.

To push their well and complete the development of this vast property, the company offers 40,000 shares of treasury stock at 55 cents per share. This low offer is but for a short time and may be withdrawn without notice, as a strike would advance the stock to par at once and probably far beyond that.

It is expected that five or six additional wells will be put down during the coming summer.

This company has no high salaried officers, no preferred stock, and economy and integrity are exercised by its managers, and the interest of the smallest stockholder is protected.

Should you desire stock you must act promptly, as such opportunities never go begging nor remain long in sight. Orders filled as received.

If shares are exhausted when your application is received we will return your money. Make checks payable to the order of the Actonoma Oil and Development Company, P. H. Enright, Secretary and Treasurer, 218 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.
PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

Lost Appetite Quickly Revived

A Fitful Appetite is generally associated with a general weakness of the system. Ferrozone the best tonic and appetiser should be taken after each meal and a rapid improvement is sure to follow

Disease for food often follows La Grippe and fever, or is brought on by over excitement or worry. It is a dangerous condition and paves the way for grave sickness. On this account it should be at once corrected by the regular use of Ferrozone.

A new and wonderful medicine is Ferrozone. It instantly imparts a real zest for food, and gives power to the stomach to digest and assimilate all that is eaten. Dyspepsia and indigestion are quite unknown to those who use Ferrozone, simply because it digests food so quickly, that it has no time to ferment or sour on the stomach.

Ferrozone regulates the bowels quickly remedies urinal disorders and causes all the organs of the body to perform their functions, with proper regularity. If the liver is torpid, or the kidneys not eliminating as they should, they are soon restored to normal action, and the poisons that might otherwise be retained in the body to cause disease and ill health, are carried off through natural channels.

The surest road to perfect health is Ferrozone. Young girls who have been accustomed to eat almost nothing at breakfast, soon get over the bad habit by using Ferrozone, and as a result grow into healthy vigorous womanhood. When people get up in years and loose the strength and vim of youth they need a good tonic and blood builder to enable them to resist the trials of our vigorous winter, and this is where Ferrozone can be used to great advantage.

Both the young and the old, the weak and the strong, male and female can derive untold benefit from Ferrozone. It is guaranteed to contain no opiates or injurious drugs, and will do just what is claimed for it.

Druggists recommend and sell it price 50c. per box or three boxes for $1.25. Sent to your address by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

THE GRAND JURY MADE ITS PRESENTMENT

Judgment by Default in Jory vs. Wilson—Webb Gets Damages

The Spring Assizes of the High Court of Justice for the County of Peterborough resumed yesterday morning before the Honorable Mr. Justice Osler, who is acting in the place of Mr. Justice Street, who is ill. When the court opened this morning the Grand Jury made the following presentment:

The Hon. Justice Osler, presiding at the sittings of the High Court of Justice, Peterborough, Ont., in the year 1903.

May it please your Lordship,—The Grand Jurors beg to present the following:

1. It was with unqualified regret we learned a few days ago of the untimely demise of Mr. Justice Lount, who on several occasions had presided in this court room, with such marked legal acumen and high sense of right.

2. We have inspected carefully the following institutions receiving provincial grants: The County Jail, Nicholls Hospital, The Protestant Home, the Children's Shelter, St. Joseph's Hospital and the House of Providence.

In the Jail there are six inmates,—three vagrants, one idiot, one confined for non-support of family, and another for drunkenness. One of the vagrants is 73 years of age and another is somewhat weak in intellect. The Jail does not seem to be a fitting abode for such, nor for the poor idiot.

Good order and cleanliness apparently characterized the management.

We found both hospitals admirably arranged and equipped, and managed, it seemed to us, with intelligence and sympathy. Each hospital has between 30 and 40 patients. Both Superintendents and their assistants are decidedly of the opinion, and we agree with them, that a separate hospital for infectious diseases only, should be erected at an early date in Peterborough by the town and county. On an average nearly one-third of the patients in these hospitals are ill with infectious diseases,—this last month scarlet fever and diphtheria particularly,—and at present there is not adequate provision for necessary isolation. At Nicholls Hospital such patients are isolated in tents where the ventilation is not good, and where it is both uncomfortable and dangerous for the nurses. For those who so bravely fight disease, proper provision should be made for their comfort and for the preservation of their health.

For the Children's Shelter, the Protestant Home and the House of Providence we have no words other than praise. The inmates in each 2, 17, and 51 respectively, were; so far as we could judge, well provided for and happy.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) J. W. GARVIN,
Foreman.

JORY VS. WILSON.

The case of Jory vs. Wilson was concluded and judgment was entered, giving the plaintiff damages to the extent of $1,505.20. The 20 cents was the amount that was awarded as damages for assault. The defendant was not represented in Court, and therefore made no objection to the extent or nature of damages asked for by the plaintiff.

O. A. Langley, Lakefield, for the prosecution.

The next case taken up was that of Webb vs. Canadian General Electric Company. This case was tried at the last Assizes and the plaintiff was non-suited. A new trial was granted by the Divisional Court and to-day the plaintiff was given judgment for $400.

Mr. MacKay, Toronto, and John Green for plaintiff; E. A. DeVernet and R. M. Dennistoun for defendants.

Watching the Bill

—Mrs. (Dr.) McCullough and babe, left yesterday on a three weeks' visit to Toronto.

—Mr. B. L. Simpson, Peterborough, is to be congratulated on receiving the degree of B.A., at Queen's University, Kingston.

—Mr. A. Brets, of Toronto, Superintendent of the London Life Assurance Company, was in town yesterday and Wednesday, a guest of Mr. George Lee.

—Miss Adra M. Luton, who will appear in Peterborough this evening at the Y.M.C.A. concert, is the possessor of a beautiful soprano voice of great power and sweetness. She is a pupil of W. Francis Firth.

—Amateur burglars broke into the Shiven Lumber Co.'s premises in Campbellford, on Monday night, and tried to wrench the door off the safe. They also entered the store and stole some tobacco and pipes, but overlooked the till where there was some money.

SHOP LICENSES

License Commissioners Meet and Dispose of Shop Licenses

The Licence Commissioners for the West Riding of the County of Peterborough met yesterday morning and granted the following shop licenses:

Ashburnham — J. C. Sullivan and W. Collins.

Peterborough — Fred Mitchell and Alex. Elliott.

The applications of Messrs. Ed. Brown and M. L. Henry were not granted for the year, but a permit was given them for three months. If by that time their liquor shops are made distinctly separate from their other places of business the licenses for the year will be granted.

MR. GOLDMAN ON TOP

The Popular Secretary of the North American Life is Promoted

We congratulate Mr. L. Goldman, who has been associated with the North American Life Assurance Company since its commencement as Secretary, on his promotion to the position of Managing Director, rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Wm. McCabe. Mr. Goldman has, by his energy and untiring zeal in the interests of the Company, earned the honor which is now his. That he may long live to guide the course of this popular and progressive company is the wish of the company's many friends and patrons in Peterborough and throughout this district.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Mr. Ed. Curtis, of Town, Weds Miss Rose Molloy of Emily Township

At the Roman Catholic church, Downeyville, a very pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday last, when Rev. Father Bretherton united in the holy bonds of matrimony Miss Rose Molloy, daughter of Mr. Patrick Molloy, of Emily township, and Mr. Edward Curtis, of town.

The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Agnes Molloy, while Mr. William Sline supported the groom.

At the conclusion of the ceremony an elaborate wedding dejeuner was served at the home of the groom's mother, No. 521 Aylmer street.

The best wishes of all are extended to the popular young couple.

CUPID AT EIGHTY-SIX

Rev. Washington Morse, who is 86 Years Old Weds Mrs. Emory Who is Three Score and Six

A wedding of unusual interest, occasioned by the advanced age of the contracting parties, took place in Ashburnham on Wednesday, when Rev. Dr. Torrance united in marriage Rev. Washington Morse, of Peterborough and Mrs. Jane Emory, of Ashburnham.

Rev. Washington Morse, who is 86 years of age, is what is called a "Seventh Day Adventist" and has spent forty years in mission work among the Indians. A most remarkable career has been his, and many times he has faced the tomahawks and scalping knives wholly unarmed. Several massacres of white people have been witnessed by him, but his crowning joy is that two churches now stand on the "Five Hundred Reservation" where formerly warwhoops and bloodshed were pre-eminent.

The many friends of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Morse wish them every happiness and prosperity.

THE WORK OF THE Y.W.C.A.

Interesting Address in St. Paul's Church by Mrs. Reynolds

Notwithstanding the [illegible] there was a large attendance at St. Paul's church last night to hear Miss Reynolds, the World's Secretary of the Y.W.C.A., who delivered a very eloquent and impressive address on the work which this association is doing in many parts of the world.

After opening exercises, the speaker was introduced by the chairman, Dr. Torrance, in a few well chosen words.

Miss Reynolds is a fluent and exceedingly pleasing speaker. Her story of the work which is being accomplished by the Association was listened to with wrapt attention.

The World's committee, of which she is the secretary, superintended and assisted in the formation of National committees in different countries, giving information and help in various ways to the National committees already existing, aiding those coming as strangers into London, etc., and extending the work of the Y.W.C.A. into foreign lands; in response to the united requests of foreign missionaries in those lands, that Association workers are sent out to carry on work that they themselves could not undertake.

The speaker related many incidents relating to her visits to different countries. Two World's Y.W.C.A. conferences have been held; one in 1898 in London, attended by 300 delegates representing 18 different countries; the second held in Geneva, Switzerland, in 1902, representing 19 different countries.

At the conclusion of the address a vote of thanks to Miss Reynolds was passed.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—The parks have been opened for the season.

—The 57th Band intend giving a promenade concert about the 15th May. Full particulars later.

—The Rathbun Company's tug, Mary Louise, which was sunk at Sturgeon Point, has been raised.

—Mr. W. Francis Firth enjoys the distinction of being the only Canadian who has sung in Italian Opera at the famous theatre, "San Carlo," of Naples. The journals of that city speak of him as an artist in the first ranks. He will sing in Peterborough, Friday, May 1st.

A Song Writer

Mr. W. Francis Firth, who is to appear here May 1st, is not only one of the first Baritones of the day, but is fast coming to the front as a song writer. Among his compositions are "O Father Hear Me," "As Violets," "The White Star of Heaven," "A Plea," and "Your Lover's Heart." Some of these songs will be sung at his appearance here.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

REAL ENJOYMENT.

The woman who reads this will understand to the full what Mrs. Tipton meant when she says: "I am enjoying good health." It takes a person who has been made wretched by sickness to understand the joy of health.

There are very many women who suffer as did Mrs. Tipton, who might be cured as she was by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"It is with pleasure I recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mrs. Nora Tipton, of Cropper (Cropper Station), Shelby Co., Kentucky. "You remember my case was one of female weakness and weak lungs. I had no appetite and would often spit blood; was confined to my bed almost half of the time and could hardly stand on my feet at times for the pains through my whole body and system. My husband had to pay large doctor bills for me, but since I have taken four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, four of 'Favorite Prescription' and three vials of 'Pleasant Pellets' we haven't paid any more doctor bills. It had been seven months since I stopped using Dr. Pierce's medicines and I have been enjoying good health all the time. I can never praise these medicines too highly, for I have received so much benefit. I pray that many who suffer as I did will take Dr. Pierce's medicines. I am sure they will never fail to cure when given a fair trial. Everybody tells me I look better than they ever saw me. I am sure I feel better than I ever did before."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

A Great Impersonator

What the press has to say of Mr. S. Homer Eaton, who is to appear in Peterborough Friday, May 1st, at the Opera House: "The impersonations of Mr. Eaton are of a very unusual type, since there is not a touch of caricature in costume, make-up or in voice. He carries his audience with him to tears or laughter and with a finished and dramatic skill that one seldom finds, unless it be in Sol Smith Russel or a Willard."—Albany Argus.

DR. CHAMBERLAIN SAYS GAMEY WAS THE FIRST TO PROPOSE TO PUBLISH AN INTERVIEW

Testifies That The Member for Manitoulin Dictated the Points and Asked Mr. Stratton to Prepare the Statement

ANOTHER WITNESS SAYS GAMEY DID NOT CALL ON AFTERNOONS OF SEPT. 10 OR 11

Witness was Present at Interview Between Gamey and Stratton on January 13 Last

Provincial Secretary Not Likely to Take the Stand Until Early Next Week--Costello's Testimony

ARTHUR A. BOWEN, GIVES EVIDENCE

Says Gamey Expressed His Intention of Supporting the Government

With the exception of some evidence by Dr. Chamberlain, to the effect that Mr. Gamey asked Mr. Stratton to prepare the famous interview for The Globe, the Gamey enquiry this morning disclosed nothing novel. Myers was on the stand for an hour, thus making an ordeal of something over four hours all told to him. The general line taken by Mr. Ritchie was to show that his recollections of the second week of September were fresher than those of any subsequent time. It does not seem probable that Mr. Stratton will be heard until next week, since it is not the present intention of the judges to sit to-morrow. Judge Finkle, of Woodstock, occupied a seat on the bench this morning.

Elgin Myers, Mr. Stratton's secretary, was again placed on the stand, when the court opened this morning. Mr. Ritchie questioned him closely about the events of the 29th of January, when the interview was given to The Globe. Gamey was in and out of Mr. Stratton's office several times that day. The interview was handed to Hammond, the reporter, about half-past six. The latter, after getting it, went away, and was absent for about five or ten minutes. Gamey immediately went into Mr. Stratton's room, and was with the Minister for [illegible] before he went down town.

Mr. Ritchie then questioned Mr. Myers about Frank Sullivan's statement that he asked him to intimate to Mr. Bastedo, Superintendent of Fisheries, that Gamey was going to have the patronage in the Manitoulin District. This was in connection with the pound net license, applied by the Messrs. Noble, of Collingwood. Myers admitted having told Bastedo what Sullivan said, but did not take in the meaning of it. The substance of what he said was: "Mr. Gamey does not want the Nobles to have the license." He admitted that since the revelations were made he had had several conversations on the matter with Frank Sullivan.

Francis Costello, messenger in Mr. Stratton's office, followed Myers. He swore that on September 9, Mr. Gamey came with Frank Sullivan to see Mr. Stratton, and did not come back again that month. He usually went to lunch, he said, between one and two. Costello explained that he fixed matters in his mind by the Conservative Convention of September 9. He admitted that there was nothing unusual in a Conservative member's visiting the Department. He could not give the name of any one else who visited Mr. Stratton in the month of December. He could not fix the date of Mr. Gamey's next visit more exactly than that it was some time between September 9 and January 1. He stated that James Vance, the Liberal organizer, always had the entry to Mr. Stratton, and had precedence over all other visitors. Costello admitted that he sometimes went out of the building on errands for Mr. Stratton.

Dr. Chamberlain, Provincial Inspector of Jails and Penitentiaries, testified to having been called to Mr. Stratton's private office on the morning of January 13. Mr. Gamey was present, and witness was called as to the lock-up at Little Current, which the member for Manitoulin complained was in bad condition. Witness was ordered to make a report. The appointment of a License Board, and a place for Gamey's brother was discussed. Mr. Stratton said they would have to consult their friends. Gamey remarked that he was a supporter of the Government. Stratton spoke up sharply and said it did not look like it after his going into North Perth. Gamey declared that he had to do it. Stratton urged him to make a public declaration, and Gamey requested the Minister to draw up an interview with The Globe for him. Mr. Stratton took some notes and promised to do so. The instructions given by Mr. Gamey agreed for the most part with the text of The Globe interview.

Cross-examined by Mr. Ritchie, Dr. Chamberlain said that Mr. Stratton spoke very sharply to Gamey about his going to North Perth. He absolutely denied having taken part in any election for the Legislature during the fourteen years since his appointment.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Arthur A. Bowen, who was in [illegible] with Gamey and J. S. Martin, of Kemptville, in the [illegible] the first witness called this afternoon. He said Gamey expressed his intention then of supporting the Ross Government, and was not surprised when he saw The Globe interview to that effect.

To Mr. McPherson, the witness said that he had not known Gamey before that, but knew Mr. Martin well, both belonging to the same place. He admitted having been a good Grit all his life, having supported the Government all the way through.

Dr. Arthurs, of Sudbury, partner of Dr. Strouthers, examined yesterday, testified that he always knew Mr. Gamey as a Conservative, although he was a supporter of R. A. Lyon, Liberal, in Provincial politics. Mr. Gamey and he were interested in a mining transaction. In July last, Mr. Gamey called on him in his office, and in course of conversation, Mr. Gamey said he had just arrived from Toronto, where he attended a Conservative caucus. He said he thought Ross was going to win out, that many at the caucus had been discouraged, and that there were doubts if they could hold together very long. He said if he had not felt certain that Whitney would win, he would not have been a candidate, as he did not want to sit in the House with his hands tied. He said further, that he would give Whitney the first vote, and after that he would support the Government. Gamey said it would be easy for him to support the Government because he had frequently stated on the platform that he would do so. Witness advised him to resign and go into the field again as a Liberal, as it would be better for the Government and better for himself as the people would say he had been bought were he to turn over as proposed.

Witness said that discussing Mr. Whitney's speech at Sudbury, Mr. Gamey said the Opposition leader did not understand the needs of New Ontario. Gamey said he could not get his railroad pass from Dr. Pyne, the acting Conservative whip, because new members could not get their passes until the House met and because his constituency had never before been in existence. Witness saw Gamey between Jan. 7 and 12, after the bye-elections, and told him his speaking in North Perth accentuated his flop, that it made it look as though he had been bought. Gamey denied indignantly that he was doing anything else but looking after the interests of his constituents. He stood by the Conservatives so long as they had a fighting chance for power. Mr. Gamey also said when up in North Perth that meetings had been arranged for him to speak at by Mr. Miscampbell, but Mr. Whitney came in and spoilt all that.

King's Visit to the Pope

The King's visit to the Pope will please the great majority of His Majesty's Protestant subjects, who have the greatest respect for Leo XIII. In many ways and on many occasions His Holiness has shown a kindly and sympathetic attitude towards the people of England, which is cordially appreciated. For the King to have visited Rome without calling on the Pope would have indicated a lack of courtesy and a lack of tact. King Edward VII. is not deficient in either.

Weather Notes

Easterly winds and quite cool.

TO KEEP OUT CHINESE

U. S. Have Re-Organized Detention System on Most Complete Scale

Washington, May 2—Four new detention stations for Chinamen will soon be opened on the Canadian border. One of them at Malone, N.Y., will be opened within ten days. The others will be located at Burlington, Vt., Portal, N.D., and Sumnas Wash. The opening of the new stations will mark a complete reorganization of the Chinese immigration business. The Canadian Pacific Railway will deliver direct to immigration officials at these four places all the Chinamen trying to come here through Canada. The immigration service has ordered ten outfits of the Bertillion system of physical measurement, and is preparing to use them for the detection of Chinese. Every port of entry through which Chinese come to the United States will be supplied with the apparatus.

A LICENSE LAW

Hon. Mr. Ross's New Bill will Disappoint Prohibitionists

Toronto, May 2— Semi-official announcement was made this morning of the Ontario Government's liquor policy for the present session. It will probably be somewhat disappointing to extreme prohibitionists. The intention of the Government is to introduce a new license bill, engrafting some of the restrictive features of the latest liquor legislation in the States of New York and Pennsylvania. It will not be prohibition, but proceed on municipal option lines.

A temperance meeting will be held here when some hot discussion is expected.

The effect of the move will be to place the Government in the firing line, and to divide the temperance ranks.

The Success of

Paine's Celery Compound

Has Astonished and Gratified Medical Men Everywhere

It is the Only Remedy That Positively Bestows Health and Lasting Strength

Years ago when a great public demand arose for a remedy for nervous ailments as well as a reliable blood purifier, Dr. Edward E. Phelps, Professor of Materia Medica and Medical Botany of Dartmouth Medical College, gave to diseased and suffering men and women his great discovery, Paine's Celery Compound. The success of this wonderful prescription has been phenomenal. No other remedy known to medical science enjoys such a widespread reputation today.

In the month of May, when so many are sick, Paine's Celery Compound makes people well. It is the one true specific prescribed by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system; it is a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles and all blood diseases. Mr. S Hanna, a respected resident of Manvers, Ont., writes thus:

"After severe sickness and suffering for a length of time, am happy to state that I was made well by Paine's Celery Compound. To be raised up from a low and weak state inside of two weeks is a marvelous work, which nothing else but Paine's Celery Compound could have accomplished. After using the first bottle of the compound, I was able to dig the holes for a forty rod fence, and help build it. Before using Paine's Celery Compound I could not sleep, and had no appetite; now I enjoy good sleep and a healthful appetite. Paine's Celery Compound is worth its weight in gold to any sufferer; it is the best medicine in the world."

ADVERTISE IN 'THE TIMES' NOW

People are Panic Stricken

Victoria, May 1—According to the latest information here the mines can not be approached nearer than half a mile. The roar from the mountain is at times almost deafening and the people are panic stricken for fear of another outbreak.

Nearly every cottage in that district is now vacant. The occupants are going to Blairmore, a small town two miles distant. Rescue parties have been organized and a systematic method of search and rescue is being vigorously carried on, but very little hope is held out for any of the missing.

TO RESTRAIN ADVERTISING

Propriety of Warning Notices Regarding Strikes to be Tested

The right of a newspaper to publish an advertisement warning laborers to avoid a locality where a strike is pending is to be tested in two novel actions just begun by the Canadian Locomotive Company of Kingston against The Mail and Empire and The Globe Printing Companies. The writs ask for injunctions restraining the publication in the defendant newspapers of any notice, advertisement, command or threat in these words, "Machinists keep away from Kingston; strike still on," or in any similar words, or words to the like effect. The plaintiffs also ask to have the defendants restrained from publishing in any such language as the foregoing any reference to "the business of the company in connection with their employees or ex-employees or persons who may become employees."

MEN HORSEWHIPPED

Woman Chastises Her Husband and His Lawyer

Exciting Scene in Los Angeles—A Sensation on a Public Street

Los Angeles, Cal., May 1—Infuriated by statements made in divorce papers prepared by her husband's attorney, Mrs. Nellie Robinson, wife of William Robinson, a well-known local advertising man, yesterday afternoon publicly horsewhipped Mr. Robinson, and his attorney, H. T. Morrow.

Mr. Robinson and Morrow were standing in front of the Third street entrance to the Lankershim building, in which Robinson has offices. Mrs. Robinson, in company with two men, walked quietly up behind them. Drawing a whalebone whip from under her coat, Mrs. Robinson slashed her husband across the face. Three times the blow was repeated, then Mrs. Robinson turned to Morrow and struck him twice across the shoulders. Then Robinson grabbed the whip from his wife and broke it across his knee.

"Nellie," he called, meanwhile seizing her by the shoulders and peering into her flushed face: "Do you know what you are doing?"

"You called me a drunkard," she retorted, struggling to free herself from his grasp. "You let me go hungry and wanted to drive me on the street."

Husband Retreats.

By this time a crowd gathered and Robinson, evidently desiring to avoid a scene, released his wife and followed his attorney back to the elevator. Neither of the men with Mrs. Robinson offered any interference.

Mrs. Robinson walked away with her companions, but returned in a few minutes, and followed her husband up to his offices. Someone evidently warned him that she was coming, for about the time she went up the elevator Robinson walked down the side stairs and left the building.

ARRESTED IN DETROIT

Toronto Diamond Smuggler Comes to Grief

Detroit, Mich, May 2—A United States officer has arrested a man who gave the name of Albert Schmidt, and his residence as Toronto, Ont., on suspicion of smuggling $10,000 worth of diamonds, pearls and gold novelties into the United States. The officers believe the property was brought to Detroit from Paris by way of Canada. Schmidt was caught while he was endeavoring to pawn a diamond ring.

MONTREAL FAMILY BEREAVED

The Great Disaster at Frank Causes Death of Several Montrealers

Montreal May 2—The disaster in Frank, Alberta, has bereaved one Montreal home. Mrs. James Mundie, wife of Mr. Jas. Mundie, the manager for J. W. Peck & Co., of Montreal, lost her brother, her sister-in-law and her four nephews in the great landslide.

Mr. A. Leitch, who with his wife and four sons, perished under the fall of rocks, was a brother of Mrs. Mundie. Up till two years ago Mr Leitch lived in the town of Killarney, Man., where he conducted the local grain elevator. Mr. Leitch moved out to the further west two years ago. He is well known, and is well connected throughout the west.

The two little girls of Mr. Leitch although in the same house with the rest, were rescued uninjured, while their four brothers were dead.

Mrs. Mundie resides at 4427 St. Catharine street.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM

The Spirit of True Love Does Not Always Run Smooth

Toronto, May 1,—Much amusement was created in Judge Morson's court yesterday on the trial of an action by Max Exler, a Jewish peddler, to recover a diamond ring he had given Jennie Stern, of 239 West Queen street. Max made love to the girl and gave her the ring to solemnize the engagement, but, with the caution of his race, made the condition that if there should be a falling out he was to get the ring back. The girl afterwards wanted a gold watch, diamond earrings and a gold bracelet, but the plaintiff said they would come later. But a stern parent interfered, and threw Max out of the house, while the young lady retained the ring. Her lawyer said she was under age and could not make a legal contract, and the ring was an absolute gift, anyway. As it was sworn by the plaintiff that the ring cost him $105, besides the setting, the judge dismissed the case as being outside of his jurisdiction, and another action will need to be started in the County Court.

A UNION OF THE ENTIRE SCANDINAVIAN RACE

Russia's Relentless Tyranny May Lead To a Collossal Union Against The Great Oppressor of Finland

Copenhagen, May 1— Russia's relentless tyranny in Finland is freshly illustrated by the events of the past few days which have filled Scandinavia with indignation. The highest officers of the State are as deeply resentful as the man in the street. The leading journals warn Scandinavians that the fate of Finland implies other tragedies of a similar character unless Pan-Scandinavianism becomes something more than a political dream.

Russia's action has also made it certain that the Scandinavian statesmanship will cultivate the favor of other powers that are checking the westward trek of Slav civilization.

London, May 1.—Lord Strathcona has taken prompt measures to reassure intending emigrants and friends whose ignorance of Canadian geography led them to imagine that the Frank disaster might affect British settlements. Lord Strathcona stated to the press that Frank, to all intents and purposes, was outside of the Canadian immigration area. James White, geographer of the Canadian Interior Department, now here, says a volcanic explosion at Frank is a mere myth. Probably a pocket of gas was struck.

The St. James Gazette, commenting on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement in Ottawa yesterday, says: "Dreadful as these massive landslips are, anything is preferable to a prospect of renewed volcanic agencies."

The Standard discusses the geological aspects of the catastrophe and discredits the volcanic explanation. It says: "We need not look for any more lamentable developments than have already occurred."

EMIGRATION OFFICES.

London, May 1.—Hon. Clifford Sifton's first holiday since the completion of the Alaskan boundary case was spent in going over the details of the emigration office. He says he is satisfied with the policy adopted and the results achieved. He expects the westward tide will increase. The Minister is going to Oxford for a few days' rest.

Mr. Kelly returns to the Belfast office, from Dublin. Mr. Webster, formerly of Brandon, and now at Glasgow, goes to Dublin, as successor to Mr. R. C. Davlin, M.P., while Mr. Bruce Walker, formerly of The Brantford Expositor, goes to Glasgow. Emigration Affairs are now conducted on a sternly business basis. The centralization of administration in London has had the best results.

MOTHERLAND WAKING UP.

London, May 1.—The Morning Post has a laudatory editorial upon Canada and Canadian affairs, in which it is said: "Canadians have not without reason complained of neglect by the Motherland, but such grounds of complaint are rapidly being removed. The Home Land's interest in the granary of the Empire has been intensified by the realization of the dangers associated with food supply in the time of war. There is a rumor here that the Canadian trades unions opposition to immigration is because the continuous influx of workers thwarts a tremendous scheme of American and Canadian labor leaders of a paralyzing continental strike. The rapid development of the Dominion and its prosperity is encouraging the leaders to strike, but the immigration of workers will render the plan futile."

THE CAUSE OF THE GREAT LAND SLIDE

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company Explains the Cause of the Disaster at Frank

Montreal, May 1—General Manager McNicholl this morning issued a statement in regard to yesterday's disaster at Frank, which will doubtless be generally accepted as more probable than the cause originally assigned.

It appears that there was no explosion whatever, either of volcanic or gaseous origin; the displacement of immense boulders in the side of the mountain, rushing with accelerated violence into the valley beneath occasioned so much dust as to readily suggest to the inhabitants some volcanic manifestation.

Mr. McNichol's statement is as follows:

"The trouble on the Crow's Nest Pass Branch at Frank was caused by a huge rock slide. There was no explosion, but the slide was of such large dimensions that the cloud of dust was taken for smoke and minor slides coming down were taken for inside explosions."

The whole east end of the mountain, extending from the mouth of the Frank mine has slid into the valley, which was 4,400 feet high, and blocked the entire valley about three-quarters of a mile wide and a mile and a half long.

A water-way is being cut to avoid flooding.

The loss of life is not yet estimated.

Thirty miners are said to be in the mine, but there is every reason to think they are alive. A party is now trying to move the rock from the mouth of the mine.

About ten houses in the east end of the village are destroyed and in some cases almost entire families perished one family which suffered was that of Mr. Leitch's. Two of his children escaped, but the parents and four boys were killed. The youngest child was thrown out of the house in some miraculous way and not injured.

Some further slides are feared.

All passengers to and from Kootenay are being forwarded by the old main line route, via Revelstoke.

THE SHADOW OF A GREAT AMBITION

Germany Will Have a Colonial Empire

EARTH'S UNGRABBED SPOTS

South Africa is British Asia Becoming Russian So Brazil will be German

Berlin, May 1—One of the most unblushing avowals of German intentions in South America that has ever emanated from a responsible source is published in the current number of the Grenzboten, a Leipzig weekly review of a semi-official character, established recently for the exclusive publication of the Kaiser's religious manifests. The article pictures Brazil as the future German India, urging than inasmuch as Asia is daily becoming more Russian and Africa more British the Germans must not be shut out from the remaining ungrabbed section of the earth.

"Germany," says the writer "must pass laws making emigration any[illegible] Brazil a punishable offence. As soon as South Brazil is brought within our sphere of interests we can guaranty emigrants undisturbed development. Let us, however, transplant no bureaucracy to Brazil. Let us permit as much self-government as it is possible. Let the country be ruled by officials raised and educated there. Let us give the country the most favored nation tariff treatment and organize a colonial army wherein every man can serve his time without returning to Germany. Thus we will witness on the other side of the Atlantic, the rise of a vigorous German colonial empire, which, perhaps, will become the most last colony old Europe has ever created."

THE SENATOR TALKS OF LABOR MATTERS

Bill of Hon. Mr. Lougheed to Regulate Unions

SEVERAL IN FAVOR OF IT

The Manitoba Schools Again Talked of—Some New Information

manifests. The article pictures Bra-

Ottawa, May 1—Hon. Mr. Lougheed moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Criminal Code respecting offences connected with trade and breaches of contract. He said the cause of the bill was to be found in certain abuses which had been found in the labor world, especially in the west.

Hon. Mr. Lougheed said they should not be afraid to deal with this question. No man in the Senate was opposed to labor unions, but let them have Canadian labor unions.

Some time ago a man named Quinlan, residing in Cruikstone, Hastings Co., entered into contract for the development of power at Niagara Falls. The demands of labor were such that they could not use the Queenston quarries and had to use stone from Cruikstone. Down comes a walking boss from an American company and tells the men that they must not ship another stone to Niagara from Cruikstone. The men were standing idle.

He protested against men from Washington coming down and forbidding the sending of stone from one part of Canada to another. He advocated prohibiting international labor unions. They would be stronger with Canadian unions. They would affect settlements more easily and have fewer strikes. He hoped the bill would be made so that they could indite the lodges.

Today employes were ignored. He had a case of his own which would show this fact. He read a letter received on April 17th from the Beamsville Branch of the Journeymen Stone Cutters' Association of North America, demanding $3.50 a day for nine hours. He was not only told what he was to pay the men, but that he must not cut stone to be used in another jurisdiction. He had no other stone to cut. The stone cut the night before had to be set on one side lest his men should be called scabs or fined from $60 to $120. He had therefore, to ask his men to go to the office and get their money. He would settle with his men very soon were it not for the lodge.

AMERICAN INTERFERENCE.

Hon. Mr. McDonald, B.C. thought action ought to be taken to prevent interference from Washington or Chicago. He hopes the bill would be well managed in committee. They had a strike of railway men, managed by an American, under their eyes at the present moment. He was glad to see that at Montreal the militia had been quickly called out to prevent disorder.

Hon. J. McMullen heartily endorsed the bill and all that Mr. Lougheed had said. He thought it was time a stop was put to men being sent across the line to foment disturbances on this side.

Hon. Mr. Sullivan endorsed all that had been said. He did not believe what was wanted could be done. He would think more highly of the legal faculty if it could. The Postmaster-General had said such a bill would be downright coercion.

Hon. Mr. McHugh thought that something might be said on the other side, and hoped that notice would be given of the committee, so that labor unions could be represented. He reminded the Senate that when strikes occurred capitalists did not hesitate to go outside Canada to import labor. Both sides should be heard.

The bill was read a second time and sent to the Committee on Banking and Commerce.

PETERBOROUGH, MAY 1, 1903.

DREYFUS' PLEA FOR JUSTICE

Captain Alfred Dreyfus, who was convicted by a military tribunal in France in 1894 on the charge of revealing army secrets to the German government, still has hopes of rehabilitating his reputation. Recently M. Jaures, a Socialist member of the French Chamber of Deputies, claimed to have discovered a document bearing on the alleged note by Emperor William, in which Dreyfus was mentioned as having furnished certain important papers to the German army. Dreyfus has written an eloquent letter to General Andre, Minister of war, asking that an inquiry be held in regard to the document. The persecuted man respectfully declares that he has secured new facts in his case and he therefore begs that the minister of war institute an inquiry, first, upon the uses made of the document which was presented at Rennes for the purpose of securing his conviction; second, upon the alleged fraudulent testimony of one Czernuski at Rennes.

The world long ago exonerated Captain Dreyfus of the charges which brought about his incarceration on Devil's Island. That the unfortunate officer was the victim of a plot in which the real offenders were the defendant's chief persecutors, is now generally conceded. Colonel Henry, Major Esterhazy and other conspirators thought to cover up their perfidy by securing the degradation of the Jewish officer. The release of Dreyfus, without his exoneration, was a confession on the part of the military tribunal that the captain was innocent.

Whilst the honorable people of France are earnestly desirous of righting a great wrong, they have no intention of upholding investigations that might further besmirch the reputation of their beloved army. Military worship in France has blinded a naturally generous people to the faults of a service with glorious traditions. It may be that Dreyfus' case will be opened sufficiently to permit the war minister to restore the degraded officer to the army. As this action would proclaim the captain's innocence, the anti-Semitic element in France may be expected to oppose any such termination of a case which has greatly injured the nation in the estimation of the world.

MANCHURIA AND THE UNITED STATES

By a queer freak, the United Irish societies of New York have adopted and sent to President Roosevelt, a resolution protesting against the reported action of Secretary of State Hay, in instructing the United States minister to Pekin to reject the demands of Russia in Manchuria. The resolution declares that such action is fraught with peril to the United States, and is taken at the instance of England, to promote interests which are not American.

We guess the New York men need not worry about the possible peril to the United States. The United States will not go any further than protest, and under the circumstance the Russian skin will not be irritated at a protest from the United States any more than a bear's hide would be irritated by a small pebble.

And if the United States is not going to back up its protest with its fist, the protest seems a case of 'heads I win, tails you lose' for the United States. A protest, however mild, may encourage peppery Japan and uneasy Britain to peg at Russia too. Well if the joint protests fail, the United States steps down and out, leaving the other fellows to make the protests good if they dare. But if the joint protests win, then the United States struts up to the front as if it had all the war paint on, poses as the real thing in protests, and gets as much benefit as the other protestors. Manchuria remains open to American trade, and we are always fearing that American trade is a tremendous thing, beating out every other kind of trade everywhere. So an 'open' door in Manchuria should be nuts to the United States.

We guess the New York protest will not go far at Washington. The New York men ought to know it. If they do, and were merely amusing themselves with gun practice at England with blank cartridges, they might have had more regard for Ireland, which at present has practical reason not to desire the promotion in the British Isles of any feeling more nasty than the circumstances of Ireland itself may unavoidably cause.

CHURCH UNION

An organization of laymen was recently formed in Montreal for the purpose of promoting church union, more particularly between the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches. A very active propaganda is at present being carried on, one of the latest features being the publication of a leaflet containing the views on the subject of the general conference of the Methodist church, and of a number of clergymen of all three denominations.

Some few statistics are published, which cannot fail to be read with interest.

The members and adherents of the above churches, according to the census of 1901, were: Presbyterians, 842,300; Methodist, 916,862, Congregational, 28,293. The Presbyterians are 15.68 per cent. of the population, the Methodists, 17.07 per cent. The membership is as follows Presbyterians, 219,570; Methodists, 291,895; Congregationalists, 9,000.

The Presbyterians raised last year for all purposes exclusive of the century fund, $2,264,331; the Methodists, $2,775,823 and the Congregationalists, $117,383. The Presbyterians raised $304,414 for missions, and augmentations, the Methodists $307,220, and the Congregationalists $4,720. The Presbyterians carry $1,549,298 of debt, the Methodists $2,020,229, and the Congregationalists, $19[illegible],215.

SOME CHANGES IN THE RAILWAY STAFFS

Promotions Were Announced on Both Lines Yesterday

GOOD MEN NOW REWARDED

Two Promotions Take Place on C.P.R. and Three on Grand Trunk

Montreal, May 1—Five new appointments were announced in railway circles this morning. Two by the C.P.R and three by the G.T.R.

Mr. C. W. Spencer, who has since October 1st, 1887, been General Superintendent of the Eastern division C.P.R., is appointed General Superintendent of all lines east of Port Arthur, while Mr. J. Osborne, who has been Superintendent of the Atlantic division, succeeds Mr. Spencer. Both will have offices at headquarters. Mr. Osborne's successor has not as yet been selected.

CAREER OF MR. SPENCER.

Mr. Charles Wellington Spencer was born at Kemptville, Ont., on October [illegible], and entered the railroad service on May [illegible], filling thereafter for three years the position of clerk and operator at the Ottawa station. From 1874 to May 1880, he acted in the capacity of assistant agent in the same city, being then promoted assistant train despatcher. From May 11th to June 29th, 1881, he was traffic superintendent; from June 29, 1881, to August 1881 he was assistant superintendent; August 1, 1881 to September, 1887, assistant general superintendent, October 1st, 1887, to present date, general superintendent of the eastern division.

MR. OSBORNE'S EXPERIENCE.

Mr. J. Osborne, commenced his railroad experience with the G.T.R. in 1874. Soon afterward he entered the employ of the C.P.R., starting as chief clerk of the mechanical department, where he remained for over three years. Thereafter, for slightly over a year, he was chief clerk to the Vice-President and then for three years car accountant. While acting as Superintendent of Service from 1890 to 1896, he was, between the years 1892-96, also in charge of the fuel department. From 1896 to 1899 he was assistant to the Vice-President passing, in the latter year, to the position of General Superintendent of the Western division, which he left slightly over two years ago to assume control of the Atlantic division. Mr. Osborne was in 1895-96 President of the International Association of Car Accountants. He was born on September 19th, 1861.

GRAND TRUNK PROMOTIONS.

In the freight department of the Grand Trunk these promotions are recorded, to become effective on May 1st.

Mr. C. A. Hayes who has been manager of the National Despatch—Great Eastern fast freight line, Boston, has been appointed assistant freight agent at Chicago, Ill., vice Mr. David Brown, resigned. Mr. Hayes will have charge of freight traffic in the territory west of the Michigan-Indiana State line; also from Milwaukee across the lake.

Two others have had their duties somewhat enlarged. Mr. Charles Clark, division freight agent, Detroit, will have charge of freight traffic on all the lines of the Grand Trunk system within the State of Michigan, while Mr. Ira W. Gantt, division freight agent, Detroit, will have charge of eastbound freight traffic received from connecting railways at Detroit, and westbound freight traffic from the Niagara Frontier and points east thereof (except the territory assigned to the general agent, New York), destined to West of Detroit and St. Clair Rivers.

BOY KILLS COMPANION

Then to Hide His Deed He Places the Body on the Railway

Grand Rapids, Mich, May 2—Henry Hasse, aged 11, has confessed he shot and killed seven year old Charles Poldman, April 10th, and with the assistance of his younger brother, Omo, carried the dead boy in a bag to the Lake Shore Railway and placed it upon the track. The Hasse boys claim the shooting occurred accidentally at the Hasse home, where the boys were playing with a small rifle

PROSPECTUS

THIS Corporation has been formed for the purpose of dealing in lands in Manitoba and the North-West Territories of Canada.

Up to a few months ago practically the whole profit from dealing in the lands in the Great Western portion of the country had been reaped by shrewd American investors, who realized the immense possibilities and the certain future of Western Canada before we Canadians realized the immense heritage which lay within the boundaries of our own country. In the last months of the year 1902, however, the promoters of this Corporation having, through the different financial institutions with which they are connected, been obliged to make a careful study of the Western situation, became so thoroughly satisfied of the certain future of the Great West, and of the practically assured profits from an investment in Western lands, that they decided to form a company to deal in land in the Canadian West. With that end in view a block of something over 125,000 acres was secured in the Big Quill Plains, in the District of Saskatchewan, and a company known as The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was formed for the purpose of acquiring and handling this block. The stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, was placed upon the market and offered to the public for subscription in January of the present year, and so prompt was the response that within one month it was necessary to close the stock books, and even then applications for a large quantity of stock were refused. But from a Shareholder's standpoint the best part remains to be told. Before the sales of stock were stopped, arrangements had been made with a large American Land Company for the sale of the whole of Company's lands, at a price so largely in excess of the purchase price that the stock of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, is already a very profitable one, and is held very firmly by its present holders; and all this was done in less than one month. Can any better proof be given of the wisdom of an investment in Western lands.

At the time The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, were dealing with the Quill Plains lands the Directors had in view several other available blocks of land, and were having the same carefully examined, but waited until of the one operation proved to the Canadian public the safety and profit of an investment of this kind. This has now been abundantly shown by the success of The Eastern and Western Land Corporation, Limited, and we have therefore no hesitation in placing before the public the stock of The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited.

It is only within the last year or two that Canadians have come to realize that Canada's future in a great measure lies in the West, a country immeasurably larger than the East and capable of supporting in comfort millions of people. Few in Eastern Canada realize the great progress that Western country is now making, and that before many years the West will surpass the East in point of population. Immigrants are pouring in, and the people of the United States especially are investing immense sums in land and looking for the rise which they know is sure to come. Lands in the West are increasing rapidly in value. Investments in them now are bound to realize handsome profits. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company in 1902 sold 2,420,440 acres against 830,522 acres for the previous year. The Canada North-West Land Company sold 516,000 acres, as against 120,000 acres the previous year. The Saskatchewan Valley Land Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold over one million acres of land in 1902 at a profit of some millions of dollars. The Hastam Land and Investment Company, of St. Paul, Minn., sold 3[illegible]0,000 acres in one year. The North-West Colonization Company, of St. Paul, disposed of over 400,000 acres, and if to these be added the lands sold by the Dominion and Manitoba Governments, The Canadian Northern Railway and other companies, syndicates and individuals an opinion may be formed of the immense advances this Western country has made in one year.

The Ontario and Saskatchewan Land Corporation, Limited, has purchased a large tract of land in what is known as the Vermillion River District in Western Saskatchewan. It has been a tradition for years in the West that the most fertile belt of land [illegible] in the world, is situated in this district which lies along between the Battle River to the south and the Saskatchewan on the north. In this fertile country we have the right to select 300,000 acres of specially choice lands, and our selectors are now in the district carefully [illegible] the land section. This land will lie along and between the Edmonton extension of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the Transcontinental Line of the Canadian Northern Railway, thus assuring to settlers the immense advantages of two competing lines of railway, each within easy access to their farms and to markets. For soil, water, timber, fuel, grass and hay this land is unsurpassed in the world, and these points are what determine the settler in choosing land. Our land immediately adjoins the Barr Settlement of British settlers, and also Dr. Adams' colony of Nestorians, and the placing of over 20,000 settlers by these organizations in this district within the next year practically assures a rapid increase in the value of our lands.

No lands are purchased by this Corporation except after a careful and capable report by the most experienced land selectors in the West, and thus practically every element of the risk eliminated from an investment in the shares of the Company.

This is an investment which should especially appeal to the Canadian public, as it gives a practical certainty of profitable returns without the risk so often run in investing in companies doing a business of a hazardous nature, and it is an investment which Canadians, believing in their own country and its future, may make feeling that in so doing they are helping to develop their own land.

The Union Trust Company, Limited, now offers $800,000 of the capital stock of this corporation, divided into 8,000 shares of $100 each, for subscription at par, 25 per cent. to be paid in on application, 10 per cent. in 30 days thereafter, and 10 per cent. further in 60 days and the balance, as called by the directors, if deemed necessary. Applications for stock will be accepted only in order of their receipt by the Trustees, and should be addressed to The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto. Applications and also the large Prospectus of the Company may be obtained from The Union Trust Company, Limited, Toronto, or from any branch of the Merchants Bank of Canada or of the Union Bank of Canada, through whom applications and payments may be forwarded.

J. M. MIGHT will be in Peterborough for a few days, representing above company, and may be found at 109 London street.

$1,000 for a Germ

That Powley's Liquified Ozone Cannot Kill

We offer $1,000 to the Scientist or physician who discovers a disease germ that Powley's Liquified Ozone cannot kill. Such a germ is yet unknown. Ozone kills every germ yet discovered, and by that means cures every germ disease.

Just Oxygen

Powley's Liquified Ozone is nothing but oxygen—no drugs—no alcohol in it. It is the discovery of a German Chemist who spent 20 years in learning how to liquify oxygen. Ozone charges the blood with such an excess of oxygen that no germ can live in any membrane or tissue.

The results are inevitable. Any germ disease must end when the cause is killed. Then the oxygen—nature's greatest tonic—brings back the sick one to the maximum of health. No other product ever discovered will do so much for humanity.

Kills Inside Germs

Any drug that kills germs is a poison to you and it cannot be taken internally. Ozone is the only way known to kill germs in the body. It is carried by the blood to every cell of every tissue, and no germ can live where it goes.

Yet Ozone is simply liquified oxygen—just the vital part of air. It is not only harmless—just as harmless as breathing—but a tonic to you—the very source of vitality. Its effects are exhilarating—purifying. But germs are vegetable, and an excess of oxygen, while life to an animal, is deadly to vegetable matter. This fact seems a provision of nature to protect man against germs.

Germ Diseases

These are some of the known germ diseases. The cause of these troubles is germs, and germs only, and these germs must be killed before the trouble is ended.

Medicine sometimes cures these troubles by helping Nature to overcome the germs, but the results are indirect and uncertain. Ozone always kills the germs, and the results are direct and sure. The best physicians and the largest hospitals now employ Ozone—not medicine—for germ troubles.

BURIED GOLD

BY
FRED WHISHAW
Author of "A Boyar of the Terrible," etc.

Lots were drawn and the duty of following Robinson and "dealing with him when found" fell to two men, by name Ted Evans and Dave Inglis, neither of whom were known at Seadown.

The gunboat duly arrived and made enquiry, but since the "Hecuba's" list of men and officers was fairly complete and those absent were satisfactorily accounted for, there seemed no reason to doubt that the desire of the crew to remain upon the island was genuine, if surprising.

"We can't force you to go if you wish to stay," said the captain, "but I may tell you that it seems a foolish enterprise on your part to cut yourselves adrift for heaven knows how long from friends and relations in England. Some of you must be married men and others engaged to be married. Come, do none of you wish to return?"

Evans and Inglis stood out.

"We've given these two leave to go, sir, as they're so minded, and if you'll take them," said Foster. "As for us stayin' on, we want a bit of a rest from seafarin', and that's the whole truth. These two chaps can let our folks know we're alive and hearty, and comin' back in a year or two."

"As you will," laughed the skipper; and when he sailed away, presently, Evans and Inglis sailed with him: it was the sight of them standing and talking on the deck of the gunboat as she hauled into port at San Francisco that set poor Dick Robinson foaming at the mouth and kicking on board the outgoing vessel.

Perhaps the astute reader will also connect with this incident the picture lightly sketched at the end of chapter two, of a mysterious, haggard stranger who hung about the docks watching incoming vessels as though he expected or feared some arrival.

CHAPTER VI.

Bloodhounds.

Dick Robinson had been ten days in Southampton, and had done nothing. The simple terror of knowing that he was to be pursued by two of his late comrades from Innocence Island seemed to have paralyzed him. He dared not leave the docks; yet, if he should see the bloodhounds arrive, blood-hot, upon his track, he feared he should die on the spot.

Meanwhile his heart yearned with a great desire to know what had passed and was passing at Seadown. That little town was but seven miles away, yet he dared not go there—he dared not leave the docks. Fear—the fear of what he might suddenly see there—fascinated and held him.

"When I know exactly where they are it won't be so bad, and I can dodge them," he thought. "Till I've seen them and found out what they're going to do, I can't have any peace."

On the eleventh or twelfth day, in the public-house by the water side at which he slept and took his meals, Dick suddenly caught sight of a face he knew. This was a pale youth of eighteen or less, one Harry Beadon, from Seadown. Harry stood at the bar drinking with others of his age, boys anxious to ship as youngsters in any vessel that would take them on. Harry was half-drunk and did not know Dick, though it is doubtful whether he would have recognized him had he been sober, so haggard and ill did Robinson look at this time.

Seeing that he was not recognized, the [illegible] youth as the two left the place at the closing hour.

"I like your face," he said. "Come and have a drink and a talk in my room upstairs. I live in the house, and you can stay as long as you like."

"I don't mind," said Harry, laughing. "I'm not particular."

Upstairs Dick produced cheap cigars and a supply of drink was brought up.

"What I like about your face," said Dick, "is that it reminds me so strongly of Seadown and the folks I used to know there, years ago."

"I come from there myself," exclaimed Harry, "though I don't remember your face that I know of. If it was years ago it could scarcely have been me, could it—my dad, maybe—Beadon, Skipper Beadon, they used to call him——"

"What? You're not young Harry Beadon, are you?" said Dick.

The youth laughed.

"That's my very name; what's yours?"

Dick mentioned one that was imaginary. The youth shook his head. "Ah, well," continued Dick, "I left home before you was old enough to remember. Ten years is a long time. I was a lad myself then. Come now, let's hear of all the old folks. When was you there lately?"

"Yesterday. Who do you want to hear about?"

Dick mentioned a few names. "Then there was young Keith Adams," he continued, "a man of about my own age—is he alive?"

"Keith Adams? Everyone knows him; he's one of the very best! Alive? Just a bit—plays football for the county; a treat! I wish there was more like him!"

"He ain't married yet, is he?" asked Dick, and his heart stood still as he waited for the lad to answer. It seemed an age before Harry replied, though as a matter of fact he did but raise his glass and half empty it before speaking.

"Ah, that's the worst of it—married he is!"

"He is?" cried Dick, almost shouting aloud in his excitement. "Who to?"

"Lord!" said Harry laughing, "one would think it was to your own best girl, mate. What makes you so excited?"

Robinson pulled himself together and made a show of laughing.

"He was always my greatest friend," he said. "One doesn't care to hear of all the best chaps chucking themselves away! Well, who did he marry?"

"Maybe you remember a bloke called Robinson," said the lad; he was half drunk or he must have noticed the start his companion gave. "Dick Robinson, him as was drowned two years ago in that ship what went down in the Pacific—'Hec'—something, I forget the name——"

"Well?" murmured Dick faintly. "What of him?"

"There was a wench what had promised him, so they say, before he sailed, that if he'd come back she'd marry him. Well, this 'ere Keith, he'd been sweet on the girl, too, and when Robinson got drowned he went for her—so they say—whenever he was ashore, and gave her no peace till she'd married him."

At this point of the conversation young Harry Beadon received a shock which was so violent and unexpected that he remembered it for long. The stranger suddenly seized him by the throat and shook him as though he had gone mad and fancied himself a terrier and the other a rat.

"You darned young liar!" he yelled, "she never did! It's a lie—confess it's a lie, or by thunder, I'll shake you into a jelly! Come, speak!"

"What's a lie? Let go of my neck, you blamed fool! What are you doing? You're throttling me!" cried the lad, struggling. "Let go, I say! What's a lie? What's the matter?"

Dick Robinson suddenly realized that he was making a fool of himself. He let the lad go with a mumbled apology. "I beg your pardon," he said lamely. "It's the drink, I suppose. I felt terrible excited, suddenly. I do at times, since I was ill down 'Frisco way. You shouldn't have joked me about this 'ere Adams bein' married. I was lookin' forward to seein' a lot of him now I'm back, and I shouldn't if he was married. I'm sorry I was so rough. You was jokin', wasn't you?"

CHINA DEFIES RUSSIA

Demands for Manchuria Definitely Rejected

London, April 29.—It is officially announced from Pekin that China has given Russia what the officials describe as a final and definite refusal to accept her demands regarding Manchuria. The Pekin correspondent of the Tokio newspaper, the Jiji, has been informed by the Russian Minister that England and Japan have no right whatever to interfere in Manchuria, where they have spent neither money nor life, whereas Russia has expended both freely for a long time. Japan, the Minister said, should be satisfied with her position in Corea, and refrain from stretching out her hand in the direction of Manchuria. Russia is weary, the Minister declared, of the troubles resulting from her present undefined status in Manchuria, and has determined to add the three provinces definitely to her empire. The Japanese press is unanimous in denouncing Russia's policy.

London, April 29.—Replying to a question put by Earl Spencer, the Liberal leader in the House of Lords, Tuesday, as to whether he would lay on the table the despatches in regard to the communications reported to have passed between the Russian and Chinese Governments, the Foreign Secretary, Lord Lansdowne, said the question is now engaging the most serious attention of the Government. There was some doubt regarding the actual facts of Russia's proposal in regard to the evacuation of Manchuria and he hoped the silence he was bound to maintain at present would not be of long duration.

Pekin, April 29.—The French Legation has received a telegram from Hsa Chuan, announcing that all the Catholic claims arising out of the disturbances of last summer, have been settled by the provincial authorities, and that the situation in the Province is satisfactory. The statement is also made authoratively that all Catholic victims in the matter of the Boxer outbreak in 1900 in Manchuria, Mongolia, and China, have been adjusted, and that the state at present is clean. The legation considers the situation in the interior of China as satisfactory.

BRONCHITIS

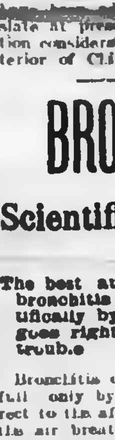
Scientifically Treated

The best authorities agree that bronchitis is treated most scientifically by Catarrhozone, which goes right to the root of the trouble

Bronchitis can be treated successfully only by a remedy carried direct to the affected parts along with the air breathed.

Catarrhozone is a vegetable antiseptic and is inhaled at the mouth, and after passing through all the air passages of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, is exhaled through the nose.

The healing vapor of Catarrhozone goes wherever the air you breathe goes, and reaches every part that is affected. No matter how deep-seated the bronchial irritation may be, Catarrhozone is sure to reach it. Catarrhozone protects and heals the mucous membrane, stops the cough, heals up the sores, and is guaranteed to bring speedy relief and sure cure.



By means of the inhaler Catarrhozone treats the local symptoms of bronchial trouble very effectually. The poisons and impurities in the blood are driven off by Ferrozone, which is a wonderful tonic and stimulant for the entire system.

Ferrozone is a muscle and tissue builder, increases the appetite aids digestion and makes the body so healthy and strong that bronchitis goes away for good.

A prominent steamboat owner, well known throughout Eastern Ontario, Captain Dunlop, of Kingston, was perfectly cured of Bronchitis by Catarrhozone. The Captain had suffered for more than 20 years, and says that Catarrhozone is the best cure for Bronchitis on the face of the globe.

Mr. A. J. Calhoun, a prominent citizen of Neepawa, Manitoba, speaks very appreciatively of Catarrhozone as a specific for Bronchitis, and states that his wife could not get along without it.

Everyone that has used Catarrhozone is satisfied that it is superior to all other remedies. It is delightful to inhale, simple and convenient to use, and relieves from the first breath taken through the inhaler.

Better try Catarrhozone. All druggists sell and recommend it. Complete outfit, price $1.00; trial size, 25c. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

FIERCE RACE RIOT NEGROES LYNCHED

A Negro Taken from Gail and Hung to a Tree

AND A RIOT FOLLOWED

Raid on a Negro Settlement—Many Shot---Negro Hanged in Texas for Assaulting a Girl

Thebes, Ills., April 30.—A negro was lynched here today for attempting to assault a farmer's daughter. A posse took the negro from the police authorities and hanged him to a tree, after which they riddled the body with bullets. The whites then charged down upon a settlement of negroes and a race riot followed in which many negroes were shot and wounded.

The tents in which the negroes lived were burned.

Details of the Tragedy.

Thebes, Ills, April 30—An unknown negro aged about 17, was lynched by a mob of farmers near the village of Santa Fe this afternoon for attempting to assault the ten-yea-old daughter of Farmer Branson Davis and this was followed by a general onslaught upon a colony of negroes, living in tents who were engaged in bridge construction work. The tents were burned and many negroes shot, but so far as known no one was killed. Hundreds of shots were exchanged but no whites hurt.

Negroe's Attempt Terribly Avenged.

Branson Davis lives one-half mile east of Santa Fe, a small village near here. While his ten-year-old daughter was in the barnyard today the negro accosted her. She ran, but he seized her and her screams brought her mother to the rescue. The negro fled. officers were notified and were soon in pursuit. News of the assault speedily spread among the neighboring farmers, and resulted in an angry mob starting in search of the assailant. The negro, meanwhile had been captured by officers and was being brought to Santa Fe when the mob was met. A fight followed, during which the farmers secured the negro. He confessed to the crime but begged for mercy.

No Mercy Shown the Culprit.

The mob started with the prisoner toward the new bridge being constructed across the Mississippi, where he was hanged to an oak tree without ceremony or delay. After the body had dangled in the air a few moments it was riddled with bullets.

The officers endeavored to disperse the mob, but without success.

Negro Colony Raided and Burned.

A rush was then made for a colony of several hundred negroes employed on bridge construction work and living in tents near the bridge. The negroes saw the mob coming and opened fire. A fusilade followed and the whites fired with effect as many of the negroes were shot down. None of the mob was injured and it is not known how seriously the negroes were wounded. The mob pressed forward, notwithstanding the steady fire, until the negroes turned and fled toward a nearby wood, taking their wounded with them. The mob then fell upon the tents and burned them. After accomplishing a general work of destruction the mob dispersed. Extra [illegible] village is under a heavy guard.

Santa Fe is a village in the extreme southwestern portion of Illinois.

Taken from Jail and Hanged.

Long View, Texas, April 29.—News reached here to-day of the lynching at Carthage last night of a negro named Hensley John who it is alleged, criminally assaulted a four-year-old white girl of that place Friday night. The negro was captured by the officers of Panola county and placed in jail, but was released on bond. He left for the country, where he was captured by a mob from Carthage and hanged in the public square, where his body was found this morning suspended to a telephone pole. The mob was quiet and the people of Carthage knew nothing of the affair until the body was found this morning.

THE SMALLPOX GERM

Important Discovery by Dr. Wm Thomas Councilman

Boston, April 29.—The Globe will announce tomorrow that Dr. William Thomas Councilman, the Shattuck professor of pathological anatomy in Harvard Medical School, has discovered the germ that causes smallpox. The discovery is pronounced by physicians who have been made aware of Dr. Councilman's achievements as one of the really great ones achieved in medical history and the most important made in Boston, rivalling the discovery of ether as an antiseptic.

The details of the investigation, how each successive step was taken, together with valuable scientific information concerning the protozoa, the organism that produces that highly contagious disease, will on Tuesday evening be furnished to medical men by the discoverer who refrains from making a public announcement of it until he has enlightened the scientific world. Tuesday's meeting of physicians will be held at Harvard Medical School, under the auspices of the Boston Society of Medical Science, and the notices merely state that Dr. Councilman will have an announcement to make upon "the etiology of smallpox."

ALBANIANS ARE GATHERING, TROUBLE IS NOW AT HAND

Important Developments Looked For In a Few Days—Heavy Fighting Expected in the Balkans

Constantinople, April 30—It is rumored from Uskab that the Albanians are again gathering in the Dremiza mountains. They are determined to attack Pristina and expel the Servian consul. Important developments are expected to follow the military operations in Albania in the next few days.

London, April 30—In the House of Commons yesterday, Viscount Cranborne, under-secretary for foreign affairs, stated that further representatives had been made to the Porte by the Austrian and Russian ambassadors at Constantinople, in which the Sultan had been strongly urged to see to it that the reform schemes in the Balkans were sincerely executed. These representatives had been supported by all the other powers.

Rome, April 30—The exceptionally cordial reception to King Edward is mainly attributed by political circles to the tension between Italy and Austria, over their conflicting interests in Albania. Italy hopes for British support in case of territorial changes in the Balkans.

MAKING TIME ON DOCKS

Little Work Done Despite Military Protection—Shipping Tied Up

Montreal, April 30.—Both the stevedores and the 'longshoremen are merely marking time. Throughout the whole of yesterday order on the water front was well observed. With 1250 troops on the spot, it could scarcely be otherwise, but practically no work was done. Before the troops were called out, the stevedores made the claim that if properly protected, they would be able to find all the men they might require. Adequate protection has now been forthcoming, but indications of activity on the part of the stevedores are not in evidence.

The fact of the matter seems to be that unskilled labor on the wharves will not suffice; that one has to be trained to be a 'longshoreman, just as is in every other calling. Unemployed non-union men there certainly are in the city; perhaps not in abundance, but certainly enough to load and unload the seven ocean liners which are now in port. Where these men are, no one can say. In any event, they have not as yet found their way down to the wharves.

With over 1,000 troops standing guard—preventing all but those who had business in the harbor descending to the wharflevel—only 150 laborers could be mustered yesterday. And that even these were unfit for the work they assumed was apparent to even the most superficial observer. They are mostly men to whom it was a case of either get work or starve. Russian and Polish Jews of miserable physique and absolutely unskilled preponderance. The work, even although they have not touched the heavy cargo, is telling some of them cruelly. There is no harder work in the world than dock laboring to the man who is new to the work. Two skilled dock laborers will do as much work in a given time as eight unskilled laborers. The work of unloading heavy cargo such as steel rails is a special accomplishment. The men who do this work are known as rail lifters. There are no rail lifters amongst the Russian Jews who groan and labor under a little box of oranges. So that the steel rails and other heavy cargo now in port will remain in the holds until the strike is over, or until the ship-owners bring out, as they claim they will, trained dock laborers from England.

Last night work proceeded quietly by lamplight, the electric installation not being uniformly in place. But lack of men was apparent. On the Fremona for example, a dozen men labored, and it was estimated by the officer in charge that, at any rate, it would take three weeks to unload [illegible] including about $40,000 worth of Scotch whickey.

The officers of the police force have been made the butt of considerable criticism. The opinion seems to prevail that the men in their charge were not handled to the best advantage; that, if this had been the case, the necessity for calling upon the militia would never have presented itself. For example, on Monday the police permitted the strikers to gain access to the wharves, and then attempted to keep them away from the sides of the vessels—a feat which was manifestly impossible; 75 constables could scarcely be expected to cope with 2,000 able-bodied strikers. On the contrary, when the militia assumed control the first thing Col. Gordon did was to arrange that no one should be permitted on the wharf unless he could show cause or unless he chanced to be a carter in charge of a load. The result was that the wharves were practically deserted, with the exception of here and there a knot of soldiers. Without the revetment wall—patrolled the entire length of the harbor by soldiers carrying rifles and with fixed bayonets—were the strikers—sullen looking 'longshoremen who stood about in small groups discussing the situation or strolling about to eye with quizzical and condemnatory gaze the improvised minions of the law. Alluding last evening to the criticism directed against the police, Chief Legault said that to adopt the tactics which have characterized the military management would have required 300 men, which would have absolutely divested the city of all police protection.

Penny Banks for Canada

Ottawa, April 30—The Minister of Finance probably will introduce this session a measure to provide for the establishment of Penny banks. Messrs. Hamilton Cassils, Angus McMurchy, and C. E. Clark, of Toronto, are here consulting with the department in regard to the measure which is being framed. They represent the St. Andrew's Church Mission and the Victor Mission, which between them have aggregate deposits in a penny bank to the amount of over $20,000.

Colonization of the West

Winnipeg, Man., April 30—T. E. McLelan, of Berlin, Ont., purchasing agent of the Barr colony, is in the city securing harness for the colonists. He says 1,500 will settle in the reserve this year and predicts its success. He says the reports of dissention are greatly exaggerated.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDARY

Hon. W. Foster is Busy on the American Case

Toronto, April 30—The Mail - and Empire's Washington correspondent says: Hon. W. Foster, who was selected by the United States Government to prepare the case of the United States on the Alaskan Boundary dispute, has completed the first brief, which makes a printed volume of about 600 pages and includes many maps of Alaska and the adjoining country.

A new and interesting feature of of Mr. Foster's brief is that it attached considerable importance to the fact that from the period of purchase from Russia, the United States Government held undisputed possession the land, the title of which is now questioned.

Interesting Items.

In Scotland 28,106 persons have been found who speak only Gaelic, and 202,700 who, though they can speak English too, usually speak Gaelic.

It is announced that the Sultan of Turkey has begun to reform his feminine establishments. The expense of maintaining the Yildis Kiosk harem, at a modest estimate, is $625,000 a year, and the other three establishments together cost $1,500,000. The total expense now is to be reduced to $250,000 a year. Mizi Bey, the chief eunuch, has been entrusted with the task of weeding out the superfluous, who are to be married to officers and officials. The Sultan has been induced also to set his face against much of the infanticide which takes place in the secret recesses of his palaces.

The Italian people, in all walks of life, are hopeful that Queen Helena will bear an heir to the throne. This event, which is due soon, is arousing extraordinary manifestations of popular loyalty. Interest is nowhere so eager as in the slums, where the friends of criminals are hopeful for an heir because the King will grant amnesty to thousands of convicts in that event. Betting on the event is common, and a prominent druggist of Rome has organized a lottery with a big money prize, for which all may compete by sending an order for a box of pills, and filling in a coupon indicating the day of the event and the sex of the infant.

Tourists in Switzerland will soon have a choice of sensational experiences. If they do not care to climb Mont Blanc, they may make a "submerged excursion" in a submarine boat in Lake Geneva. The boat will travel twenty-five miles under water and a mile and a half on the surface, tickets for the trip will cost twenty-five dollars, and each passenger will receive a life insurance policy for twenty five hundred dollars. The guaranty of insurance is not, perhaps, so re-[illegible] a whole the proposition conveys a pleasing suggestion that submarine voyages are ceasing to be experimental and becoming safe.

An ingenious method of mild adulteration is practised in Athens. The residents have a penchant for goat's milk, and herds of these animals are led along the street by Greek milk-sellers wearing long blouses with capacious sleeves. Their cry of "Gala! Gala!" brings the housewife to the door, and she prudently demands that the goats shall be milked in her presence. This is done, but the milkman has in one hand the end of a thin tube which runs up his sleeve and connects with an india-rubber receptacle full of water, which is carried under his ample blouse. At each pressure of the fingers on the udder there is a corresponding compression of the water sack, and milk and water flow side by side into the milk-pail.

Mr. Dugald Macdonald of Montreal has undoubtedly great faith in his own capabilities. He claims to have solved certain problems respecting astronomical and other sciences by a long course of study of the Egyptian pyramids. Relying on the facts in his possession he has challenged the scientists of all the world to answer any or all of the following questions: Why was the day divided into 24 hours? Why was the hour divided into 60 minutes? Why was the minute divided into 60 seconds? Why was the circle divided into 360 degrees? Why was the degree divided into 60 minutes? Why was the minute divided into 60 seconds? Why was the second divided into 60 thirds? What is the origin of the Troy pound? What is the origin of the English inch? What is the origin of the English foot?

Sentenced to Death

Montmagny, Que., April 30.— Joseph Gosselin, the murderer of Vitalin Marquin, wife of Octave Tralan, was sentenced by Judge Pelletier this morning to be hanged on the 12th June next. The judge recapitulated the proof, and then delivered the sentence.

Gosselin said "that it was too bad to be condemned when not guilty."

GROUND FLOOR PROPOSITIONS IN FOUR DISTINCT COMPANIES.

THE AMERICAN PROMOTION SYNDICATE

of Portland, Oregon, are offering for public subscription a limited amount of stock of exceptional merit, affording an unusual opportunity for a VERY PROFITABLE investment. These properties are absolutely certain to rapidly increase in value. You can invest any amount, from $10 up, and can pay in instalments if desired. The undersigned, who has been appointed local fiscal agent, can thoroughly recommend these stocks. The American Promotion Syndicate, who are the American fiscal agents is one of the leading financial concerns of the country, and anything it puts forth may be relied on.

I will be pleased to furnish full information to my patrons, and investors generally.

The Minersville Gold Mining —and Milling Company—

(Organized under the laws of Oregon.)

CAPITAL STOCK, - - $1,000,000.00

PAR VALUE SHARES, - - $1.00

Full Paid and Non-Assessable.

The property of this company consists of three full claims known as the "Fleur de lis," "Mayflower," and "Mistletoe" Group, embracing an area of sixty acres of highly mineralized ground, located in the famous Sumpter district, Baker county, Oregon, about 34 miles from McEwen on the Sumpter Valley Railroad.

The best evidence we have to offer as to our "being in good company" is to mention a few of those who are our immediate neighbors, viz: the North Pole, Bonanza, Red Boy, Eureka Columbia, Golconda, Cracker, Oregon, Golden Wizard, all of which are in this same district, producing from $40,000.00 to $100,000.00 per month each.

From the preliminary amount of development work already done on our property and from the assays of ore which is entirely free milling, running $18.00 to $130.00 per ton, we are confident that with the installation of modern machinery we have a proposition worthy of the most searching enquiry by those seeking a high grade investment.

Our board of directors consists of men who have a practical knowledge of mining, well known and of high standing, who have invested every available dollar of their own to acquire this valuable property and put it on a dividend paying basis.

To accomplish this it has been decided to place a limited amount of the treasury stock on sale at 15c per share for development purposes only until such time as the condition of the mine will enable it to take care of itself, when the sale of stock will be withdrawn.

Our prospectus will give you all particulars. Let us send it to you. We shall also be pleased to answer all enquiries whether by mail or in person at our office.

THE

TWO-TEN OIL CO.

of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock for the next 30 days at 10 Cents per Share, after that price will be advanced.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells [illegible] every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.

The Florence Oil Co.

has just been incorporated and organized by New York business men to operate on their property in the celebrated Green River District of Utah. By all reports this is the coming Oil Territory. The quality of the oil is of the very highest grade and experts say the Green River District gives evidence of being the greatest oil field in the United States,

The unsold part of the first allotment of Treasury Stock will be sold at 20c per share, par value $1.00. Purchasers of this allotment are in on the "ground floor" and are almost sure to get returns of $5.00 for $1.00 within a reasonable time. The management is honest and competent.

STOCK MARKETS

SCARCITY OF STOCKS

New York, May 1—One of the increasing features of the general market situation is the diminishing supply of stocks offering for sale at or a little above current market quotations. The constant and numerous railway reports show steadily increasing net earnings which is causing stateholders to cancel selling orders as it is creating a growing belief in their minds that stock prices will shortly be considerably higher.

Street reports from the curb note the same existing condition in the market for Northern Security shares. Tuesday, the specialist in 'Frisco stocks worked two hours in order to execute a buying order, while in another stock ordinarily active an equal amount of time was required to secure 500 shares. Even the trunk lines with ordinary a ponderous market at every eighth change in price, such as N.Y.C. and Penna have to be bid quite vigorously to secure any fair amount of stock, while up to two weeks ago they were steadily and constantly pressed for sale. The lower priced issues are becoming more scarce also. When in demand, jumps of from 1-4 to 1 per cent., are frequent between sales. K. T. preferred, the common, the Wabashes, Texas Pacific, etc, come under this class.

The western contingent have again espoused the bull side of the market. The Waldorf-Astoria crowd, together with their room trading following, also appear to be working to a moderate degree upon the bull side. The Gould contingent are outspokenly bullish, and have been large buyers. Specialists report the appearance of buying orders emanating from Standard Oil sources, while best of all, the investment demand continues, bonds leading the way, followed by the best class of investment securities. As a sample of railroad earnings note the net increase of Erie for March of $315,000. Heavy buying of all three issues of Erie stock is the result. It is a creeping market working in the upward direction. Its momentum will probably increase as prices work higher.

Summary.—Things were at almost a complete standstill all day. The traction group were firm, led by Met. which opened up 3-4 per cent. at 132, fell to 131 1-2, advancing later to 133, from which price it again sold off. Manhattan rose a point and B.R.T. three-quarters. The Erie issues were decidedly strong as was Mo. P. Penna and Reading industrials were firm but featureless, save I. C. E., which advanced one point. It is a period requiring patience, but one in which stocks should be purchased. To-morrow's letter—"Comparisons with Present Market."

THE VANDERBILT WEDDING

The Bishop of London Says It is a Scandalous Affair

London, May 2—At a session of London Diocesan Conference, the Bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur E. Ingram, read a letter from [illegible] diocese, drawing attention to the Vanderbilt-Rutherford wedding, and requesting him to make such reference during the conference "to the scandalous and deplorable incident as shall serve to allay to some extent the distress of the clergy, who feel keenly this infringement on the marriage law in the diocese, and which may also lead others to realize how serious a breach of church discipline is involved in such a proceeding."

The Bishop said he had already summoned the Rev. Mr. Hadden, who performed the ceremony, and after seeing him will give his opinion of the whole matter.

The Boers' Mexican Colony

City of Mexico, May 2—Arrangements for the settlement of the Boer Colony in Mexico have been completed. Eighty-three thousand acres of ranch land has been obtained in the State of Chihahua. General W. D. Snyman will bring on fifty families now in New York. He expects to settle 1,000 more in Mexico on another tract.

SOME STARTLING FACTS

regarding a Wonderful Discovery by the Famous Dr. Clarke.

To the Editor of The Times—

Sir,—With a view to afford relief to the afflicted, I ask you to publish the following: I am 31 years old and for 9 years have done absolutely nothing, owing to rheumatism; my hands, feet and heart being affected. I was induced by my cousin to take Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills, and before I had taken 4 boxes I could go upstairs without help, and can now go up the stairs as well as I ever could. Two doctors told me that I never would be well again; but I have neither ache nor pain and am in perfect health.

GEORGE M. DUNCAN,
120 Albert St., London.

—John Williams, of the C.P.R. Works, Toronto, was cured of chronic rheumatism, after taking 10 boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills.

—I was troubled with rheumatism for 22 years, and could get absolutely no relief from the doctors. Six boxes Dr. Clarke's Wonderful Little Red Pills entirely cured me. God bless Dr. Clarke. (REV.) S. HUMMITT, Winnipeg, Man.

Dr. Clarke's Little Red Pills are a positive and certain cure for rheumatism, asthma, paralysis, coughs, lame back, indigestion, all stomach and liver troubles, female complaints, even when the diseases have been standing for many years; the most stubborn cases will yield. For sale by Ormond & Walsh, Peterborough. Price 50c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.00.

Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Catarrh and Dr. Clarke's Sure Cure for Eczema, same price. $100 will be paid for any case that it will not permanently cure.

ACTONOMA OIL AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY

in the famous NEWHALL WHITE OIL field of California, the oldest producing field in the State.

The Company owns 10,000 Acres of Oil Territory

lying between the Kern River District on the north and the valuable Newhall holdings of the Standard Oil Company on the south and [illegible] these fields. It is considered the most VALUABLE PIECE OF OIL TERRITORY IN CALIFORNIA. The value of our holdings may be estimated by the fact that an offer of $27,500 has been made for the ground on which our well is located, showing the confidence oil men have in our prospects.

To push their well and complete the development of this vast property, the company offers 40,000 shares of treasury stock at 55 cents per share. This low offer is but for a short time and may be withdrawn without notice, as a strike would advance the stock to par at once and probably far beyond that.

It is expected that five or six additional wells will be put down during the coming summer.

This company has no high salaried officers, no preferred stock, and economy and integrity are exercised by its managers, and the interest of the smallest stockholder is protected.

Should you desire stock you must act promptly, as such opportunities never go begging nor remain long in sight. Orders filled as received.

If shares are exhausted when your application is received we will return your money. Make checks payable to the order of the Actonoma Oil and Development Company, P. H. Enright, Secretary and Treasurer, 218 S. Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

A MAGNIFICENT INVESTMENT

THE GOLD TUNNEL COMPANY.

PRESCOTT, ARIZONA

The Company owns in SIX PARALLEL VEINS of GIGANTIC SIZE, one of the largest GOLD PROPOSITIONS in the country. Each of these six veins would make a mine by itself.

The Company, by purchase and consolidation, has succeeded in acquiring the entire length of these great GOLD BEARING ledges; covering an area six thousand feet in length and about two thousand feet wide. The Company owns this valuable property free of any incumbrance.

The ground included in this group of mines gives ample evidence of tremendous natural disturbances, and shows plainly on the surface the acid and mineral stains characteristic of a heavy mineralized gold lead of gigantic proportions.

Six Miles of Gold Bearing Veins

Through the length of four of the mining claims; forming a continuous line 6,000 feet long run THREE LEDGES so close together as to be economically worked from one opening; they aggregate from 85 to 200 feet in width.

The adjoining line of three mining claims shows a ledge 4,500 feet in length, varying in width from 7 to 200 feet, with the same character of ore.

Beginning at the south end of the "Eighty-Four" mining claim, is a fifth large ledge carrying good values in GOLD, and running in a northerly direction for a distance of fully forty-five hundred feet.

Two mining claims on the east side show GOLD BEARING CROPPINGS 40 to 50 feet wide through their entire length, a distance of three thousand feet.

All of the ledges are well mineralized, carrying at grass root values in gold running from about $2.00 to $6.00 per ton.

FERROZONE

Will give you an Appetite and with Appetite and good digestion comes health and strength

Ferrozone will in one week give you a splendid apetite, and will so improve digestion and assimilation that full benefit will be derived from everything eaten.

There is nothing like Ferrozone to create a keen healthy relish for food for the brain, and a tonic for the nerves and brain. To those leading a sedentary life it is a perfect boon.

The reverend Dennie O'Brien, D.D., the well known Evangelist says of Ferrozone: "I have pleasure in saying that I have found Ferrozone a remarkably good preparation. It keeps up one's appetite, cures nervousness and sleeplessness, and perhaps the very best tonic I have used. Being in the form of chocolate coated tablet, it is both pleasant and convenient to take and is well worthy of my highest recommendations."

This is an example of the way people speak of Ferrozone who have used it, and should be convincing evidence of its unusual merit. It is warranted to cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Lost Appetite, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Troubles, Catarrh, and all other diseases arising from impairment of blood or nerve tone.

Refuse to accept a substitute for Ferrozone. Every druggist sells it 50c. per box, or three for $1.25. Prepared by N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., and Kingston, Ont.

THE Y.M.C.A. CONCERT

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT IN OPERA HOUSE LAST NIGHT

Given Under the Auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A.—A Splendid Programme Presented

The grand concert given last night in Bradburn's Opera House under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary, was a complete success, both as regards the numbers and quality of the entertainment. The stage decorations was the work of Messrs. J. J. Turner and Sons, done under the personal direction of Mrs. McAllister and ladies of the Auxiliary.

The programme opened with a reading entitled "Mrs. Pettitone's Dinner Horn," by Mr. S. Homer Eaton, which was loudly encored, and which put the large audience in thorough good humor. A vocal solo by Miss Adra Luton was charmingly rendered, and brought a recall. Mr. W. Francis Firth followed with a vocal selection, which was well received. The costume impersonation "Jim'n Farms," by Mr. Eaton as Reuben Ketchum, sent the audience into roars of laughter, and was encored. A selection by Miss Luton and Mr. Firth completed the first part of the programme.

A vocal selection by Mr. Firth, magnificently rendered, was followed by the inimitable impersonator, Mr. Eaton, in "A Day of Trouble." A song by Miss Luton, a vocal selection by Mr. Firth, and a costume impersonation by Mr. Eaton, completed the entertainment, which was one of the best ever given in Peterborough.

Much credit is due Mrs. McAllister and the ladies associated with her for the success of the entertainment.

THE ARTISTS ENTERTAINED

After the Concert Last Night, by the Ladies Auxiliary

At the conclusion of the concert last night the ladies of the Y.M.C.A. Auxiliary entertained the ladies and gentlemen who took part. The services of these artists were, to a large extent, gratuitous, and this reception was given as a slight acknowledgement of this courtesy.

Refreshments were served, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

KNEW MANY IN FRANK

A Former Resident of Frank, Alberta, Living in Town

Mr. W. H. Cavanah, a nephew of Mr. W. J. Green, who is employed at the Canal Works, previous to coming to Peterborough was a resident of Frank, N.W.T., which was recently blotted out by a terrible landslide.

Mr. Cavanah was employed in the office of the coal company that operates the mines in Frank, and personally knows nearly every one of the killed, who number nearly 100. An incident of the affair that impresses in no small degree the appalling nature of the catastrophe upon Mr. Cavanah's mind is the fact that Mr. W. W. Martyga, who succeeded to Mr. Cavanah's position is amongst the number killed.

—It is said that Mr. John Garlide intends erecting fifty new houses this summer.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Mr. Heap of Ashburnham, Falls from a Brick Waggon and Sustains Serious Injuries

On Thursday another sad accident occurred in Ashburnham, when Mr. Heap, who was loading bricks on a waggon in his own brickyard, fell over the side and seriously injured his head at the base of the skull, causing paralysis. Great sympathy is felt for the unfortunate man, who is well known and highly respected. His recovery is doubtful.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Celebration of Bishop O'Connor's Fourteenth Anniversary

Fourteen years ago yesterday the late lamented Rt. Rev. Bishop Cleary, of Kingston, officiated at the consecration of Bishop O'Connor in St. Peter's cathedral, surrounded by nearly a hundred priests; and a vast congregation of devout worshippers of both clergy and laity added their addresses, prayers and congratulations on that memorable occasion.

Yesterday, at 8.30 a.m., almost as large a congregation, including representatives from St. Joseph's Hospital, Mount St. Joseph, House of Providence and Congregation de Notre Dame, assembled to take part in the anniversary services.

His Lordship, assisted by Rev. Father McColl, celebrated high mass, Rev. Dr. O'Brien officiated as deacon, and Rev. Father J. O'Brien as sub-deacon. The bishop preached a short sermon on the great responsibility of the clergy in sacred affairs, also the great responsibility required and rendered by the laity in their sympathy, attendance to duty, prayer, and faithfulness in complying with the rules and regulations of the church.

The musical part of the service was under the direction of Miss Hurley, the organist, and was a grand success, delighting the hearts of the vast congregation of worshippers.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. Wilbur G. Grant is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Davidson.

—Miss Adra M. Luton is the guest of Mrs. J. R. Stratton.

—Mr. James Wasson, of Norwood, was in town yesterday attending court.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Leary have returned from a few days' visit to Cobourg.

—Messrs. W. Francis Firth and S. Homer Eaton, are the guest of Mrs. C. B. McAllister, while in town.

—The many friends of Dr. Bingham were pleased to see him on the streets again, greatly improved in health.

—Mr. Thomas Drew, Bolivar street, has accepted a lucrative position in Ottawa, and intends leaving town in autumn, thus Peterborough loses a good citizen.

—Miss Reynolds, the World's Y.W.C.A. Secretary, who has been the guest of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Torrance, left at noon yesterday for Whitby and Toronto.

—Mr. Richard Crowe, Warden of the County, is in town and gave The Times a friendly call yesterday. We are pleased to notice the genial warden is improving in health.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brooks were out at Chemong on Thursday, putting their charming summer cottage, "Cedar Brook," in shape for the season. Mr. Brooks is enlarging the cottage.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

—Coal has dropped to $7 per ton in town.

—The wire fence has been removed from Victoria Park.

—Quite a number of hydrants were frozen yesterday morning.

—The new tail race leading from the Cereal Company's new dam is fast nearing completion.

—Notwithstanding the cold snap Mr. C. B. Routley is doing a tremendous trade in wall paper.

—Mr. Heart, having sold his property, is erecting a new house on the corner of Bethune and London streets.

—The Chief of Police has in his possession a sum of money for which the owner is requested to call at the police station.

—At the police court yesterday morning before Police Magistrate Dumble, an old man was charged with vagrancy. He was sent up to Castle Nesbitt for ten days.

—Lakefield News: Messrs. Strickland & Co. are at present putting an additional eight feet in Mr. D. Breeze's yacht, "Flash." When completed, the yacht will be one of the fastest on these waters.

—Mr. Bell, who was so severely injured at the Cereal Company's dam a few days ago, is doing nicely. Dr. Young, who is attending him, told The Times yesterday that he was now hopeful that the man would recover.

A Peculiar Case

Mr. Green, barrister, was at Roseneath yesterday acting for the defence in an eviction against Joseph Chubb and his wife from their farm which was devised to them by the uncle of Joseph Chubb, who had no children of his own, Mrs. Chubb being his adopted child. If by the peculiar wording of the Indian Act, they should lose their farm, then indeed the case is one of hardship. It stands adjourned for six days to enable the defence to get at the facts.

The Cause of Dyspeptic Pains

Improperly digested food usually forms gases that cause a painful distention of the stomach and pressure against the heart. This results in much pain and distress, but Nerviline will relieve the distention, dispel the gas, and cure the dyspeptic pains very quickly. Polson's Nerviline is really an excellent remedy for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Cramps, Summer Complaint and all Stomach and Bowel Troubles. No household is complete without Nerviline. Try a 25c. bottle.

Two Fires in Lindsay

The Rider and Kitchener works, Lindsay, were scorched by a fire in the Excelsior Department on Wednesday. The firemen speedily got the fire under control, and the damage was not heavy and fully covered by insurance. The home of David Sharpe, Lindsay, was destroyed by fire with most of the contents. There was no insurance and the cause of the fire is unknown. It is reported to be of incendiary origin.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Half and Half.

The dyspeptic may well be represented pictorially as being half masculine and half feminine, and combining the least desirable characteristics of either sex. He has all the stubbornness of the man with the peevish irritability of a sick woman. He's not pleasant company at home or abroad.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and associated organs of digestion and nutrition. It renews physical health which carries with it cheerfulness of temper, and makes life a pleasure instead of a penance.

The "Discovery" purifies the blood by eliminating the corrupt and poisonous accumulations from which disease is bred. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, so increasing the supply of pure rich blood, which gives life to every organ of the body. It gives new life and new strength.

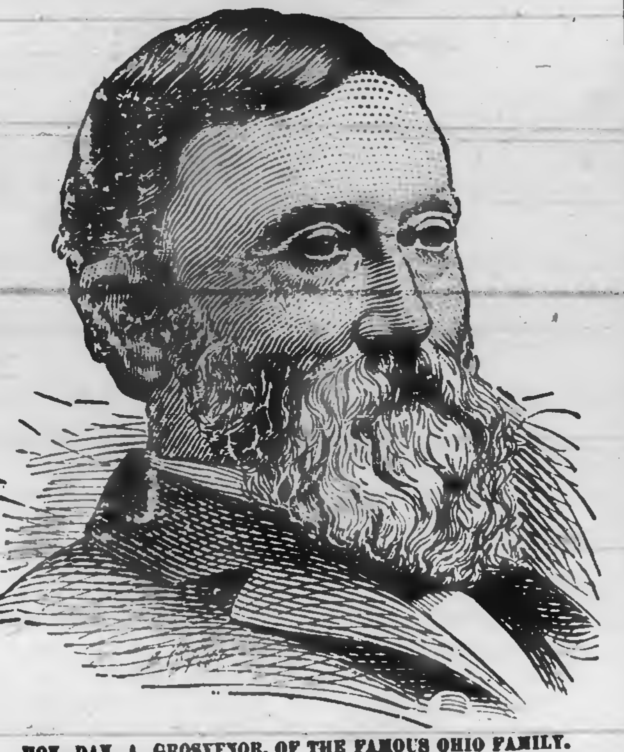
"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has performed a wonderful cure," writes Mr. M. E. House, of Charleston, Franklin Co., Ark. "I had the worst case of dyspepsia, the doctors say, that they ever saw. After trying seven doctors and everything I could hear of, with no benefit, I tried Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and now I am cured."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

The Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Pe-ru-na is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy—I am as Well as Ever."



HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D.C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."—
DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."—Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A County Commissioner's Letter.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."—John Williams.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. H. W. Ogden, Congressman from Louisiana, in a letter written at Washington, D. C., says the following of Peruna, the national catarrh remedy:

"I can conscientiously recommend your Peruna as a fine tonic and all around good medicine to those who are in need of a catarrh remedy. It has been commended to me by people who have used it, as a remedy particularly effective in the cure of catarrh. For those who need a good catarrh medicine I know of nothing better."

W. E. Griffith, Concan, Texas, writes: "I suffered with chronic catarrh for many years. I took Peruna and it completely cured me. I think Peruna is the best medicine in the world for catarrh. My general health is much improved by its use, as I am much stronger than I have been for years."—W. E. Griffith.

A Congressman's Letter.

Congressman H. Bowen, Ruskin, Tazewell county, Va., writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy. Peruna, to any one who is suffering with catarrh, and who is in need of a permanent and effective cure."—H. Bowen.

Mr. Fred. D. Scott, Larue, Ohio, Right Guard of Hiram Foot Ball Team, writes: "As a specific for lung trouble I place Peruna at the head. I have used it myself for colds and catarrh of the bowels and it is a splendid remedy. It restores vitality, increases bodily strength and makes a sick person well in a short time. I give Peruna my hearty indorsement." Fred. D. Scott.

Gen. Ira C. Abbott, 906 M street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I am fully convinced that your remedy is an excellent tonic. Many of my friends have used it with the most beneficial results for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."—Ira C. Abbott.

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, orator of Reservoir Council No. 168, Northwestern Legion of Honor, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes from 2525 Polk street, NE.:

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."—Mrs. Elmer Fleming.

Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

RUSSIA'S ANNEXATION OF MANCHURIA ACCOMPLISHED

This is the Opinion of the French Press

RUSSIA WILL NEVER LEAVE CHINA

It is Now Clearly Up to the Powors to Aid

Paris, May 4—Russian annexation of Manchuria is only the formal consummation of a fact long ago accomplished. It is rather a foolish thing for England to point out that Russia has been protesting all the time that she would never do what she was doing openly before the eyes of the world. Other nations than Russia swear one thing while they are doing another, and even individuals have been known to do the same thing.

The annexation of Manchuria began when Russia, France and Germany, robbed Japan of the fruits of her war with China. This was the first time to protest. Only three nations were in a position to do so. Of these, Japan was too weak, Great Britain had little stomach for the possible fighting, and the Eastern policy of the United States was traditionally peaceful. Since then, Japan has grown stronger, but not in proportion to her foes; Great Britain has lost what little stomach she had for fighting white men in South Africa, and the traditional policy of the United States has not changed.

This attitude continued all through the troubles in China, which came to Russia as a glorious opportunity to do in a year of war what would have taken a generation of stealthy diplomacy. While the other powers were rescuing the ministers, she terrorized Mongolia with massacres and filled Manchuria with troops. When the foolish humbug of a treaty was made, Manchuria was as Russian as Vladivostok, though Russia was smoothly protesting that she never would take an inch of territory from China.

The other powers played the old game of 1860. Germany and France supported Russia secretly, waiting their own turn to plunder China. Gallant littel Japan stood ready to fight, if she could find a bold alley. Great Britain shrank from war on one side, and from confessing willingness to share in the plunder on the other, and waited feebly to see what would happen. The United States disavowed political interest or territorial ambition, but upheld the integrity of China on the ground of commercial interest and insisted that any successor to her sovereignty must assume the responsibility of her commercial treaties.

It is now up to England, Japan and the United States to use force to compel Russia to withdraw. This will hardly be done. France will watch her opportunity, and will not see her ally, Russia, destroyed. A big war is sure to come, if Russia is interfered with. It must not, however, be forgotten that Russia is in possession. Manchuria swarms with her troops. She has the strongest naval force in these waters, though Japan could probably beat her, if left alone. But the French and Germans together are even stronger than Russia, and the French, at least would help her in war. Great Britain has a fleet nearly as strong as the Russian, and is bound by treaty to aid Japan, if attacked. But somehow nobody seems to expect the British to fight. If this impression is right, probably Japan will content herself with looking out for the reversion of Korea, and the other powers, including Great Britain, will pick out the parts of China they mean to take when the general scramble comes.

DOUKS ARE AGAIN ON THE TREK.

Over Fifty of Them, Scantly Clothed Start Out to Roam

Saskatoon, N.W.T., May 2—Fred. R. Woods, a settler just arrived from the elbow of the Saskatchewan, 25 miles west of here, reports that 60 Doukhobors from villages at Redberry and Salt Lake are out on a spirit pilgrimage.

The head of the detachment arrived at the Elbow last night, where the head man of the Doukhobors' village tried to turn them back. Woods says they are marching half naked and are crying out for Christ, and says they will not stop until they find Him.

The Elbow is 23 miles from their villages. There are no women on the pilgrimage. These Doukhobors did not take part in last year's pilgrimage, though they were uneasy. Police have gone to the scene. The Doukhobors are heading for Saskatoon.

Three parts of the Barr colony have left for Battleford, and are doing well all through the trail. C. W. Speers, Government agent here, is dissatisfied with Barr's arrangements west of Battleford, and has wired to Ottawa for permission to take full charge west and to see the people settled on the land.

MR. SPEERS' WORK.

Saskatoon, May 2—Charles Wesley Speers, the general colonization agent who is handling the Barr colony for the British Government, and who has to all intents and purposes assumed colony is a big man of the West, both physically and mentally. He bears most a remarkable resemblance to General Hector Macdonald, "Fighting Mac," that South African veterans all over the camp have dubbed him "General Mac." His reputation for grit and determination of spirit is as great in the West as that of "Fighting Mac" in England. He is the last man to seek his tent and he is the first man astir. He frequently sleeps with his boots on. He cares not where he lays his head immigration shed, hotel, or under canvas with the newspaper correspondents. He handled the Doukhobors on their great spirit pilgrimage, and during his five or six years of service has settled thousands and thousands of foreigners. He fostered these communities in their infancy and has watched them all grow into success.

There is not a failure on his record sheet. He has been in scores of tight places, and has won out every time. Speers has a fund of anecdotes and incidents that would stock a book if he could be persuaded to "loosen up" a trifle. He is rather reticent, though, and his friends tell them for him.

FACED GALICIAN KNIVES.

With the Galicians he had had much trouble. They were hard people to handle. In 1899 he brought a large party here. They wanted to go to Edmonton, but the Government wanted them here, and Speers proposed to put them where the Government wanted them.

He walked into the train and told the Galicians to tumble out.

Up went a top boot across each man's knee, a long dirk gleamed in each swarthy Galician's hand, and the blades flashed up and down the leather.

"No Saskatoon, by —;" Edmont," they exclaimed, doggedly, as they stropped their keen knives. They went off at Saskatoon all right, and no blood was shed, although one policeman left the best part of his clothing in shreds in the car when he dragged them out.

The next day the Galicians, knives in hand, marched to the bridge across the Saskatchewan. Seventy-two policemen, carbines at their shoulders, guarded the bridge, but the Galicians charged them dauntlessly. The police did not fire, but opened their ranks and let them through. Speers unarmed, walked into the thickest of knives and tossed the Galician leader around, but he could not stem the tide.

The pilgrims walked south to the railroad track, and Speers followed them on a baggage car, tossing bread and blankets to them as they passed. They made Craik, 75 miles down, weary and footsore. Then Speers headed them back. Now they are settled at Duck Lake, and each man has a bank account.

A THRILLING TALE.

If you want a thrilling yarn ask "Wes." Speers to tell you of the episode at Strathclare. It is another Galician story, and if Speers is in a narrative mood your hair will emulate the spines of a fretful porcupine.

An epidemic of scarlet fever carried off a number of Galician children. It was in the dead of winter, and the only morgue Speers could obtain was the shelter afforded by a wrecked roof leaning against an elevator. In the corner was tied a young wolf. The bodies were carried in and laid in rude pine coffins. Hardly had the remains been coffined when the Galician women attacked those who guarded the improvised morgue. They fought like wildcats to get at the coffins. One woman got in and pulled the lid off a coffin and seized the corpse. The wolf, smelling the flesh, howled in an eerie way, and outside howled the storm. The snow drifted in through the chinks and half-covered the coffins, but still the women fought.

When the little pine boxes were taken away they followed the wagons for miles, and would not be driven back.

"Thank God there were no newspaper men there to describe that scene," says Speers, in winding up the tale.

Galician women are hard to deal with in any case. Speers undertook to move some of them. One woman refused to go. She threw her husband across the house, and squatting on the floor pounded it with her fists like a mad person.

"Come with me; you're sick," Mr. Speers said.

He took her to an hotel and got some whiskey. The Galician woman swallowed a "bootleg" of whiskey that would have paralyzed a veteran. Then she consented to start. When she woke up she was 20 miles away and contented.

SPEERS' WORK IN CAMP.

Mr. Speers is very popular, and is easily approached. In a trip across the camp he was stopped fifty times. He shouldered in everywhere. Here he tightened an ox collar or loosened a trace. Over yonder he strapped a load and built a seat for a woman passenger. He passed out very cheery advice as he worked. Today the camp is in excellent spirits, and all are bubbling over with confidence. There are no diffident ones today, and Speers' direct talk of yesterday did it. They make light of the privations, and talk only of success.

"Mr. Speers, how about these horses?" queried a man today, pointing to a pair of languid, sad-eyed ragged animals, as thin as rails, and sprung in front like a bow. The owner wanted to sell the outfit for $285.

"Don't touch them," said Speers. "They would die on the road with you. They're not worth $20."

The owner looked savage.

"I'm not going to mince words with such fellows as you," said Speers as he turned away. "This is too serious a matter. There has been too much palming off poor rats on these colonists already. I'm going to stop it."

EMPLOYERS TAKE A HAND

The Unions of Employers Now Fighting Labor Unions

Omaha, Neb. May 4—With 750 men on strike and 3400 more threatening to leave work Monday, a crisis seems imminent. The men are demanding increased wages. The unions say that if the new scales are not signed they will stop work.

The Business Men's association, composed of 900 of the city's leading business houses, say if the scales are signed, all supplies will be cut off. W. F. Huston, the proprietor of a large restaurant, signed the new waiters' scale and as a result his provisions and supplies have been stopped by the association. As a result of the hod carriers' strike, the association refused to deliver material and all building has stopped. If both sides hold stubbornly to their positions it will mean the practical suspension of business in Omaha.

FOR IMPERIAL DEFENSE

Australia Strong for Supporting an Imperial Navy

London, May 4—The British Ministers warmly welcome the strong attitude of Premier Seddon on New Zealand on the defence question in urging the New Zealand Parliament to increase its navy subsidy from $160,000 to $200,000 yearly. He said that if he found the New Zealanders prepared to go on ignoring that which maintained her highway or weakened the Empire, not recognizing the necessity of keeping Britain safe as the mistress of the seas, they must get another Premier.

May Extend Curzon's Term

London, May 2— There is an unconfirmed report that the term of of Lord Curzon, of Kedleston, as viceroy of India, will be extended for two years.

RUSSIA IS FIRST WITH STRONG FLEET

Has a Powerful Spuadron in Chinese Waters

PREPARED FOR WAR

Could Rush a Million Men Into China on Short Notice

Washington, May 4—That Russia is preparing for trouble in the east is the opinion of the London daily papers. The Post says that the Czar's Government will only leave China when driven out by force of arms.

Victoria, B.C., May 4—The steamer Iansa brings Oriental advices. A dispatch from Pekin says:

"The big battleships are coming to reinforce the Russian squadron in eastern waters, consisting of the 12,700 ton battleship Retvizan, the cruisers Palada and Diana and five torpedo boat destroyers, passed Hong Kong on the 13th of April for Port Arthur.

A Pekin dispatch to the Asahi says that large numbers of soldiers are being moved into Manchuria, garbed in civilian clothes. Other dispatches tell of the cutting of the telegraph lines in Manchuria and the interference with the cable between New Chwang and Che Foo by Russians.

A dispatch from Kirin says British merchants who were ordered to leave that place by the Russian authorities, have appealed to the British minister at Pekin for protection.

A dispatch to the Asahi April 11 says that commissions have been detailed by the British, Japanese and United States legations at Pekin to inquire into the actual state of the evacuation in Manchuria.

BRITISH MECHANICS NEEDED

Canadian Emigration Agent, Preston Explains the Situation

London, May 4—Referring to the Toronto Labor Council's protest against the immigration of British mechanics, Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Canadian Emigration Commissioner, explains in today's papers that he has himself taken no steps regarding the manufacturers' applications for the sufficient reason that the manufacturers themselves guarantee immediate employment on arrival from England. There is evidently no difficulty in supplying any reasonable needs of the Canadian manufacturers in the way of British labor.

In Praise of the C.P.R.

The following letter from the Rev. Mr. Barr, the Director of the All-British Colony, has been received at the offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway:

"As the founder and Director of the All-British Colony, I have pleasure herewith of reporting to you my great satisfaction with the arrangements made by the Canadian Pacific Railway authorities in the transportation of my people, numbering nearly 2000, from St. John, N.B., to Saskatoon, N.W.T. The officials and employees have treated us with great courtesy, and managed the transport of the party with great ability. I desire especially to mention the staff at St. John. The Superintendent at that Division, and those associated with him, secured the despatch of the party with promptness, and at every point en route, every facility was accorded us. On arrival here I found Mr. Dillinger, the Superintendent of this Division, and Mr. St. Laurent, your agent at Saskatoon and staff, had made such arrangements that the party detrained without loss of time, and the supplies which were of the utmost importance had been brought forward with such despatch that everything was in readiness for the comfort of all concerned. My colony are loud in their praises of the manner in which they have been treated by your Company, and I need not say this will have its effect on the British public from all classes of which this party has been drawn. There is a great movement in England, Ireland and Scotland, towards Canada, and in the near future we expect thousands more will turn their faces to the fruitful valley of the Saskatchewan. I shall be glad if you can communicate to all concerned my satisfaction with their services so willingly rendered.

THE LANDSLIDE IN THE BRITISH PRESS

Prompt Measures Taken in England to Explain Nature of the Disaster

FEARED FOR BARR COLONY

Lord Strathcona in the Papers of Britain Discusses the Affair --Sir Wilfrid's Reference

London, May 4— Lord Strathcona has taken prompt measures to reassure intending emigrants and their friends, whose ignorance of Canadian geography led them to imagine that the Frank disaster might have affected the all-British settlements. Lord Strathcona stated in the press that Frank is to all intents and purposes outside the Canadian immigration area.

James White, Chief Geographer of the Canadian Department of the Interior, now here, says the volcanic explosion at Frank is a mere myth.

Probably a pocket of gas has been struck.

The St. James Gazette, commenting on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement at Ottawa yesterday, says that dreadful as these massive landslides are, anything is preferable to the pre[illegible] volcanic agencies.

The Standard discusses the geological aspects of the catastrophe and discredits the volcanic explanation.

The Standard says: "We need not look for any more lamentable developments than those already occurred."

London, May 2—Lord Strathcona presided last night at a crowded dinner of the Royal Colonial Institute, at the Hotel Metropole. He said that while much is expected of the colonies, they were not in the position of the Mother Country. They had great resources requiring development, so increasing the prosperity of the Empire. Canada had given large sums to bring the Atlantic and Pacific together.

Hon. Mr. Sifton deprecated the forcing of a paper union between the colonies and the Mother Country, and added that no subject irritated Canadians more than that of annexation of the United States.

London, May 2—There was a significant passage in Premier Balfour's speech to the Primrose League yesterday, in which he rebuked Mr. Chaplin and other protectionists who agitated for the immediate re-imposition of a cereal duty. The Premier declared that the people's bread must not be taxed, except upon urgent needs of the British treasury, but went on to refer to the possibility of a revival of the duty, "in case of any fiscal reconstruction if the course of events and international trade render that in future necessary."

The Manchester Guardian comments as follows: "If this is a hint that Chamberlain is dallying with a wild, dangerous scheme of Imperial Customs union, which, while admitting Canadian corn and meat free, would tax foreign foodstuffs, the reconversion of the Government to free trade is still very far from complete, as its budget might lead the unwary to believe."

BAER WANTS HIGHER PRICES

He would Increase the Price of Coal to $5 at the Mines

New York, May 4—President Baer, resumed testimony in the Inter-State Commerce Commission at the hearing on the complaint of William R. Hearst, that the coal roads are charging excessive rates, and and are in combination in restraint of trade.

Alluding to a statement made yesterday that he would try to put the price of coal up until it reached $5, he said sales at a given price meant delivery within the month when the order was placed. "There has been a steady increase in the consumption of coal since 1897," said Mr. Baer in reply to a question whether the increase in the production of coal since 1898 had not been enormous. He then read statistics of the coal tonnage of the coal roads in recent years. The number of collieries, he said, were less now than in 1901, but the capacity to produce was about the same.

THE RUSSIAN PLOT IS A DEEP ONE

Move on Manchuria Diverts Attention from the Near East

PLOTS IN THE BALKANS

The Bear Blamed for Stirring Up the Albanian Revolt—Lansdowne's Statement

London, May 4—The Manchurian question would make more stir if there were not a well founded suspicion that the Russian Foreign Office was seeking to divert attention from the near east to the far east. Experienced men within and outside of the Foreign Office here are convinced that the Russian Government is not bent upon forcing the advantages of her position, but is playing with the question in order to conceal more serious designs in the Balkans, where counter movements are in progress against the reforms which have received the sanction of the European powers. One movement is the Albanian revolt against the Sultan's concessions, and the other is the Bulgarian insurrection against Turkish rule.

Russian diplomacy has a double aim first to render Turkish dominion impossible [illegible] secondly, to keep the races and nationalities divided, and prevent their union and confederation. One of the best informed diplomatists in London tells me that this is the real explanation of what is going on, both in Macedonia and Manchuria. Chinese gongs are being beaten in Manchuria in order to deceive the European powers as well as the United States Government, but the real work of Russian diplomacy lies in Macedonia, where the Albanians and Bulgarians are expected to render the continuance of Turkish administration impossible, and the intervention of the Northern power inevitable, either this year or the next.

IN THE BRITISH HOUSE.

London, May 4—Replying to a question put by Earl Spencer, the Liberal leader in the House of Lords, as to whether he could lay on the table the despatches in regard to the communications reported to have passed between the Russian and Chinese Governments, Foreign Secretary Lansdowne said that the question was now engaging the most serious attention of the Government. There was some doubt regarding the actual acts of Russia's proposal in regard to the evacuation of Manchuria, and he hoped the silence he was bound to maintain at present will not be of long duration.

The officials of the British Foreign Office yesterday read with much interest the despatch from St. Petersburg of yesterday, giving the views of the Russian Foreign Office on the eight alleged demands made by Russia on China regarding Manchuria. It was the first intimation they had received of the Russian officials' attitude on the subject of the Manchurian agreement. The officials here, however, decline to comment on the Russian statements, pending further advices from the British representatives at St. Petersburg and at Pekin.

HEARD IN JAPAN.

Tokio, Japan, May 4—The Jiji publishes a despatch from Pekin in which its correspondent quoted the Russian Minister as saying that the effect of the remonstrances in Japan and the other powers would be that the statesmen now paramount at St. Petersburg would decide to incorporate the three provinces of Manchuria in the Russian Empire.

JAPAN WAS SURPRISED.

Victoria, B.C., May 4—The Russian demands regarding Manchuria did not come as a surprise to Japan, according to advices received here by the steamer Oanfa. Japan has been preparing for the crisis and despatches to Japanese papers from various sections indicate that Russia has also been making warlike preparations. Officers of the Oanfa say that for months large importations of rice have been made by Japan, and all export is forbidden. From New Chwang it is reported that three million taels have been forwarded to Port Arthur to buy provisions, and from Nagasaki comes the news that Russian agents have bought up 10,000 tons of Cardiff coal there and at Chefoo all on hand. Large purchases of foodstuffs are also reported.

As for the evacuation of Manchuria despatches to Japanese papers say it is patent that Russia has no intentions of evacuating, although one despatch says that the garrison of Moukden was entrained for Port Arthur, when a sudden telegram from Port Arthur forbade the departure and the garrison marched back into its barracks.

While the majority of the Japanese papers are pressing for vigorous action against Russia, the Nappon advises caution. It says it has been out of the question for Japan in her present financial condition. Great Britain is evidently not disposed to use force and Japan had better let the matter pass and turn her attention to Corea. The Nappon concludes by stating that it is unnecessary, if not suicidal, for Japan to think of forcibly ejecting Russia from Manchuria.

FURTHER SLIDES ARE FEARED AT FRANK

People Leaving the Place on a Special Train--The Men Are Behaving Well

Ottawa, May 2—The Deputy Minister of the Interior received the following wire today from Frank:

To James A. Smart, Ottawa:

Chief Engineer McHenry, from observations taken today fears further rock slides from Turtle Mountain, which may overwhelm many buildings in Frank. Premier Haultain, at a public meeting tonight, announced McHenry's views and arranged for a special train to take those who wished to leave to towns to the west, where there might be accommodations. Many will leave tonight and remain for a few days awaiting developments. Everything is going on quietly. No excitement worth mentioning, and not much drunkenness.

EXPERIENCE IN THE MINE.

Frank, N.W.T., May 2—The only authentic story of the escape of the seventeen miners who were employed in the Frank mine was told by Joseph Chapman at the inquest, which was opened yesterday. Coroner Anderson of MacLeod conducted the inquiry. The following jury was empanelled: Thomas McDonnell, foreman; C. A. Gardner, William Evans, Leonard Wolburn, James Copeland and Charles Chestnut, all of Frank.

AN ESCAPED MINER.

Champan's story is as follows: "I was one of the seventeen men in the mine when the fall took place. I felt the concussion very severe. I was at the top of No. 8 manway, and I noticed that the air in the workings was forcing everything everything before it toward the outside of the mountain, and the coal began to fall and threatened to close the same I started to make down the manway. We arranged that those who were not cutting would have to sit to one side out of the road, while some were cutting timbers and others were keeping close watch on the lamps. Some went back for timbers, and so we worked on for about an hour, when we found that the air was getting bad. We then decided we would kill the horses in a few minutes if the air did not clear.

Two decided to go back to No. 8 manway to see if they could attempt to go out through the upper tunnel. They found that they could hardly keep their lamps lit in the manway, so they came back behind us. They could see it coming in the manway.

SIGNALLED IN VAIN.

"By the time I got down there were three other men in the crosscut, and one of them, Evan Jones, called me to help him pull a man out who had been closed in the crosscut. We got him out and they all started down the manway. We decided to wait until 7 o'clock in the morning, to see if we couldn't hear anyone outside and if we couldn't hear anyone at that time we were to start and cut through. When 7 o'clock came we failed to hear anyone. We pounded on the rail there for about five minutes several times, but failed to get any answer.

"So, the air beginning to get foul, we decided to make haste and do what we could. So they [illegible] the bottom level to see how the water was, and they reported that 24 hours, as nearly as they could tell, would fetch the water into the cutting where we were working. We decided our time was limited and we should have to pound for all we were worth to get out. We finally decided to remove all we could between the rocks, and we shoved in the crowd through as far as we could and let him shout for help. Evan Jones said he would be satisfied to let us shove him through, so we finally got him through and he got others to help us move the rocks and get out all our gang. Seventeen in all got safely out.

"I neither felt nor heard any explosion inside the mine until the force of air struck me and very nearly picked me up and threw me in the manway. The blast was full of coal dust. My opinion expressed to my companions was that a hot wave of air had mixed with a cold one and had exploded the cold one. I attributed the hot wave to be caused by something wrong with the boiler. Jones agreed with me, McKenzie also. I think the fall of rock was caused by some disturbance of the earth.

DEATH ROLL GROWS.

Frank, Alta., May 2—Ten new names were added yesterday to the list of victims of Wednesday morning's rockslide. The additional dead are: Abram Dixon, John Gustafson, Edward Cruse, David Johnson, Jacob Tommi, and Jacob Sorri, Wm. Bobbies and his brother John, John Lireuna, and John Clark, all miners. Two brothers named Wooster, cannot yet be accounted for, and it is feared that they are also among the lost. Two hitherto reported dead were found yesterday to be alive. They are B. Sumis and John Sorri.

Divisional Chief Engineer McHenry of the C.P.R. is hard at work directing the survey of the new line. The work of rebuilding will begin on Saturday.

RUSHED INTO THE NIGHT.

Those residents of the ill-fated town who were fortunate enough to come safely through the catastrophe say the scene at the time of the avalanche is absolutely beyond description. As the thunder and boulders, caused by the upheaval awakened the sleeping townspeople, and boulders and debris crashed down upon the cottages resting at the foot of the mountain, those few who were fortunate enough to be out of a direct line of flight of the rocky downpour, rushed out into the night, and, panic stricken, ran up the street away from the roar. The worst of the [illegible] in three or four minutes, and they returned to the hotel, but those few minutes were enough to fill up a peaceful valley with debris that looked like the ruins of an imperial city, and to crush out in a moment the lives of nearly 100 sleeping men, women and children.

NO MORE SYMPATHETIC STRIKES IN CHICAGO

The Teamsters of That City have Taken a Resolution

HELP THEIR UNION

Each Strike will Now Stand on Its Own Legs

Chicago, Ill., May 4—By the refusal of the Fifty Teamsters' Unions of Chicago to engage in sympathetic strikes many labor disputes have been settled or averted. The teamsters are the keystone of the labor movement, and as there is not an employer of labor who does not either own or employ teams, this causes the teamster to be embroiled in every labor trouble that occurs. Officials of the teamsters soon discovered that if they permitted the members to go out on sympathetic strikes whenever called upon, it would not take long to disrupt the union or embroil the city in a disastrous labor war.

The teamsters' joint committee then passed a law that if any union or individual engaged in sympathetic strike without authority, they should be expelled. The first time this law was enforced was during the strike of gas workers.

The refusal of the teamsters to join in sympathetic strikes has in several cases discouraged unions from declaring strikes. With the aid of the teamsters any strike can be won, without their aid the chances for losing are greatly increased.

All unions in the building trades have agreed with their respective employers' association not to engage in sympathetic strikes. These agreements were made after the 1900 lockout, and renewed during the past three months for another year.

Since the elimination of the sympathetic strike in the building industry, the unions have nearly doubled their membership and there is greater protection for the members than ever before.

ANOTHER BOUNDARY SURVEY

The boundary between Canada and the United States has not been yet determined over the whole way to the Pacific coast. The unsurveyed distance consists of fourteen or fifteen gaps, aggregating 220 miles. The result is that not a few men who have mining or other interests on or very near the boundary really do not know whether they are in one country or in the other. Controversies have arisen in consequence, such as that in the Mount Baker mining district in Western Washington several years ago. Some contended that certain mines were in the United States, while others asserted that they were in Canada. The International Commission of 1856, appointed to survey the Northwest boundary, did not attempt to do thorough work. Great difficulties were presented by lofty mountain ranges, tangled underbrush, dense forest regions and almost impassable streams. The members, therefore, agreed to confine their work to determining points on the boundary line, the forty ninth parallel, at places "where it crosses streams of any size, permanent trails or any striking natural features of the country," and at other places where it was convenient to determine astronomical points. The result was that along the boundary through the mountains they surveyed and marked 180 miles of the line, while 220 miles were not surveyed or marked in any way.

This incomplete work answered very well for the time, but when the fragmentary survey was made there was no development whatever along the line; but today the mining and other interests of the two countries are meeting along the boundary.

A commission consisting of W. F. King, chief astronomer of the British Government and Otto H. Tittman, supt. of the U.S. coast and geodetic survey have been appointed to mark definitely the boundary along the forty-ninth parallel of latitude in the places where it has not yet been delimitated.

THE CHURCH AND LABOUR

The Archbishop of Montreal has, in a pastoral, given the international labor unions a severe rebuke. He intimates that their officers, so dictatorial in their character, have not the interests of the Canadian people at heart, and that their methods of doing business are not to be commended. These outsiders are not amenable to the laws of Canada, are aliens to the country, as well as the faith, and advise action at times which is contrary to the dictates of conscience, and the teachings of the church. His grace simply emphasizes a point which has been raised repeatedly, that Canadian workingmen should seek to belong to a Canadian organization and one which is controlled in Canada. Had several strikes been directed by such an agency, the result would have been different. The church suggests, however, that it may be the arbiter in labor difficulties. Employes and employers have their rights and interests, and they must be respected. In no case and under any circumstances, in his opinion, is their ground for interference and violence. When disagreements occur, the church, if appealed to, will offer its good offices, and his grace is clearly under the impression that these can be exercised more profitably than the offices of certain foreigners. His deliverance is most timely, since in Montreal a great longshoremen's strike is in progress and there have been expectations of very serious conflict. The church in Montreal has a most powerful influence, and its voice will not go unheeded by the multitudes that owe it allegiance.

A GREAT TRADE CONGRESS

The fifth triennial meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire in Montreal in August next will be of very great importance. The Congress will be held from the 17th to the 20th of the month. This is the first of such meetings to be held outside of Great Britain, and Canada, the first of the self-governing possessions to be selected for this gathering to discuss the great commercial, industrial and economic questions of the day.

It is stated that the idea of holding the meeting in Canada is immensely popular in British commercial circles. Already upwards of a hundred British Chambers of Commerce, in important commercial centres, have signified their intention of sending delegates. The Montreal Board of Trade is in communication with similar bodies everywhere throughout the Dominion, on order that the delegates, after the convention, may have ample opportunity of visiting every part of Canada; and the railway and steamboat companies realizing the importance of the gathering, are generously co-operating to this end. It is proposed first to conduct the visitors for a week's trip over fertile Ontario, which will, toward the end of August, be at its best. The Toronto Exposition will next receive a visit. Then the grain fields of Manitoba, where, in the first week of September, harvesting will be at its height, the ranches of Alberta, the forest wealth, the fisheries and the mines of British Columbia will next be seen. Returning, the visitors will tour Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, visiting our chief manufacturing centres and the Atlantic ports.

Published Ocean Newspaper

Southampton, May 2—The steamer Philadelphia, of the American line, which arrived from New York, published an edition of an ocean newspaper at sea yesterday. It contained, a summary of the news of the week, a column of local wavelets, and [illegible] of the paper was the Philadelphia Marconi Bulletin. The Philadelphia, which is equipped with wireless apparatus, sailed from New York last Wednesday.

FERROZONE

Furnishes in a convenient form, a Tonic-Laxative which cures Constipation and a host of other diseases more or less common

The entire length of the intestinal canal can be gently and thoroughly cleansed of all foul decaying matter, by taking Ferrozone after each meal.

Ferrozone helps the kidneys and liver to their work, and by preventing the pores of the skin from being clogged up, it clears and beautifies the complexion. Ferrozone relieves irritation and pressure on the tissues of the brain and nerve centres, and insures a healthy vigorous condition of mind and body.

The great merit of Ferrozone is that it instantly relieves constipation, and permanently cures it without interference with business or pleasure, and never causes inconvenience or distress. It keeps all the bodily functions regular, and is the only medicine for constipation that acts gently, acts quickly, acts surely, without grip or grippe.

Ferrozone will keep the entire family in perfect health. It regulates the bowels, cures headache and stomach troubles, and effectually cleanses the blood from all impurities. It builds up muscle and sinew, strengthens debilitated constitutions, and permanently remedies all manner of skin blemishes.

Ferrozone is especially efficacious in cases of over-work, headache, brain fag, torpid liver, weak memory, and melancholia. It relieves that "tired feeling," and puts elasticity into every movement. Ferrozone gives strength to the regenerative organs, and for the relief of nervous prostration, nervous debility, or decline of mental or physical power, is certainly superior to any curative agent the world has ever seen.

The range of adaptability of Ferrozone is simply wonderful. It is entirely vegetable in composition, and quite free from any possibility of injurious effect, even under long continued use. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, and no uncertainty or mistake as to the proper quantity or dose can ever arise.

Ferrozone is recommended and sold by all druggists, price 50 cts. a box, or three boxes for $1.25. Remember the name and see that the genuine Ferrozone is supplied. Refuse a substitute. Sent safely by mail if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Buried Gold

By FRED WHISHAW.

Author of "A Boyar of the Terrible," etc.

"Well, if he isn't married, he's pretty near it. You'd better go and shake him as you shook me and maybe he'll change his mind about it. But I don't advise you to try it. He's not the kind to like it; nor am I if I wasn't half drunk. What for d'you go and play the fool for that way? Look at my tie!"

"Well, I told you I was sorry. Come now, I'll tell you a secret and then maybe you'll understand. It's like this: I don't remember this 'ere Robinson you speak of, but there was a girl both me and Keith was fond of in the old days, and when first you spoke of 'im bein' married I was fool enough to think it was her, and the thought made me a bit mad. It ain't likely to be her! That was a long time ago, and though I want her still, I don't suppose he does, as there's this new one as he nearly married. It ain't a young woman called Lucy Smith, now, is it?"

"No, it ain't. If she's your girl maybe you'll keep your hands off me in future."

"And this Adams isn't married after all—not quite married, I think you said. Lord, I was wrong all round and behaved badly by you. Well, you'll forgive me, I dare say?"

"I don't bear malice, but you'd best mind what you're about, you and your garrotin' ways. One day you'll lay hold of someone who isn't half drunk and he'll lay you out before you know what's doin'. You don't look over-strong."

"I've been ill, that's why. Take five shillings and forget all about it; come!"

Harry pocketed the two half-crowns offered him, and laughed.

"I may forget it and I may not," he said; "but, anyway, you needn't fret, for I won't bear no malice."

By the time Harry rose to his feet and staggered downstairs and away to his quarters Robinson and he were bosom friends. Harry had sworn secrecy. Not a word should be repeated at Seadown of what had occurred; indeed, the interview should not so much as be mentioned.

Yet on the following day, while Harry Beadon was slowly and painfully recovering from the effects of his dissipation, one impression loomed prominently above all else in connection with his conversation with the mysterious stranger, and this was that he must go back to Seadown and warn Keith Adams that some madman had sworn all manner of terrible things against him, though Harry could not for the life of him remember the exact grievance adduced. Keith, for whom the lad, in common with every other youngster in Seadown, cherished the greatest admiration as a hero of the first order, must be warned; that was the one important matter, and Harry was delighted to think that it had fallen to him to render so great a man a service.

Nevertheless, he felt too ill to return to Seadown that day. He spent the day in bed, in which respect he was like Dick Robinson, who was ill with fever, the direct result of the shock and excitement of last night's interview.

Harry was somewhat shaky and feeble even on the second day. He resolved, however, to walk out to Seadown, the [illegible] and exercise would do him good. But at Brendon, halfway to the little town, he entered the public-house in order to spend part of Dick's five shillings, and here he met with an adventure which provided him with more material for reflection and for wonder.

At the bar of the public-house stood two men conversing with the landlord, whom, apparently, they did not find communicative; for he was either unable or unwilling to supply them with information. He was there, he said, to deal in [illegible] customers and to take their money in exchange, not to supply information to any stranger who chose to come along and try to pump it out of him.

"Maybe you take us for detectives," said one of the strangers; "but we ain't anything of the sort, are we, mate?"

"Never you mind what I take you for, governor," said the landlord. "Maybe you're right and maybe you're wrong. You hold your own counsel and I'll hold mine; and when you've drunk your ale and paid for it you can go your way without bein' asked questions."

The two fellows found Harry Beadon somewhat more communicative.

"Going to Seadown, sonny?" asked one of them.

"Maybe," said Harry. "Are you?"

"Not if you can save us the trouble. There's a drink and a dollar to follow for you if you'll answer a few questions."

"What, about Seadown?" said Harry with genuine astonishment. "Why, everyone seems to want to know about the place—you're the second in two days."

"That's an odd thing, too," said the man. "What, and paid you for information?"

"Paid me? Yes; and well, too."

"Call your drink and come outside on the bench; we can talk more private and comfortable there," said the other.

Harry ordered his beer, for which the stranger paid, and took it out to the little table and bench in front of the inn.

"Now, then," said the stranger—one of them seemed to do all the talking; the other listened, scowling for the most part. "Now, then, first of all, who was the other who paid you for information about Seadown?"

"Lord knows; I don't," said Harry, truthfully; "except that he was as mad as a hare and half killed me."

"What was that for, and what had you done?"

"Nothing worse than answer his questions. One of my answers displeased him and he must needs half strangle me, curse him. What have I to do with his blamed girl or the other chap's?"

"Of course you haven't—nothing whatever. What was this madman like, now; can you describe him? A small man, was he, with red hair and spectacles?"

"Is that like the chap you want to hear about?" Harry laughed, "for if so I haven't seen him. This bloke had dark hair and was tall, with a thin, yellowish face and eyes that rolled about like this." Harry made his eyes move in their sockets. "He wanted to hear about some of the Seadown folks that I know, and while I told him about them he grew mad. He'd only come a few days, he said, from 'Frisco and wanted to——"

At this point the conversation was suddenly interrupted by the more silent of the two strangers, who rose with a loud curse from his seat and brought down his fist upon the table with so much violence that he upset a beer mug.

CHAPTER VII.

Keith Receives a Shock.

The stranger sat down as abruptly as he had started up.

"Don't mind my friend," said the other; "he gets thinking of other things and forgets he's in polite society. Maybe a yawp startled him, there's plenty about

THE KING IN PARIS

Britain's Monarch Given a Hearty Welcome by Parisians

Paris, May 1.—The French capital was in holiday attire this morning, awaiting the arrival of King Edward. The weather was gloomy.

The royal train arrived at Dijon [illegible] officially welcomed and the train proceeded to Paris.

On arriving at the French frontier King Edward telegraphed to King Victor Emmanuel, again bidding him farewell and renewing his thanks for the splendid reception accorded him in Italy.

President Loubet reached Paris from Marseilles this morning and proceeded to the Elyzee Palace.

King Edward arrived here at 3 o'clock this afternoon. He was greeted at the railway station by President Loubet. A military band played "God Save the King," and the troops on duty presented arms.

His Majesty wore the uniform of a British field marshal.

The Minersville Gold Mining —and Milling Company—

(Organized under the laws of Oregon.)

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - $1,000,000.00
PAR VALUE SHARES, - - - $1.00

Full Paid and Non-Assessable.

The property of this company consists of three full claims known as the "Fleur de lis," "Mayflower," and "Mistletoe" Group, embracing an area of sixty acres of highly mineralized ground, located in the famous Sumpter district, Baker county, Oregon, about 3½ miles from McEwen on the Sumpter Valley Railroad.

The best evidence we have to offer as to our "being in good company" is to mention a few of those who are our immediate neighbors, viz: the North Pole, Bonanza, Red Boy, Eureka Columbia, Golconda, Cracker, Oregon, Golden Wizard, all of which are in this same district, producing from $40,000.00 to $100,000.00 per month each.

From the preliminary amount of development work already done on our property and from the assays of ore which is entirely free milling, running $18.00 to $130.00 per ton, we are confident that with the installation of modern machinery we have a proposition worthy of the most searching enquiry by those seeking a high grade investment.

Our board of directors consists of men who have a practical knowledge of mining, well known and of high standing, who have invested every available dollar of their own to acquire this valuable property and put it on a dividend paying basis.

To accomplish this it has been decided to place a limited amount of the treasury stock on sale at 12c per share for development purposes only until such time as the condition of the mine will enable it to take care of itself, when the sale of stock will be withdrawn.

Our prospectus will give you all particulars. Let us send it to you. We shall also be pleased to answer all enquiries whether by mail or in person at our office.

THE

TWO-TEN OIL CO.

of Boulder, Colorado.

Capital Stock, 1,500,000 shares. In Treasury, 500,000 shares

TRANSFER OFFICE; BRISTOL, CONN.

This Company has a perpetual lease on 20 acres of proven oil land in SECTION NINE (9) of the Boulder district, and this section and the immediate vicinity have the best and largest number of producing wells in the entire district.

Our Well No. 1 came in, in January and is now pumping and shipping Oil regularly to the Refinery.

The Directors have decided to put down well No. 2 at once, and they now offer a block of the Treasury stock for the next 30 days at 10 Cents per Share, after that price will be advanced.

It is a well known fact that a 15 barrel well will pay over 100 per cent. profit upon its cost.

This is no longer a speculation for we have proved that oil is on our ground, and we now have oil in paying quantities, with two wells pumping we can soon pay dividends, and every well we put down increases our earning capacity.

This is a business proposition, managed by business men.
